It has happened in Chilton County. Murder and rape were committed in their most brutal fashion in our Macedonia last Monday. We bow our head in shame that our county should be the scene of such a crime, yet we realize Chilton County is not immune of such things. But, we also raise our head high over the fact that our citizens have shown a coolness over this crime which we believe every Southern man's blood boils. We are proud that there has been no demonstration of violence toward anyone suspected of the crime and no effort has been made by citizens to take the law in their own hands. We believe our officers are doing and will do everything within their power to bring this brutal killer to justice and that the law will take its course.

Am I So

We do not take credit for this paragraph but we still think it is good: "Whenever you find a man finding fault with his local paper, open it up and ten to one he has an advertisement in it; five to one he never gave it a job of work; three to one he does not take the paper; two to one that if he is a subscriber he is delinquent; even odds he never does anything that will result in a publisher in running a good paper, and forty to one that if the paper is a good one and full of life, he is the most eager to see the paper as soon as it is off the press."

An exchange says every man owes it to his family to take the local paper. Yes, and a lot too many of the men who take a paper owe the editor. If the feds grab it.

KIWANIS CLUB TO SPONSOR "MYSTERIES AT MIDNIGHT"

The Clanton Kiwanis will sponsor a play entitled "Mysteries at Midnight" here two nights, September 8-9. The first presentation will be given at the high school, but the place of the second presentation has not been decided at this time.

The play "Coast to Coast," scheduled to be presented here about the same time and sponsored by the American Legion Post Number 6, has been postponed until a later date, due to the conflict in dates.

Local talent will be used as the cast of the play sponsored by the Kiwanis. This play has been highly recommended as one of the leading plays of this year.

RURAL POWER LINES CONSIDERED

Woman Is Found Murdered Last Monday

OFFICERS ARE LOOKING FOR COUNTY YOUTH

One Of Most Brutal Acts In History Of This County

In Years

Aug 18 1938

The Macedonia Community, in the northwestern part of the county, was the scene last Monday afternoon of one of the most brutal and revolting crimes ever to be perpetrated in the history of this County in many years.

Mrs. Pearl Scott, 54 years old, and a widow, was murdered and criminally assaulted not far from her home, by an unknown assailant.

According to members of the family, Mrs. Scott went to her small garden to secure some vegetables shortly before noon Monday.

James, Junior, Meldon and Mary Ella Wallace and Charles Jones, all under 10 years old and neighbors of the slain woman, were first to see the body.

They noticed a pile of vegetables standing in the little-used road on which they were pulling a little express wagon on their way to their favorite play spot.

The children coasted down a slight hill and at the bottom, 150 yards into (Continued to back page)

Young Man Mangled On Railroad Tracks

The body of a young man, identified as that of N. J. Johnson, age 16, was found mangled on the railroad tracks at the south switch here last Sunday morning about five o'clock.

Friends of young Johnson said that he was last seen about ten o'clock Saturday night at South Clanton. It is presumed that the youth went to sleep on the tracks and a south bound freight train struck his body.

He is the son of Esau Johnson of the Concord Community, just east of Clanton. Funeral services were held Monday morning at Walnut Creek with the Rev. J. W. Emfinger officiating. Martin & Sons directed.

To show that the Alabama State Health Department means business in regards to the vaccination of all dogs two warrants were issued recently in this county for persons not complying with this all-important law.

The law says that all dogs must undergo this treatment or their owners will be subject to arrest and fine. The warrants were issued by the State Deputy Inspector who was in this county recently.

Outstanding Democrat Of County Urges Unity In Party For Victory This Fall

Clanton, Alabama August 15, 1938

"Editor, Chilton County News
"Clanton, Alabama
"My Dear Sir:

The Democratic primary election of May 3rd, the run-over of June 14th, and the run-off of July 26th are now all over and I hope that every Democrat in the County is willing to abide by the final results.

"As for my part, I expect to stand by the Democratic nominees, although some of them were not my preference, but we all went into a primary election to nominate our ticket, which is the only way we have to do it. I think all Democrats should rally to our nominees, and put our ticket over in a big way this fall.

"I heartily endorse the bomb that was thrown into the absentee ballot box and exploded and exposed the absentee ballots there to be voted that were not lawful, if any, and I understand there were quite a number. You might have said on the first impulse that you did not approve of this but, I am sure now you are well pleased with the results. If any one or more respectful citizens in this County that are in favor of such rotten politics as voting dead people and perhaps live ones twice, let them rise to their feet and stand until counted, and let everybody see them. Let's abolish this rotten absentee vote, and let's all strive to be as honest in dealing with selecting our officers as we would selecting our church officials.

CANT PREVENT DRINKING

It is impossible to prevent the consumption of alcoholic liquors. This country has experimented with everything—limitation of saloons, local option, Prohibition, special sumptuary taxation. Nothing has stopped drinking. But, it is necessary to stop drinking with reason and moderation?

Temperance is a good thing; it means moderation. Drunkenness is a bad thing. It is intemperance. Let us cease trying to prevent reasonable drinking which cannot be done, and let us set out to stop drunkenness. That can be done.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

OFFICIAL WILL BE IN CLANTON FOR MEETING

City And Rural Residents Are Urged To Attend Meeting Tomorrow

There will be a countywide mass meeting for the purpose of developing a huge rural electrification project in Clanton, at the Courthouse, at 2:30 P. M., on Friday, August 19.

This meeting will be held under the auspices of County Agent J. W. Dunn, and Gordon Persons, Chairman of the Rural Electrification Authority, will be present to explain the whole program. Mr. Persons will be Joe L. Coleman, one of the engineers of the Authority.

It is the purpose of the Authority to combine Autauga, Chilton, Coosa and Shelby counties into one large project, and Mr. Persons states that, in his opinion, from 400 to 600 miles of line are feasible in these four counties. There are ample funds available to build every mile in every county on which a sufficient number of customers are interested.

Rural electrification will mean a great deal to Chilton County, and every rural resident who does not now have electric service available is urged to attend this countywide mass meeting, which will be held at the Courthouse in Clanton, at 2:30 P. M., on August 19th.

AVIATION DAY ONE FEATURE COUNTY FAIR

Airport May Be Scene Of Chilton's 1938 County Fair

Chilton County is preparing for its second County Fair in a big way, according to the committees in charge of the various phases of the coming event.

This year's County Fair is to be bigger and better in every respect, is the comment made by those in charge. Many new attractions have been arranged for and the most recent is the promise from Glen Messer, outstanding aviation man of Birmingham, that he will have several airplanes attend the Fair on Aviation Day. These planes will fly in from Birmingham and Mr. Messer advised Dr. V. J. Gragg that he would also arrange some aeronautical stunts for the entertainment of those at the Fair on that day.

It is understood that larger quarters for agricultural and commercial exhibits will be used for the 1938 County Fair and that the entire program will be much larger and better than last year's. Chilton County's second County Fair will open on Tuesday, September, 20th and continue for the remainder of the week. Tentative plans are for the Fair to be held at Gragg Field, Chilton County's modern airport. There every one will find suitable space for parking cars, wagons and trucks and also suitable places for spreading lunches.

The members of the Commissioners Court with Judge J. Lee Smith have promised their full cooperation to make this year's County Fair a bigger success than last year's. Detailed program, etc., will be issued weekly as the plans materialize.

Miss Ethel Mae Jones and Mrs. S.A. Jones were the guests of Mrs. N. E. Downard and Miss Evelyn Littlejohn in Birmingham last week.

Some think right now is the off-season for many things, but we haven't noticed it. We're still paying grocery and other bills.

Whenever a man of limited financial means makes a cash payment on an honest debt there remains with him a feeling of confidence, despite the sacrifice made for the payment—and a feeling of confidence in the man making the payment is left with the debtor.

Industry, Machines And Livestock
Our Greatest Needs Today

Two Alabama Textile manufacturers, addressing the delegates to Farm and Home Week here, said a great deal about the unfairness of national tariff legislation and about the unfair freight rate differential. Their appeal to sectionalism overshadowed some other facts they gave, but really Donald Comer and Benjamin Russell made some excellent points concerning the relation of agriculture and industry in Alabama.

According to Mr. Russell, Alabama has 1,800,000 persons engaged in agriculture, 800,000 engaged in trade and the professions, and only 120,000 engaged in industry. In other words, the State is so organized as to produce raw materials; the production of the finished product takes only a minor place.

It is a well known fact the laborer who produces raw goods is the lowest paid laborer. Farm labor is always low; the farmer who apparently prospers to a greater extent than does the man in business does it because of his skilled or scientific management, not because he gets high pay for his actual labor. Of course, too, if additional capital is used in production of raw materials, that is, more machinery, the pay of the laborer will normally be stepped up.

Manufacturing, the skilled finishing of raw materials, pays higher rates to labor. Even the textile worker, though rather poorly paid in many southern mills, receives more than the southern farmer. Of course we must remember, in considering this, that quite often the entire farm family works at farming. If the entire family worked in a textile mill, even at low wages, the family income would be much higher than that of the average southern farm family.

Here in Alabama we have 1,800,000 persons engaged in agriculture, producing raw materials at low pay. We have only 120,000 in industry producing finished goods at higher pay. We need a better balance. No doubt, with further use of machinery on the farm, the adoption of a larger power unit than one mule per man, a million persons engaged in agriculture could farm all the Alabama land now in cultivation. That million would get just as much pay as nearly twice that many get today.

If the 800,000 taken out of agriculture were placed in industry, they would immediately begin to receive better wages, for the worker in finished products gets more pay. What we need in Alabama then, is more industry, and at the same time the greater use of machinery in agriculture and an increase in size of the family farming unit. These two changes need to go hand in hand. Our great needs are more industry, more farm machinery and more livestock, and one will be useless without the other.

Another good point was made by one of the industrialists talking here. He pointed out that agriculture and industry should be combined more closely. Industry should be developed in rural Alabama, not entirely in Birmingham. Some of the workers in industry should not be taken off the farm. This method of developing industry would make it possible for the farm family to supplement its farm income by work in industry without immediately deserting the farm.—Lee County Bulletin.

"Relief Bums"

A news item tells of a Negro taxi driver who was unable to work for a time because of illness. He obtained $50 from a government relief agency to tide him over. Now he is back at work and trying to return the money. When it was pointed out to him that he was not legally obligated to do this, he observed that "that was the way I was raised—and that's the way I'm raising my children."

A great many other Americans can learn a lesson from this Negro taxi driver. One of the most ominous portents on the horizon is the fact that thousands of people have apparently come to look on relief as a "profession." They plan to make it their "life work." Productive jobs in private industry hold no attraction for them, when they can take it easy at the taxpayers' expense. They figure someone owes them a living.

This isn't a criticism of those people who have turned to relief only as a last resort, and are eager to get off the rolls as soon as opportunity for a real job comes along. Nor is it criticism of relief per se. The hungry must be fed, the homeless sheltered, the clothesless clothed. Honest beneficiaries of relief aggressively seek real employment. Professional "relief bums" are a new menace to democratic government.

The Negro's statement was news because his attitude was so unusual today. It should be printed on every relief check and public grant.

It's Hard To Do

- To apologize,
 - To begin again,
 - To admit error,
 - To be unselfish,
 - To face a sneer,
 - To be considerate,
 - To endure success,
 - To keep on trying,
 - To profit by mistakes,
 - To forgive and forget,
 - To think and then act,
 - To keep out of the rut,
 - To make the best of little,
 - Shoulder deserved blame,
 - To subdue an ugly temper,
 - To maintain a high standard,
 - To recognize the silver lining.
- But it always pays in the end.

The Troubles Of An Editor

There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you publish jokes with whiskers on them, some one will say you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write an original article, they will say it is stolen. If you rewrite an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word of a man, they say you are partial. If you compliment the ladies, the men are jealous. If on the contrary, you criticize them, the verdict of the ladies is to the effect that your paper is not fit for the construction of a bustle. If you stay in your office and work it is because you are afraid to be seen on the streets. If you are out on the streets it is because you are too lazy to work. If you look seedy, you are bum and squandering your money. If you wear good clothes, you are a dude, and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a sucker and a poor fish; if you win, you are a professional gambler and a tinhorn sport. And so it goes all through the editor's life—just one continual round of pleasant complications.—Ex.

Why Worry?

I wonder why folks worry. There are only two reasons for worry: you are either successful or you are not successful. If you are successful there is nothing to worry about. If you are NOT successful, there are two things to worry about: your health is either good or you are sick. If your health is good, there is nothing to worry about; either you are going to get well or you are going to die. If you are going to get well, there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to die, there are only two things to worry about: you are either going to heaven or you are not going to heaven. If you are going to heaven, there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to the OTHER place, you'll be so busy shaking hands with old friends, you won't have TIME to worry. So why worry?—Exchange.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

GOING FISHING—

We hate to have to write this before it actually comes off by the time you read this it will be over, but we won't get back in time to tell about it in this week's issue, therefore, we'll tell you about it going to be after it has already been. Now if you are able to figure that out you'll know what we are talking about. Now if you're unable to figure it out you'll hear about it later—but let me tell you what I'm getting at before you get tired and turn to the next page. A group of Clantonians—about thirty, in fact, of the male sex, are (at this time) scheduled to trek down to Bayou LaBatre on the Gulf below Mobile for three days fishing and we decided we couldn't afford to miss this one more chance to do some real fishing, so we trot out our fishing tackle and go too. Now of course we could tell you some tall tales about what's going to happen (or happened) but we'll wait and try to bring later—but let me tell you the results of the trip to substantiate any tall tales we might relate next week, so keep your eyes open and watch next week's issue of the News and we'll give you the lowdown on that expedition.

CONGRATULATIONS—

Clanton and surrounding towns have really turned out some real baseball teams this year and we're glad to congratulate the local high school team on winning the District Trophy for the spring season. These boys marched through the season without a single loss and were especially commended for their outstanding plays. Bill Armstrong was captain of the team with J. B. Varnell as coach. Congratulations boys, and we hope our little donation of the baseball autographed by Babe Ruth at the beginning of the season served you well.

PAINTING UP—

The Peoples Savings Bank has been the victim of a paint brush within the past few days. Trimings on the outside have been touched with black paint, and it looks good, too. Some of the rest of the business houses in Clanton should follow up with a little painting. It lends a new air to an establishment, even though the painting is just a touch here and there.

THE MIRACLE MAN—

The County Health Department struck a decisive blow to the quack miracle men in this County—herb and other such doctoring that in our opinion is all baloney, when they nabbed the Jemison Negro recently. We understand this fellow was getting quite rich with his supposedly curable herbs. In cases like this the people cannot wholly be blamed. If we were suffering from a disease and were finding it hard to get relief and somebody told of the wonderful works of this type of doctor we suppose we'd try him, too. Suffering humanity will seek the aid of any man as a last resort, if they have only slight hopes of aid—knowing in their hearts that this kind of doctoring has never proven successful.

SCHOOLS—

Vacation days will soon be over for a large number of students and teachers over the country. Announcement of the opening dates of the local schools was made the past week by Mr. Little, and we're glad to see that our high school in Clanton, also our grammar school, will have the same principals, with Prof. Patterson Hicks at C.C.H.S. and Prof. U. H. Abrams at the head of the grammar school.

IT WON'T BE LONG—

No, Sir, it won't be long until we'll have that new pick-up telephone system for our convenience. In our office one day last week were workmen for the Bell Telephone Company at the task of installing part of the equipment that will be necessary for each subscriber. Telephone service in Clanton will be first rate before very long.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO SEND THEIR SEED OATS IN EARLY

Alabama farmers who have seed oats for sale and plan to send them to the State Department of Agriculture to be tested should do so early, advises L. N. Allen, seed analyst of the State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery. Mr. Allen states that it will be practically impossible for his department to handle samples with any speed after September 15. Samples coming in after that time usually interfere with control work and, as a result, are shunted aside until inspection samples have been handled. The State Department offers this service free of charge to all farmers. The samples should consist of about 2 lbs. of large seed and one pounds of small seed and should be as nearly representative of the entire lot as possible. The sender should also state the variety and kind and how much he has on hand, together with his name and address.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

My train stopped at Crosby, Texas and just opposite my window I saw a large sign "Shadowland Dancing." The sign spoke of how wonderful it was to visit this place at night and drift over the flow with a dancing companion. The two last words on the board were "Beer and Whiskey." As I stood there looking at the board of wickedness I saw a picture of revelry that was enough to make a demon blush. Women and wine and the shadows. The board expressed the real spirit of the place. It was a "Shadowland" for character, for the standards of right living. Men and women were there not to live the clean life, but that they might be in the shadows. This sign board was in faraway Texas, but that kind of places and that kind of dancing is going on near our homes. "Shadowland Dancing" is not very far from your own door.

Near El Paso, Texas, I went into the bath room to shave as my train wound its way among the barren hills and plains of Western Texas. Two men were engaged at the task of shaving on a rocking train and I sat down to wait my turn. When they had completed shaving I observed the difference in the thoughtfulness of the two men. One man folded up his shaving kit and walked out of the room, leaving his basin in an awful mess. The other man took a towel and mopped up all the waste water that had been splashed on his basin. He then rinsed out the basin and wiped it out, leaving his place in perfect order for the next man. If you want to discover the hog that is in some folks all you have to do is to follow them in a bath room. Of course I took my place at the basin the man had left in order. While I was shaving the porter came in and as he cleaned up the mess left behind he said to me, "Boss, it am scandalous the way some men treat a bath room."

While sitting in the depot at New Orleans I saw an employee of the Southern Pacific as he came into the room with a broom and bag, and he swept up every bit of trash and he swept it along with him. There were match ends and cigarette stubs, chewing gum paper and bits of toothpicks scattered everywhere by the passing throng. This man had no other job but to keep the waiting room in perfect order. It was his job to sweep up and pick up and keep the room looking nice in spite of the carelessness of others. Sometimes I think that my job in a spiritual way must be like that. You are thinking the same of your place in life. It seems that we spend the most of our time cleaning up the litter made by other folks. After all, my friends, that is a great work. The housewife may not be highly honored but if she moves quietly about the place and keeps everything clean and neat, she is worth her weight in gold. We may not have the honors in the Kingdom of God, but our lives are not in vain when we move about in a quiet way and keep harmony and peace among our companions. Blessed is that person who can clean up the messes that other people make and not complain.

While crossing that blistering section of Texas known as the Desert I saw a form of life that seemed mighty hard to me. On the burning rocks I saw a drove of sheep huddled together in the blazing sunshine while the thermometer indicated one hundred and ten in the shade. The sheep carried a thick wool blanket on their backs. There was no water in sight. There was nothing for them to eat but meagre bushes and clusters of cactus. That must have been a hard life. As I sat there in an air-conditioned coach and enjoyed the very best that life could bring I thought about the contrast in life. You may think that you are having a hard time in this world but suppose that you had to live the life of sheep on the barren rocks of a Texas desert, you would see the contrast. In your worst moments, your blessings are more than you are willing to admit.

Just as we seated ourselves on the bus at the Grand Canyon a woman that sat next to me, I looked into her face and said to myself, "Sister, I think I know how your voice will sound when you speak." She had her teeth clenched, her lips poked out and she looked as if she could snap nails with her long front teeth. I had the opportunity of hearing her growl. She had to sit on the sunny side of the bus and was mad. She let heaven and earth know how she felt. But then she looked before she said it. If she had been on the most comfortable seat in the bus she would have growled anyway because she carried growls in her heart. You face is the mirror of what you have on the inside. We see a lot of folks who need to have their expression treated. The way to treat your expression is to do something to your inside, your thinking and living.

Section 3229 of the Code of Alabama now makes it unlawful for any person to sell or buy any domestic animal or domestic fowl between the hours of sunset and sunrise. The penalty is not less than $50 and not more than $500, to which may be added a hard labor sentence of not exceeding one year. This section does not apply to merchants and market men selling to customers. The law does apply to merchants and market men buying domestic animals and domestic fowls during the prohibited hours.

FROM J. C. EDWARDS

"Editor, Chilton County News

"We see that "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor, therefore love is the fulfilling of the law" (Rom. 13:10). Perfect creatures are moved by selfishness to do what is right. Laws are necessary for imperfect men to have a sure guide that they may go the right way. The laws were made for just such. (1 Tim. 1:9) Love which is the perfect experience of unselfishness, is the complete fulfillment of the law, therefore making enforcement of law necessary. The very essence of the law is written in the heart of every creature that is in full harmony with God and delights to do his will. The law which God gave to the Israelites was not for God's benefit. If a man walks with the Devil he is certain to die, but if he maintains integrity toward God he will live. Therefore, God gave his law through Moses which applies to all who want to do right. All Scripture is given by the inspiration of God that the man of God may be perfect thoroughly furnished unto all good works. (2 Tim. 16-17).

Who equips himself with a knowledge of the Scriptures and is then diligent to follow the course there marked out must and will engage in doing good work, the chief part of which is to make known to others the goodness and loving kindness of Jehovah and the blessing he will administer to his obedient creatures through Christ Jesus and His Kingdom.

Any today who proclaim the truth will of necessity be the object of the attack and that viciously by Satan and his visible representatives. Let none be discouraged because thereof but rather know that this evidence that is enmity between the righteousness of Jehovah and the wicked organization of the Devil and all that who are on the Lord's side will be hated and persecuted until the time the wicked are destroyed.

After this likely we can read Psalms 64-9 and all men shall love and declare the work of God and wisely consider his doing God's work, his strange work will be done and His act, His strange act, will follow. (Isa.28:21)

We see there is only one way. A few have a desire to love and to do as commanded. We see that love is one of the principal things. We see that without faith it is impossible to please God. We see that many people are unconcerned about learning and doing the things that please the Lord. We see and read the first commandment and the second, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." On these two, hang all the law and the prophets. We see we should study and obey for we see that we were bought with a price. We see the pictures of farms. We see that many

Clanton Chapter Of F. F. A. Makes Tour

On Monday, August 8th, about 5:00 o'clock A. M., the members of the Clanton Chapter of F. F. A. began gathering at the High School to leave for South Alabama and Florida.

The following boys made the trip: Clive Aldridge, Carl Cooper, George Chambers, Morris Duke, J. W. Johnson, Carl Jones, J. L. Littlejohn, Henry Lawrence, Ad Minor, Jr., Carl McDowell, Wendell Massey, Tasker Powell, Hershel Penton, Noel Robinson, Roy Smith, Carl Sanders, Morris Taylor, Grady Williams, Jr., and Morris Woodfin.

Mr. J. H. Jackson, advisor and Mr. Zebbie Gray, driver accompanied the group. There were only two members that did not go on the trip.

Every member brought vegetables and after packing these on ice we left Clanton at 7:00 o'clock. At 3:30 P. M. we arrived in Fairhope, Alabama, which was our main destination. Everybody had a good time, although we were a bit crowded.

We were given permission to camp in the City Park, which was an ideal place. Barbecue pits and tables were already built and this added to our convenience besides being within fifty feet of Mobile Bay.

Everyone went swimming and at 5:00 o'clock four boys began preparing supper. The cooks were divided into groups of four with each group alternating, cooking the meals. We had excellent meals all the time. It seemed that the chapter was blessed with boys who could cook and wash dishes.

Tuesday, August 9, we packed and went to Pensacola. We visited the naval Air Base and realized why the United States could defend herself in case of an attack. The main motive for visiting Pensacola was to see Mr. Roosevelt. It was the first time any of the group had ever had a chance to see the president of the United States.

people are on relief. We see and hear of wars and crimes, wrecks and labor strikes. We see that all nations are in a dissatisfied condition.

Can we see the cause?

SALLY JOHNSON ROBERTS,

DAVENPORT-DESHAZO REUNION HELD AT HOME OF H. R. ODEN

A gathering which proved most enjoyable occasion was that which was held at the home of County Commissioner Howard R. Oden, in the Mulberry-Isabella Community, on August 8, the occasion being a family reunion of the members of the Wilson Davenport family and the Wm. Deshazo family. Not all the members of either family could attend, however; all except one of the living children of Wm. Deshazo were present, the missing one being John W., who lives at Millford, Texas. There is only one living member of the immediate family of Wilson Davenport, this being Mrs. Darthula Gipson, who was present Mrs. Gipson is 81 years old.

The occasion was also significantly marked by the fact that the two living daughters of Wm. Deshazo were both present, this being the first time the two had been present in the old home community at the same time in approximately thirty years. These daughters are Mrs. George R. Calaway, of Mt. Calm, Texas, who will be remembered as Miss Lona Deshazo, and Mrs. Henry D. Champlin of Ft. Myers, Fla., who will be remembered as Miss Florence Deshazo, formerly of Cincinnati, and Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. Calaway was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Florence, and Mrs. Champlin by her husband, Dr. Henry D. Champlin.

The descendants of Wilson Davenport were represented by numerous members of the family of Aaron Davenport, including the Franklins, Veazys, Spiveys, Childers, and numerous others, together with a number of friends of both families, an event a most enjoyable day reminding over family reunion days and renewing the lasting bonds of kinship.

We passed a happy time in dinner, playing basketball, and in applying baskets of food after the manner of the true Southern hospitality.

The day was voted a complete success by all, and there is no doubt that each and everyone attending went away with a brighter outlook on life in general, thankful that they had been spared to meet their kinsmen and kin once more.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GIVES HER VIEW ON POLITICIANS

Says Politics Has Become Word Meaning Things Of Shady Nature

Old age pensions for domestic workers and farm laborers were given strong endorsement by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on her monthly question and answer space in the August issue of the Democratic National Committee. "I feel very strongly that in this country we should eventually include under the Social Security Act domestic workers and farm laborers in all the professions in which other workers are included," the First Lady writes. "I realize all of the difficulties involved but in some way it seems to me we ought to work out a method by which these people, who form a great body of workers, can be included. I have had it suggested that it can be done by means of stamps, and I hope it can. In any case I hope we will never be contented until a solution has been found to prevent an injustice to a big group of workers."

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed her opinion on the pension question in answer to a query from Mrs. Charles G. Ryan, Democratic National ommitteewoman, from Grand Island, Nebraska.

Replying to another question, Mrs. Roosevelt lays partial blame for the fact that the words politics and politi-

There has been an unfortunate connotation on the shoulders of the public. "So many citizens leave their government business in the hands of people who are willing to make it more or less of a business," she says.

"It is true that politicians are worthy of what they claim as everyone else is," the President's wife declares, "but citizens who are interested in good government will be wise to take part in the government and make sure those who are in politics will carry out their work in the interest of the community."

"One reason that politics and politicians have had a bad name is that the public has first of all been careless of its choice of public officials and then even more negligent in following up their work," Mrs. Roosevelt holds.

"Human nature being what it is, there are a few politicians who have earned for themselves justifiably bad reputations, and they are never forgotten, while people rarely remember public servants who do honest and fine jobs for little remuneration."

"When politicians have a bad name, naturally politics carries the same stigma, but when we learn that living in a democracy means we must all be active citizens and take part in politics, we will soon find a change," Mrs. Roosevelt says.

The question, "Why is it that the words 'politics and politicians' carry the connotation in this country of some shady or even disreputable?" was asked by Miss Florence E. Gregerson of Fargo, North Dakota.

Legumes Save And Build Crop Land
Auburn, Ala.—The planting of winter legume crops will protect the land against erosion during the late fall, winter and spring—a heavy period of rainfall—and increase the yield of the crops that follow, points out S. so very long. How about it, men? We can have all your cooperation in making this hope a reality, can't we?

You ladies of the Philathea and Phillips Willing Workers classes: we rejoice in the goodly number of faithful and urge them and the ones who have been absent for any reason to strive to make your classes the pride of our Sunday School. We believe it can be done, don't you? In short, we have a whole Sunday School of which we like to think and in which we like to work and which we enjoy, don't we? Let's work with a vim for our whole Sunday School and let others know we are proud of our Sunday School and let's win others to our Sunday School so they can be proud of it and call it theirs too.

And how about our preaching services? Have you heard the Sunday night choir of late? They have been good and so has all of our pastor's sermons. Last of all, but not least, let me suggest that we lift up our pastor at all times with our prayers. Then we, as well as he, will be blessed.

Let's not forget: Sunday School at 9:45; preaching services at 11:00 and 7:30 P. M.; Young People's Organization, 6:45 P. M. each Sunday.

Finishes Course In Agriculture At Auburn

A. D. HEADLEY

A. D. Headley, leading young farmer of Clanton Route 6, is returning this week end from Auburn where he has spent the past four weeks taking a course in applied agriculture. The course was offered through the cooperation of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Sears Roebuck Company. Mr. Headley and 58 other farmers representing that number of counties literally "rolled up their sleeves" and went to school to get instruction in new farm practices and modern agriculture. Certain qualifications set up by the two agencies were designed to give instruction in agriculture to those that would be most likely to use the information. Each of the 59 farmers is a landowner, or prospective landowner, a high school graduate and between the ages of 21 and 45.

Each of the 59 farmers was chosen on the interest he has shown in improving his farm practices and adopting new methods. Mr. Headley has become one of the leading farmers of the County and was chosen from among his fellow farmers to take the course. The Sears Company paid for the board and room, the college furnished the instruction and the farmers paid their transportation to and from Auburn. Instruction was given in an entirely different form with students spending from one to three days on a farm subject before taking up another, instead of going to different classes each day.

Instruction was given in soil classification, fertilization and crop rotation, in agricultural economics, livestock, agricultural engineering, poultry, horticulture, forestry and dairying.

It was the desire of the two agencies sponsoring the course to give the "farmer student" as complete a picture of each phase of agriculture as possible to give a sound foundation in better agriculture, states Mr. M. J. Funchess, dean of the school of agriculture and director of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Almost half of the cast iron pipe produced in the United States is made in Alabama.

Chilton County 4-H Club News

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

The Annual Chilton County 4-H Club Camp for Boys and Girls was held August 11-13, at Camp Timpochee, the Florida State 4-H Camp, located near Villa Tassa, Florida, on Choctawhatchee Bay.

Thirty-nine boys and nine girls attended this camp. Those club members were some of the most outstanding in the County, all of whom had met the requirements for eligibility to 4-H Council. A great many other club members had met these requirements and it is regretted that they were unable to attend.

The camp was under the supervision of Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent, B.N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in 4-H Club work, Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Assistant Home Demonstration Agent and D. C. Hanks, director of the camp grounds.

Other official chaperones were: Miss Orr and Miss Daughtry, who are connected with State 4-H Club work, Mrs. J. W. Fant, Mrs. Barber, Mr. J. B. Walker, Mr. P. M. Cleckler and Mr. C. L. Wilkins. Mrs. Kliner and Mrs. Griffin, mothers of club members, and Miss Arria B. Jones also attended the camp.

The boys and girls met at the County Agent's office in Clanton at 7:00 A. M. on Thursday, August 11. There they boarded a school bus which carried them to the camp. This bus was driven by Mr. G. W. Walker.

The trip to camp proved to be a very pleasant one. Everyone brought his lunch and a picnic to Elba, Alabama. The party arrived at camp about 4:00 P. M.

Immediately upon arrival a mass meeting was held. At this time Mr. Hanks, the director of the Camp, set forth the rules of the camp. Mr. Fant made a brief address telling the boys and girls how they could be good campers. Before the meeting adjourned Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber assigned the boys and girls to their respective cabins and explained to them the schedule they were to follow while at the camp.

As soon as camp was set up the campers enjoyed a refreshing swim in the bay. After a delicious supper the group met in the Recreation Hall and enjoyed a series of games until 10:00 P. M. at which time they sang "Taps" and had each other goodnight.

On Friday morning everyone arose at 6:00 A. M. and had a nice swim before breakfast. After breakfast an impressive Flag Raising Ceremony was held. Later the campers busied themselves with the several camp duties assigned to the various squads. Later in the morning the boys and girls enjoyed games of baseball and volleyball.

After lunch and a rest period the campers assembled in the Recreation Hall for "Kangaroo Court", which proved to be most amusing to everyone. At 2:30 P. M. all members of the party donned their swim suits and went to Fort Walton and spent the remainder of the afternoon surf bathing.

Friday night the campers in each cabin put on an original stunt before a general assembly in the Recreation Hall. All of these stunts were very clever and afforded a great deal of amusement to everyone. At this assembly two distinguished guests were introduced, Mr. Scott, of the Florida Rehabilitation Commission, and Miss Blackshire, Director of Girls 4-H Camp for the State of Florida, both of whom greeted the campers. Mr. Fant, Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber made brief talks to the boys and girls at this time and expressed to the camp management their sincere appreciation of their courtesy in lending to Chilton County the camp. Several other members of the camp staff made brief talks at this time also.

Another swim in the bay was enjoyed Saturday morning. Immediately after breakfast each squad was assigned duties to perform toward breaking camp. As soon as camp was set in order the campers said farewell to Camp Timpochee. A picnic lunch was enjoyed on the return trip to Andalusia, Alabama. Everyone arrived safely in Clanton about 5:00 P. M., Saturday, August 13.

The directors of the camp wish to express their sincere appreciation to Mr. Walker and Mr. Wilkins for their kindness in carrying their trucks to transport the boys and girls.

This was the most successful camp held in Chilton County for several years. All of the boys and girls proved to be A-1 Campers. They were truly a credit to their parents and their country.

It is the hope of the County Agents and all others who attended camp that next year Chilton County will have a much larger representation of club members at the annual camp. This is one of the "highlights" of club work in the year, and is truly something worth working toward. Such camps are not only splendid forms of recreation for boys and girls, but from them they derive many benefits as well—among these being the all inclusive trait, good Sportsmanship.

More Fall Gardens Needed In Alabama

Alabama farmers produce less than half the vegetables needed for home consumption, according to W. A. Ruffin, horticultural specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, who urges that more and larger vegetable gardens be planted during late summer and early fall.

Mr. Ruffin says, the under-production of vegetables is largely due to the fact that few succeed with late summer and fall plantings. Some years hot weather and insufficient soil moisture may cause the best gardeners to fail, but those who prepare the soil well by turning under compost and leaving the soil fallow for two to four weeks before planting have little trouble producing good gardens in the fall, he states.

FAIRVIEW HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET AUGUST 11TH

The Fairview Home Demonstration Club had a special call meeting at the home of Mrs. Bill Jackson on Thursday, August 11th, at 2:30 o'clock. Artistic Beauty Salon Is Keeping Step With Modern Methods Of Beauty Culture

The Artistic Beauty Salon of this city, as one of Clanton's most modern and up-to-date shops, has kept pace with the modern trends of beauty culture from year to year, since its establishment in Clanton several years ago.

Under the management of Miss Willie Maude Kelly and Mrs. E. A. Wyatt, who are operators in the shop, this establishment has long been the shop where the lady wishing the best service possible can feel safe that her hair will receive the modern styling of the day, free from burns and other hazards that sometimes occur in permanent waving.

The Artistic Beauty Salon was established over twelve years ago under the name of DeMabel's Beauty and Art Salon, and was operated by Mrs. Mabel Howard Sims. This was one of the first of the first beauty salons in the city. Miss Willie Maude Kelly became connected with this salon several years ago and later, along with Mrs. E. A. Wyatt, who has had years of experience in the art of beauty culture, purchased the interests of Mrs. Sims.

Recently a new "Thermique" permanent waving machine, which is minus the heat that is present with the old style permanent waving machines, was installed. This modern machine insures comfort for the customer, and is especially popular during the hot summer months.

Throughout the years the Artistic Beauty Salon has enjoyed a continuous growth in business which can be rightfully attributed to the modern methods of beauty treatment used by this shop.

ALABAMA NEEDS MORE AND BETTER PASTURES FOR CATTLE

The average Alabama county with 4,000 farm families and approximately $50,000 available as a soil-building allowance cannot use the funds more wisely than to devote a liberal amount in establishing and improving Alabama pastures in order to properly supplement crops, with livestock, believes P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service.

"The most reliable figures available indicate that Alabama has 8,356,000 acres of crop land and 1,363,000 acres of open pasture land or one acre of open pasture to six acres of cropland," he states. "The United States average is one acre of pasture land to four of cropland."

One acre of good pasture in Alabama will support one head of cattle or other like animal units per acre while indications are that pastures in their present condition will only support one animal unit to every three acres of pasture, the director said, adding that this is due to poor seeding, lack of phosphate and lime, failure to control weeds, bushes and other pasture pests, and general lack of attention to pasture care and improvement.

Alabama farmers are paying more attention to livestock on the farm than ever before but pastures are the first requirement for any profitable livestock business, whether for commercial or home production needs, he states.

He advises farmers to contact their county agents regarding the important provisions of the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program which makes it possible to do profitable and effective work toward solving the problem of balancing cropland with pastures and crops with livestock.

Governor Proclaims "Traffic Safety Week" For August 15th-21st

A solution of Alabama's tragic automobile accident problem became the paramount concern of the Alabama Junior Chamber of Commerce this week when that organization urgently invited organized civic and commercial groups throughout Alabama to join together in assisting the law enforcement agencies of the various communities and the public in general in a concerted move to lessen the fearful toll of traffic accidents and fatalities.

Preliminary plans for this concentration of effort to make carefulness and caution the watchword on our streets and highways have been weeks in the making. This preparation is for a state wide sponsorship of "Traffic Safety Week," August 15 to 21, inclusive. These dates have been made official by proclamation of the Governor, issued at Montgomery, August 5, 1938, as follows:

A PROCLAMATION By The GOVERNOR

I think it is true that those charged with the enforcement of the law and the preservation of human life and the avoidance of accidents realize extreme necessity for the careful and intelligent driving of motor propelled vehicles, whether automobiles, buses or trucks, along and across our public roads and city streets and especially our paved highways.

Judging from the mounting casualties resulting in death or serious or permanent injury of those who have charge of the wheel of the automobile, truck, or bus are not giving to their important position the care and caution suggested by safety for themselves and those who are walking or riding in horse drawn vehicles.

While this is common knowledge on the part of all those who read the daily papers or listen to news releases over the radio it seems well that public attention should be continuously directed to the prevention of death and serious injury not only to drivers or occupants of automobiles, trucks, or buses, but to our pedestrians and those who travel the highways.

With this in view, I, Bibb Graves, as Governor of Alabama, do hereby proclaim week beginning Monday, August 15, to August 21, inclusive, as "Traffic Safety Week."

I especially urge that parents in the homes and that citizens, wherever gathered, call special attention to the absolute necessity for all those who operate automobiles, trucks or buses to observe carefully the traffic laws, to constantly keep their eyes upon the road and while driving not be diverted by anything, but the business at hand that they may drive carefully and without accident to others; that heads of departments and corporations make a special effort to impress upon the employees the necessity of careful driving and those who walk the highways and streets be impressed with the necessity of keeping careful look out that they may assist in caring for their own safety and for the safety of those occupying motor driven vehicles, to the end that the highways may be safe and happy.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and seal and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 5th day of August, 1938.

Signed, BIBB GRAVES, Governor.

ATTEST: Signed, HOWELL TURNER, Secretary of State.

State sponsors of the program are of the opinion that now is an auspicious time to redouble efforts and strike at the specter of death lurking all too long on our streets and highways, so that grounds already gained nationally in reducing our shameful traffic accident record will not be lost, but will continue to fall.

State Chairman John B. Trotter this week cited the value of a steady continuation of effort already made, in pointing to the records of the National Safety Council showing that throughout the country traffic fatalities have declined for seven straight months, as compared with the same months for 1937. This means that 3,800 people who might otherwise have been killed in traffic are alive today.

The State committee, in pointing out the further need for caution, called especial attention to the fact that death is the price of carelessness; that while your clock ticks off the next 60 seconds, three people will be injured somewhere in the United States in traffic; that one person will be killed somewhere on our streets and highways within the next 13 minutes; and that the tragic part of these accidents is that they do not have to happen.

This State Committee is in charge of the Traffic Safety Week of the Alabama Junior Chamber of Commerce, Aug. 15 to August 21: John B. Trotter, chairman, Birmingham; B. W. Wildman, Anniston; Joe Ploss, Andalusia; Ed Jordan, Jr., Sylacauga; George H. Dennison, Mobile; Ross E. Stevens, Dothan; Lamar Branscomb, Tuscaloosa; Braxton Boykin, Sylacauga; Fred Stone, Bessemer; R. B. Elliot, Montgomery; Mel Trammel, Gadsden.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely. We had a large crowd out last Sunday. We were glad to have the visitors and invite you back again.

We closed a successful Revival here August 5. We really had a good meeting and we feel like all who attended enjoyed it. We had 22 additions to our church, 12 for Baptism and 10 by letter. We are really glad to welcome the new members into our church.

Brother Paul Owen will preach here next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock and will show his pictures on "The Power of the Gospel" Sunday night. We invite all who wish to come and be with us at both services. We are sure you will enjoy it and it surely will be worth your time.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT FURNISHES TYPHOID VACCINE

Residents of the State who wish to protect themselves against typhoid fever may obtain such protection by means of typhoid vaccine which is furnished without charge by the laboratory of the State Department of Health to County Health departments and physicians requesting it. Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, declared today, in urging those who have not been inoculated within the past two years to take advantage of the almost complete immunity which this vaccine affords.

"There were only 1,529 cases of typhoid fever in the entire American army of more than 4,000,000 men during the World War, and only 227 of these cases resulted in death," he said. "Most of these cases and death, small as they were in number, are said to have been due less to the efficiency of the vaccine than to careless exposure. There is no doubt that the decrease from 898 deaths in Alabama in 1917 to only 84 in 1936 was partly due to the use of this vaccine; although, of course, better, supervision of water and milk supplies, greater protection of food products against contamination, and other improved sanitary conditions also played a considerable part in this gratifying decrease."

water gone over the dam and then who is responsible? We have all signed and fallen far short and I would suggest that he is without sin cast the first stone. There are none of us perfect, no not one, and I think the best interest of the Democratic Party should be taken care of first of all. There is no one man nor any small group of men, larger than their party. Don't you Democrats know that the discord in our party is only a sweet morsel for our Republican brethren to chew on? And, unless we Democrats ally rally around our nominees this fall, a Republican victory will be inevitable. Don't fool yourselves, for this is what some of their old guards are betting on. Let's all stand by our grand old Democratic party, for we know that under its leadership we have grown from a dense wilderness to where we are today in Alabama.

"Now in conclusion, I appeal to you again to stand by our party nominees, and the New Deal."

"Yours right under the Rooster on November 8th, 1938."

CLANTON CHAMPS

Chilton County High showed eagerness and willingness to work together for the joy of play and efforts to excel in the national pastime.

The outstanding play of the team as a whole was the secret of their success. The timely hitting of Buckley Armstrong, James Roper, Alternate Captain Durwood Williamson, Gay McKee, Morris Johnson, and Ted Reynolds kept the Chilton County boys out in front throughout the season.

The team's efforts were well rewarded by the masterful pitching of Captain Armstrong and Cecil Baggett, a newcomer and first year man, neither of them losing any of their games.

The season was a success and a tribute to the passing of one of Chilton great teams. Several of the boys received their diplomas and will pass on giving room for newcomers for another season.

At no time did the Chilton boys weaken in their efforts to lead the league in individual play and as a team. The supporters and their coach should always look to the season of 1938 as a real success from many angles, and the season record should be a mark for other teams to equal as time marches on.

the woods, they saw the body. Child-like, they attached no particular significance to it.

Later they returned home, and when relatives expressed concern that Mrs. Scott had not returned from the garden, they reported having seen her "lying in the woods."

A searching party was quickly organized.

Led by the children, they went to the spot. Mrs. Lovie Barnhill, sister of the victim, was first to see the body. She hurriedly called other members of the searching group and said she was afraid to go closer but she was sure she had seen the body of her sister.

Investigation disclosed Mrs. Scott's attacker had cut her throat and beaten her. Trampled grass and broken bushes were mute evidence of a terrific struggle.

Funeral services for Mrs. Scott were held Tuesday at 2:30 P. M. at Mt. Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Louella Rhodes; three sons, Joe, Steve and Eugene Scott; two sisters, Mrs. Lovie Barnhill, of near Clanton and Mrs. Angie Barnhill, of Arkansas; and one brother, Joe Jones.

Mrs. Merchant Died In Thorsby Monday

Mrs. Elizabeth Crumpton Merchant, wife of the late D. Z. Merchant, died at the home of her son, John Merchant in Thorsby, Monday morning at three o'clock.

Mrs. Merchant was born near Macedonia Church in Chilton County, June 24, 1848, which made her more than ninety years old.

She was a member of one of the pioneer families of Alabama. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Crumpton. Her brother, C. C. Crumpton and Monroe Crumpton died some time ago. Of the family only one sister, Mrs. Matt Gibson, who lives at Macedonia, survives.

More than 70 years ago she was married to D. Z. Merchant, who died 15 years ago.

To that union were born 7 daughters and 2 sons. Mr. W. M. Merchant and Mrs. Frances Atchison died some years ago.

The surviving children are Mrs. D. H. Hodgens, Mrs. J. M. Nix, Mrs. Ed. Nix, Mrs. Walter Lenoir, Mr. John Merchant and Mrs. B. T. Franklin of Thorsby and Mrs. W. B. Washburn of Birmingham.

There are also surviving 33 grandchildren, 48 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock at Macedonia, 8 miles west of Jemison, Spigner directing.

The services were conducted by her grandsons, Rev. Wooley Nix of Birmingham and Rev. Howard S. Higdon, Dean of C. C. College, Campbellsville, Kentucky and Rev. M. I. McLeod. The honorary pallbearers were the grandsons. The flower girls were the granddaughters and great-granddaughters.

At an early age she united with the Macedonia Baptist Church and remained a member of that church until her death. Throughout her life she, in her quiet, unassuming manner, let the world see Christ radiated in her life.

Schools To Participate In Co. Fair This Fall

At the last meeting of the Chilton County teachers last spring a committee of 12 was appointed to arrange for the various schools of the county to participate in the exhibits and activities of the fair. Mr. B. E. Evans of the Clanton High School faculty is chairman of this committee. Mr. Evans will be glad to have suggestions with reference to his duties and responsibilities in making this fair a genuine educational program for the entire county.

All the schools of the county will not be in session during Fair week, however, we would like to urge every child of school age be given an opportunity to attend the fair, especially on "school days."

The management of the fair has been ready indicated to you through the many advantages of holding a fair at Clanton. I wish to emphasize the educational value to every citizen of the county in such an endeavor. In this fair we expect to have the privilege of seeing the best products of the farm homes and school shops of this county. We expect to have on display the accomplishments of the home demonstration and 4-H clubs of the county. We expect also to have cattle, horses, mules, hogs and poultry.

It is highly important that every citizen of Chilton County work together in making this the most helpful and educational project of this kind that has ever been held in Chilton County.

ANNOUNCEMENT

All the ladies of the Mt. Carmel community are requested to be at the church next Friday, at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Grant and helper will be there to give a study course in mission. Bring a small lunch. Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

Alabama's Own

Among Alabama's sons who have brought nation-wide favorable attention to themselves through their progressiveness, courage and ability, can rightfully be placed the name of Senator Lister Hill who Chilton County claims as part here, since he hails from our neighboring city, Montgomery. Endeavoring to study more of the men who compose the list of dignitaries of our State we have been particularly impressed with the record of Senator Hill from the time he began making names in history as an attorney and through his career as a Congressman and his continued climb to his present seat in the United States Senate.

Senator Hill reminds us of a young man with no idle dreams nor ambitions and before whom the world is beckoning, with opportunities for which he has peculiarly prepared himself to take advantage of. We can say Senator Hill is a young man and the admiration we hold for him for his courage and ability is based upon a foundation that cannot be shaken or the least. He, himself has built that foundation so solid that even the strongest of so-called politicians who may envy him, have that respect that is sincere and well founded, and based on admiration of ability.

Senator Hill is well liked throughout his home State and through the long line of his colleagues in the nation's capitol. In the prime of life with no blemishes on his character and with a background of worthwhile accomplishments for his State and nation, Alabama can feel a great pride in having produced and offered to the country, Lister Hill of Montgomery, United States Senator, gentleman, scholar, businessman and statesman.

Another Tribute

When the name of Delos P. Culp was placed before the Democratic Executive Committee of this County for nomination for Superintendent of Education, there may have been some hesitancy on the part of the committee members to cast votes for him. But, when that able young man arose to address the Committee, it was readily seen that he was the man the Committee thought wise to offer to the voters of this County. Not only the Executive Committee thought well of Delos Culp, educators over the State have their opinions of him, one of which we reproduce here. This is only one we have heard, others we have already published:

August 9, 1938

"To Whom It May Concern:
"This is to certify that Mr. Delos P. Culp was graduated from the 1934 course of this institution in 1934. While here he acted in such way as to secure and hold the confidence and good will of faculty and students. I recommend him as a teacher who is well prepared for his work and as a young man of initiative, honesty and integrity.

Very truly,
C. W. DAUGETTE,
"President, Jacksonville, State Teachers' College."

Duffy's Pears

Some of the most delicious pears we have had the privilege of tasting this year came from a tree in the yard of our good friend, Raymond L. Duffy, the efficient and well liked rural carrier at Mountain Creek. Most every time we see Mr. Duffy we have pleasant recollections of spending a delightful week in Havana, Cuba with him a short time ago.

Hottest Place

If you are laboring under the impression that your job is about the hottest (in temperature) in the county, take a stroll around to the Clanton Foundry Co., near the ice plant and visit with those hard working boys there for a while. Or, did you know Clanton had a foundry where iron is cast into many useful things. At present they are filling a large order of bases for sanitary privies and the red, molten metal is a sight to see. Anyway, that is about the hottest job in Clanton.

Mr. Mullins' Letter

Since last week's issue of the News has been off the press, we have heard numerous favorable comments on the letter written by C. R. Mullins, outstanding Democrat of the county. In urging the Democrats to forget old grudges and present a solid front for a new victory in November in this county, Mr. Mullins apparently struck the key note in the hearts of most of the voters here.

RURAL POWER MEETING GETS MUCH INTEREST

Program Set Up In This County To Push Plan Of Rural Lines

As the result of a meeting held at the courthouse in Clanton last Friday afternoon, it appears as if Chilton County will have more rural electric power lines and that hundreds of families will soon enjoy the comforts afforded by the use of electricity.

The meeting, was scheduled here by the Rural Electrification Authority and Hon. Gordon C. Persons, Alabama director, was here to explain the proposition to those attending.

300 Attend Meeting
County Agent John W. Fant presided over the meeting at which approximately three hundred persons attended and showed marked enthusiasm over the prospects of securing power lines at very nominal charges.

Committee from all beats in the county except a few, were appointed at the meeting. Those beats having no committee were said to be too far removed and too sparsely settled to consider the matter. These committees will work throughout their respective beats explaining the proposition, the costs, etc., to the residents and also schedule and hold meetings for the same purpose. These persons will act as chairmen of a committee of additional members whom they may appoint.

Following are names of these committees:

Ginners are notifying the cotton farmers this week that their gins are ready to go and assuring them of an excellent sample.

ARLEDGE GETS POSITION WITH PUBLIC WORKS

Will Probably Tender His Resignation As Supervisor Here Soon

An announcement was made here this week to the effect that T. J. Arledge, road supervisor of this county, had accepted a position with the Public Works Administration as resident engineer inspector. The announcement was made by Mr. Arledge following receipt of a telegram from the Administration offering him the place.

Mr. Arledge has served as road supervisor here since the passage of the local law creating that office. He was appointed by the Governor to hold the road office until February of next year when his successor is to be chosen by the Commissioners Court. However, it is understood that law will be repealed before it will be necessary to appoint another man to the place.

The telegram to Mr. Arledge stated that his new position with the PWA carried a salary of $5,200 per year, which is more than the salary he has been receiving here. His new appointment is to begin effective February 1st, he stated, and that he would probably be located in Montgomery.

He advised the News that he would ask for a leave of absence from his present place for thirty days in order to give sufficient time for the clearing of his business here before actually taking over his new place.

If Arrests Make News, What Do No Arrests Make?

A representative of the News queried Chief of Police H. M. Simpson last Tuesday for some news. Chief Simpson first said he had none for the paper this week and as the reporter started to walk away, the chief wanted to know if it would be news to learn that no arrests were made in the county last Saturday afternoon and night.

We say that is news, and were told that no arrests were made by city, county or state officers in this county last Saturday afternoon or night. That's a mark on the bright side for Clanton and Chilton County.

Street Paving To Begin September 5

Bids for the hard surfacing of various streets in the City of Clanton are to be received at the City Hall today, advised Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who has been working untiringly on this project for sometime.

Mayor Jones stated that cash payments from property owners in the city to take care of their share of the paving expenses have been most satisfactory and that announcement of the awarding of the large contract would do doubt be made sometime during the day today.

According to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, the work of paving the streets named in the paving project for Clanton will begin on or about September 5.

Bids for the paving will be received August 25, by the City, and the lowest bidder will begin at once making arrangements for the work. Just what street or avenue will be paved first will be optional with the contractor.

IS PROHIBITION COMING BACK?

Being the third in a series of excerpts taken from a collection of five feature articles prepared by "Ify The Dopester," and appearing in the Detroit Free Press

Before we go any further in this discussion of the possibility of the return of Prohibition, ladies and gentlemen, let us get our perspective. Let us go back through the years in philosophical mood, we might say.

Bad as conditions are today in Detroit, they are far better than they were under so-called Prohibition.

Bad as conditions were before the Eighteenth Amendment, they were better than they were after Volstead's Act became the law of the land.

Don't lose sight of these easily proved facts.

In 1913—the year before the war—the American liquor bill was two billion dollars a year.

In 1930—after 12 years of Prohibition—the American liquor bill was

The season's first bale of cotton was ginned and sold in Clanton last Tuesday, August 23.

To Mr. R. M. Connell, of Clanton Route five goes the distinction of producing bale number one of this year's crop. Mr. Connell told a representative of the News that the bale weighed 1030 pounds in the seed and 468 pounds lint.

The bale was ginned by the Planters Gin & Warehouse Co., free of charge and was sold to J. R. Mullins, well known cotton buyer of Clanton, for ten cents per pound.

At the gin of Hugh Thompson a bale from the 1938 crop was brought in by Leonard Easterling, well known young farmer of near Clanton. Mr. Easterling brought his bale in Monday also, but it was not sold immediately.

HEALTH DEPT PLAN EXHIBIT AT LOCAL FAIR

Will No Doubt Be One Of Most Interesting To Be Shown Here

Local health workers were drawing up plans for an exhibit at the county fair to be held in September, according to the weekly news bulletin of the Health Unit. Posters, microscopic slides, etc., depicting the outstanding phases of the work of the health department and the chief health problems of the county are to be shown in the health unit booth. Dr. Sturkie he was especially interested in presenting a display of slides of typical disease organisms for microscopic examination and make these enemies of health more realistic to the general public.

We want every one to appreciate the fact that germs are not mythical creatures but are "actual forms of life." We have exhibited every possible effort to make the exhibit interesting and enlightening will be made.

Other features of the exhibit will include a demonstration layette and incubator for premature infants by the County Health Nurse, Miss Margaret Rumbley, and a model privy and septic tank and a miniature protection water supply by the County Sanitation officer, Fred H. Bucklew.

ONE BEFORE MAYOR MONDAY

Public Drunkenness was the charge he placed against the lone offender who appeared before Mayor C. Fenn Jones last Monday morning. A sentence of fifteen days work on the City streets was imposed.

KILLING OF WOMAN IS CONFESSED

Boy 19, Is Arrested By Officers On A Charge Of Assault-Murder

Chilton County authorities Wednesday announced the arrest in Autauga County of a youth they had sought since the criminal attack-slaying Monday of Mrs. Pearl Scott, 54, widow, and stated the youth had given a detailed confession of the slaying. The woman was killed near her home, between Thorsby and the Bibb County line.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy identified the youth as Ben Wallace, 19, grandson and neighbor of the victim and said Wallace confessed in Chilton County Jail in the presence of County Solicitor Grover C. Walker, the sheriff and Sheriff's deputies Ira Crowe and S. D. McCarty. The reported confession was recorded by a court stenographer, the sheriff said.

Assault Is Charged

Sheriff Hardy quoted Coroner J. Mell Martin, of Chilton County, as saying an examination showed the victim had been criminally assaulted.

Sheriff Hardy quoted Wallace as saying the latter went to Mrs. Scott's garden Monday morning and helped her pick peas and peas, later carrying her bodily into the edge of a swamp. After Mrs. Scott had threatened to tell Wallace's mother, Wallace drew his knife, slashed her throat and stabbed the victim twice, Sheriff Hardy quoted the youth as relating in the reported confession.

Wallace then went to a nearby creek and washed away bloodstains, returned (Continued to back page)

NEW SYSTEM OF TELEPHONE IN TOMORROW

Kiwanis Club Inaugurates New System At Special Program Tonight

When telephone users of Clanton and the surrounding territory served by the local Southern Bell Telephone exchange start to make a telephone call tomorrow morning, it will not be necessary to "twist" the ringer to call the operator. It will only be necessary to pick up the receiver and the operator will ask for your desired number.

This is just one of the steps being taken by the telephone company to give its customers the best and a better and more modern service. This new system will eliminate delay in calls and other disagreeable conditions.

The Clanton Kiwanis Club, for sometime actively interested in securing a new telephone building and better service for Clanton, tonight and immediately after the program at The Thomsen Hotel, the Club will go to the new telephone building when some member of the club will place the first call over the new system.

Clanton will also have its own individual telephone directories, printed especially for Clanton alone and even carrying advertising from Clanton firms exclusively. The new directories were distributed Tuesday and notice will be issued by the telephone Company as to when these new directories go into effect.

School Days Mean School Children

The eyes of surrounding cities, some a great deal larger and some smaller, are on Clanton these days.

We had occasion to be in Mobile recently and stopping at a service station that bore the appearance of being about the busiest in the city, we engaged in conversation with the manager and when he learned we hailed from Clanton, he lost no time in telling us his opinion of our fair city as follows:

"One of the most progressive and wide-awake little cities I ever visited, and located in one of the best farming sections in Alabama. Seems as though it has grown more than any town in this State within the past few years. Tourists from up North are often heard commenting very favorably on Clanton."

That statement made us feel proud we lived in Clanton, naturally, but not only does this apply to Mobile but most every section of the State speak favorably of Clanton. To appreciate our town it is necessary for us to get away and look around us, and hear what other people say about our progressiveness, and see for ourselves by comparison with other towns, that we are not lagging far behind in the march of progress.

But this should be no reason why we should cease our relentless striving for a bigger and better Clanton, and Chilton County. There are many things confronting us daily that require ironing out, and that issues a call for the wholehearted cooperation of every citizen of Clanton. The uneven, jerky, lagging motion that can be caused by selfishness, partisan methods, and a blind misunderstanding of issues at hand can in only a few years cause us to lose ground even faster than we have gained it.

This week we make another big step that places this city up with the larger ones in modern facilities. This is the abandoning of the old telephone service for the more modern system, which will take place Thursday evening. This advancement was gained through cooperation—not of a few, but of many. True it is that some few must take the lead, and the lead in this was taken by the Clanton Kiwanis Club. This group of business and professional men have taken the lead in many worthwhile undertakings in Clanton and Chilton County, and the results of their leadership can be seen by only taking a look around at the steps they have fostered in order that Clanton might take her place in the sun.

School Days Mean School Children On City Streets

Before long the daily parade of school children to and from their studies will be seen throughout our city. Clanton has had few serious accidents to these children caused by the carelessness of motorists on the city streets. This is just one more reason every driver of an automobile should be on the alert at all times, so that we may keep our record thus.

Good brakes will safeguard that child who might thoughtlessly run in front of an oncoming car. A moderate rate of speed will insure a quick stop in any such event. The keeping in mind that children are very apt to be careless and that your complete control of your car will perhaps save a life will be appreciated by every parent, whose child will travel the distance from their home to school.

This year's County Fair promises to be the biggest ever held in Chilton. The person who visited the Fair last year expecting to find only a small carnival and found a real Fair will be in for a greater surprise this year. Nothing is being left undone to insure a big Fair this year.

Research Laboratory

Secretary Wallace comes forward with the announcement that the huge new research laboratory authorized by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 for the Southern area will serve Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Texas.

There will be four of these areas in all—one for the South, one for the east, one for the North and one for the West—and each is to have a million-dollar laboratory.

The Eastern Area stretches down as far as Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee, and in deciding on the grouping of the States, the secretary took into account the distribution and type of agricultural production, farm population, farm income, value of farm property, total population and other facts.

"In addition to these facts," the secretary added, "it is of first importance that the research load among the four laboratories should be equalized and coordinated for the efficient performance of the task specified by Congress. This is especially necessary because the total funds available for these laboratories ($4,000,000) must be equally divided among them."

"The Department has given full consideration to questions bearing on regional interest and unity of each area. We have realized from the beginning that the four major farm producing areas must be so defined and the work so organized that it will be possible ultimately to include in the program, so far as resources permit, the major surplus commodities of interest to any area. The central idea throughout has been to secure results efficiently. These results will know no boundaries of state or area, but will benefit agriculture throughout the country."

He goes on to point out that the work, in the initial stages of the program, will be concentrated for the Southern area on cotton, sweet potatoes and peanuts. These commodities, the secretary adds, are the products in which the major surplus problems have occurred and are likely to continue to occur. This research attack will represent only one part of the government's general program dealing with agricultural surpluses. The other parts of that program are production adjustment through a nation-wide conservation activity, expansion in foreign outlets through trade agreements and quality improvement of products exported; surplus disposal in the domestic market, including diversion of surplus for relief purposes, and improvement in marketing methods and practices.

Weeks ago, Alabama placed its bid for this Southern laboratory, and with this announcement by Secretary Wallace, it seems inevitable that Alabama should be chosen.

In the first place, we are ideally situated, geographically, being fairly well in the middle of that area stretching from Texas eastward to the Atlantic seaboard of South Carolina and Georgia, and then down to Florida.

In the second place, we have a wide variety of soils and climatic conditions in this state—a variety which may be equalled by some others, but not excelled.

In the third place, Alabama is one of the top cotton producing states of the belts, and as for those other two worrisome products—peanuts and sweet potatoes—it leads the nation in both.

In the fourth place, Alabama has been a pioneer state in farm extension work, and nowhere in this country has the farmer been better educated to the advantages which this extension work offers him; nowhere is the farmer more willing and anxious to cooperate with the government, federal or state, in experimental and research matters.

We do not know of what basis this research laboratory will be located, but if it's purely on the basis of merit, Alabama cannot be overlooked.—Tuscaloosa News.

Last week we received a copy of an Alabama newspaper which is by no means a new paper, but was new to us, being one of the few in the state that we do not receive regularly. It's a good paper—four pages almost all local news. And in it there was one four-inch double-column local advertisement. The business men of the town in which that paper is published probably have cobwebs a foot thick across their doors. If they don't, they soon will have.—Greenville Advocate.

THAT FISHING TRIP—

We promised last week to make a report on the fishing trip we made in company with thirty others. If we remember correctly we also promised to carry some pictures to substantiate any tall fishing tales we might be inclined to relate. Well, we'll have to cry foul on the picture part of the story, however, none were made, but not of fish. We'll be frank and tell you that there weren't many fish landed by the party, but the trip was enjoyed by every member of the party, except maybe at times a few of the boys weren't having such fun. They were a few "fish feeders" on almost every boat at sea at times, however, we were fortunate in not being one of these. Our luck on this fishing jaunt was pretty good compared to the luck of the other members of the party. The alibi for the entire party was a letter from the United States Coast Guard of Mexico prevented the boats from venturing out beyond Mobile Bay except one day, and then the water was pretty rough, and the fish were sea-sick or something for fish as we did, our catch was small. Yet, we were on the beach in a fifteen-pound net. The fish is edible, and did we eat. Fifteen hungry men on our boat (some weren't so hungry at times) and the leavings were small from each meal. Several Ling, Dolphin, Mackerel, Trout and other small fish were landed by the boat we were on. Lester Jones brought in some good-size Dolphins and Louis Smith hooked a small Hammerhead Shark. Most everyone along caught at least one fish, but the large babies were a little slow about striking.

Our party, aboard the boat, "Sweetheart," had one big time and from reports of those aboard the "Doris White," their party also enjoyed the three days in Mobile Bay and the Gulf of Mexico.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

Without a doubt you have many times noticed the two letters "AP" joined together at the beginning of many daily news stories in daily newspapers. But we'd hazard a bet that there are some who don't know what they stand for. They stand for "Associated Press," and this news-gathering organization is far-reaching. These days Associated Press stories are given out over the radio many times a day. To show the enormousness of this organization we give you an item from the current issue of the Kiwanis Magazine as follows:

Correspondents of the Associated Press go out into the by-ways and side streets the world over, not just into the high places, so that men may know how other men live and what they do, declared W. Joyner MacFarlan, in charge of the Associated Press Bureau in Raleigh, North Carolina, in an address before the Raleigh Kiwanis Club.

"It is a cooperative, non-profit organization of newspapers with more than 7,500 full time and part time correspondents in the United States and still others in 252 principal foreign cities," MacFarlan said. It is the only press association in the world serving newspapers exclusively and it has more than 1,400 member papers.

Mr. MacFarlan stated that his organization has 285,000 miles of leased telephone and telegraph wires, operates hundreds of automatic printer telegraphs which move news at the rate of 60 words a minute and handle around 200,000 words of news a day.

The speaker gave a word picture of how the AP transmitted photographs by radio and by wire between foreign points and the large cities of the United States. He also said the organization had a complete budget of features of material such as crossword puzzles, comics, bed-time stories, continued stories, cartoons and the like.

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT—

Tonight (Thursday), immediately following a short program at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, will be held at the Thomson Hotel, the official change from the present telephone system to the new and modern system will be made. Officials of the Bell Telephone Company will be the guests of the Club at this time, and following the luncheon these officials and members of the club will go as a body to the new telephone exchange building on the highway near the Taylor Wholesale for the observance of the official change. To a member of the club will be invested the honor of making the first long distance call. The Kiwanis Club had a big hand in securing this new system, by their untiring efforts to this end. And it was with the wholehearted cooperation of the subscribers, Kiwanis Club, City Officials and the Bell Telephone Company, that Clanton makes another progressive step.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION—

Rural electrification is spreading over the country at a fast rate these days. Before many years almost every rural

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

We stopped at a hotel in Los Angeles and in our room we found a placard that read, "You will find in the rear of the lobby the most delightful place in the city. We have there the old time liquors and the old time atmosphere." Every night I could hear the screams of women and the boisterous noise of drinking men coming up from this delightful place. Undoubtedly there were guests in that hotel who wanted such entertainment and revelry, but as for me I was so repulsive that I wanted to move my stopping place. I have often wondered why decent people must be annoyed by the wickedness of others. If people must be swine, why not put them off in a pen to themselves. No hotel has any right to make prominent the things that are repulsive to the traveling public.

In Los Angeles I saw one beautiful tree of our western trip, and yet these trees left one reason were left untrimmed and they lost their beauty and attraction. They lifted themselves forty feet into the air, and not one of them had been trimmed of the dead leaves that fold against the body of the palm. The dead growth of the years was left on the branches, the beauty of the tree. Those tall palms adorned every street and they detracted from the beauty of the place, and all because they were left to carry the dead accumulation of the past. How true that same thing is of many a human life. I have seen many men and women who have lived forty years and yet they have the same old bad habits that they had thirty years ago. They hold to that which they should shed, and these accumulated habits make them less beautiful all the time. Why not shed every bad habit and keep yourself trim and beautiful before the world?

On Catalina Island we made a trip in a glass bottomed boat over the waters of the Pacific. Our boat traveled out to where the water beneath us was more than a hundred feet deep. Looking through the glass in the bottom of the boat the water was as clear as the air. Beneath us we could see a forest of vegetation that was seventy-five feet tall. Seemingly there was a breeze blowing among these trees of the deep as the branches waved to and fro. Among those trees we could see fish, small and large, as they played like squirrels among the tree tops. We could hardly realize that we were looking down and not up. We may look over a body of water and just think that it is without beauty beneath the waves, but not so. The deep sea has its beautiful shrubbery and is throbbing with life and fun. We were told by our guide that there are trees in the deep that are five hundred feet tall. This old world is beautiful beneath us, the same as about and above us.

As we traveled through Hollywood our guide made this statement, "As little as you think about it, folks, yet there are more than one thousand different kinds of make-up and powders that these movie people use to make themselves beautiful." Then my mind started to thinking, "Yes, they have more than a thousand different kinds of powder and paint to make themselves beautiful on the outside, but what is it using to make themselves beautiful within?" I saw them coming out of the studios where pictures were being made and they did not look like human beings. They looked like wax dolls. The foolishness of Hollywood is the foolishness of the world. Everywhere I go I see people in droves who are using rouge and paint to make themselves beautiful on the outside and leaving themselves as ugly as sin on the inside. If the movie world would take more time to make beautiful the inside our pictures would be more beautiful for us to see.

As we drove along through Movie-land our guide came to Beverly Avenue. Turning down this beautiful street he announced, "Now you are entering Beverly Avenue and there are more movie stars living down this street than you will find in Paradise." I wondered how the gentleman knew, but as he began to point out the homes and to call the names of the stars that I had seen in the movies, I agreed with him. Some of those stars in the movie-world had passed on but I am not going to lose much time looking for them in Heaven. The evidence seems against them being there. We saw the homes of many others and I dare that they will not be just about swallowed the devil's bait, hook, line, sinker, and cork and I hated to think so, but there were more movie stars on Beverly Hill than could be found in Heaven.

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

Attention All Producers of Livestock

I, B. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in 4-H Club work, have been appointed by the Fair Committee to be in charge of the dairy, cattle, beef cattle, and hogs, for the County Fair, to be held the week before the State Fair.

The dairy cattle will be restricted to pure breeds only. The beef cattle will be open for pure breeds and other grades.

If anyone has any livestock as mentioned, please get in touch with me as soon as possible so that I can determine the number and kind of livestock you wish to enter the County Fair.

Some prizes are being arranged for but at the present time I am unable to give you the exact amount of these prizes.

It is very important that you see me about the cattle you intend entering at the Fair as stalls must be erected to house the animals, and it is necessary that we know the number to build. This is very important and should be kept in mind by you if you intend entering an animal or animals.

Hoping you will respond to this matter and turn in your application for exhibit at an early date so that we will have a representative showing of the livestock of this County, I am,

Very truly yours,
B. N. Ivey.
My 4-H Club Trip To Florida
By Calvin Headley

On August 11, 1938, the 4-H Club boys and girls had a trip planned to take. It was going to last until August 13.

Everything was packed and ready to ride by eight o'clock. Everyone was laughing on the way although the seats got hard. We arrived at Camp Timpochee at Villa Tasso, Florida, about three o'clock P. M. We unpacked and went swimming. Everyone had a jolly time after supper.

Next morning we went swimming, had breakfast and cleaned up the camp. That afternoon we went down the Scenic Highway to Tower Beach on the Gulf of Mexico. Everyone had a good time swimming in the Gulf. That night each cottage put on a stunt in the Recreational Hall. Saturday we went swimming and cleaned up camp. We all came home hoping to go again sometime.

My Trip To The State Short Course At Auburn

When the clock struck 10:00 on Sunday, July 10, 1938, Mr. B. N. Ivey, myself and seven other 4-H Club boys pulled out of Clanton bound for Auburn and the Short Course.

After we arrived we were shown over town, and the campus and assigned our cabins. In the evening we attended a fine lecture given by a preacher.

Beginning Monday and continuing through Wednesday we listened to several lectures, and saw moving pictures of the White Fringed Bee.

We studied both dairy and beef type of cattle, and meat and lard type of hogs.

The value of doves, quail and other birds was taught. The study of the forest was more interesting, also the study of soil erosion, crop control and fertilization.

Then there was the experimenting pits with soil from different parts of the state growing different plants. Then the year around garden was discussed. A visit to the Kennels showed us some fine fox dogs. The dogs and food best suited were discussed.

For sport we played baseball and pitched horse shoes.

It was the most educational and pleasurable five days I have ever spent. It is fine to meet college professors and 4H'ers.

On our return we went through Kilby Prison and saw the boys behind the bars and the electric chair.

If every boy will live up to the 4-H's and the Club motto, he will never have to look from behind the bars.

—Glen Latham.

My Trip To The 4-H Club Camp

I had one of the greatest times of my life of the 4-H Club Camp in Florida last week. I still regret that we did not go prepared to stay longer than we did.

Mr. Hanks, the director of the camp grounds, was a good sport in helping us make the camp a success all the way through, and I think we owe Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber more than we can ever repay for planning the trip and for trying to make everyone enjoy themselves. I don't think that we could have gone to a better camp in the United States to have a good time and have the success that we did.

I think that when we start back down there to camp next year a great many more club members will go with us because they will have heard what a great time we had down there this year. I am looking forward to having a bigger and better camp next year.

Signed: Norman Thomas.

Central Ala. Hospital
Member Service Plan

Alabama's new two and three cents a day plan for hospitalization is now available to the citizens of Chilton County.

Under the plan many people who would be unable to go to the hospital and pay their bills, can easily budget their hospital bills at two or three cents a day and be ready to be admitted to a hospital when the necessity arises.

A Hospital Service Corporation which is a non-profit community service has now been serving the people of Alabama for more than two years and is at present protecting over 40,000 people. 4,000 of this number have had their hospital bills paid by the plan.

The two or three cents a day Plan is operated by 32 of Alabama's leading hospitals. Last week the Central Alabama Hospital affiliated. This plan is the only plan for hospitalization in Alabama which has the endorsement of the Alabama Hospital Association, the Alabama Medical Society, The American Hospital Association and the American College of Surgeons.

When the need for hospitalization arises because of an accident, operation or illness, you and your own doctor choose any of the 32 hospitals and you will have 21 days of hospital service.

When being admitted to the hospital under this plan, you will be given the following services: room and board, general nursing service, use of operating room, service in maternity cases 12 months after the date of your contract, routine laboratory service, routine medicines dressings, hypodermics, etc., general supplies for anesthesia but not the professional administration, all customary hospital service.

The plan offers hospital care for 21 days in a standard $5.00 per day private room accommodations by paying 90 cents a month. Ward service costs 60 cents a month per adult and children under 16 years of age. All children under 16 years of age in a family are entitled to 21 days hospital service during any contract year and the cost is 40 cents for a group of one or more children for private room service and 30 cents for ward service.

This plan covers practically every hospital cost, but does not cover any medical or nursing care.

If you would like to know more about this service you may obtain further information from the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton or contact the representative, Mrs. Howard Holmes.

This plan is a Non-Profit Community Service, and has as its primary purpose the protection of the average person against large hospital bills that may prove burdensome.

PLANS MADE TO EXPAND WORK OF HEALTH DEPT.

Montgomery—A program of expansion of the state's public health activities, particularly in the fields of the venereal disease and tuberculosis control, was outlined in a statement sent by the State Committee of Public Health of the Medical Association of the state of Alabama to the members of the State Legislature for the lawmakers' information and guidance in the framing of legislation affecting public health.

After calling attention to the seriousness of the venereal disease and tuberculosis problems in Alabama and pointing out that approximately one-half of the current appropriation for general health work immediately goes into the budgets for local health work in the State's 67 counties, the Committee's statement continued:

"A careful study on the Board's part of the present and future needs of the Health Department, if the programs for reasonable and wholesale expansion are to go forward, reveals that the present annual appropriation of $400,000 for general health work should be increased to $500,000 annually during the next quadrennium. In the light of the experiences of the past few years, when the Health Department's appropriations have been drastically reduced because of the opinion that the Legislature would see to it that the appropriation be cut by for so basic and necessary an agency as the protection of the public health should be continuing, uninterrupted, not subject to change and payable in fullness altered by the Legislature itself. Knowing to what a large extent Alabama's future material progress hinges upon the physical and moral fitness of its manpower—present and future—the Board urges upon the Legislature the importance of strength-

Farmers Advised To Plant Hay Crops

Pant haw crops in fall as well as in winter to make doubly sure that a supply of hay will be provided is the advice to Alabama farmers of W. H. Gregory, associate agronomist of the Alabama Extension Service. Gregory said now is the time farmers should start making plans for September and October plantings of good hay crops for the livestock on the farm.

By planting two bushels of oats, or one bushel of wheat and either 20 lbs. of vetch or 40 pounds of Austrian winter peas, during September or early October, after applying 400 to 600 lbs. of basic slag, a nice crop of hay for next summer's feeding can be obtained. About 100 to 200 pounds of nitrate should be added to these hay crops in February or March on the mixture cut for hay when the oats reach the dough stage, advises the agronomist.

ening, in all possible ways, this most necessary art of state government."

ALABAMA TRUCK OWNERS TO SUPPORT TAX AMENDMENT

The Alabama Truck Operators Association, with members in all parts of the State, announced today that it will support fully the efforts of the Alabama Motorists Association to bring about the ratification of Amendment No. 1 to end the diversion of highway funds.

In announcing the support of the truck operators, C. A. Walker, President, said the members of his Association pay a substantial part of the millions of dollars of special automotive taxes collected each year by the State, and that the overall tax burden on a truck in Alabama amounts usually to several hundred dollars, some trucks paying as high as $3,000 a year.

"We are interested in seeing that the State's special automotive taxes are dedicated to road improvement, and in that respect our interests are the same as the motorists. We believe that it is unfair for us to pay extremely high automotive taxes, in addition to all the other general business taxes, and then see some of those automotive taxes diverted to various and sundry purposes," said Mr. Wicker.

"Our business is that of moving goods and farm products from the producer to the consumer, and raw materials from producer to manufacturer. If our operating costs are forced to needless high levels because of the extra and unfair burden caused through the diversion of automotive tax funds, we as operators of trucks are wronged, and so is the general public, for the more taxes that we pay the higher becomes the cost of goods when they reach the consumer. Everybody must pay a part of the penalty for the diversion of road funds."

Mr. Hayes believes that service builds business and his belief has built up a rushing business for his well known station. Located on the main highway, just across from the Ford Building, this station enjoys a wide transient trade as well as having a large local patronage.

Only the highest type of lubricants are used by the Shell Service Station and all lubricating jobs are done by a chart approved by the individual automobile manufacturers for each make and model of car. A car owner is always assured of receiving what he pays for at the Shell Station.

His father was postmaster of Joplin, Mo. with a fine voice and the knack of writing songs for political rallies. His mother played the organ; she taught her young son all she knew.

At twenty-one he was sent to Chicago Musical College, where he began to write instrumental pieces. The first popular song he wrote was for Frank “Bring ‘Em Back Alive” Buck, called “Ashy Africa,” which the game hunter published with another by the same composer “Just Because I’m From Missouri.” He got a job as a song plugger in Gimbel’s department store in Milwaukee, but after six months came to Manhattan where he wrote his first big hit—“Rainbow.”

He followed with “Moonlight Bay,” “When You Were a Tulip And I Were a Big Red Rose,” in 1914 when the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers was organized he became one of its first members.

He toured vaudeville and wrote songs for the next fifteen years. During the war, he wrote “Where Do We Go From Here, Boys?”

Now he is living in Hollywood, writing instrumental numbers and occasional popular tunes.

1939 Farm Program Explained By Jones

Outline of the 1939 Farm Program a program similar in most respects to that of 1938, has been announced by A. W. Jones, Alabama AAA Administrative Officer.

Essential points of the new program include:

- (1) Establishment of national allotments for soil-depleting crops and a national objective for soil-building crops and practices.
- (2) Establishment of individual soil-depleting crop allotment for the following crops: wheat, corn, cotton, rice, potatoes, fuc-cured, butler, fire-cured and dark-cured, cigar filler and binder, and Georgia-Florida cigar wrapper tobaccos. (The AAA has taken under advisement proposals that the special allotments established in 1938 for peanuts be discontinued and that special provisions be included for commercial vegetable crops.)
- (3) A maximum payment to be calculated for each farm participating in the program. Payment will be made for keeping within soil-depleting crop allotments and for attaining soil-building goals, by the carrying out of practices.
- (4) Crop classifications and soil-building practices similar to those approved in 1938.
- (5) The provision that land used for home gardens may be excluded in calculating soil-depleting crops for the farm. This is a new provision suggested as a means of increasing the living standards of many farm families.
- (6) The continuation of efforts to restore to grass land unsuited for crops in the Great Plains area.

One of the most important changes from the southern viewpoint is that which provides that, with the exception of Texas and Oklahoma in the Southern region, general soil-depleting crop allotments will be determined only for those farms on which either feed crops or livestock products are grown for sale. In 1938 general soil-depleting crop allotments were established for farms in the Southern Region but these allotments made allowance for all food and feed crops needed for home use.

Party Of Thirty-One Clanton People Enjoy Three-Day Fishing Jaunt Recently

Perhaps the largest party of Chilton County men ever to leave Clanton for a fishing trip, left from the Taylor Wholesale Saturday evening, August 13, for Bayou LaBatre, Ala., 15 miles below Mobile, for three fishing in Mobile Bay and the Gulf of Mexico.

Members of the party, thirty-one in all, boarded two boats at Bayou LaBatre early Sunday morning. The boats were the "Sweetheart" and the "Doris White". Those boarding the "Sweetheart" were as follows: Lester Jones, Kermit Coburn, Leroy Martin, John Hancock, Sunshine Chism, Clarence Hand, Bill Hampton, Bonnie Hand, Ed Cooper, Elwyn Gore, Benson Sims, Louise Smith, Rube Wyatt, Washie Mims and Evon Mims.

Those boarding the "Doris White" were as follows: Jimmie Taylor, W. M. Polk, John Armstrong, Dr. J. P. Hayes, M. R. Lancaster, Ralph Bryan, Dick Hayes, Homer Roberts, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, T. L. Williams, Hance Alred, John Deramus, W. E. Huddleston, Rucker Sims, Loren Smith and Luther Foshee.

Captain Clarence Bryant was in charge of the "Sweetheart" and his brother, Captain Earl Bryant was at the helm of the "Doris White". These two men spared no efforts to see that their guests enjoyed every hour of the three-day trip. Good food was served at every meal during the entire trip.

The boats left Bayou LaBatre and cruised out into Mobile Bay early in the morning. Stormy weather on the Gulf prevented fishing there all day Sunday. The party fished near Ft. Morgan, Dauphin Island, Mississippi Sound and Ft. Gaines Sunday and Monday, catching only small fish, including trout. Some weighing around two pounds.

Captains of both boats pronounced the water suitable for fishing Tuesday morning and into the Gulf of Mexico the party sailed. The party was scheduled to return Tuesday night, and this allowed only one-half day of fishing in the Gulf.

Due to the still unsettled condition of the water only a few deep sea fish were caught. Perhaps the largest one caught was a fifteen-pound Ling, an edible fish. Several Dolphins were landed, and a few mackerel. A small Hammerhead shark was landed by Louise Smith. Bonnie Hand brought in the largest Ling on the "Sweetheart".

Lester Jones caught several Dolphin. Anyway enough fish were caught to satisfy the appetites for fish of those aboard, and the recreation and rest the cruise afforded in some measure compensated for the none too abundant luck, caused by the unsettled condition of the weather. Sunburns and health gains were accumulated by some of the party, which all goes with this type of fishing.

Mrs. Ben Tyus was called Monday of last week to the bedside of her brother, J. D. Evans. He died Tuesday evening at 5:30 o'clock. She returned Saturday morning.

THREE IMPORTANT VITAMINS URGED FOR SOIL USE, T, R, CC

J. P. Walton, young Dale County farmer who has just completed a course in applied agriculture here, says he has found the trouble with Alabama soil. It needs vitamins T, R and CC. The alert ruralist told a group of farmers at a banquet that animals and people may need several vitamins for best health, but that in his estimation farm land needs just three—T, Terracing; R, Rotation Crops for best land results; and CC, Cover Crops, to reduce the fertilizer bills and build up land for future crops.

Car Stolen In Selma Returned To Owner After Being Nabbed Near Here

The efficiency of Alabama's highway patrol was clearly demonstrated last Friday afternoon when Patrolmen Earl Henley and Officers Earl Leary and J. B. Hicks recovered a stolen car near Clanton.

A negro stole the car in Selma sometime about noon Friday. As soon as the owner could report the loss to the State Patrol office in Montgomery a 2 radio description of the car was broadcast. The radio message picked up at 1:39 P.M. by Patrolmen Henley in his radio car and in less than thirty minutes the officers had the car and the negro who was on his way to Birmingham.

This is just another example of the use that can be made of Alabama's well trained highway patrol with its modern radio equipment.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held on the first Monday night in September and all ex-service men are urged to attend and hear the progressive plans now being formulated for the Chilton County Post.

Killing Confessed

to his nearby home, changed shoes and trousers and fled on foot, the Sheriff quoted the youth as stating.

First the youth went to nearby Randolph, in Bibb County, from there he caught a ride to Centerville and later caught another ride to within about 25 miles of Selma, the Sheriff further quoted the youth as stating.

In Selma Sheriff Hardy and Dallas County officers Tuesday went to residence looking for the youth only about thirty minutes before Wallace reached there, the Sheriff said.

About 11:30 A. M. Wednesday, Sheriff's Deputy White, of Autauga County, arrested Wallace as the latter was walking along the railroad tracks near Freemont, took him in custody and notified Sheriff Hardy. Sheriff Hardy met Autauga County officers at Prattville and placed Wallace in jail at Clanton at 2:30 P. M. Wednesday on a charge of murder on a warrant sworn out by Hardy, the Sheriff said.

Confession Reported Made
 The Sheriff said Wallace confessed about an hour later in the presence of the Solicitor, Hardy and the two deputies.

The Sheriff said Wallace told where the knife was thrown away near the scene of the slaying, but that at a late hour Wednesday the weapon had not been recovered.

Wallace was quoted as saying the blade was broken in the stabbing.

A general broadcast for aid in the search for the slayer was sent out immediately after the officers were notified of the victim's body was found about 4:00 P. M. Monday by five neighbor children. Deputy White made the arrest on this information, Sheriff Hardy said.

Officers said the scene of the slaying gave evidence of a desperate struggle on the part of the victim for her life. Her right hand was clutching a thorny vine, the officers said.

The victim was the mother of one daughter and three sons. The scene of the slaying was about 20 miles northwest of Clanton.

Things We Think

Things Others Think and What We Think of Things Others Think
—BILLY SMITH

"God Bless You, Walter"

An editorial written recently by one of Alabama's well known young newspaper men was headed with the above caption and in that editorial our friend editor of a north Alabama newspaper proceeded to give the President a good panning for his activities in state Senatorial election campaigns and particularly that campaign in Georgia where the President had been elected in the opinion of Senator Walter George.

It may be surprising to some, to know this writer was considerably surprised to learn that Southern newspapermen, and particularly those in Alabama and Georgia could take such an attitude toward a man who has put money in the pockets of the poor man of the nation. But, perhaps that is one definition of Americanism—to turn our backs on a fellow after he has put our feet on solid ground and some extra spending money in our pockets. If that is Americanism, then we have been even fit to bring forth such criticism of the President because he has sought to defend the program he believes to be the best for his people and a program that has already been worthy of its existence.

We can understand why there might be some criticism of the President going into various states of the union and speaking in behalf of one or more particular candidates for high office. But, it is not true that these same newspapermen who are now devoting column after column finding fault with the President's actions, were not so long ago singing his praises because he had the intestinal fortitude to dare try what he believed right? Were not these same newspapermen not so long ago ready to do battle for President Roosevelt for his undoubted spirit and his ability to get things done for his people who had been through years of depression?

Then why should they start now finding some fault with him simply because he wishes his program of progressiveness, fairness and decency for the American people to continue with the least possible resistance?

It has also occurred to us that the President is simply on the job and has recognized an attempt of some Senatorial candidates to "cash in" on his New Deal program in their efforts to be re-elected. In this respect Senator George, of Georgia, was undoubtedly an obstacle in the path of the continued progress and success of the President's New Deal program. Consequently the President sought to remove this obstacle. But, on the other hand this same Walter George, coming from a devoted Southern state, might have believed he could have won his re-election in these changing conditions. If that be true, then it is the President who has traveled too fast for his people and not the people who are to be blamed. However, we believe the blame for failure, or credit for success, of a national program such as we have been experiencing can be placed on the American people and not on the President. Without the support of the people any man is lost in any endeavor regardless of how worthy it may be.

We do not believe President Roosevelt has any desire for a rubber-stamp Congress. But, we do believe he wishes to have men in our Legislature who are open-minded and reasonable and who have brains enough to see a little further than their nose and the next election.

The editorial we referred to in our opening paragraph was well written and well timed. It has been reproduced by several other newspapers and we admire the spunk of the author of it. But, it will not be reproduced in this paper's columns and we feel a bit of pity for those other newspapermen who were carried away by its attractiveness and saw fit to let it go to bed with the rest from the rest may appear to some, but

NEW SEWERAGE SYSTEM IS NEXT STEP FOR CITY

Property Owners Cooperation In Paving Enables City To Secure System

In a telegram received by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, from H. T. Cole, PWA Regional Director for the Administrator, the fact was made known that Clanton had been granted the sum of $34,772, under Docket Number Ala. 1257 for improvement of the present waterworks system and for the erection of a sewage disposal plant and other improvements to the sewage disposal system of Clanton.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated, when making the announcement, that arrangement will be made as early as possible by the City officials to take advantage of the grant. Mr. Jones stated that it was through the wholehearted cooperation of property owners along the streets that will be paved within the near future, that the City is able to take advantage of this grant. By these owners posting their share of the money for the paving project, money was left available by the City to match the PWA grant.

Mayor Jones stated that it was also through the untiring efforts of Congressman Pete Jarman, Senator Lister Hill, and Senator H. L. Bankhead that the money was granted.

At present work is rapidly going forward on the laying additional water mains and erection of fire plugs to outlying sections of the City. This work, however, is under the WPA, and has no connection with future improvements. However, the erection of the sewage disposal plant will come under the WPA.

STAMPS SOUTHERNAIRES

The Stamps Southernaire will present a concert at the Isabella High School Auditorium, September 9. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this evening of songs and fun given by these able entertainers. Don't forget this one—September 9, 8:00 o'clock P.M.

We are still remembering that brave leader, our President, who was great enough to tackle the job as he did and has still enough bravery left to stand up for his program which we all, including other Alabama newspapers, applauded him for. No, the principle is still the same and we still like our principles.

Hail, Wind Damage Crops Over County

Reports coming from over the County Monday stated that considerable damage was done to crops and outbuildings in this County by hail and wind last Saturday and Sunday nights.

Saturday, during the heavy wind and rain, it was stated the damage was done outbuilding the eastern part of the County near the home of Ed and Tom Minor. It is understood that hail actually tore into cotton bolls, stripping the stalks in some instances. The garage of Ed Minor was also reported badly damaged by high winds.

Damage to corn and cotton in the Sardis and Vermont Communities were reported here Monday and also along the Kincheon Road from Clanton.

COMMISSIONERS HELP FARMERS IN ROAD WORK

Dr. Gragg Points Out Facts About Airport, Fair For This County

"Just a word to my farmer friends about the cooperation they are giving in our County Fair proposition. The other day, I said, in the presence of two or three of these people that I could not refrain from saying something about this wonderful co-operative spirit so lavishly shown by our business men and officials. They said, 'No, don't mention it.'"

"But when I see others helping my friends who sit idly by and say nothing."

"There are many things I could mention, showing the intense interest in the Fair, too numerous in the little space available."

"But one of the foremost is the response of the business men in buying advertising space. We had figured that if we could sell $200 of advertising space, we could finance the printing of our catalogue. When we put it before our business men we sold more than $250 worth and could have sold more. So we will have the finances to print and mail our catalogue and some Continued to Back Page)

Chilton County's New Home Demonstration Agent Assumed Duties Last Month

Miss Mattie Jo Barber Is Well Qualified To Hold Position As Agent In This County

Chilton County's new Home Demonstration Agent comes here with a splendid recommendation a trunk full of accomplishments and honors and the ability to carry on a work that has proven most beneficial to our County.

Miss Mattie Jo Barber is the new Home Demonstration Agent for this County, succeeding Miss Meta Grace, who is now studying in York. Miss Barber has been in the County since June 3rd serving as assistant agent and has already endeared herself to those with whom she has been working. Ambitious, talented and well trained, Miss Barber takes hold of her work with an enviable determination and pleasure.

There is nothing extra-ordinary about the new Home Demonstration Agent unless one can persuade her to tell of her studies, work and honors during her education and training in the work she is following. There one will find the extra-ordinary things found only in persons who have studied and intend to do it. They have been given the work and services to the people with whom they work.

A native of Choctaw County, Butler, Alabama, Miss Barber attended the State Teachers College at Livingston and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. She has been in home demonstration work since February and was the first student assistant at the Auburn College.

Pan-American Smashes Truck At Falakto Sun.

L. B. Lee, well known resident of Clanton Route No. Two, can truthfully say he has had one frightful experience in his lifetime.

Mr. Lee was enroute to his home last Sunday night and while crossing the L & N Track at Falakto, three miles south of Clanton, the motor of his pick-up truck proceeded to stall, leaving Mr. Lee directly on the track.

Mr. Lee stated he probably could have started the auto but when he looked up and saw the Pan-American bearing down on him he was just unable to do anything but get somewhere besides in that truck. That he did, and as a result he is able to relate the experience to his friends this week.

The train carried the truck on its cow-catcher, perhaps one-quarter of a mile, completely demolishing it. After the train came to a standstill some time was required to disentangle the wreckage.

Commissioners H. R. Oden, R. L. Outley and Monroe Parrish were in Clanton Monday attending to official duties.

WPA PLANS TO GIVE WORK TO FARMERS HERE

Local Director Of Welfare Gives Information On Proposed Help

The Works Progress Administration has recently instituted a program under which farmers can be assigned to work projects for temporary employment during the seasons in which they are not actively engaged in farming activities. To be eligible for this employment a farmer must present evidence that his total gross cash income for the year has not exceeded or will not exceed $312, which is the amount of a regular WPA worker's income for one year. If a man is a tenant, sharecropper or farm laborer his landlord must verify the farmer's statements and agree that he is willing to have his tenant employed by WPA so long as this employment does not interfere with the operation of his farm. No tenant, sharecropper or farm laborer can be assigned unless his landlord is willing to cooperate.

The primary aim of the Works Progress Administration in instituting this program is to encourage farmers to remain on the farm by supplying work which will supplement their cash incomes. No farmer can be given permanent employment on the WPA until he has established proof that he has tried unsuccessfully to make farming arrangements. No farmer will be assigned to WPA if his sole reason for leaving the farm is in anticipation of regular employment on WPA works (Continued to back page)

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

MY 4-H TRIP TO FLORIDA
By CLEO JONES

The 4-H Club boys and girls met at the County Agent's office Thursday, August 11, and there we boarded the school bus which carried us to Timpochee, the Florida 4-H Camp, on Choctawhatchee Bay, near Villa Tassa, Florida.

The trip proved to be a very pleasant one. We carried our lunch and enjoyed a picnic at Elba, Alabama. We arrived at camp about 4:00 P.M.

Immediately upon arrival, a mass meeting was held. At this time Mr. Hanks, director of the camp grounds, set forth the rules which we were to follow while in camp. Mr. Fant made a brief address, telling us how to make good campers. Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber assigned our cabins and explained the schedule to us.

As soon as camp was set the girls and boys who were on K. P. did their duties, and the rest of us went with Miss Orr, who is in connection with State 4-H Club Work, for a swim. I assure you boys and girls were having the time of our lives in that salt water. The swim in the salt water gave us a good appetite. As soon as the whistle blew we rushed to the dining hall, there Mr. Ivey made us line up a boy and a girl of course some of the boys had to be girls because there were more boys than girls. After a delicious supper when Miss Barber had prepared we went to the recreation hall and enjoyed a series of games which were directed by Mr. Hanks. We played and sang until 10:00 P.M. at which time we sang "Taps" and said goodnight to each other.

On Friday morning we jumped up eager to go for a refreshing swim in the bay. After breakfast an impressive flag ceremony was held. The boys and girls who were on K. P. did their duties and the rest of the boys and girls enjoyed playing basketball and volleyball.

At lunch we were told to walk a straight line, that we were going to have "Kangaroo Court". Mr. Hanks was our judge and he was very good. Everyone enjoyed it very, very much. After court we donned our bathing suits and went to Fort Walton. It was fun riding the waves on the Gulf of Mexico. Then we prepared for our stunts. We went to the recreation hall and enjoyed stunts which were given by each cabin.

At the assembly two distinguished people were introduced, Mrs. Scott of the Florida Rehabilitation Commission, and Miss Blackshire, Director of Girls 4-H Camp for the State of Florida. Mr. Ivey, Miss Barber and several more of the staff made brief talks, which were very interesting. After the talks we said goodnight and went to bed.

Another swim in the bay Saturday before breakfast then each cabin was assigned duties to perform before breakfast. As soon as we did our work we said farewell to Camp Timpochee. A picnic lunch was held on our return trip at Andalusia. We arrived safely in Clanton about 5 P.M. Saturday, August 13.

Thanking Miss Barber, Mr. Ivey, and Mr. Fant for finding us such a good place, we are all going to work hard and go to camp next year.

MY TRIP TO CAMP TIMPOCCHIEE
By WILL PORTER RUSH

On Thursday morning, August 11 the annual Chilton County 4-H Club Camp for boys and girls met at the County Agent's office about 6:45 o'clock to make a tour to Villa Tassa, Florida, at the Florida State 4-H Club Camp, Timpochee, on the Choctawhatchee Bay.

The camp consisted of thirty-nine club boys and nine girls. Several parents also Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fant, County Agent, Mr. and Mrs. Ivey, Mrs. Arra B. Jones and Miss Mattie Jo Barber.

About 7:00 o'clock A.M. everything was packed and ready to go. The cars were driven by Mr. Fant, Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber. The bus was driven by Mr. G. C. Walker, the half-ton truck was driven by Mr. C. L. Wilkins

After having enjoyed a cold drink at Red Devil near Montgomery, we again boarded the bus to stop again at Elba for lunch.

Lunch time under the oak trees on the banks of a creek was enjoyed. The manager of the store where we secured our cold drinks for dinner showed us a place where several cars buried and cattle drowned in the flood of 1920.

At four o'clock all campers reached the camping place. We unloaded and ran to the bay.

Returning to the recreational hall Mr. Hanks, director of the camp, set forth the rules and regulations of the camp.

After being assigned our cabins we immediately put on our bathing suits and enjoyed a swim in the bay. We were all surprised to know that we could go a quarter of a mile into the bay and it being only waist deep.

About nine o'clock P.M. the K. P. group (which consisted of cottage 2) had supper ready.

After supper we gathered together in the recreational hall and enjoyed games such as the grand old march. Leaving the hall about 9:45 we returned to our cabins and bade each other good night.

Friday morning we arose around six o'clock and enjoyed a swim in the bay. Cottage No. 3 was on K. P. duty and after the swim we enjoyed a delicious breakfast. After breakfast an impressive flag raising ceremony was held.

About nine o'clock all members enjoyed a game of baseball and also volleyball.

The K. P. Group for dinner consisted of Cottage No. 4. Dinner was enjoyed and after leaving the table we were entertained by "Kangaroo Court". It was held in the recreational hall. This lasted until 2:30 o'clock. All members of the party donned their bathing suits and went to Fort Walton, Florida to spend the remainder of the afternoon. Surf swimming proved to be most amusing to everyone.

Friday night each cabin presented a stunt before the assembly in the recreation hall. Each stunt afforded a great deal of amusement to everyone. Mr. Scott, of the Florida Rehabilitation Commission and Miss Blackshire, Director of Girls 4-H Camp for the State of Fla. both of whom greeted the campers. Mr. Fant, Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber made brief talks to the boys and girls at this time and expressed their sincere appreciation to the camp manager for courtesy in lending us Chilton County the camp. Several other members made brief talks.

Another swim in the bay was enjoyed Saturday morning. Immediately after breakfast each squad was assigned duties to perform toward the breaking of camp. As soon as camp was set in order the campers said farewell to Camp Timpochee. A picnic lunch was enjoyed on the return trip at Andalusia. We arrived safely in Clanton about five o'clock Saturday, August 13.

I wish to say again that I enjoyed myself too much to express it in words.

Next year I hope to see all the club member in Chilton County on camp.

JUDAS AND THE LIQUOR PROBLEM

Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor? This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief and had the bag and bare what was put therein.

Six days before his death, Jesus was the honored guest at a supper in the Bethany home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus. Mary broke a box of very precious ointment over him and anointed his feet with it. Then Judas, the double dealing traitor, raised an objection at such waste and wanted to know why the ointment was not sold and given to the poor. He said it, not because he was interested in the poor but because he was a grasping, greedy, avaricious crock and wanted to get his filthy hands on the money that it cost him to sell. He pretended to be interested in the poor in order to cloak his avariciousness and greed. His duplicity shamed Satan himself.

I never hear these advocate of lagel liquor talking about the revenue that is wasted by bootleggers under Prohibition and why it can be consumed by legislation and used to pay all age persons, but that I am reminded of the story of Judas and the box of ointment. They, like Judas, plead for legalization of liquors not because they are interested in the poor old people but because they are a bunch of greedy, grasping, avaricious crocks seeking to cloak their greed behind a mouth of charity. They are interested only in the "rake-off" they can get by selling the booze to the youth of the land.

There is this vital difference between the booze barons of today and Judas of nineteen hundred years ago. Judas had sold the Lord for thirty pieces of silver, he did have enough manhood left to suffer remorse and compunction of conscience to the extent that he returned the money and committed suicide, but these booze barons of today know no remorse of heart of compunction of conscience for their betrayal of the youth of the nations.—M. Lockhart, Clanton, Rte. 5.

Miss Williams Becomes Bride of Mr. Manning At Beautiful And Unique Ceremony Recently

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Mary Alice Williams and Mr. Clifford Manning, which took place on August twenty-fourth, at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. H. Williams.

The marriage took place in the flower garden with an arrangement of pines and southern smilax. An altar of ferns was a beauty of art, with a large wedding bell suspended overhead.

On each side were tall baskets of white lilies and gladioluses.

The entire setting represented that beautiful song, "Cathedral In The Pines".

Miss Kathryn Foss, with Miss Grace Ezell as her accompanist, sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly". Miss Mary Armstrong played the wedding march.

The two little flower girls, Sue Ann Williams and Mary Faith Chancellor, dressed in yellow organdy, carrying nosegay bouquet of asters, formed an aisle of white ribbon from the door out into the garden to the altar.

The bride's blonde beauty was at its best, as she came down this aisle with her father, Mr. J. Hudson Williams, of Thomasville, Ga., who gave her in marriage.

They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Flournoy Radford.

The bride's dress was of white marquisette with embroidered lilies made on old fashioned lilies with slight train. Her hat was of marquisette. She carried a nosegay bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Nell Roper, of Louisville, Ky. She wore a dress of thistle lace and carried a nosegay bouquet of Gladioluses in rose shades.

Rev. G. G. Williams read the marriage vows, using an impressive ring ceremony.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was held in the garden.

Misses Elizabeth and Malinda Dennis served punch from an old fashioned well.

Later the bride and groom left for New Orleans and other southern points.

The bride's traveling costume was of forest green wool crepe appliqued with autumn suede shoes, bag and gloves of matching suede. The hat was a freest doll model.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Williams, Mr. Billy Williams, Mrs. Henry Russell, Mrs. Bryant, from Thomasville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Weil, Melvin S. Weil, Jr., from Birmingham; Mrs. C. M. Roper, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. J. H. Wells and children of Isabella; Mrs. R. E. Tucker and children of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Manning and son from Miami, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Oliver of Birmingham.

Bridge Party Honors Bride Elect

One of the prettiest nuptial affairs given for Miss Mary Alice Williams' lovely bride elect, was a bridge party and luncheon shower, held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Roper, Louisville, Ky., on August twenty-fourth. The bride's only attendant, Miss Nell Roper, of Louisville, Ky., and the bride's bridesmaids, Misses Elizabeth and Malinda Dennis, were later ushered into the dining room, where the table was richly decorated with white and pink flowers and pastel settings on a lace cloth. The gifts which were all given to be used on the honeymoon, were opened at the table while a pretty course in bridal colors was enjoyed. Guests included:

CARDUI

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

that electricity costs 32% less in Alabama than the national average; that the rate for cooking electrically steps down; that the electric range oven stores heat and cooks a large part of the time with the current off. Still there is a bit of doubt in her mind—she thinks all those facts are just "sales talk." So she buys the range—with her fingers crossed. But after her range is installed and she gets the first bill, she becomes an electric cookery enthusiast—her electric range has done all that was claimed for it, and she becomes convinced that electric cookery is thrifty cookery.

USUALLY the amount of the electric bill is a pleasant surprise after an automatic electric range is installed in a home. It's so much less than the purchaser expects it to be! True the salesman or dealer tells her

Thorsby Boy Scouts Pay Visit To Beautiful Chattahoochee National Forest Recently

The Thorsby Boy Scouts spent last week in the beautiful Chattahoochee National Forest in North Georgia. Leaving Thorsby at 2 o'clock Monday morning, August 15, we went through Montgomery and Lanett where we picked up Mr. Lawrence L. Stanley, former Scoutmaster of Troop One, Thorsby, and his son, Sherwood. In Atlanta, we visited Grant's Park. Here we saw the cyclorama of the Battle of Atlanta. That is the most wonderful work of art any of us had ever seen. Then we went to the zoo and saw the elephant, bison, llama, moose, ostrich, lion, bison, leopard, puma, bear, hyena, monkey, mandrill, baboon, coyote, zebra, eagle, parrot, jaguar, eagle, alligator, and other animals and birds.

From Atlanta we motored to Stone Mountain, 16 miles from Atlanta. As one of the boys remarked, Stone Mountain is really a good sized pebble. We arrived in the Chattahoochee National Forest at 6 o'clock Monday evening. We camped that night beside a small creek which had a five-foot bank. About 1 o'clock one of the boys started to walk in his sleep and walked into the creek. He must have been dreaming that he was going in swimming. Fortunately the water wasn't over 12 inches deep at the place he jumped in. He must have had a strange feeling when he awoke and found that he was in water. Mr. Collins pulled him out and each night afterward Mr. Collins tied one end of a rope to his own leg and the other end to the sleep-walker.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of somewhat expressing our thanks and appreciation to the neighbors and friends for their kindness toward us during our recent sad bereavement. May the Lord bless you all in our ardent prayer—Ed Wagner and Family.

CONTRACTOR IS PREPARING TO START PAVING

Offices Set Up And Work Is Expected To Start Within The Week

Activity is getting underway in Clanton this week on the paving of the several residential streets in the city and the government has already made its first payment on the costs of this project, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones.

The Southeastern Construction Co., of Ozark, Ala., began getting things lined up the first of the week. This company was given the contract for the entire job. Mayor Jones stated it was understood they would start work somewhere on the east side of the railroad and that the work would not interfere with traffic leading to any of the gins in the city.

A check for $9,200.00 from the government was received Monday morning. This is the first payment of the government's part of the program for Clanton.

Mayor Jones also stated that the city would construct a new bridge over the creek near the Reynolds addition and leading to Lay Dam. He stated that regardless of whether that work outside the city limits was paved, it would be necessary to construct a new bridge at that point. The bridge will be designed by the state highway department, the Mayor stated.

CATALOGUES FOR CHILTON FAIR ARE OUT

Many Additions Are Noted
To Make 1938 Fair
The Best Yet

Established for the purpose of promoting agricultural interests, improvement of stock, poultry and general progress in Chilton County, the 1938 Chilton County Fair will be the biggest and best yet, is the opinion of those in charge of arrangements.

The Gragg Field, Chilton County's modern airport, will be the scene of the County Fair this year. Opening on Tuesday afternoon, September 20th, the Fair continues through the following Saturday night with more and better attractions than ever.

The area for the exhibition of live-stock, poultry, handicraft and agricultural products will be much larger this year than was seen in the 1937 Fair. New and added exhibits of all kinds are expected to be displayed this year.

So far as the entertainment end is concerned, it was learned this week that the free acts will be most interesting and thrilling with new scenes throughout. One of the features will be a public wedding to be staged on Thursday night at the Fair grounds. Another feature will be Aviation Day when several planes will be on hand and aerobatic stunts pulled. This will be on Friday.

Thirty-six page catalogues have been sent out to the county and give a more detailed account of what is to be at the 1938 Chilton County Fair.

CONNATSER FAMILY RETURNS FROM INTERESTING VACATION

Mrs. S. M. Connatser and daughters, Mrs. Mary and Mary, returned last Friday afternoon from a three-week visit in Tennessee and North Carolina.

While on their trip they stopped in Chattanooga for a short visit with relatives, then to Knoxville, Maryville and Jefferson City, for a few days. While in Jefferson City Mrs. Connatser visited her father's old homestead, also took the girls through Carson-Newman College where she attended school when a girl.

Then they went to Sevierville, Tenn. and visited relatives there for several days and from there via Gatlinburg and through the Great Smoky Mountain National Park and on into Maryville, N. C., spent several days there. From there they went across another big range of mountains to Hot Springs, N. C., and attended the annual reunion of the Massey family, from there to Asheville, N. C. for two days, back to Marshall, N. C. for a short visit and back to Newport, Tenn., Sevierville and Knoxville.

They report a very enjoyable trip and say the scenery is beautiful.

The highway, across Smoky Mountain is so perfectly engineered that one can hardly tell they are going up and grade except by looking down the mountainside and by the pulling of the car.

They say that many people had pulled out to one side, raised the hoods of their cars to let them cool. They had a grand trip with not the least bit of car trouble anywhere on the trip, but all were glad to get back to Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tys of Birmingham spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tys.

'MYSTERY AT MIDNIGHT' ON TONIGHT HERE

Outstanding Play Of The Year Shows Tonight
At High School

"Mystery At Midnight," the local talent play, sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club, will have its opening performance tonight at Chilton County High School auditorium at 8:13. The play is being given for the benefit of the Crippled Childrens Clinic.

"Mystery At Midnight" features three preppy dance choruses. One of the outstanding chorus groups featured in the show is the Bat Choruses. These girls, dressed as bats, unite to form an exceptional chorus number on a darkened stage, with flashlights only, to lend a ghastly appearance, then gradually, as the lights come up, working into a fast ballet. This is done to the music of "Satan Takes A Holiday."

Another chorus of outstanding merit is the Policemen Chorus, equipped with silly clubs and dressed in modern policeman style. This chorus not only adds pep and punch to the show, but also helps to find out "Who's guilty." It's a fast tap routine done to a tune you'll be whistling as you leave the theatre.

Of course, nurses are on duty at all times, and during the show combine to make an attractive nurses course.

The costumes are all new. The words to the songs are original and written especially for "Mystery At Midnight."

Everything about the show is new and different. Of course all the music and dancing is in addition 'to the play proper, which is a sensational mystery drama.

The ticket committee of the Kiwanis members reports that tickets are going nicely. Reserved seat tickets may be purchased at Alred Drug Store. People are advised to reserve their seats early. "Mystery At Midnight" is to be presented both Thursday and Friday nights so that everyone in Clanton and the surrounding communities will have an opportunity to see the play.

No Let-Up Here In Anti-Syphilis Drive

The Health Department's war against syphilis continues unabated according to a report of the activities of the Chilton County Medical Society. Syphilis Clinic. Since March, when the last news article appeared describing the progress of the clinic, a total of 45 new patients have been admitted for treatment. Among these there were two males and forty-three colored.

The number of treatments rendered monthly has increased from 160 given in March to 289 for August.

Many of the new patients have been discovered, according to Dr. Sturkie, County Health Officer, by the Health Department at waterman clinics held periodically at the typhoid clinics over the County during the summer. No opportunity has been overlooked, he stated, to do blood tests on persons who receive routine examinations by the Health Department. This case-finding campaign has been concentrated on the medical population of the county because of the greater prevalence of syphilis in that race.

Drugs used in the treatments given by the clinic are furnished by the State Health Department. Dr. Sturkie pointed out. A fund for paying a fee to private physicians who serve in the clinic is made possible through the contributions from the local Department of Public Welfare and the County Commissioners.

Figures Show Up Well For Alabama

In spite of the business recession that came in 1937 to Alabama and the nation, income figures for the state during that year were not far out of line with those of the peak year 1929; according to an announcement by Judge John D. Petree, state director of the National Emergency Council.

The state's total accountable income in 1937 was $720,000,000 compared with $795,000,000 for 1929. In 1936, the income of the state was $681,000,000 and in 1933, first year of President Roosevelt's administration, Alabama's accountable income was only $444,000,000, Judge Petree said.

Receipts from the sale of principal farm products and government payments and benefits totaled $132,857,000. This figure compares with $73,189,000 for 1933. Of the 1937 income derived from the sale of farm products and government benefits, $122,000,000 was from the sale of agricultural products itself, the announcement disclosed.

Another interesting indication of the extent to which Alabama is recovering from the depression, the announcement pointed out, is found in the fact that 123,874 people were employed in manufacturing industries in 1937 in comparison with 119,206 in 1929 and 84,966 in 1933. Industrial payrolls in 1929 were $101,870,052 and in 1937 they were $104,319,857.

"It is interesting to note," Judge Petree said, "that while the number of persons employed by manufacturing industries in 1937 increased only 11.4 per cent over 1929, payrolls increased 26.2 per cent."

The trend of post office department business done in the state since 1933 has been interesting to watch, the National Emergency Council official stated. Postal receipts in 1933, exclusive of money orders issued, were $3,799,000 and in 1937 they amounted to $5,258,000. Domestic money orders issued in 1933 totaled $14,775,000 and in 1937 they had jumped to $24,479,000.

"Internal revenue receipts are always considered a safe barometer for use in determining the extent of business recovery," Judge Petree said, "and in that connection it is interesting to note that in 1934 collections from individual income earners amounted to $1,189,000 and in 1937 these collections totaled $3,166,000. Corporations paid into the treasury in income taxes $748,000 in 1934 and $3,379,000 in 1937. The tax on excess profits amounted to only $21,540 in 1934 and it yielded $160,648 in 1937."

A Straw In The Wind

For those who have been worried by the inroads of Communism and other beliefs alien to real Americanism, here are at least some crumbs of comfort from an erstwhile "liberal" Congressman recently defeated in his campaign for renomination and re-election:

"Although local issues played an important part in my defeat, it seems to me that it also reflected a growing national attitude. That is an attitude of belief in and willingness to fight for Americanism as against all the other isms.

"The Americanism of some of my backers was questioned. The voters were frightened, not by me but by my supporters. They voted against me.

"I see that trend developing all over the country. And I predict that within the next eighteen months or two years this country will see a wave of Americanism such as it has never seen before."

An illustration of how interest accumulates is seen in an allowance of a claim for $3,000 against the United States for the seizing of a schooner owned by James Crooks of Toronto during the War of 1812. His heirs get the $3,000 with interest for 115 years, a total of $23,600.

There's A Limit

Even if a fairly substantial total of the figures that go to increase the gross receipts of the state of Alabama represent money that is not spent by the state itself or only bookkeeping entries of a sort, still the grand intake for this fiscal year ending Oct. 1, estimated at around $90,000,000, probably includes by far the largest net inroads on our taxpayers in history. And this intake, including this year the revenue for the first full 12-month period for all the new taxes, is going up at an almost fabulous rate, as a comparison with the gross total for the last fiscal year of a mere $71,548,044 emphasizes.

If the whole impression and burden of this tax story is heavy and wearisome, there is at least one bright note: it is that this administration may wind up its affairs with a surplus of something like $1,000,000 on the year's operations. It might have been more—many millions, some think—but a million's something.

The people in fairness should remember that largely upon their own demand and because of their own need the cost of government has increased enormously in recent years. But they must be alert to the fact that if they are not careful in those demands and if they do not exercise a constant control over the natural generosity of the politician's response to such pleas from the public, they, the people, can easily swamp themselves.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

One Cause Of Failure

Among the contributing causes of business failure, that of neglecting to keep proper records is one of the most common. This was indicated by the results of a recent study reported by the Department of Commerce.

This study covered a large number of small businesses which had failed, and of these it was found that about 23 percent kept no books at all, while only about one-half of them had adequate bookkeeping systems.

Among retail merchants who had failed, one-third had inadequate records, while only 47 per cent kept their records in a business-like manner. One-third of the insolvents admitted that they never took an inventory of stock on hand.

It seems incredible that such laxity should exist on the part of any considerable number of those who call themselves business men, but the department's findings are doubtless approximately correct.

While proper bookkeeping in itself does not produce business, it does keep the business man informed concerning how things are going and enables him to take steps to check losses before it is too late.

Fire Takes 7,500 Lives

This year, if past precedent holds, some 1,500 people will be cremated in burning buildings. Six thousand more will die as the results of burns and scalds.

When an airplane crashes and a dozen people burn to death, the news makes international headlines and the world is horrified. Yet the public at large is callous to the fact that our annual total of deaths from fires is greater than the toll would be from six hundred airplanes carrying to flaming doom 12 persons each.

Practically every one of those thousands of fire deaths could be easily prevented. Due to the carelessness of adults, children are among the principal sufferers. Unprotected stoves, matches left about, hot water and steam—these are the major causes of death and suffering among the very young. Death takes no holiday when those things which may cause fires and scalds are within reach of a child's untaught, exploring fingers.

Equally dangerous, particularly in the case of adults, is the practice of starting stoves and furnaces with kerosene, gasoline or other inflammable liquids. You may get away with it a thousand times. But the thousandth and first time may mean a job for the undertaker—with you and possibly others as the objects of interest.

Next time you read of a spectacular disaster, reflect that something equally horrible can occur in your home. Think of this before you stir up a balky fire with kerosene. Think of it again when children are about. It is easy to prevent a fire—but it is impossible to ever make up for the consequences of a fire that takes a life.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Out in South Dakota Leland Manasmith won first place as a health champion in the United States as a 4-H Club boy. He was a perfect specimen of body and brain development, and stepped out before the youth of our country as an ideal for them. No sooner had he been selected as the American Boy No. 1, than a cigarette company came to him with an offer of a thousand dollars if he would give his endorsement to their brand of cigarettes. Leland not only had a sound body, but he had brain and character with it. He was a very poor boy, but he could not be bought. He said, "No," to the offer. He refused to sell his influence. He knew that cigarettes were injurious to boys and girls, and he refused to be a party in deceiving them into bad habits. Strength of character is the need of today among boys and girls, men and women.

Recently we were visiting in a home where lived a daughter with her husband and child. The grandmother was looking after the two-year-old baby while the mother was away. This youngster in the home was unusually active and the grandmother did not seem to have any difficulty in keeping up with the little fellow and to better enable her in her task, she had buckled a bell to the wrist of the boy. While we were there he was making the rounds of the place, but being belled, we could always know where he was. When he came to the jingle of that bell, I thought how wonderful if some women could tell their husbands. We all know some of these old rams who should not be belled with a cow bell, but with a church bell.

A circus had come to town and at noon the parade was on with all its noise and flare. Painted wagons were going by, wild animals paraded in their cages, bands were playing, clowns were leaping, the calliope whistled and children shouted everywhere. All of a sudden the drivers began to pull in their horses and to apply the brakes. The circus came to a dead standstill. There was much noise and excitement. All of us wanted to know why the parade had stopped in the middle of the street. I walked down the line to investigate and at the public square saw that a funeral was going by. The circus had to stand still while the funeral slowly marched on its way. Listen to me, death is an intruder before every pathway of life. He crosses our path at the gayest moment. Neither business nor pleasure, wealth nor power can stop his march. Everywhere we must pause for death to go by. As soon as the funeral had gone on its way the circus moved on with all of its noise and merriment. Death never interrupts the merriment of life very long—at a

One day I was standing by the railroad and saw a big engine go by pulling its sixty cars of freight. It seemed to be doing its best to pull its load. Soon it had gone on its way. Just then a lone engine came in sight. It was rolling along while the fireman rang the bell and pulled the whistle. This engine had been stationed on a side track and its duty was to help push heavy trains up the grade. Now that its train had gone on its way, it was running along doing nothing but blowing its whistle, telling the world of what it had done. It had pushed the train up the grade and now it was trotting along telling the world about it. That reminded me of how some folks will do. We all know some who will really do a worthwhile deed in pushing someone up the grade of life, but they spoil it by spending all the rest of their time tooting their horn over what they have done. Help people up the hill, but be aware of bragging about it.

One of the strange freaks of nature is the insect known as the praying mantis. The female of this species will meet the male and after a brief courtship they become man and wife. Everything seems to go well in matrimony for a short time. When the male mantis grows a little tired of her spouse, she creeps up to him while he is sleeping and fastens her stout arms around his neck and chokes him to death. While she is doing this she goes through the most pious gestures, folding her arms as if she is praying, while her eyes look up as if to adore a Divine being. When her husband breathes his last she opens her mouth and begins to devour him with speed. She jerks off his legs and snatches off his feelers. Soon there is nothing but a greasy spot where the old man was sleeping. The antics of that bug stir reminds me of a forlorn wife of a year who said to me, "Parson, when I first married my old man I felt like I could eat him, and now my regrets are that I did not do it." I am not advocating the idea that all dissatisfied wives shall jump on and eat up their husbands. Should they do so there would be much husband devouring through the land.

NOTICE TO SCHOOLS, CLUBS, OR OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

For the past several years it has been the custom of the furniture stores of Clanton to lend free of charge, furniture for the stage whenever some school, club or other organization was sponsoring a play. This was done for the purpose of aiding the schools clubs and organizations and this furniture was loaned by these furniture stores willingly.

But in recent year the number of plays being given in the County has increased, and the undersigned furniture stores of Clanton find it necessary to discontinue this practice. The hauling and use of the furniture naturally causes some damage, and the expense of the truck for hauling and the time incurred runs into high figures during the course of one season. However we will gladly sell the necessary furniture at cost and give long term payments to the sponsors of a play. We will also be ready to aid in any way possible to the success of any play, but we will be forced to discontinue the practice of lending furniture for stage settings in the future.

GRADE A MILK IS DISTRIBUTED BY LOCAL DAIRY

County Health Dept. Gives Permit No. 1 To Well Known Dairy Here

Clanton has, among its industries, one particularly that it can well be proud of. This is the Miller's Dairy, located just east of Clanton on the Lay Dam road.

Not only is this a large and growing concern but it is perhaps one of the oldest if not the oldest, dairy in this section of the state.

Started on a very small scale about twenty-five years ago, by E. W. Miller, one of the county's widely known and well liked citizens, the business began to grow under the careful supervision of its owner and his sons, who are experienced dairy men.

The business soon grew to such an extent that it was necessary to build more and larger buildings and increase the number of cows in the herd that furnished milk for the entire section. Now, one of the latest achievements of the Miller Dairy is that it has been given the first permit as a Grade A dairy and has been carefully inspected by the County Board of Health. Standing all inspections, it is now considered one of the most outstanding producers of fresh milk and is regularly inspected by the board of health.

There are 63 cows in the herd at the dairy and each day these animals are driven into a modern, sanitary barn where they are washed, fed and milked. This barn, picture of which is shown on this page, is well ventilated and after each milking, the floor is scrubbed to insure cleanliness at all times.

From the barn, the milk is carried into the cooling shed where electricity does all the work of cooling and where a large electric ice box is located. In bottling the milk, human hands do not touch, even the tops of the bottles nor the caps. The bottles are placed by sanitary hands into a machine called a bottling machine where the milk goes into the bottles and the caps put in place.

The Miller Dairy is now under the active management of J. I. Moon, who is one of the most experienced dairy men in this section of the state. Mr. Moon supervises all steps at the dairy as well as the delivery of the milk. It is through his efforts and the cooperation of the sons of Mr. Miller and other helpers that the dairy is rated as producing Grade A Milk, and receiving the first permit to be issued within the county under such strict health regulations.

Another product of the Miller Dairy is the delicious "Greenspot" orangeade which is made and bottled under the same sanitary conditions as their milk. This beverage, too, is delivered fresh daily to their hundreds of customers in this section.

Have You Tried "Greenspot?"

He Slipped From "Excellent" To Only "Average" In His Grades

HERE you have a youngster who, during last school term, for reasons his parents or teacher weren't able to determine, got only "average" grades against nearly all "A's" the term before. The boy is healthy and attentive in his classes. He likes his teacher, so there is no "teacher personality" problem.

Let us look at his home. Ah! Here may be the trouble. We find that he does his home work in a light of less than 2 foot-candles, when a minimum of 16 foot-candles is recommended.

Let's go to his schoolroom. Here we find the lighting satisfactory for desk work if his desk happens to be near a window, but some distance away from the window he wouldn't be able to see well, even if he had glasses. Writing on the blackboard is legible only on bright days.

It may be, of course, that this boy needs glasses, but even glasses can't help him as much as they might if he must get his lessons in insufficient or glaring light.

"Light Condition" Your Home

Alabama Power Company has in its employ 23 lighting advisors, who with the aid of a little instrument called a "light meter," gladly will help you determine if the lighting in your home, school, office or factory, can be improved. Frequently they suggest how you can improve it with little or no additional cost. There is no charge for their services.

100 Watt bulbs cost only 15c—no more than smaller sizes.

4-H Club Work

The assistant County Agent attended the Annual State Farmers' and Homemakers' Camp held in Auburn, August 1-5. Approximately 1,500 farmers and homemakers attended this camp which was declared to be one of the most successful of all the weeks of this kind ever held in the State.

W. B. Crowe, an outstanding member of the Chilton County Club, attended this camp to participate in the discussion, "Livestock On Alabama Farms," led by F. W. Burns, Extension animal husbandman, on Wednesday morning, August 3. He made a worthwhile contribution to the program through his responses to the various questions asked him concerning his family's farm and his experiences with livestock.

The County Agent and the Assistant Agent, through the cooperation of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, arranged for approximately 200 farmers and farm women from Chilton County to attend the camp on Wednesday, August 3.

These representatives of the County arrived in Auburn at 10:00 A.M., and at that time heard a splendid address by Representative William B. Bankhead on "Congress and The Farmer." During the afternoon a tour was conducted over the Experiment Station.

The delegation saw controlled experiments on the various garden vegetables, demonstrations on the new improved method of cutting kudzu, the value of legumes in the production of corn and cotton, the difference in the amount of nitrogen when legumes are turned at different dates, cotton and corn fertilized with different kinds and amounts of commercial fertilizers contrasted with cotton and corn following vetch, and the effect of fires on forestry plots. They also visited the hog and dairy barns, and the poultry house. The delegation by direct observation is one of the most desirable methods which can be used in connection with matters of interest and value pertaining to farming activities. It is felt that the benefits received by these representatives of this County will be in many improved methods on the farm in the future.

Visit To Experiment Station

On Tuesday, August 16, the Assistant County Agent and the Assistant Agent of the Chilton County 4-H Club boys and Charles and Frank Collins and W. B. Crowe, Jr., to the Black Belt Experiment Station at Marion Junction. These club members are very interested in cattle and this trip proved very valuable to them.

State Fair Fair

Much time has been spent in making arrangements for the County and State Fairs, which will be held the latter part of next month. It is planned to have a beef and dairy cattle, hogs, poultry, mules and rorses exhibit at the County Fair for three days.

R. E. A. Meeting

The Assistant Agent assisted the County Agent in an R. E. A. meeting August 19, at which time will be made to determine the possibilities of Rural Electrification in Chilton County.

Ton Litter Show And Sale

In the spring several farmers entered the Ton Litter Contest which will be held in Montgomery, September 15 and 16. Three of these farmers are still sending their hogs for the show and sale. Austin McCarty, west of Jemison, has the largest and best litter which consists of ten pigs which were born March 3, which will make them six months and 12 days old when they reach the show in Montgomery. At the present time these hogs will weigh something around 250 pounds.

Mr. Zack Lowery and Mr. J. D. Collins are the other two farmers who are continuing with this project, however, their pigs were farrowed later than Mr. McCarty's, so they are going to enter them in the State Fair in Birmingham which will give them a little longer feeding period.

Anyone interested in pigs or other livestock will see from these pigs how home grown feeds can be marketed through such animals. Any of these farmers will be glad to show you their feeding project at any time you visit

Mr. G. W. Walker's Story of The 4-H Camp in Florida

We arrived in Clanton about 7:00 a.m. and there boarded the school bus with a great ambition to go to the coast. The trip was very pleasant all the way down. We arrived in Elba, Ala., and had a nice picnic lunch. After arriving at camp around 4 P.M., we held a meeting. There we met Mr. Hanks, our director of the camp, who told us the rules we were to follow while in camp. Mr. Fant gave a short talk on how to be a good camper. Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber assigned us our duties and told us which cabin we were to stay in. The girls who were on K.P. duty prepared supper while the rest of the group went for a swim in the Bay. This was lots of fun. When the whistle blew for supper everyone was proud to see the table fixed so nice which Miss Barber had played games and sang until 10 o'clock. We said goodnight and went to bed.

On Friday morning we arose at 6 A.M. and then for another joyful swim in the Bay. After the swim we had breakfast. The camp was then cleaned after which we enjoyed playing games such as baseball and volleyball. After lunch we assembled in the Recreational Hall for Kangaroo Court. This was enjoyed very much.

Then for Fort Walton. Everyone was just thrilled over going to the Gulf to swim. Before the swim we went sightseeing which was very educational. Upon arrival at camp supper was served after which each cabin had a stunt. This was a real pleasure. At the meeting Mr. Fant and home and 4-H Agents made some real entertaining talks. If the 4-H boys and girls will remember they will be better 4-H boys and girls next year than they have ever been before.

Early Saturday morning we went for another swim in the Bay and after this we had breakfast which was so nicely prepared and so much enjoyed. The campers were assigned tasks and it was certainly fun to water those boys and girls scrub and clean the camp before breakfast. We said goodbye to Mr. Hanks and Campa Timphoochee and started for home. On our return we stopped at Andalusia and had another fine picnic lunch. We arrived in Clanton about 5 P.M. August 13.

I wish to thank the boys and girls for being so nice on the bus and also Mr. Ivey and Miss Barber for such a nice camping place. Now boys and girls, work hard next year and let's all really be boosters for our 4-H Club.

Thanking everyone, I am, the bus driver,

—G. W. Walker.

GRAND JURY

charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 60 cases and have examined 100 witnesses and are returning herewith 47 true bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We have examined the fee book of Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public, and in our examination of the sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we ascertain were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

The Grand Jury feels that there are some matters that should be investigated that we did not take up at this session but it is our desire that at a later date this Grand Jury be called into session for the purpose of investigating certain matters that we did not feel we could thoroughly go into at this session. We therefore request your Honor to call us in session at some time that is convenient and before our time a Grand Jurors expires.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to thank your Honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empaneled as it has been most helpful to us throughout our investigations.

Sheriff Hardy and his deputies and Mr. J. W. Hayes, the bailiff for the Grand Jury, were most courteous to us during our investigations and rendered us valuable assistance in the dispatch of the business before us, all of which we greatly appreciate.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with your Honor's charge, we respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us to again convene.

This September 2nd, 1938.

Statement Issued Concerning Wet Cotton

"To All Warehousemen:
"In the past we have had numerous complaints from cotton buyers that some of the State warehouses are issuing clear receipts for cotton that was evidently green, wet or gin-cut when received by them. We, therefore think it advisable that we call your particular attention to section (5) of Regulation Number Two, which requires a warehouseman to state in the face of the receipt any condition of cotton when received, that is subject to comment.

"To avoid liability, we suggest that all warehouses be very careful about violating this regulation.

"Wishing you a prosperous season, I am

"Yours very truly,
H. S. Holloway,
Chief Division of Gins and Warehouses."

IN MEMORY

The many friends of Otto Baker were saddened last Wednesday morning when the death angel visited the home of Mr. Fred Baker and took his loving little eleven and one-half-year-old son away. He was ill only two weeks, but we feel that he is now at rest where there is no more pain, sorrow or death. Let us pray that we may live to meet him in heaven some day. He leaves to mourn his going four brothers, Oscar, Jack, Bill, Sam, Baker and six sisters, Mrs. Lena Cleckley, Mrs. Iris Culp, Josephine, Gertrude, Lucille, Pearl Baker, and a host of relatives and friends, but we do not, dear loved ones, for we feel that earth's loss is heaven's gain.

He was laid to rest at Highland August 31. May God's richest blessings rest upon you all—A Friend, Mrs. Oscar Lee Deavers.

Two noted aviators and air officials paid a delightful visit to Clanton last Saturday and were entertained at lunch by local air enthusiasts.

Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes, charming and internationally known flier and air marketing supervisor for the Bureau of Aeronautics with Asa Routledge, state director of airfields, stopped off in Clanton for a visit of several hours last Saturday.

While here they visited and inspected Gragg Field, Chilton County's airport, and made several recommendations regarding the field which is listed as an emergency landing field on the Memphis to Tampa air mail route. The local airport has been approved by the Bureau of Aeronautics as such emergency landing field.

The two noted fliers were entertained at lunch by Dr. V. J. Gragg and Leo Thompson, two of Clanton's well known fliers and J. Mell Martin and W. L. Williams of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

FOOD PLACES ARE WARNED ABOUT LAWS

Health Department Again Is Advising More Strict Sanitary Acts

Notice was served early this week on Chilton County's 59 food-handling establishments that all health department permits must be obtained prior to October 1 in order for proprietors to be in position to secure renewal of County privilege licenses. Dr. J. N. Beyer, State Health officer, according to Dr. S. D. Sturges, local health officer, has been notified that the County is now in position to enforce this regulation and he will instruct all City and County officials to this effect.

Very satisfactory progress has been made in the health department's campaign to bring Chilton County's food-handling establishments up to the standards required under the new law, it was pointed out by Fred H. Buckner, County Sanitation Officer. To date, he reported, 15 establishments have qualified for their permits. Among these are: Green Roof Cafe, Busy Bee Cafe, Upchurch Drug Co., A & P Market, Marcus Market, Wright's Drug Co., T. B. After that date proprietors who have failed to meet the requirements will have to visit the health officer and make a request for an inspection. Assurance has been received by the health department that City and County officials will cooperate wholeheartedly with the department in the enforcement of his new regulation.

T. L. McKee Writes About Next Election And New Officials

"TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY:

"In the last three primaries held in this County for the nomination of officers on the Democrat ticket there was very little consideration given to law and order. Lawlessness was as rampant and crime was as prevalent in this County as ever was the case in the hectic pioneer days, in that day when crime became unduly prevalent in a village the law-abiding citizens of that community organized themselves together to combat or wipe out an unbearable condition and justice was administered very swiftly and certain, however, we might surmise that many innocent victims were hanged from what would support the hangman's rope. With the total disregard of our judicial and legislative edicts for law and order on election and with the ill practice of some of our officials and politicians, who go to the extent as to violate and violate the criminal law of our land, shall I not ask you as citizens of this County that we take some steps to remedy this condition and what shall be the line of procedure? We know that it is a penitentiary offense to influence the suffrage of a voter by money or promises and yet some of our officials and political leaders of our County, State and nation, with the backing and support of still higher officials used money and the promise of jobs for the direct purpose of adding votes to their favorite candidates."

"They even took advantage of the

Deadline Near

Farmers and others who expect to have exhibits at the Fair and vie for honors and valuable awards, are reminded that only a few more days remain in which to arrange for these exhibits and are urged to get busy.

Following is a letter from Mrs. H. K. Christensen, leading club woman of the county, who is in charge of the women's division of exhibits:

"Dear Women of Chilton County:

"This is the first year that the Fair Committee has set up for the women of Chilton County a Women's Department at the County Fair. It depends upon us to make this year's exhibit a successful one. The success of this exhibit determines our place in the Fair and in all future County Fairs as a Women's Department."

"We are appealing to you to select those articles in your community that you consider worthy of attention and that they are entered in this exhibit. This does not mean only articles listed in the Premium List of the Women's Division found in the Chilton County Fair Catalogue, but any article that you consider worthy of consideration in the department of Women's Work."

Articles will be received for entrance in this exhibit Saturday morning from eight A. M. until twelve noon (8:00 A.M. until 4:00 P.M.) at the Fair Grounds.

"Hoping that you will take a personal interest in this exhibit and that the Women's Division will grow to a better department in years to come through your efforts, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

"MRS. H. K. CHRISTENSEN.

"Director in Charge, Women's Department, Chilton County Fair."

THIRTY PATROL OFFICERS TO BE RESTORED OCT. 1

Revenue From Drivers Licenses For 1938 To Ease Financial Strain

At least 30 of the 41 State Highway Patrol Officers placed on temporary inactive duty June 1, because of the limited amount of finances then remaining in the patrol fund for the remainder of the fiscal year now drawing to a close—will be reinstated after Oct. 1 when the 1938-39 fiscal year begins, according to information Monday from a reliable source.

The remaining 11 of those laid off have, it is understood, obtained employment elsewhere, while those whose names will go back on the rolls have since been employed only periodically at other work.

With the beginning of the new fiscal year, annual driver's license payments will start. All of the revenue derived from this source goes into the patrol fund in the State Treasury and constitutes the principal financial support for the department's maintenance. Due Oct. 1, driver's licenses become delinquent dates corresponding to those for motor vehicle tag license. Addition of the minimum of 40 officers, will bring the total number of patrolmen up to 132.

Goodbye And Good Luck

Few newspapermen working in a reportorial capacity have performed a greater service to Alabama than Ralph Hurst, who is leaving The Birmingham News and Age-Herald at the height of a brilliant career in journalism to enter another field. Thousands of Alabamians who like their politics with inside dressing will miss the familiar and respected by-line of a great newspaperman who represents the highest traditions of his calling in both craftsmanship and ethics.—The Marion Times-Standard.

The School Teacher

The first days of autumn bring back to our towns and rural communities those earnest people who teach in our schools. The impression has prevailed among some that these folks have a somewhat easy time, as the result of a five-day week and a long summer vacation.

Some teachers without much enthusiasm for their work may slip along in an easy way. But if they try to do that, their chances for promotion are poor. The great majority of them are hard working folks who feel their responsibilities quite heavily, and who carry a burden of anxiety created by the failures and indifference of the more indolent and stupid pupils.

The good teacher's work is not ended when the children are dismissed. Then it is necessary to begin on hours of preparation for the task that is to come, and many hours must be spent in correcting papers and giving help to backward pupils.

The problem of discipline is not solved by any system of rules. The teacher must somehow be able, through some spirit of personal magnetism, to communicate inspiration and ambition to children.

It is hard to keep up this high level of enthusiasm day after day. It is not to be wondered at that many teachers get nervous and fatigued through this constant effort. We all owe them much for their sustained earnestness and devotion.—Prattville Progress.

New Use For Cotton

"This price (the price of 45 cents per six yards) for cotton bagging which could not have been made with a relatively small volume, was made possible by indemnity payments to manufacturers by the AAA as a part of its program to new uses for cotton."

This paragraph is out of a letter from the extension department of the A. and M. College, telling of the use of cotton bagging for covering cotton bales by two one-varyety cotton communities in Texas.

Ye Gods! Think of it! The Government paying out funds to encourage the use of cotton bagging in covering cotton here in the cotton South.

The South has been growing cotton for more than 200 years. Each year in modern times it has produced several millions of bales.

And now in 1938 A. D., a fabric made from cotton is being advocated as a covering for the cotton bales, and rated by the Government, with a subsidy, as a new use of cotton.

It is difficult to believe that the South has waited this long to use cotton bagging in wrapping cotton bales. There are explanations, of course, why jute imported from foreign countries is used as a bagging. But these explanations do not excuse the neglect of this potential market for 135,000 bales of cotton per year from cotton ginneries.

Anyway, it didn't take a cotton research laboratory to bring to light the fact that cotton bagging is serviceable—superior, say some—to jute as covering for ginned cotton.—Houston Post.

What Is A Newspaperman?

Has the question ever been put up to you? If it has, have you been able to answer it? The other night I was introduced to some folks and in the course of the ensuing conversation the fact that I was a newspaperman was mentioned. "Yes", said one of my party, "he's one of the nuts".

Just what is a newspaperman? He's the kind of fellow that will take abuse from a man all his life and then write in his obituary that nothing but friends were numbered among the acquaintances of the deceased, who was never known to utter a disparaging remark nor make a single enemy.

He is the kind of a fellow who will tell how lovely the bride looked when she walked up the aisle and wish her a lifetime of happiness despite the fact that her wedding invitations were sold to her by a city printer.

A newspaper man is the kind of fellow who writes columns and editorials on trading at home for the benefit of local merchants who use handbill advertising purchased from out-of-town firms.

He is the kind of fellow who will meekly say "Yes ma'am," and "I'm sorry" for not mentioning that and that to an irate subscriber who has been getting the paper for years without making any payments for the subscription.

A newspaper man is the kind of fellow who goes around in shabby clothes, drives an outmoded car, and tips his hat to the smartly dressed person, who owes him enough so that he could buy a new suit of clothes for himself.

He is the kind of a fellow who pushes every community enterprise, who puts the basketball team on the map, but is called a chiseler if he expects any complimentary tickets.

He is the man who praises you to the skies when you do something good, covers up for you when you do something wrong and gets the first kick when you are in bad temper.

He is the kind of fellow you run to first for help and think of last when he needs help. If he is not "nuts" what is he?—John F. Tischler in Delano (Minn.) Eagle.

When The Farmer Prospers

"When the farmers of a rural community prosper so do the business men," says the Dairymen's League News. "When a farmer is not prosperous, goods lie on the shelves and the village merchant finds business is very, very dull."

That's one of the reasons why progressive business men favor the agricultural co-operative marketing movement. Moving farm crops on a business basis means more prosperous farmers—and that means more prosperous local and national business and industry.

Promoting Fire Prevention Advertising

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has for some time carried on an advertising campaign in magazines of national circulation, designed to help the cause of fire control and fire prevention. Now it is re-reading these advertisements so that they may be inserted by local agents as paid advertising in their home-town newspapers.

Each national advertisement is to be redrawn and made available in three-column ten-inch mat form. Space is left at the bottom for the agent's name and address. The mats will be sent free to any agent or local insurance board on application to the Public Relations Bureau of the National Board, 85 John Street, New York City.

This marks a worthwhile innovation in the fight against fire. Advertisements of this kind, sponsored by local agents, will be an important factor in the selling of insurance coverage. And, more important, if used in thousands of local newspapers, they will bring to millions of people vividly illustrated facts that will awaken them to the menace of America's disgraceful fire loss—and how it may be reduced by systematic cooperative and individual effort.

In about a month Fire Prevention Week will be observed, and will run from October 9 to 15. During this time, every person in this country should have the dread word "fire" brought to his notice on every possible occasion—over the radio, in his newspaper, and through advertisements. An alert public consciousness and nothing less can prevent fire.

IN MONTEVALLO—
From the Editorial page of the Montevallo Times we give you the following:
Welcome, Mr. Varnell
We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. J. B. Varnell as a member of the Montevallo High School Faculty. He is an able young man of good training and experience, and will make a worthy contribution to our school. The Times Editor has known him for several years and we are glad to have him "cross our path again."
Clanton regrets losing Mr. Varnell, and we're sure he will be missed at the Chilton County High School. We join with his many friends here in wishing him every success in his new location, and congratulate Montevallo High in acquiring the services of Mr. J. B. Varnell.

IN LANETT—
As a regular reader of the Chambers County News, Lanett, Alabama, we can't help but see that Editor Vernie Teel is "stepping out" when it comes to giving the people of Chambers County a real live weekly newspaper. When Vernie left Chilton County he almost left Alabama. Lanett is the location of several large textile mills and is near the line of Georgia. Yeah, we took notice of that sixteen-page Fairfax edition. Remember that forty-two page Chilton County Booster Edition, Vernie, or could you ever forget that Chilton County News masterpiece?

WHITE GOLD—
It's ginning time in Chilton and the gins in Clanton are humming more every day separating the fleecy "white gold" from the seeds. Two of Clanton's gins have built more warehouse facilities in order to store this year's crop and future crops. It won't be long before the humming of Clanton's gins can be heard far, far into the night at Chilton County's cotton comes to town.

"MYSTERY AT MIDNIGHT"—
This play, sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club and presented at the C.C.H.S. Auditorium, was termed a big success. The mystery to us, however, is where J. E. Easterling, County Treasurer; Chester Wingard, an assistant to County Agent; Raymond Mims, lawyer; and a few more of the local people cast in the play, picked up the act of acting. But act they did, and we think those privileged to see this play will agree that they got their money's worth. (Alabama Theatre prices prevailed.)

GOODBYE "RINGERS"—
Saw a Bell Telephone service truck parked downtown the other day loaded with the outgoing "ringer" telephones. These old-time "ringers" have served the residents of Clanton well in the past, were headed for the trash pile, we suppose. In their stead have come the new modern "streamlined" telephones. We're right proud of the one at the News office. Even the ring has a modern high pitched tone. We're still inclined to grope for the "twister" when we start to make a call—and we'll bet we're not the only one in Clanton who has the same inclination.

ABOUT FACE?—
We've been wondering if the citizens and property owners included in the new territory taken in by the extension of the city limits really want to get out of the City of Clanton. It's hard to believe that any difficulty that arises between these citizens and the City, will result in this backtracking. We believe that arbitrational methods can be applied to settle any ill feeling that has arisen. Why not have a meeting attended by City officials and citizens of the newest addition and let each side present their arguments, instead of a meeting for the sole purpose of figuring out some way to "get out of the City of Clanton." Clanton is growing and it is a fact that the city limits must be extended sometime. They have been extended—and to bring them back to their original place would be contrary to progress—tending to show we are going backward instead of forward. In other words it would be embarrassing to the City as a whole.

COMMENDS AIRPORT—
Clanton was honored Saturday by a visit of two people well known in aviation circles throughout the State and Nation. Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes, internationally known flier and air marketing supervisor of the Bureau of Aeronautics, who is visiting this state, assisting the Alabama Aviation Commission in its air development program, came here accompanied by Mrs. Asa Rountree, State Director of Airfields, for the purpose of inspecting our local airport. Favorable comments were made by Mrs. Noyes and Mr. Rountree on our airport, and we're glad to know that Gragg Field has been selected as an emergency landing field for the new air mail route from Memphis to Miami. Mrs. Noyes made the statement that she would fly to Clanton on her next trip, after viewing our splendid airfield.

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

On our way up to the Hollowed Bowl where many games are played, we saw a large metal bowl that was sitting in a prominent place by the roadside. This bowl would hold not less than twenty bushels. A large placard above the bowl said, "Drop in your donations to help keep up the grounds." On inspecting the collection for the day we saw one lone penny resting on the bottom, with three tokens resting by its side. As I looked in I addressed that collection plate as I have addressed many a plate that was brought back to the altar in my church services, "Old Sister, you have much room and little collection." One penny looked very small in a twenty-bushel bowl, and a few nickels and pennies in a church plate look rather small for kingdom purposes. We pass the plate and the church service to secure funds to help us keep up the kingdom and how much do you give?

As our bus came to the entry of a reservation in Hollywood, our guide said, "Do not smoke until you notify you. Over the entry we saw this large sign, "$25 fine For Smoking on these Grounds." At another place we saw this sign, "No Drinking Allowed." After having watched many a picture coming from Hollywood in which both smoking and drinking were indicated to a shameful extent, I wondered why they should not allow tourists to smoke and drink while there. Since seeing those signs in Hollywood I saw a picture on the screen start off with a drinking spree. Girls were smoking like freight trains and the very last smoking that Hollywood displays before the world to see, then I say that the world has a right to drink and smoke on Hollywood grounds. The drinking and the smoking that is put on parade from Hollywood is the disgrace of the movie world.

In introducing Bishop Martin, the pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church is Los Angeles, told this story, "There was a Negro Church in Alabama where they had three bells, a small bell, a medium sized bell and a very large bell. When the pastor preached they rang the small bell. When the Presiding elder was to preach they would ring the medium sized bell, but when the Bishop was to preach the large bell was used. Both black and white like to make a noise about people who are prominent, but it is often true that the unknown pastor preaches with more power than is felt when the large bell rings the call to service."

I heard Bishop Martin tell this story while I sat in the pew at Trinity Church in Los Angeles. Said he, "One day I was traveling along the highway in my car and I came to a man, whose automobile had mired in the mud. I tried hard to help him out to get him around but could not. Along came another man and he stopped and did his best to get him out, but he failed. Then a third man drove up and I was sure that he could get him out, but in like manner he failed. After each man had tried and failed, it occurred to us if we would try together, each man doing his level best, that with our united strength we might be able to get the car out of the mud." Bishop Martin then said, "It worked." No one man was able to get the mired car to solid ground, but with united effort the job was done. There are many land strich up that old familiar tale we learn the art of cooperation, we can accomplish what seems impossible individually.

On Sunday night of our stay in Los Angeles we made our way to the Angels and the Marines. Mrs. Amie McPherson holds forth in glory. As we entered the temple flags were flying, drums were beating, the band was playing, a jazz number and the people were marching around and the show was about to start. After being seated the band struck up that old familiar number, "The Old Goose Is Dead." I thought that Mrs. McPherson had suffered a heart attack, but soon found out that I was mistaken. Soon she appeared at the top of these flights of steps, robed in white, with her arms full of roses. While she thousand people stood up and cheered she glided down the steps and ran out on the stage and without delay she let us know that the old Goose wavered much alive. For four hours I watched her in action and she stood all the strain and stress of a modern revolution and when I left at ten-thirty she was still going strong. I was unable to see the presence of the absence of the Christian religion. The whole show had the marks of a religious show and it was spectacular from start to finish. How she could attract all the crowds out West is more than I understand. Appealing to the great stand does not appeal to me, and I hope that I am not misrepresenting Lord, honestly I do not believe that such methods appeal to the Mass of Galilee.

Terracing Season Near At Hand

Many farmers in the erosion control area near Clanton, Alabama, have found that they can substitute their own labor for cash in getting terraces built on their farms, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Supt. Soil Conservation Service.

While terraces can be built to Soil Conservation Service specifications, much more quickly with tractors than with horse-drawn equipment, many farmers who feel that they cannot afford to make a cash outlay for tractor-built terraces have sufficient labor available to construct terraces with their own equipment.

When horse-drawn equipment is used however, it is highly desirable that only a few terraces be built at a time and that these be brought to specifications as soon as possible, Mr. Wood said.

Results obtained by this method on a number of farms in the local area show that it does not necessarily require power equipment to build good terraces. In these instances terraces have been built to Soil Conservation Service specifications with equipment available on the average farm.

Correctly run lines in a variable grade terrace is the first step toward good terraces. After these lines are run the actual construction of the terrace is ready to be begun.

BIGGER & BETTER CHILTON COUNTY FAIR

Races At State Fair To Be Big Event

Motor-minded speed fans in this area will have the opportunity of witnessing leading American and foreign automobile racing pilots in action at the Alabama State Fair on Tuesday, September 27th and Saturday, October 1st. Although an application was officially filed months back with the competition board of the International Motor Contest Association, governing body over automobile races in the United States and Canada, officials of the State Fair had no assurance that the sanctioning of the I. M. C. A. would be stamped on this year's Birmingham gasoline classic due to proposed conflicting dates on the year's racing calendar. Cleveland, Ohio; Dallas, Texas; Omaha, Nebraska; Chicago and New Orleans were other cities in line for an I. M. C. A. sanction covering identical dates as those selected by Alabama State Fair officials. Secretary-Manager P. T. Strieder of the State Fair was advised weeks back by Secretary A. R. Corey of the I. M. C. A. body that it was seriously debatable whether or not officials of the board would issue more than one sanction for the same dates since such action would tend to divide the top-flight racing men to a point where it would prove a handicap to fairs seeking the distinction of staking national circuit championship events this year. Alabama State Fair officials are to be congratulated on winning their battle for a sanction on the dates in question—especially in the face of the opposition from much larger cities. Members of the I. M. C. A. board pointed out, however, in commenting on Birmingham, that inasmuch as the Alabama State Fair had been a member of the I. M. C. A. body for a number of years, and had a major race meet each year at the annual exposition, officials were unanimous in their vote for the Birmingham sanction regardless of the population or location of the other racing centers applying for the label. Now Fair and racing officials are receiving entry blanks from many important drivers campaigning the major circuits. Birmingham will again take its place in the speed world with a sanctioned meet on September 27 and October 1, and the coveted 'pot 'o gold and world championship points will be awaiting the winners of major speed clashes in this two-day motor event. Nationally famous drivers who have all-included Emory Collins and his $10,000 Offenhauser car Buddy Calloway, Leonardo Musick, Larry Beckett, Dave ready entered the Birmingham races Chapeau, Cotton Grable, Ben Shaw and several others. Agricultural and livestock entries are the largest in the history of the Alabama State Fair. The Hog Show has already booked entries for over 300 animals. The entertainment features, according to Secretary-Manager P. T. Strieder, are the best ever booked into Alabama. They include the Royal American Exposition, a mile-long midway with 20 thrilling rides and 24 shows; Ernie Young's Balconade of Hits, a 15-act show before the grandstand, the Globe of Death; Flash Williams and his famous auto stunt dare-devils; the world-famous Potters in a daring aerial bar act, and many other. Wednesday, September 28 is Alabama School Day when all State School Children will be admitted free. The Committee in charge of this has set up $200 in cash prizes for P. T. A. organizations, $100 or more in prizes for school bands, and several merchandise prizes for teachers and principals of schools.

Peanut Deduction Lowered Under AAA

An adjustment lowering the rate of deduction from farm payments for overplanting of peanut acreage allotments has been approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, announces A.W. Jones, AAA Administrator. The new deduction rate is $120 per hundred pounds on the normal production of each acre in excess of the peanut allotment. This is 6 times the payment rate of 20 cents per hundred pounds which will be made on the normal production of each acre planted within the allotment. The deduction rate originally established under the 1938 farm program was 10 times the payment rate. The adjustment was the result of unavoidable delays in establishing allotments in commercial peanut areas. Many farmers planted their 1938 crop before the county committees were able to notify them of their allotments, and in many cases the acreages planted were considerably in excess of allotments. In such cases, deductions at the original rate would have cancelled all or most of the farm payment. At average yields under normal conditions, the

Mr. D. S. Wingard from Columbiana

Well Known Citizen Upholds Democratic Party In Statement

"As I read the many things said about the New Deal in the Union Banner, a weekly paper which I have a paid five-years subscription to, I'm really amazed at the many ways the paper tries to make its readers believe under the arrangements of the New Deal the people are being robbed completely of everything the Constitution of the United States grants them.

"I'm just one fellow among the millions working for a small salary trying to pay for the few things of life I need. But being one of the low salary class don't keep me from reading about the different things being done in this County. And let me state before going further that I've never asked for any of the pie the New Deal is handing out, and hope I don't have to ask for any of it, but if I get to the place where I need it I will not hesitate to make application. I will have to admit I do not approve of so much being given away. I believe everyone should work for a living, but since industry has focused, it seems, so much attention on installing modern machinery that the places fifty per cent of the employees; what is to be done with those displaced? The New Deal is merely trying to supply the bare necessities of life to those who are displaced by modern machinery. It is true lots of people get help from the Government that are not deserving but there are lots of good folks on relief that would be only too glad to exchange places with you and I who have a job. It is true the prices of what the farmers have to sell are too low, but compare it with prices during Mr. Hoover's administration. Just compare the prices of anything now with the prices during Mr. Hoover's administration and see which was higher. This County was crying for relief when Mr. Roosevelt became President. He was given war-time powers. Many were calling him a savior, but since through his efforts our deposits are insured and no banks are being closed and more money is deposited in banks than has been for a number of years.

"The Union Banner is saying we are being made to submit to arrangements that will lead to a dictator. "Now, Mr. Writer, I'm with you one hundred percent about this government spending, giving and entering in business as competitors against private industry, but instead of finding so many faults why not, in this land of plenty, figure out some constructive way whereby these unemployed people can have a job. It is too big a job for me. I wouldn't attempt to offer a solution, but I do know that mass of people are having more of the necessities of life under the New Deal than they had during Mr. Hoover's administration. "Yours truly, R. C. McKEE."

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE
No. 2 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."
—REDDY KILOWATT

Gives Electricity Additional "ZIP" To Get There;
Takes Out Some of the "ZIP" So You Can Use It

THAT'S the transformer, which to you may look like a plain or corrugated square or round painted iron box on a pole, or a gleaming battery of huge, mysterious appearing cylinders at a substation, such as you see in the picture.

The transformers located at the generating plants give the freshly generated electricity additional "Zip"—that is, they increase its voltage—to force it over the long transmission lines to the general locations where it is to be used. Arriving there, the electricity passes through one or more additional transformers which hold back some of the "Zip," so that when it reaches your home or place of business, your school or church, it is at the right voltage for use in the electrical devices, which make living and working today so much easier than in earlier days.

You can rely on the dependability of Alabama Power Company electric service, because in the design and construction of its electrical transmission and distribution systems, its engineers have specified numerous transformers and much other equipment of the right size and kind placed at all points where needed, and have on hand spares for replacements on the rare occasions when they are needed.

MOST "TROUBLES" Never HAPPEN

YOUR VOICE, when it takes a trip by telephone, travels over a delicately balanced and highly complex electrical system. Hundreds of things could happen to break up your voice's path. Most of them never do.

These potential "troubles" rarely materialize because the men who direct and operate your telephone system have not been satisfied merely to repair damage after it has taken place. They have demanded that weak spots be sought out and corrected beforehand. All the nineteen thousand Southern Bell employees, in one way or another, join in this effort.

Subscribers' lines are checked periodically from the local testboards. The intricate equipment in the central office is tested constantly, particularly the relays and contacts. Emergency power supplies are provided.

Underground cables are filled with gas to detect leaks in the cable sheath. Aerial cables are checked, open wire lines are patrolled, to stop the "breaks" before they occur.

Men and money are required to do this never-ending job of "preventive maintenance," but the work is in keeping with the Bell System's aim to give you a telephone service that "is more and more free from errors, imperfections and delays."

Verbena Sportsman Hopes Way Can Be Found To Aid Sport-Loving Citizens

There is a large number of us in Alabama who love the bird, the wood, the water, rod and gun and for several reasons cannot take part in fishing, rodeos, deer and turkey hunts which are held for a lucky few each year. We have to satisfy our love for shooting game and for fishing near our home grounds and we thoroughly enjoy all of the State's game laws regarding seasons and limits of fish and game.

"In line with all the other game laws which are good and right, we see no earthly reason why baiting a dove field should be unспортsmanlike or unlawful, just as there is a limit fixed on the number of fish caught and the number of quail killed in a day.

"I believe every man and woman in Alabama who loves to shoot at doves would be entirely willing to have a limit fixed on the number of doves killed and invite the game warden to be present and bring his musket with him and take part in shooting at doves in a baited field.

"The law against baiting a dove field is nearly as foolish today as was our so-called prohibition laws of other days. Liquor was sold right on through Prohibition days and shooting doves over a baited field has been done and will continue to be done all over Alabama no matter how many laws are against it.

"What we would like to do is to be allowed to bait a field, invite other decent sportsmen and the game warden and be able to shoot at these swift flying targets without having to look in all directions after each shot to see if a fee-loving game warden or some hateful neighbor is watching to arrest us for having harmless pleasure. Any half decent sportsman would be willing to shoot shooting with a bag of twenty or twenty-five doves and feel elated.

"From past experiences and observation, shooting doves over a baited field certainly does not decrease the number of doves each year in the State. There is no reason why the law regarding shooting doves should not be consistent with other game laws and thus help each decent-sport-loving man and woman to be law-abiding.

"I trust that the game warden and Alabama sportsmen will aid us in this plea for legal dove baiting.

Sees Greater Buying Power For County

P. W. LITCHFIELD

Purchasing power of 1,893 light cars in Chilton County has been increased during the past 12 years by $64,172.70 according to M. Z. Atchison, local Goodyear dealer.

These figures are based on a nationwide study just completed by P. W. Litchfield, president of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio. "In the United States today there are 15,260,226 individuals who may be identified as a distinct group through their ownership of light automobiles in the Ford, Plymouth and Chevrolet class," Mr. Litchfield said. "They comprise about 64 per cent of the nation's car owners and, taken with their families, account for almost one-half the nation's total population. Improvements in product and method made by the tire industry during the past 12 years have brought to each individual in this group today a saving of $33.90 in his annual tire bill."

For proof of his statement, Mr. Litchfield cites the fact that tires used on light cars today give an average of 26,500 miles of service, as compared with 14,200 miles delivered by light car tires in 1926; that a tire and tube now costs $19.35 as compared with $23.95 in 1926; that today's tire gives $44.78 worth of mileage on the basis of 1926 values, thus reducing the consumer's tire bill by $25.43 per tire. As the average tire is in service three years, savings, for one year is $8.47, 2-3, and on four tires for one year is $33.90.

"With $33.90 released to him for other purposes, he may pay a month's rent for an average urban home, buy an extra average suit of men's clothes or overcoat, pay an average family grocery bill for one month, or enough gas and oil for a 2,500 mile auto trip," the Goodyear executive continued. "Thus can the amount of the savings be translated into definite, tangible improvements in the living standards of the individual."

COLT SHOW

Plenty of Prizes
There will be plenty of prizes for the entrants, they stated. In fact there is a possibility that there will be some kind of worthwhile award for every entrant in this special show for colts and mares only. Some of the main awards are as follows: for the best unbroken yearling free stud fee for the best unbroken filly between the age of 16 months and three years, free stud fee; the best family mare with 2 or more colts (colts not over 3 years), another worthwhile prize.

There will be twenty or more valuable merchandise awards to be made in this special mare and colt show arranged by Dr. Parrish and Mr. Fiquette, that are not listed in the catalogue of the County Fair. They stated they hoped all owners of mares and colts within the County would bring the animals to this special show. A special loud speaking outfit will be set up for the purpose of announcing the winners, the awards and the merchants who made the awards possible.

Special Horse Race
Another interesting event that is expected to attract a large crowd is the special horse race which is also being arranged by Dr. Parrish and Mr. Fiquette, with suitable prizes for the winners.

These races will take place on Friday and Saturday afternoons during the Fair and the special horse race. They stated. Entrants must be untrained horses or mules and untrained riders and all entrants enter the races at their own risk.

These two livestock raisers are to be commended on getting up these two special horse races for the Fair this year which will enable more owners of horses and colts to show their animals and possibly win one of the valuable prizes. Anyone interested in bringing in an entrant either for the special mare and colt show or for the special horse race, should get in touch with either Bill Fiquette or Dr. Parrish in Clanton.

HIGHWAY PATROL

It was yesterday that 700,000 driver's license plates are now being distributed to the public. These plates will be on hand for issuance when the due date arrives. He estimated that at the present time approximately 30,000 motor vehicles of all types are owned and operated in Alabama, and that driver's licenses will average two to each vehicle.

For the owner of an automobile the driver's license fee is 60 cents, and for additional drivers of the same automobile it is 30 cents. All drivers of a truck, bus, taxicab, ambulance or horse must, however, obtain a 60-cent license.

May can be no better than the meadow from which it is harvested. Good seed of the right crop if sowed at the proper time in a well-prepared seed bed, will usually result in a good stand. Good stands tend to retard growth of weeds and give relatively high yields of high quality products.

Alabama was the first to produce more than the world's average of five percent of its production in the United States.

reverse financial condition that many people were in to further their selfish interest. This election fraud and criminal diversion of the right to vote as you please was practiced in the wide open, I repeatedly asked the County papers to call attention to these charges and they did, and no one has denied them. And if we have an honest system of government and retain our liberties then the honest people of this County, State and nation, must elect honest men to their offices.

"I have said before that your officer is no more honest than the vote you cast, if you vote for a crook he will be a crook after you vote for him and it is entirely up to the honest voter to decide whether vote buying, stealing votes and forging votes is dishonest or crooked before you cast your vote in this election fraud.

"I think that vote buying, whether it be by money or promise of a job directly or indirectly should be condemned and penalized by law and further I believe that the grand jury should be called and a thorough investigation made before the November election. Though judging from past experience and observation we can not very help but find fault with many of our officials whose oath of office should compel them to have already acted on such election fraud. It would seem that if this lawlessness is not checked by legal court procedure then the indignation and outraged citizens, who have the courage and fortitude to fight such lawlessness will have to take whatever means that they command to stop it. I hope and believe that we will have a fairer election in November than our primaries were but I would like to ask every honest citizen to make it his duty and a part of his business to see that honesty is practiced at the polls and that vote buying is not allowed and if it should be practiced over their counsel and advice, then report it to the grand jury, which, I understand, will be assembled before this term has expired. That is only information, I do not know that it will ever be called together, but I do know (though I do not buy or drink beer or whiskey) that there is from ten to fifteen bootleg liquor and beer joints in this town and County, some of them on main Street, as well as the hundreds of election law violations that need the grand jury's attention and has been needing it for a considerable time. We all know that we cannot keep drunks off our streets as long as the bootlegger is allowed to sell in the wide open and all of us know that many of these joints have been running for a year or more and that it is carried on here in the face of the fact that the population of this County voted two to one for it to be dry.

The reason that we have all these things mentioned above, first is that we do not use enough judgement in selecting our officers, second is because we do not have enough backbone to come out in the open and condemn it, and thirdly, we are too prone to leave the other fellow to look out for the best interest of our County and people. I know and you know that if we leave it to the guidance of an old seasoned politician, that we are headed for the rocks, and my advice to you is to use your own judgement in voting for your officers. Because a seasoned politician would not have anything but a selfish interest in trying to influence you. I am with a heart, and soul for the honest and efficient government.

Respectfully,
T. L. McKee

Miss Lawrence and Dan Smith Are Married
At Impressive Quiet Home Ceremony Sunday

With only a few intimate friends and members of the families present, Miss Sara Lawrence became the bride of Dan Crawford Smith at a quiet, simple yet pretty and impressive ceremony at the home of the bride in Clanton Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

The home was tastefully decorated in white and green. In the dining room where the light was supplied by tall burning tapers, the table was centered with a large wedding cake topped with a bride and groom.

The ceremony took place in the spacious living room, where a beautiful improvised altar of banked lilies and greenery furnished a pretty background for the simple ring ceremony, which was performed by the granfather of the bride, the Rev. J. O. Lawrence of Pritchard and Mobile, who also performed the marriage of the bride's parents.

The bride was charmingly attired in a traveling suit of royal blue with du-bonnet accessories and charming young loom on the arm of her father, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, who gave the bride away. The groom had as his best man, Ealon Houtt, of Auburn.

Lohengrin's wedding march was softly played by Mrs. Barney Roberts who also played Schubert's Serenade during the ceremony, which was preceded by Miss Kathryn Foss singing, "O, Promise Me." The prayer was also rendered by Miss Foss singing, "The Perfect Prayer," with Mrs. Barney Roberts accompanying.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served to the guests in the charming bride performing her duty of cutting the beautiful cake, with Mrs. Billy Smith assisting Mrs. Lawrence in serving.

The bride is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Lawrence and is one of the most popular of the younger set of Clanton. She is a graduate of the local high school, attended Huntingdon College, Montgomery, and the University of Alabama, where she has numerous friends and was listed as one of the popular girls of two colleges.

Mr. Smith is the youngest son of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith and the late P. C. Smith, of Clanton and a native of this County, his family being among some of the first settlers in and around Thorsby. He graduated at the local high school and received his B. S. degree at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute this past term and immediately accepted a position with the Good-year Tire & Rubber Company, in Akron, Ohio and later in Birmingham.

MISS C-DELLE DAVIS AND MR. WILLIAM ROY COBB ARE WED

A marriage of social interest was that of Miss C-Delle Davis and William Roy Cobb which took place Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Davis, parents of the bride.

The ceremony was solemnized at 9 o'clock in the presence of a host of friends and relatives, the Rev. Nails of Plantersville, Ala., officiating.

The music was rendered by Mrs. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville and Little Miss Dorothy McCarty sang "I Love You Truly." Gleaming white roses and pink dahs were effectively combined with background of green ferns throughout the living room of the home.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. A stunning blonde, clad in a two-piece white and pink, dabs were with Navy accessories, her bouquet was ferns and pink roses.

After the ceremony light refreshments were served to the guests in the dining room while the table was exquisite in its appointments of white point lace, flowers and candle light.

Shortly after the ceremony the bride and groom left for Atlanta.

12 Deaths In 1937
Laid To Cancer Says
Local Health Dept.

12 death were attributed to cancer in Chilton County during 1937, according to the County Health Officer, Mr. S. D. Surber. The average death rate (per 100,000) for the four-year period 1932-35 was 75.3 for the County as compared with 56.8 for the State and 102.0 for the United States. It is probable, he pointed out, that there occur cases of cancer which are not being recognized and that the cause of the x-ray and surgical methods of diagnosis are not being widely employed.

"The exact cause of cancer," he continued, "is still unknown, although there is a vast store of knowledge about how the disease acts within the body. Chronic irritation and inflammation may lead to a formation of cancer, Epithelias of the lip and mouth have been observed to occur frequently in pipe smokers. After the appearance of the primary growth, cells may break away from the widely growing mass and travel either by the lymph channels or the blood stream itself to internal organs and there set up a secondary growth. This process is known as metastasis and when it has taken place, it is practically impossible to cure the patient."

"Cancer may attack any tissue or organ in the body. A mass or lump in the breast of woman may develop into a carcinoma of the breast. Symptoms of chronic indigestion, pain in the pit of the stomach, loss of weight may point to the presence of cancer of the stomach. Frequent urination and inability to void urine in normal quantities may denote the presence of an enlarged prostate in a man; too often this develops into a cancer of the prostate. Not all tumors, however, are cancerous, some are benign and are made up of normal cells which do not grow widely and invade the surrounding tissues."

"The American Medical Association has on record thousands of authentic cases in which cancer has been cured by modern medical science. Symptoms of chronic indigestion, pain in the pit of the stomach, loss of weight may point to the presence of cancer of the stomach. Frequent urination and inability to void urine in normal quantities may denote the presence of an enlarged prostate in a man; too often this develops into a cancer of the prostate. Not all tumors, however, are cancerous, some are benign and are made up of normal cells which do not grow widely and invade the surrounding tissues."

We Wonder, Too

Whenever the so-called Prohibition question comes up for discussion many enthusiastic advocates of the cause indulge in a criticism of those who do not agree with them. One reason for the failure of Prohibition was that many of its open supporters had their bootleggers who supplied them with liquor.

And in these days when efforts are being made to make stupid changes in the laws regulating the sale of liquor, one may wonder how many of the violent advocates have "a little fairy" in their homes or offices in the form of a bottle filled with something stronger than beer or wine—Spartansburg, S.C. Herald.

By 4-H Boys And Girls
Two boys and two girls were carried to Shocco Springs Thursday, September 8, and returned September 11. They were Cecil Little, from Thomas Jr. Club and Earl Traywick from Mt. Pleasant Club. The girls were Esther Lee Dennis from Thomas Junior Club and Louise Sansom from the Vermont Club.

While this group was at Shocco Springs they received valuable information on wild life subjects such as building and management of fish ponds, care and number of fish they should stock with, the nesting habits of doves and quail, their shelter and food requirements. Other subjects discussed were heavier and deer. In addition to this information they received much instructions and pleasure in the recreational games planned for them at this resort.

VALUE OF FARM IS RAISED BY USING LEGUMES, AND SUCH

Cullman, Ala.—By the use of winter legumes, cover crops, and improved cultural practices, T. W. Mitchell, Cullman County farmer, has been able to convert a run-down 125-acre farm for which he paid $4,000 in 1928 into one that he values at more than $7,000 today.

When Mr. Mitchell took over this farm it was averaging 15 bushels of corn per acre. Realizing that something had to be done to improve the farm and increase yields, he began, upon the advice of his county agent, planting winter legumes and cover crops. Today those same acres are producing fifty bushels or an increase of 35 bushels of corn per acre.

Crimson clover, now Mr. Mitchell's favorite legume, was not tried by him until 1935. Prior to that time, vetch and Austrian peas were the main crops. That year, however, he planted 100 pounds of crimson clover seed and was able to save from the crop enough seed to plant 15 acres in 1936. Of this 15 acres, 6 acres were saved for seed. These six acres produced 3,000 pounds which enabled him to plant 55 acres in 1937. That year he bought a harvesting machine and saved 200 pounds of clean seed for himself and some 3,500 pounds for his neighbors. Naturally, therefore, he highly favors crimson clover as a winter legume.

Mr. Mitchell has relied chiefly on cotton, corn, hay and truck crops to support his income, but last year he began raising livestock and in the future he plans to increase his livestock production. His income from livestock last year was $450.

Bride, bridegroom, bridesmaids, best man and officiating clergyman met at a wedding in Munich were all more than 6 feet tall.

REFUND OF 1934 GIN TAX IS EXPLAINED

Refund Of Gin Tax Under 1934 Bankhead Act Is Explained

The following letter, released through the office of County Agent J. W. Fant, and from the Treasury Department, Internal Revenue Service of Birmingham, gives out information about the refunding of gin tax, paid by farmers, under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act of 1934. Mr. Fant stated that there has been some confusion regarding the filing of claims for the refund. Here is the release:

Claims For Refund Of Tax Paid On Cotton Ginning

Carelessness in the preparation of a claim for refund of taxes paid under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act of 1934, with respect to the ginning of cotton, generally results in the defeat of the claim regardless of its merit.

"Claims for the refund of cotton ginning tax must be carefully prepared in strict conformity with the instructions contained on the back of G. T. Form 111. The claimant must comply with each of said instructions which relates to his claim, the probabilities averted to his claim, otherwise, the probabilities are against the favorable consideration and payment of the claim."

"Over 300 claims for such refunds, which have been filed in this office, have failed to comply with paragraph 5 (b), requiring supporting evidence of the claimant's statement that he paid the ginning tax to the ginner in money. A compliance with this subdivision is absolutely essential to secure the refund as is important."

"In order that your claim may be considered promptly and favorably, it is urged:

1. Write Harwell G. Davis, Collector, Internal Revenue, Birmingham, Ala., for application forms. Study every paragraph of "Instructions" on G. T. Form 111 and comply with every requirement and suggestion contained in the "Instructions"
2. That the claimant type or print his name and address on the first page. If the Collector cannot tell exactly the name and address of the claimant, he will be unable to make the necessary investigation to entitle the claimant to the payment.
3. That the claimant to the refund signed in the name of the ginner reported to the claimant's taxable cotton of G. T. Form 103. Otherwise, the Collector will not be able to certify that the ginner's G. T. Form 103 shows that the claimant ginned taxable cotton. For instance, if he is referred to as "G. T. Form 103" a man might be named "J. M. Smith" but be generally known as "Bud Smith."

Exhibit At Fair Desire Of Young Enterprise Farmer

"Will you take these please, and place them on exhibit at the Fair," Mrs. H. K. Christensen, of Thorsby, Ala., said to the Women's Handicraft Exhibits at the Chilton County Fair, turned from her work in the office of Miss Mattie Jo Barber, to find a lady, Mrs. John H. Collins, who stated she lived on Clanton, Route Three, proffering three or four attractively pieced quilts.

It seems that Ronald Collins, eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Collins, was a member of the Enterprise 4-H Club, and as much discussion had been going on regarding the Fair, which is in progress this week, John had been worrying just what he would place on exhibit to show his interest in the progress of Chilton County. Money was rather scarce around the Collins farm and home, and John had been unable to own a purebred calf or other livestock, which would be eligible for exhibit.

But John had spent his spare time around the home piecing quilts and had become rather adept in the art of arranging the various colors of cloth into attractive quilts. This seemed a solution to his problem, and having three or four completed quilts on hand he asked that his mother arrange for their display at the Fair. She did.

John's exhibit might not win a prize, but no exhibit at the Chilton County Fair of 1938 will have been more enthusiastically and interested than that of John Collins of Clanton Route 3.

CITY PLANS WIDENING OF STREET

Will Widen Street Leading From West End To Selma Highway

Plans are underway, according to City officials, to widen the road from the Kinchcon road intersection, in West End, to where it joins the Selma Highway. This stretch is about one-half mile in length.

Present plans call for the road to be widened to fifty feet, and improved generally. This is an improvement that has long been needed as there is a good deal of traffic on this stretch. Property owners along the road have cooperated one hundred percent, according to Mayor Jones. The property to be encompassed was donated by the owners and the work will be under the supervision of the City at no expense to those signing the agreement. WPA labor will be used.

It is the intention of the City to pave this road under a new Federal grant before many months.

The City has also signed a contract for the drilling of a new well, which is hoped will greatly improve its water supply. The Layne Central Co. of Memphis, Tenn., one of the biggest well drilling companies in the world, will do this work. This company has guaranteed the City a fifty-gallon per minute supply. Completion of this well is expected within the next twenty days.

One of Dr. Scholl's Fleet of Trailers Now Bringing Relief From Foot and Shoe Troubles to Thousands of People

The man who has done more than any individual to help America regain its feet (physically)—Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, says that there is really no foot that is too hard to fit—if the shoes of the proper type and construction, and of modern, scientific shoe-fitting methods are employed. Here are some unusual types of feet.

There is the long, thin type of foot; the foot with a painful bunion; crooked, overlapping toes; the short, stubby foot; the foot that has corns or slender toes; and there is the foot with the high arch. When ordinary shoes are fitted in the ordinary manner these feet do present a shoe-fitting problem, but such should not be

Commissioners Preparing For Surfacing On Lay Dam Road

Property Owners Donating Right-Of-Way As Commissioners Push Efforts Along Four And One-Half Miles

Road and street paving in Chilton County is rapidly getting into a very active business and members of the Commissioners Court are now pushing their efforts to secure the necessary right-of-way along four and a half miles on the Lay Dam Road, preparatory for the paving of that distance.

Judge J. Lee Smith advised yesterday that so far this week all property owners on the road whom the Commissioners had contacted had gladly given the desired right-of-way on their property without charge to the County. This is most commendable on the part of these property owners who realize the great need of a paved road to lay down and connecting with the Lay Dam and connecting with the Lay Dam to Birmingham.

Judge Smith stated that the plan was for a hundred feet of right-of-way for the entire width of the road which will be approximately twenty feet wide and an eight-inch base when completed.

It is also understood that the Alabama Power Company is contributing to the cost of building the road and Farm-to-Market project of the government pays for one half of the actual cost of laying the road surface.

Judge Smith also stated that in all probability the State of Alabama would take over the road as soon as it was completed which would save the County a large sum of money in maintenance, which is now coming from the taxpayers of this County. The road will join the City paving at the City limits and extend four and one-half miles out.

FIRST GAME OF FOOTBALL NEXT FRIDAY

C. C. H. S. To Open Season Against Verbena On Local Field

The 1938 edition of the Chilton County High School football Tigers go into action Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30, against the team from Verbena High School.

This year's team is an unknown quantity and Coach Spicer will be much interested to see what his team is to look like under pressure. Much good material was lost from last year's team by graduation. The place of Williamson will be hard to fill, as will the places of Littlejohn, Ware, Reynolds, Johnson and others. Of the boys of last year returning to this year, Locklear, Armstrong, Melton and Cooper look best for the backfield. However, some of the first-year boys may take over a starting assignment at any time.

In the line the experienced men are J. W. Johnson, McDowell, L. Jones and Thornton. Much work will have to be done on the line before the charges of the Tiger opponents will be stopped without gains. Coach Spicer has a fair sized squad out each afternoon and if new candidates come through the team should be as good or better than last year.

The schedule is as follows:

September 23—Verbena in Clanton.

September 30—Isabella in Clanton.

October 7—Maplesville, place pending.

October 14th—Open.

October 21—Sylacauga, there.

October 28—Montevallo in Clanton.

Nov. 4—Wetumpka, there.

Nov. 11—Holtville, in Clanton.

Nov. 18—Columbiana, in Clanton.

Gaining On Death

During the first six months of this year 3,670 automobile deaths were prevented in this country! That is based on a comparison of motor vehicle deaths in the first half of 1938 as against the same period in 1937. The decline in fatalities that began last November carried through encouragingly into July.

So far, so good. But, as the National Safety Council points out, "This is no time to quit in our fight for safety. This is just the beginning." We've won a partial victory. Unremitting effort on the part of every motorist, pedestrian, traffic judge and law enforcement officer is needed if the victory is to be ultimately complete.

Some of the most dangerous driving months lie ahead. Traffic during September is always heavy. And with the coming of the rains, snow and ice, plus the shorter daylight hours of fall and winter, motorizing presents new and difficult hazards. There will be no time for standing still and praising past achievements in safety, until December 31 has passed, and the figures are all in.

A saving of 3,670 lives is a magnificent thing. And it shows that traffic accidents, the pessimists to the contrary, can be sharply reduced. During the first half of this year there were more and better organized community and state safety work than ever before. We have gradually learned that sporadic safety campaigns solve no problem, and that permanence and continuity of effort are vital. We are learning what courteous "fixless" law enforcement can do. And we are also learning the excellent results that follow better traffic engineering and scientific control.

You're one of the soldiers in this fight against death. The country needs your help. Keep up the good work—and make it still better.

Get Into The Swim

Next month, a week will be given to informing the public of the hazards of one of man's most destructive enemies—uncontrolled fire. Fire Prevention Week, which has been an annual event ever since it was proclaimed by President Wilson more than two decades ago, will begin October 9th and run through the 15th.

A few vivid figures illustrate the importance of the week. Each year fire destroys about $300,000,000 worth of property directly—and the indirect loss brings the total to the billion-dollar mark. Worse yet, it kills 10,000 people horribly—an average of 27 each day. This is what carelessness, ignorance and incompetence breed.

There isn't a hamlet in the country that won't be reached to some extent through Fire Prevention Week activities. And there isn't a citizen in the country who can provide a sound alibi if he fails to absorb some of the simple facts and information that are all that is needed to prevent and control most fires. Governors of states and other public officials will take part. Insurance organizations will issue pamphlets, run advertisements in newspapers and periodicals and prepare window displays. Fire marshals and chiefs will speak. Every media of communication involving the spoken and printed word will be brought into play in a concentrated national effort to make the week a success.

Believe it or not, fire prevention is fun—even as instruction in fire prevention is nowadays made dramatic and entertaining. It doesn't take much in either time or money. It does pay tremendous dividends. Mark own the date of Fire Prevention Week on your calendar—and get into the swim.

Legend Tells Why Dogwood Is Twisted

The following was handed to us by a friend and was clipped from an article in a newspaper which the friend could not remember. We pass it on to our readers as we believe it one of the best stories of the week:

"The conservation chairman of Third District are enjoying the following story on the covers of our green notebooks. We want to share it with you:

"At the time of the crucifixion, the dogwood tree attained the size of the oak and other forest trees. So strong and fine was the wood of it that it was chosen for the timber of the cross.

"To be used thus for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree and Jesus nailed upon it sensed this, and in His gentle pity for all sorrows said to it: 'Because of your regret and pity for my sufferings, I will make you this promise: Never again shall the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used for a cross; henceforth it shall be slender, bent and twisted, and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross—two long petals and two short petals and in the center of the outer edge of each petal there shall be nail prints brown with rust and stained with blood.

"And in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns, so that all who see it will remember it was upon a dogwood tree that I was crucified, and this tree shall not be mutilated or destroyed, but cherished and protected as a reminder of My agony and death upon the cross."

Republic Of Alabama

Perhaps few people of the present day ever heard of it, but according to Hugh Stanfill, President of the Mobile Chamber Commerce, Alabama for a short time called herself an independent republic, and as such adopted an official flag.

According to Mr. Stanfill, Alabama seceded from the Union in January, 1861, shortly before the beginning of the Civil War, and declared itself the Republic of Alabama. When the Confederate Government was formed at Montgomery in the following month, Alabama became a part of the Confederacy.

The original flag of the Republic of Alabama was kept in the state capitol at Montgomery until that city was occupied by the Federal troops in 1865, when it is said to have been removed by a Union Soldier. It is reported to be now in an Iowa museum.

Autumn Is Approaching

The evenings are growing perceptibly shorter. Is it possible fall is approaching? No dissenters are heard, so this must be the case.

Well fall—or autumn, as it is sometimes termed—isn't a bad season as seasons go. Indications are multiplying that this fall may be the best season of 1938.

Business appears to have touched bottom some weeks ago and the slow steady pull upward is undoubtedly under way. This will add materially to fall's attractions.

A week ago schools were well started on the new term. Vacation are over, but not the repetitious telling of vacation stories. Everybody is buckling down to the job with renewed zest.

The crisp air of an early autumn morning makes a man feel capable of completely vanquishing the repression single-handed. Multiplied by 120,000,000, this augurs well.

Well, come on fall. Make good your rosy promise.

The Money You Live By

An economist recently pointed out the amazing extent to which the average citizen comes in contact with the dollars invested by life insurance companies.

He very possibly lives in a home which was built by life insurance money. The street in front of your home may be paved with money raised through life insurance purchases of municipal bonds. Life insurance companies contributed to the investment in the railroad or street car line in which he travels to work. Life insurance investments in government bonds helped to build the post office where he mails his letters—and the food he eats for lunch may have come from a farm financed by life insurance investments in real property.

The billions of life insurance dollars thus go to make possible the ownership of homes and farms, community expansion and the maintenance of government and its services.

GOOD NEIGHBOR FLEET

The sincerity of the Monroe Doctrine as a declaration of fundamental good neighbor policy is emphasized in a practical manner as the United States Maritime Commission begins operation of a new liner service to the east coast of South America.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Commission, announces that 3 of the principal ships of the Panama Pacific Line have been thoroughly reconditioned and outfitted for the new luxury service to the countries below the equator and that they will be put into service. Admiral Land says that they will promote and facilitate trade between the Americas.

He points out that the United States with seven percent of the world's population, consumes half of the world's coffee and we are equally dependent on South America countries for many other products that are essential not only to our national comfort, but to our national economy. In turn they are dependent on a great many of our products. Modern and fast transportation is certain to be the means of expanding this commercial intercourse, as well as strengthening relations between good neighbors.

Admiral Land has furnished the slogan: "See The Americas First. Let's Go!" To which the public might respond with good wishes to the newly conditioned ships, named "Brazil", "Uruguay" and "Argentina". Bon Voyage!

TRENCH SILO AIDING THE SMALL DAIRYMEN-FARMERS

The trench silo has solved for many farm renters and farm owners having less than ten of fifteen cows the problem of providing low-cost storage space for feeds, state F. W. Burns livestock specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

Silos have long been regarded as indispensable to profitable dairy farming but until recently use of a silo has been out of the question for small farm operators. However, quickness and low cost with which the trench silo can be built has surmounted this obstacle, says Mr. Burns.

The trench silo, says Mr. Burns, is usually not more than eight or less than five feet deep. Depth will depend upon the drainage and the difficulty in drainage. It is not desirable to make the trench deep for capacity, since capacity can be obtained by making the trench wider or by adding length.

"When in doubt as to whether to dig a wide or narrow trench make it narrow," advises Mr. Burns. "A trench that is too wide means spoilage of the herd is small. In deciding how wide to make a trench, remember that one cow will eat about a cubic foot of silage a day and that two inches should be taken off daily to prevent spoilage. When the depth and width of a trench are made to suit the soil condition, the length is depended upon for capacity. There is no danger of getting a trench silo too long. At least six feet of length is needed for every month silage is to be fed.

"The trench should be so filled with silage that the middle is two or three feet higher than the edge. Then straw or hay should be run through the cutter and blown over the silage to the depth of about a foot. This covering should then be wet down thoroughly and the whole covered with at least six inches of dirt."

The silo should be located on well-drained ground. Mr. Burns stresses, digging back into a hillside and providing a little slope to the bottom, good drainage can be provided.

D. W. Haskew

Liquor's heavy toll in automobile accidents is a well known fact to our Statisticians tell us that one accident out of every three happening can be traced directly to whiskey. We are not saying that drunken drivers are responsible for one third of the accidents but we are saying that whiskey plays a dangerous part in more than one third of the accidents. A half drunk person is more dangerous than a drunk driver. Recently laboratory tests by a Chicago Motor Club shows that a driver taking one drink is a deadly menace to the road. The more drinks he takes the more deadly he becomes along the highway. A driver may have two mint juleps, he may be able to push a key into the hole without missing it, he may be able to say, "Truly 'Rude'!" without twisting his tongue, but he has lost one-third of his ability to judge distance and speed, and more than one-half his care and respect for other folks is destroyed. He becomes a speed demon and is more dangerous than a bull before a red flag. I have this advice to offer, "If you drink, don't drive; if you drive, don't drink."

In a little city where I was pastor a young man moved in to take a position. The young ladies in a social set were elated over his coming, but one of them made this statement in my presence. "He will not fit into our gang because he refuses to drink." We skip over a period of five months and we take a peep into that same social set and we see that young man among them and he is drinking with them. The sad part of it all was that the young woman worked herself into the esteem of that young man and she led him to drink. The young man first of all should have the manhood to not be led wrong by corrupt society, but hear me, any social set of young people who will roge in an honest upright character and lead him astray, merits the wrath of parents, the ridicule of civilization and the justice of God. Some folks are going to meet "woes" when they are not prepared to endure them.

While I was passing ten men perched on a pile of brick where a building was being erected. I heard one of them say, "I tell you, fellows, I can take a drink of whiskey, or I can let it alone and it does not matter with me." That man was dead wrong. If he had let it alone, he would have been a WPA job to be off relief. When a man drinks, it has to be paid for. Someone has got to pay for it. Money spent for whiskey is money wasted. Then too, if that man took a drink he was injured on the inside just that much. His ideals for a sober, sane life were lowered. He showed himself just that much less a real man. Suppose that man could drink or let it alone, don't you think that he would be a much finer man than he would be if he should drink? If a man can drink, or let it alone, he certainly must be a fool to drink. A man standing at a window in a twenty story building, can either jump out or not. He is a fool to jump out or when safety is within. If you can drink or let it alone, then why not play the man and let it alone?

A prominent citizen of Andalusia, Alabama, journeyed to Pensacola, Fla. on business. On passing a certain brewery he looked down a side alley and saw a gathering of boys, colored and white, between the ages of ten and 14, gathered around an open door. He passed on and thought of no more about it. But when he passed the same way a day after noon and saw a larger gathering there he stopped to make inquiry. He was informed that the Brewery was giving away as many as three glasses of beer to boys of that age. This was the allowance for one boy each day. What was that brewery doing? The answer is clear. The manager of that enterprise was training up boys to drink so that later on they could reap not only all the money those boys could earn, but rob them of their future. I knew a man whose son was brought under the influence of just such a demon in human flesh and this man hurried down to the joint where his boy had been served whiskey free, and he settled it with the rum distributor by leaving the floor of his saloon. A parent who loves his child will tear to pieces anything in animal or human flesh that will ruin that boy. It is time that our American citizenship should awake to the peril that is abroad on the whiskey question.

ONE CASE OF MALARIA IS REPORTED IN COUNTY AUGUST
Chilton County was one of the 57 counties from which one or more cases of malaria were reported during the month of August, the State Department of Health announced recently, adding that one case was reported during that month from this County.

The ten counties from which no cases of this disease were reported during August are Barbour, Chocoma, Clay, Cleburn, Coosa, Etowah, Monroe, Pickens, Washington and Winston.

Malaria cases reported from the State as a whole totaled 1,017 in August, as compared with 650 in July and 765 in August, 1937; the State Health Department announced.

Because convicts who work eat too much, Sheriff Carroll of Talbot County, Md., has withdrawn all his prisoners from a county road construction project. He said the jail food bill was running beyond the budget.

S. J. M. WEBB WRITES CONCERNING CHURCH LETTERS

"To The Pastors and Church Clerks Of The Chilton County Association:"

"Pastors, will you allow me to insist upon your preaching sermons on Scripturally financing God's Kingdom and followed by taking an offering for Cooperative Program from now until the Association meets in order that each member of the churches may have the opportunity to do their part in carrying on in a fine way, for God loves the cheerful giver.

"Church Clerks, won't you please call upon pastors and deacons and secretaries of the different organizations of your church and all who can or will assist in the filling out in the most complete way possible your letters to the Association, for the fact that your minutes of the Associational year will come to you just as the information is given by your associational letter. So please allow me to urge upon you as strong terms as possible the importance of filling every space possible on your letter to the Association by writing plainly and putting all names and figures in their correct space and the correct amount in each space. You will have a new letter blank this year. Read it carefully and study it close before filling it out, as a careful study of it will be a great help to you in filling it out.

"Also, if any church does not get letter blanks you may see or write me as I have some that I can supply a few churches with.

"May God's blessings be upon and abide with you all.

"S. J. M. WEBB, Associational Clerk."

IS PROHIBITION COMING BACK?

Being the seventh in a series of excerpts taken from a collection of five feature articles prepared by "Ifly The Dopester", and appearing in the Detroit Free Press

Before Prohibition saloon-keepers had complete control of our politics. After Prohibition this job was taken over by racketeers, gangsters, extortionists, kidnappers and murderers. That, in general outline, is the difference between the two epochs. To get rid of the saloon control of politics we voted for Prohibition; and for many other different reasons.

Efficiency engineers showed big manufacturers the "fatigue poison" brought about by workers who drank at night and even how the noon-day nap was affected by them. It was in the war days of Europe and everybody was hypnotized by the word efficiency; German soldiers could march all day on one synthetic pill and that sort of thing.

Then the very words, "Anti-Saloon League," fooled a lot of these same efficiency engineers. Just to get rid of the saloon and the boys that Peter Arno draws pictures of in the Union League windows could have their highballs and cocktails.

Everybody, rich and poor, drinker and teetotaler, was agin, the saloon.

But, after it was voted out the manufacturer did not need any efficiency expert to tell him that he had beer or alley beer or wood alcohol beer did more than make the boys fatigued. And, instead of 3,000 barrooms (in Detroit) by police estimate, 15,000 blind pigs popped into being.

Liquor And Youth's Highway

"Son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the House of Israel, therefore, hear the words of My mouth and give them warning form me." Ezekiel 3:17.

Today we have received anew the call to be watchmen to assist our fellow travelers along life's highway. Let us look about us for a few moments and see where the need is—where watchmen should be stationed.

At the present time there are twice as many bar maids as corks. It does not take much of an imagination to see where that ratio will lead but there are some who are saying "Well, just what difference does it make, a job is a job." Let us start to look at that land out of greed and see why a watchman is needed there. Drink is causing more divorces, more child delinquency, more suffering, more heart aches, more accidents, more people living in dirty huts than any other thing. Drink is depriving good business of money for its goods. Science has not yet been able to discover or invent a way for the same dollar to be spent more than once. Therefore, the dime spent for beer cannot buy milk.

How can anyone have a part in selling anything to anybody that eats the heart out of people; that puts drivers to sleep at the wheel, thus causing untold suffering and grief; that is depriving young people and the children of their birth rights.

Young people, you are the bait the liquor people want. Youth is attractive and will attract other young people and older people as well. Be on your guard. Show your associates that joy and beauty cannot be found at the bottom of the cocktail glass. This is one problem that is in your hands to clean up, for right. We never close behind us in our footsteps. It is necessary that our tracks be clean and straight.

The first watchman is needed to wave a flag of consideration for others, those who are having a continued struggle for right. We never close behind us in our footsteps. It is necessary that our tracks be clean and straight.

The second watchman is needed to plead with the passers-by to voice their protest against the rising tide of liquor stores. We can keep most of the new places from opening by united effort. A very large number of those already in the trade can be gotten out if we just put forth the effort. Won't you join us, or the road we all must travel will be washed out.

The saddest warning of all must come from a third watchman, warning us against ignorance. Adults who should think through the situations to the cause, stand idly by doing nothing because they do not think adults are showing too much indifference to facts for the safety of the Country.

Young people are ignorant because of lack of trained adults to guide them. We must begin at once on an intensive campaign to train the youth so they will change the situation if the adults in position will listen and cooperate.

Children are suffering from the results of indifference and ignorance. The work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is growing in unbelievable strides. We must give them the chance to develop if we want to change conditions in this country for tomorrow.

Space doesn't permit checking all the danger points on life's highway. As you travel along, place warning for those following you. Be careful watchers and see that dangers are removed.

God has called us all to be watchmen. We must be awake and alert to keep our fellow travelers from being caught at the danger points.

True loyal watchmen, pray and act. (P. S. Next week we will tell about a family that has recently been saved and baptized that have been reading our articles and began thinking on the way. Should we retreat? No!)

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools,
International Correspondence Schools

THERE are four interrelated subjects which any person should study before he attempts to engage in any form of merchandising business for himself. These are: marketing, business finance, accounting and business law. The man who plans to start a small manufacturing concern should also be a student of production.

The ability to interpret financial statements is as important to the business executive as to the accountant. The day has passed when even the smallest business can be operated successfully without financial statements and the constant study of the information they contain.

Of the great number of men who go into business for themselves each year, only a few meet with sufficient success to enable them to continue to operate. Statistics have estimated that from 80 to 90 per cent of all small businesses ultimately fail. The principal cause of failure is lack of business knowledge. Many small enterprises are started when a cursory study of the market available would show that there was no possibility of sufficient sales being obtained regularly to meet operating expenses, let alone to pay interest on the money invested and to yield the owner a profit. Many businesses that have the possibility of success fail because their owners have insufficient understanding of business principles and methods.

The direct aim of the business man is to make a profit out of which to support himself and his dependents and to lay aside savings in as large an amount as possible to constitute a competence for his old age. This desire to make money by engaging in business for one's self is typically American and perfectly legitimate, but cannot be fulfilled today without study of all the important aspects of business.

Cotton Farmers Stand To Lose $1 Per Bale

On The Shorter Staples And Up To $3.75 On The Longer By Ginning Their Cotton Damp

One of the greatest evils which results in actual loss in dollars and cents to the cotton producer is the ginning of cotton too green or in a damp condition.

According to test by the United States Department of Agriculture, based on the prices of spot cotton the ginning of too green or damp cotton results in loss to the cotton producer in actual dollars and cents from $1.00 to $3.75 per bale. The actual figures used by the Department in 1931 were on 500,000 bales of 1-1/16" and longer ginned too green or damp with a loss of $1,250,000 in grade value to the cotton. On 1,000,000 bales of shorter staple cotton so tested there was a loss of $670,000 in grade value to the cotton producer. Of course, these figures would be much greater at the present time when the average spot prices on the ten designated markets is around 8 3/4 cents per pound compared to the average price of cotton when this test was made of 5.89 cents per pound.

The losses indicated in the above, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, are most conservative and the actual loss in dollars and cents would be reality be considerably more than indicated in the above figures.

The loss in ginning of too green or damp cotton is considerable enough but the ginning of cotton which is actually in a wet condition results in considerable more loss to the cotton producer. The lowering in grade and/or staple value on shorter staple cotton, when cotton is ginned wet, is conservatively estimated at anywhere from $2.00 to $5.00 per bale.

Cotton should not be picked until it is dry on the stalk. If cotton is wet or damp it should be spread under a sheltered place and moved or stirred for several days before attempting to gin. This will improve the physical condition of the cotton and, in ginning, a better quality both in grade and staple will result and higher prices obtainable when sold.

Three hours after his driver's license was restored after a suspension for peeding, Paul McElderry was arrested in Detroit for reckless driving. While kissing a girl companion he hit three cars. Her husband's insistence that he prepare the family meals broke up her home. Mrs. Elizabeth Rosen told the judge when she sued for divorce in Los Angeles domestic court.

A bandit who robbed Jack Blume's hat store in New York City of $6 became disgusted at the small loot and handed it back to Blume, bought a $1 cap and stalked out muttering, "this is a fine way to begin the week."

EDWARDS-COPPOCK WEDDING SOLEMNIZED HERE RECENTLY

The marriage of Miss Lucille Edwards, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Edwards, to Mr. Ernest Coppock, of Jacksonville, Ala., was solemnized Wednesday evening, September 14th, at 8:00 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. Marion Mims pronounced the vows for this young couple, using the impressive ring ceremony.

Marking the altar, where the ceremony was performed, were effective arrangements of Boston and maiden ferns with tube roses and pink gladioli interspersed with tall pink and white candles.

Floral candles were lighter by Master Earl Wilkins, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Ernest Wilson, rendered Mendelsohn's wedding march and during the ceremony played "I Love You Truly" softly.

Miss Pauline Durbin served as maid of honor. She wore a Fall model of white-tone velvet with navy blue accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink gladioli.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in a fall creation of gray lightweight wool, made with a smart coat and trimmed with silver gray tulle. With this she wore a diamond-cut collar with veil and accessories of same color.

Sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley fashioned her lovely bridal bouquet.

The bride and her father were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Fred Tredaway, of Jacksonville.

After the ceremony the wedding guests were ushered into the dining room. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth over pink.

The center of interest was the beautiful bride's cake, which was embossed in sweetheart roses, flanked on each side by two crystal bowls of mints. The cake and mints carried out the color scheme of white and pink.

The bride cut the cake. Miss Lela Deraugh and Mrs. Curtis Billingsley presided over the punch bowl. Miss Deraugh wore a pink net over satin. Mrs. Billingsley chose as her evening gown a blue satin.

Both wore shoulder corsages of pink gladioli.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Coppock left for their wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Jacksonville.

S. L. GIBSON WRITES ABOUT POISONING OF VERBENA DOGS

"One bright morning, a few days ago, the decent residents of Verbena, were deeply saddened by the poisoning and death of two very close friends who were friends to all in this community.

"Jiggs", the happy, lovable little dog owned by Mr. Fred Calloway and "Jiggs' friend", young foxhound, owned by everybody, were given poison by some human fiend and died in agony which they could not understand happening to them among former friendly men and women.

"This dastardly deed, and we wish we could use another consonant at the beginning of 'dastardly', proves to all dog lovers in Verbena that there is a dangerous character living somewhere in this section who will bear watching.

"If we knew who committed this crime we would not flatter him and insult the dog family by calling him a son of a dog. He is an illegitimate son of Satan.

"We hope the souls of 'Jiggs' and his little hound friends are safe in a God-made dog heaven somewhere during the daytime, but we also hope their spirits will return to Verbena at night in the form of vicious bloodhounds and will bark at and bite the conscience of the soulless criminal who brutally murdered them.

"I would rather live in a place inhabited only by many hounds than in an Arcadia with a person who would give poison to a happy, harmless dog.

"This terrible deed breaks Verbena's record in this line according to old-timers. This is the first time such a crime has been committed here.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEFENDABLE

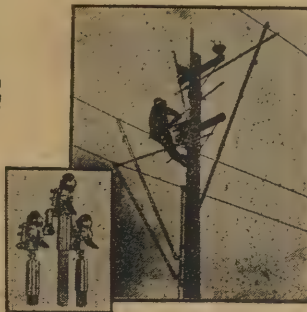

No. 3 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

HOT STICKS

HAVE you ever seen a line crew at work on wires and wondered how it is possible for the men to carry on their work while high-voltage electricity coursed through the wires? They weren't always able to do this. Before the invention and perfection (by private enterprise with private funds) of "hot sticks," which are mechanical "fingers" with an uncanny ability to grasp and move electrical wires and their smaller accessories, it was necessary to "kill" an electric line before any work could be done on it, and thus interrupt your use of electric service. Today, electric lines carrying thousands of volts can be worked on without interruption of service, with little hazard to the men, due to the development of "hot sticks" and other protective devices and methods. In only rare exceptions where some heavy piece of equipment must be changed or an unusually severe storm has caused extraordinary damage, is it now necessary to take an Alabama Power Company line "out of service." Even so, there are "loop" circuits, so the interruption is only local.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Equipping line crews with hot sticks, so that they may work more safely and with less interruption as possible to the flow of electricity over the wires to your home or place of business, is another example of the effort constantly to improve and keep dependable your electric service.

TAX REFUND

If he is listed on G. T. Form 103 as "Bud Smith" and makes his claim as "J. M. Smith," the Collector will not be able to know that J. M. Smith is Bud Smith.

4. Where the claimant cannot apply in the name shown on G. T. Form 103, he should attach an affidavit fully showing the facts. In the event the claimant is administrator of an estate, certified copies of letters of administration must be furnished.

5. The claimant must file, duly executed, both G. T. Form 111, and 971. Do not file one without the other. Attach the two forms firmly together so as to prevent separation.

6. A Section 5 (b) of Instructions requires claimants to submit supporting evidence on payment of the amount of the tax paid to the winner. It is absolutely necessary that the claimant comply with this instruction; otherwise, the claim will be in all probability denied. So far, not a claim filed with this office shows compliance with this provision.

(b) "Supporting Evidence" is in addition to the statement of the fact that the winner's G. T. Form 103 shows the claimant ginned taxable cotton. As stated in "Instructions," it is the check given to the winner for the tax, or the winner's receipt for the payment. Probably, if no written evidence of the payments exists, an affidavit of the winner that the tax was paid in money by the claimant might be accepted. However, there must be some supporting evidence of the claimant's statement that he paid the tax in money.

7. Again, a general statement under

"Additional Facts" on G. T. Form 111, that the winner's G. T. Form 103 shows that the claimant ginned taxable cotton does not constitute sufficient supporting evidence of the payment of the tax by the claimant. Furthermore, such statement is of little assistance to the Collector unless it shows the dates of the ginning of such cotton.

8. No right to refund exists where the tax was paid in exemption certificates, even though those certificates were purchased through the agricultural agencies in strict accordance with the law.

"This office wishes to be of every service it can in assisting every one entitled to a refund to secure the same."

"Harwell G. Davis, Collector, "J. D. Hollis, Chief, Refund Division."

MT. CREEK

The Ladies W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. R. L. Duffey on September 15th for a spend-the-day of prayer. There were sixteen members present with two visitors. A very nice program was rendered.

Y. W. A. AND FIDELIS MEETS MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 24TH

Willie Maude Kelly, President, Fidelis Class, appointed a nominating committee to decide on new members to be installed in October for new year. After the business a weiner roast was given with the following present:

Willie Maude Kelly, Euna Powell, Mary Frances Duke, Helen Moore, Mildred Howton, Alice Hanson, Gerie Fiquette, the hostesses, Edith, Ruth and Pearl Hand and the Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Davis.

The offering of the Zion Methodist Episcopal Church in Cambridge, Md. was stolen while worship was being held in the sanctuary.

The above was passed upon last Saturday at the meeting at the Court-house, which was attended by a large crowd.

Clanton Methodist Church

Did you know the last two Sundays we have had a great increase in our Sunday School attendance? We might brag about it, but we just feel happy and we thank our God.

Be sure to attend Sunday School next Sunday. We select our Sunday School class officials on that date. Then the next Sunday is Rally Day, when you surely will be expected to rally with us.

On all Sundays it is always worth your while to hear both sermons by our pastor. We have a Junior League as well as a Senior League now. Encourage the attendance to the league while you are boosting our Sunday School and preaching services and let's watch our church spirit and influence soar to heights of which we never dreamed. It can be done and it shall be done if you will the one next to you and I win the one next to me.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT TO J. L. VINES

"Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved deacon J. L. Vines, we bow in humble submission to His Divine will, saying, 'God's will be done'."

"We wish to express our deepest sympathy to his sons and daughter in their bereavement."

"We shall miss him since he has gone from our midst."

"We recommend that a copy of this be sent to his family, a copy to the county papers and a copy to the Alabama Baptist."

"Respectfully submitted, "Thorsby Baptist Church Committee, "Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Merchant."

Jemison Boy Wins In Ton Litter Show Held In Montgomery Last Week

From The Montgomery Advertiser

A Clifton County entry won the ton-litter championship at the annual hog show recently at the Union Stock Yards in Montgomery. The first prize of $25 in cash was awarded to Austin McCarty, of Jemison, whose litter of 10 weighed a total of 3,410 pounds. Cost of feeding the 196-day-old litter was $146.50.

With 32 litters of 251 head entered, this year's show was featured by unusually close competition, it was announced.

At the close of the show the hogs were sold at the Chicago price for the day, tops going at 9.25, heavies at 9.00 and No. 2's at 8.75. Buyers were as follows: Provision Co., of Atlanta, 8 hogs; Armour and Co., of Birmingham, 33 head; Provision Co. plant at Columbus, Ga., 10 head; Morgan Co., Tuscaloosa, 33 head; and a dte-Seeger Packing Co., Montgomery, 22 head.

McCarty's first prize litter sold for nine cents a pound and totalled $306.90, a sum equivalent to the present market value of about seven bales of cotton. The hogs were six months and 12 days old.

In the champion barrow contest two 4-H Club boys, Ray and Raymond Kelly, twin brothers of Rockford, Coosa County, took first honors and the $10 prize.

Five 4-H Club boys garnered four of the ten prizes. Judges were Dr. R. S. Sugg, Alabama Extension animal husbandman; Tom McCord, vice-president of the Union Stock Yards and Ed Stewart.

Other Winners—Winners in addition to McCarty included Ray and Raymond Kelly, Rockford, with a ten-pig litter, reserve champion, second prize, $20; H. B. Tompkins, Fitzpatrick, 12-pig litter, third prize, $15; Ralph Catchings, Kellyton, 4-H Club member, nine-pig litter.

Rules of the contest stipulated that the fundamentals of feeding, breeding and management of the production of market hogs, teach farmers and boys the stages of producing the type of hog wanted by the pork trade, it was planned.

WHICH FOOT IS YOURS?

Noted Foot Authority Says Every Type Foot Can Be Comfortably Fitted—In The Proper Shoe

tings. Advance Fall and Winter styles will also be shown. Fittings will be by X-Ray. Stepping on this device and looking at your feet through your shoe not only the bones of your feet and their position but the tissues as well. Other method of scientific shoe fitting, perfected by Dr. Scholl, will also be used.

Dr. Scholl's shoes are designed on the straight Line Principle which provides even distribution of the body's weight on all three weight-bearing points of the foot (as per illustration). This eliminates the possibility of strain on muscles, nerves, and ligaments. Dr. Scholl's shoe-fitting expert from the Chicago factory will clearly demonstrate this Straight Line Principle and other features that are said to make Dr. Scholl's Shoes different.

These shoes will be offered at the same prices as in Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Shops in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and other big cities—$7.75, $8.50, $9.50, $11.00 and $12.75.

We learn that this is the first event of its kind ever held in this city at any time and that in the interests of foot health and shoe-fitting satisfaction every body who has any foot or shoe troubles should attend.

Some months ago, as our readers will remember, Levine Brothers brought to this community a Dr. Scholl Shoe and Foot Relief Demonstration. The success of this event was so gratifying that Messrs. L. S. and Sol Levine have been besieged with requests from those who were unable to attend the first one that a return engagement be arranged.

This has now been provided for, so on September 28th every man, woman and child having trouble with their feet or shoes will have another opportunity of availing themselves of this exceptional service.

A Dr. Scholl Trailer is a very unique and unusual conveyance. It carries a wide range of Dr. Scholl's Scientific Shoes, a complete line of his famous Foot Comfort Appliances and Remedy, an X-ray Machine, Podo-graph, Automatic Shoe Sizer and other scientific equipment for testing feet and fitting shoes.

These Demonstrations are conducted by Dr. Scholl's specially trained Factory Experts who know foot anatomy, the causes of foot and shoe troubles and the most approved methods of relieving and correcting such conditions.

Everybody is cordially invited. Free Podo-graph Prints and complete foot analysis will be made of each visitor's feet.

Democrats Confident Of Victory This Fall

Joe Mullins Named Chairman Of Campaign For Democrats; Entire Ticket Slated To Be Elected By Wide Majority

The nine Democratic candidates for offices in Chilton County are slated to be elected by a good majority in November, is the expressed opinion of those "in the know" in Chilton County politics and another victory will be marked up for the Democrats here.

A most active campaign is now getting underway and Joe Mullins, widely known young attorney of Clanton has been selected to head the campaign for the Democrats in this County this year. Mr. Mullins served as chairman of the campaign committee in 1936 and delivered most successful results to the party and the selection of Mr. Mullins this year will mean a great deal to the party. Billy Smith will serve as vice-chairman.

Headquarters Set Up
Campaign headquarters have been set up in the Walker Building, and an all-time secretary will be on hand to take care of the people when they visit the office.

Other committees were also named recently by the Democratic candidates of this County and everyone is looking forward to a much greater victory for the party this year than ever before.

C.C.H.S. Wins Opener Against Verbena Fri.

The Chilton County High School Tigers took the opening game of the season in football, from the Verbena eleven by a score of 33-0, last Friday at the local ball park.

The Clanton team displayed amazing speed and their pass-work is considered the best ever seen on the local field. Verbena, though fighting bravely, could make very little headway against the strong Clanton line.

In the first quarter of the game, "Snowy" McCall, the first string quarterback following a forty-five-yard run, downed the first quarter. Carl Cooper chalked up the second by a line drive. Buckley Armstrong and Mack Atchison scored in the second and third quarters, and late in the fourth Earl Locklear marched across the chalk as a result of a perfectly timed lateral pass.

The Tigers will meet Isabella next Friday on the local field. This promises to be one of the hardest fought games of the season, the two teams having been bitter rivals for the past several years.

B. N. IVEY LEAVES FOR STATE FAIR WITH CHILTON EXHIBITS

Assistant County Agent B. N. Ivey left Clanton Sunday for the State Fair, which is being held in Birmingham this week.

Mr. Ivey carried with him prize-winners in livestock from the Chilton County Fair to be placed for judging at the State Fair.

HOSPITAL PLAN IS EXPLAINED TO THE PUBLIC

Representative Of Service
Plans To Be In Clanton
All This Week

Residents of Chilton County will have an opportunity this week to be explained to them the excellent plan of the Hospital Service Corporation of Alabama, by a representative of that institution who will be in Clanton all this week.

Mrs. Peggy (Pearl) Lokey of Birmingham, representative of the Hospital Service Corporation of Alabama, arrived here Monday to take this hospitalization plan up with the people of this county. Mrs. Lokey is well known here. She is the former Miss Pearl Harris, a graduate of the local high school, and made her home here for a number of years. She is also a daughter-in-law of Dr. C. W. Lokey, widely known physician of Birmingham.

The Hospital Service Plan enables everyone to have the benefits of hospital service in case of sickness or operation, and only a few dollars per day. The plan is endorsed by medical associations and doctors everywhere and was authorized through an Act passed by the 1935 session of the Legislature of Alabama.

Anyone wishing to get in touch with Mrs. Lokey may call the News office and leave word for her to get in touch with them.

COUNTY FAIR IS TERMED A BIG SUCCESS

Many Interesting Exhibits Including Livestock Show
During Week

Chilton County's Bigger and Better 1938 Fair came to a close last Saturday night at Gragg Field, and was termed one of the best and most beneficial held here.

Throwing wide the gates Tuesday afternoon, September 20, for the formal opening, the Fair continued the remainder of the week, with exhibits that received favorable comments from most every person attending. The Fair Association went to considerable expense this year to give the public a look at some of the County's finest livestock. There were no livestock exhibits last year due to the lack of room, but this year a large shed was erected by the County to house all livestock exhibits.

Tuesday, opening day, was set aside as Ladies' Free Day, all ladies being admitted free of charge. Wednesday was School Children's Day. All school children were admitted to the Fair ground for ten cents, with teachers and bus drivers getting in free. All riding devices and shows were operated for five cents until 5:00 P.M., specifically for the school children.

Thursday was Wedding Day, but due to circumstances beyond the control of the Fair officials, the wedding, which was scheduled to come off at 9:00 P.M., was not held. The wedding ring, licenses and twenty-five dollars in cash was to be awarded the couple to be married on the stage at the fairgrounds, however there were many attractions on hand to compensate for this disappointment. District Commander Bob Gandy and Headley Jordan, both of Birmingham, are scheduled to attend the meeting. Mrs. Hanby is also from Birmingham. Those interested are urged to keep the time and place in mind, and be on hand to hear this well known speaker.

INTERESTING PROGRAM IS AR- RANGED FOR KIWANIS MEETING

The program arranged for the regular meeting and luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club tonight at the Thomson Hotel promises to be most interesting, according to those in charge of the program.

Henry Meater, Kiwanis official of this District, and the Rev. W. F. Calhoun, both of Montgomery, will be the guests of the Club, at which time Rev. Calhoun will speak. He is pastor of the Dexter Avenue Methodist Church in Montgomery, and is a noted speaker.

Wallace pleaded guilty to first degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

According to the records at the office of Circuit Clerk J. C. Patullo, there were fifty-two cases disposed of as follows: There were thirty-three sentences imposed, in cases ranging from petit larceny to first degree murder; eight paid fines; seven non-prossed on payment of costs; one abated by death; one convicted and appealed and two non-prossed.

CITY APPROVES BOND ISSUE LAST TUESDAY

Voters Approve Issuing Of Bonds For Improvements
106 To 38

Qualified voters of the City of Clanton, last Thursday, placed their seal of approval on the proposed issue of improvement bonds by the City, aggregating $39,000. Money received by the sale of these bonds will be used for the general improvement of the City's waterworks system, and the erection of a modern sewage disposal plant.

Only a small percent of the voters went to the City Hall to cast their ballots. The votes cast for the bond issue numbered 106, and against, 38.

Funds received from the sale of these bonds will match a Federal grant of $34,772, which was approved recently. City officials filed application for this grant several months ago.

The present waterworks system has proved inadequate to furnish water for the City, and the need for more wells and the erection of a storage tank has been imminent. There has also been a growing need for improvement of the sewage disposal system.

After the sale of these bonds work is expected to begin before many weeks on these projects.

Leroy Martin returned Tuesday from Port St. Joe, Fla., where he carried Dr. V. J. Gragg, who will remain for several days.

ship Will Take Place On October 1st

A change in the ownership of the Chilton County News has been made and becomes effective on next Saturday, October 1. The News has been sold to Mark L. Tucker, of Montgomery, one of the most widely known newspapermen of Alabama.

Chilton High Band Organized Recently

Arvie Whittington, who is director of the Alabama Mills Band, has announced the organization of a band at the Chilton County High School, and that rehearsals are already underway.

There are at present nine members of the band and Mr. Whittington stated that more are expected to come into the band in the near future. Members of the band at present time and the instruments they play are as follows:

James Sides, trombone; Paul Gowan, trumpet; James Martin, snare drum; Leland West, cornet; Sidney Nelson, clarinet; Hollis Rushing, saxophone; Bill Rushing, trumpet; Lila Sides, clarinet; and Florence Scroggins, trombone.

C.C.H.S. has long needed a good band and the best wishes go with Mr. Whittington and his new organization.

JESSE FRANK FOSHEE DID OUTSTANDING PLAYING SAT.

Clanton's own Jesse Frank Foshee, who plays left guard on the Alabama Football squad, began this season with outstanding playing in the Alabama-Southern California game played in Los Angeles last Saturday.

Jesse Frank stopped one of the few major drives of the California team by intercepting a forward pass. His friends predict a good season this time, barring injuries.

Mr. Tucker purchased the News from Billy Smith, who has been publisher of this newspaper for the past seven years and who served as editor and manager since January, 1927, up to the time Joseph Hand was made editor. The transaction was completed Monday of this week.

The new publisher of the Chilton County News is no stranger to this section. Neither is this section a strange place to him. His grandfather settled near the old Indian Trail between the two creek capitals just the other side of what is known as Old Maplesville, in this County.

Mr. Tucker's father, the late Samuel Curtis Tucker, was born in this County, in the western part, and spent his remaining days here. Other members of the Tucker family are also buried in this County. The new publisher of the News is not new in the newspaper game, having started his journalistic career exactly fifty years ago as office boy for the old Selma Times Mail. Since that time he has become widely known as a newspaperman in the State.

At present Mr. Tucker is assistant to the State Tax Commissioner in charge of the motor vehicle and privilege license division and has been making his home in Montgomery. He will remain in this capacity until January 1st; however, he will spend considerable time in Chilton County, until that time, becoming better acquainted with our people. Mr. Tucker is a member of the Methodist Church, a Mason and member of the Knights of Pythias. He will immediately move to Clanton, having already secured a home, etc.

Mr. Tucker stated this week that there will be no change in the personnel of the newspaper other than in the positions of publisher, which he assumes and that of business manager. Bonnie Hand, who has been with the News for the past seven years, will remain as Editor and John VanDerweert, Jr., will also remain as business manager.

Coming to Clanton with Mr. Tucker is his son, Marion Tucker, who is also an experienced newspaperman and printer. The younger Mr. Tucker will take over the duties of business manager and assistant. He has had a lifetime training in the printing and newspaper business. He recently resigned his place with the Bureau of Publicity of the State Highway Department of Alabama, to come to Clanton and aid his father in publishing the Chilton County News.

City Profits $702 On Sale Of Bonds

The City of Clanton has a good credit standing at the present time as evidenced by the sale of City Improvement Bonds, issued in the amount of one hundred dollars each, and in all, totaling $20,000.

The City had advertised these bonds for sale for some time ago to finance a portion of the street paving project now underway. Bids were received at the city of Mayor C. Fenn Jones on last Tuesday, September 20. Several bond buyers were on hand and all seemed anxious to acquire the bonds. Highest bidders were Steiner Brothers of Birmingham. Their bid was $103.50.

Selling at $3.50 above par netted the city of Mayor C. Fenn Jones on last Tuesday, September 20. Several bond buyers were on hand and all seemed anxious to acquire the bonds. Highest bidders were Steiner Brothers of Birmingham. Their bid was $103.50.

DR. V. J. GRAGG IN PORT ST. JOE, FLORIDA FOR FEW DAYS

Dr. V. J. Gragg, on leaving for Port St. Joe, Fla., where he will remain for a few days, made the following statement:

"I tell my friends that I will be out of my office for the next few days due to illness, but that I hope to see them within the near future."

MRS. CURTIS BILLINGSLEY IS ILL AT HER HOME HERE

Friends of Mrs. Curtis Billingsley will regret to learn that she is confined to her home here suffering from an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. Billingsley became ill the latter part of last week, and at the time of this writing her condition is unchanged. Her friends join in wishing her an early recovery.

:: A Statement To The Public From Billy Smith ::

The work of this writer on the Chilton County News comes to an end this week with the announcement that this newspaper assumes a new owner and publisher on October 1st, next Saturday.

It is most difficult to find words and then form them into suitable sentences that I may get across to my friends the things I would like to say in this, the last issue of the Chilton County News under my ownership.

First, I will say truthfully and frankly, that each of you will like Mr. Mark L. Tucker, the new publisher of the News. You will learn to love him and his family, who are coming to Clanton and live and become one of you. Mr. Tucker is of the highest type of gentlemen, well seasoned in the newspaper business and it is a pleasure to pass on to him all my goodwill and the goodwill I have endeavored to build up through the columns of this newspaper which I have tried to nurse and build up as one of the best weekly newspapers in Alabama.

Mr. Tucker is one of the leading Democrats of the State. He is fair, generous and a lover of mankind. Need we say more even though we have more complimentary remarks we could make about this man who is to carry on with the Chilton County News. I believe the people of this section will give Mr. Tucker the same unselfish cooperation they have given me and the Chilton County News. He will need you and can and will be of much service to this County.

I well remember that Saturday morning of January 1st, 1927, when I walked into the old building of the News to begin work. Not knowing just what I was to do, I was soon in the mill learning the game.

What has transpired since that time most of you know well. The Chilton County News grew and prospered and only through your assistance and confidence. The years have passed rapidly and it has been my pleasure to see the Chilton County News grow into what is now considered one of the most outstanding weekly newspapers in Alabama.

However, there is no secret to this growth. I realize that it took thousands of people of Chilton County and elsewhere to make this possible. Your friendship, your support are obviously back of the success of this newspaper. I realize that it took the advice and the criticisms of friends to give me and the News strength to withstand experiences of the past eleven years.

There are many things I would like to say to you people who have aided me in building this newspaper—so many things in an attempt to express my sincerest thanks and appreciation for this confidence, co-operation and support. So, please believe me when I simply say, thank you ever so much. I believe I have, made friends since being with the News, and many persons have made me their friends. That, in itself, is worth the years I have spent in building the News and aiding in building Clanton and Chilton County.

In selling the Chilton County News, I do not dispose of my residence in Clanton, nor my citizenship in this County, nor my belief in its people. I will remain true to the people who have been true to me and who have watched over me and my interests throughout the years since I was born in this County.

Needless to say, I relinquish my interest in this newspaper with some reluctance, yet I believe it to be a wise step and that with the continued confidence of the people of my County, I will be able to continue to climb in my work.

With the following quotation I close my editorial position with the Chilton County News and again my heart swells in its attempt to put into words what it feels in this, my last issue:

"To have life and feel the flow and glow of sentiment."

"To be rich in friends and see in each the human and divine."

"And to ignore the little things that tend to undermine."

"Is to realize upon the good of life in great abundance".

What A To-Do

As everybody knows an executive has practically nothing to do—that is, nothing to do except:

To decide what is to be done; to tell somebody to do it; to listen to reasons why it should be done by somebody else, or why it should be done a different way, and to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive.

To follow up to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has not been done; to inquire why it has not been done; to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it and did not.

To follow up the second time to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly; to point out how it should have been done; to conclude that as long as it has been done, it may as well be left as it is; to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly; to reflect that the person at fault has a wife and seven children, and that certainly no other executive in the world would put up with him for a moment; and that, in all probability, any successor would be just as bad or worse . . .

To consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done had he done it himself in the first place; to reflect that if he had done it himself he would have been able to do it right in twenty minutes, but as things turned out he himself spent two days trying to find out why it was that it had taken somebody else three weeks to do it wrong; but to realize that such an idea would strike at the foundation of the belief of all employees that an executive has nothing to do.—Advertising Age

Labor's Worst Enemy

Is opportunity being closed to the youth of America? That is the logical question that arises when the facts surrounding many recent labor controversies are investigated.

In an astonishing number of occupations, ranging all the way from semi-skilled to highly-skilled labor, union membership is absolutely essential to obtaining employment in a "free" country. The closed shop rules supreme. Furthermore, the "closed union" lately put in its appearance. That is, the union that refuses to take more members, on the grounds that it now has all the members for whom work can be found. Thus, the young man looking for a job is confronted by the fact that he cannot get a job unless he joins a union—and that union will not accept him, even though he can afford the initiation fee, which in some cases is very high—$200 for example.

To make matters worse, the "seniority" question has now been brought up, and was a major issue in the San Francisco department store strike. Workers demand unions that are closed to new members; that employers choose from the existing membership, and that the seniority system control promotions. A young worker, therefore, can hardly get work, or if he does, and has exceptional ability, he is held back by an inflexible rule which makes age or tenure of service the main arbiter for advancement.

That state of affairs is reaction, not progress. And, if carried far enough, the honest union and the ambitious working man will find that a so-called labor movement which closes opportunity to the young, and makes the employer impotent in selecting help, will be their own worst enemy.

International Friendships

It has been suggested that the King and Queen of England be invited to attend the San Francisco and New York Expositions, to be held during 1939. And certainly, a visit of Their Majesties to this country would be a splendid gesture to a troubled world, illustrating as it would the firm friendship that exists between the two great English-speaking democracies.

Furthermore, there is plenty of past precedent for such an invitation, and for its acceptance as well. The King and Queen recently paid a visit to France, another of England's old friends and allies. And President Roosevelt, though he has not gone abroad since becoming Chief Executive, has visited South America and Canada in furthering his "good neighbor" policy. When the head of a major nation goes to a foreign land, sees and is seen by its people, the immensely important cause of better international understanding is substantially furthered.

The invitation to the King and Queen should come not only from officials of this government, but from the public as well—from editors in every section of the U.S.—who represent the millions of Americans who desire peace and friendship between nations. To these citizens, such a visit would not be a mere formal expression of good will. It would typify the genuine regard that exists between the United States and The British Empire. And next year, when untold numbers of people will go to New York and San Francisco for the expositions, is the logical time.

Buy At Home

A certain candidate for political office was defeated on the grounds that most of the clothing worn by his family and most of the implements used on his farm came from mail-order houses. The merchants in his town staged a campaign against him due to his catalogue buying, and with them working against him the voters failed to give him their support. The merchants in Heflin and Cleburne County must co-operate with one another in their stand to hold their home town trade. They must show the local buyer they are interested in him. They must advertise to tell him so. They will find the average home-town man would rather deal with his friends and neighbors and they too, will work on the principle of sticking by the man who will stick by him. Business that should stay in town will remain, for none of us are quite sure when we may need the other fellow's vote.—The Cleburne News.

"Gone Haywire"

"The Country has gone haywire on the assumption that there is any argument for hydro-electricity as against steam-generated power in any except the exceptional case," wrote General Hugh Johnson recently. "This isn't an academic question. It is of vital importance. The delusion has become so great that attempted generation of hydro-electric power in the low water heads of the State of Nebraska will one day be a scandal . . . They are outright monstrosities."

The facts in the steam-vs.-hydro case have been recited so often, and by such unimpeachable authorities ranging from private research organization to Federal departments, that one might think everyone knows them by now. Yet, judging by the manner in which the politicians are deluding the people, that isn't so. So here are the facts once more: Due to the tremendous waste in transmitting power over long distances, hydro plants are economic only when situated close to large consuming centers. Further, the great bulk of all undeveloped hydro resources are West of the Rocky Mountains, while the great bulk of the population, and almost all our large industries and cities, are in the East, where there is little undeveloped water. Lastly, entirely aside from these problems, hydro power is efficient only when a steady fall of water under all conditions and at all seasons, is certain. Most streams diminish in the summer—an unless there is steam power to fall back on, hydro becomes insufficient to meet the demand.

In most localities, steam plants are cheaper, more efficient and more practical than hydro plants. Keep that thought in mind next time you hear the politicians singing the praises of fantastic hydro-electric development.

DUST—

Back from the County Fair, but all covered with dust. You've probably heard the song, "Dust", but if you don't live on Second Avenue, you really don't know the meaning of the word. "Dust" is our theme song down on Second Avenue, but from complaining heard around town we're not the only ones suffering from this disagreeable situation. The laying of storm sewers, preparatory to paving this Second Avenue, which is the main street leading out of town toward the Airport where the Fair was in progress last week, was completed just in time to allow the flow of traffic, which beat the newly turned earth into a fine dust. A very unhealthy situation. This avenue was closed again Saturday morning. It should have been closed all the week, while the traffic was heavy.

A GOOD FAIR—

But despite the dust we enjoyed our visits to the Fair. It was termed a success all around. We especially enjoyed the livestock exhibits. Some real livestock was exhibited by some of the leading farmers of the County. Some of this stock was for sale. Many of the calves and grown bulls were owned by different 4-H Clubs of the County, and the care and attention given these animals could be seen in their sleek, healthy appearance. Some of the finest mares and colts we've ever seen were exhibited under the supervision of Dr. W. L. Parrish and Bill Fiquette. Practically all were prize-winners, but of course, only one of each kind could receive first prize. The many other exhibits by various firms of the City were attractively arranged. We were very much impressed by the exhibit of the Chilton County Health Department. Interesting information about safeguarding the health of children was encompassed in this exhibit. Microscopes through which could be seen the germs of diphtheria and other diseases were included, and many other phases of health and the methods used by the Department to safeguard our health, was exhibited. Women's handicraft, canned goods, poultry and many more exhibits were not lacking in interest. We could write all day about things of interest at the Fair, but we're sure you attended at least one day yourself and saw some of the products of Chilton County farms, and just what is going on in Chilton.

DELOS P. CULP—

Heretofore, we have refrained from speaking for or against any candidate for public office through this column, but there's one man, Delos P. Culp, named by the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee as nominee for the office of Superintendent of Education, who has impressed us very much. Mr. Culp was named as nominee upon the resignation of Luther E. Little, present Superintendent. We believe the Executive Committee is proud to offer this man as the Democratic nominee for this office. As a teacher in the public schools, he has been able to cope with every problem that has arisen, and the recommendations from the communities in which he has taught show that his services have been entirely satisfactory. And as our County Superintendent of Education, we think Delos P. Culp would render a service entirely satisfactory to the people of Chilton County.

BEST WISHES—

Looks like Chilton County High School will have a real band before many months. Arvie Whittington, able director and organizer tells us things are going fine and that much interest has been manifested in the organization. Rehearsals have already begun, we understand, and the list of members who have already come into the organization, we can do nothing but predict a bright future for the C. C. H. S. Band. Mr. Whittington is also director of the Alabama Mills Band. Our best wishes go with Arvie in the latest organization. Chilton County High needs a good band.

THE SACRED BUNDLE

When a famous relic of the Gros Ventre Indians of North Dakota, called the "Sacred Bundle" was acquired by white men in 1907 for the New York Museum of the American Indian, a severe drought which followed was blamed by the tribe on the loss of their good luck bundle, said to contain the skulls of two Indian deities.

When it was done about it, however, until after the disastrous droughts of a few years ago, when steps were taken to recover the relic. Finally the tribe traded for the bundle a sacred buffalo medicine horn, said to be nearly 200 years old.

This year an excess of rain has wrought destruction to the Indians' crops, and some of them favor getting rid of the bundle again. Recently one of them wrote the Indian Commissioner in Washington, saying:

"I would like to suggest that the Indians be induced to return this 'Sacred Bundle' to the museum in New York, and let the white man control the weather."

MORALE ECHOES

For us to achieve a Christ-like character is like climbing to the top of a mountain. We stand at its base, our weakness and wonder if we will ever be able to reach its summit. The peak stands eight thousand feet above us and we very well know that we can not make that climb in a moment. How foolish it would be to try and climb that distance with one step. We must make it taking one step at a time. We can do it by using patience, courage and strength and climbing a little at a time. Some folks give up in their pursuit of a Christ-like character because they cannot reach it in a day, or a year. We can no more have a Christ-like character in a moment's time, than we can step eight thousand feet to a mountain peak. God can wash your heart and make you clean, but character is something that you make through the passing of the years. Climb on, my brother, and at the time you will become more Christ-like.

In a certain town out West they had on a reform movement to rid the town of saloons and the domination by the underworld. Women became very much interested. An election was called. Interested people were urged to the polls and vote for a clean government. On election day nine devout women said that they would spend the day on their knees at the altar of their church fasting and praying that the right would prevail. They did this. All day they wept for a clean government. When the election was over the underworld had won by six votes. If those nine women had helped their prayers with their votes the right would have carried. How foolish it is for us to pray for things and then expect God to pour them out into our hands while we are doing nothing. When we pray for the right, it behooves us to get out and work for it. We must first do our best and then ask God to help.

A farmer near Denver, Colorado, went up to the reservoir one morning and lifted the gates so the water might flow down into his ditches and water his crop. His alfalfa fields were in need of irrigation. After lifting the headgates he returned to his fields to await the coming of the water, but hours passed and no water. He knew the water was released and that it should come through, and so he walked up the dry ditch to locate the trouble. Far up the way he found that the ditch had been filled with rubbish and the water was flooding a neighbor's garden. The trouble was not with the reservoir, but the ditch was obstructed. Why is it that God's grace does not reach your heart and life? There is nothing wrong with God. The trouble is that the channel is obstructed by tween the heart and God. When we remove the debris and make an opening passage up to God's reservoir in the supply for soul irrigation will come down to us with abundant supply.

How well would you think of a person's sanity if you should come upon his standing with folded at the entrance to a dark room, and praying in words like these, "O, Alabama Power Company, I want light. Please, flood my room with that current that you have created at your dam." The first question you would ask that person would be this, "Have you turned on the light, have you pressed the button?" If that person would then say, "No," you would reply, "You idiot, why don't you first turn on the light." Then you press the button and the light floods the room. What the fool was praying for was already there and he did not have it because he would not press the button. Lots of our praying sounds just as foolish as that to God. He has put the resources of heaven at our finger tips. If we want them all to do is to act with common sense and press the button.

THE CHILD AT SCHOOL

With the opening of another school year, the problem of encouraging the child to make the most of the opportunities which the school offers again presents itself. It is a problem in which parents should take a keen interest.

Perhaps the most important objective to be sought is to awaken in the child a real desire for knowledge. It should be pointed out that it is possible to derive enjoyment from the pursuit of school studies if one approaches them with a genuine ambition to learn. The child should not be led to feel that going to school is an unpleasant duty. He should be impressed with the fact that it is a privilege to be appreciated, not only as a preparation for after life, but as a means of present happiness and satisfaction as well.

Some children appear to realize this without urging, but others seem to be naturally averse to mental effort, and require patient handling in order to arouse their interest in school work.

Parents should not place the entire responsibility upon the teachers, but should cooperate with them, not only insisting punctual attendance, but also in leading the child to adopt a proper attitude toward his studies.

There were 2,350,313 farms under mortgage in the United States in 1935. The number was reduced 171,910 from 1930 to 1935.

For seven years Alabama's government existed under a Constitution that its citizens refused to ratify. This period was from 1868 to 1875. Many negroes were members of the legislature during this period.

The textile industry employs more people than any other industry in Alabama, with the total number of wage earners was given at 39,626.

IN MEMORY

The many friends of Estelle Lockhart were saddened last Friday night when the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Ida Bell Lockhart and took her loving little 13-year-old daughter away. She was ill only thirty-one hours but we feel that she is now at rest where there is no pain, sorrow or death. Let us pray that we may live to meet her in Heaven some day.

She leaves to mourn here going, 3 brothers, Fate, John and Reedy; five sisters, Mrs. Lon Giles, Mrs. Jackson Rhodes, Jettie, Neddie and Mary Lockhart, and a host of friends and relatives. But weep not, dear loved ones for we feel that earth's loss is Heaven's gain. She was laid to rest at Mt. Pugh, September 24.

Health Department

Exhibit At Fair Was Proved Great Success

Many favorable comments by Fair-goers were received by the local health Department on the health exhibit at the Fair, according to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. "The many compliments of the public, he stated, "made us feel that our efforts to provide an interesting booth had met with success. We had a particularly enthusiastic response to our display of the stained slides of the causative organisms for tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, malaria and syphilis for microscopic examination. This feature enabled us to introduce to the public the germs which are responsible for our major health problems. For many of the spectators who came into the health booth it was the first opportunity of their lives to look into a microscope."

Another feature which attracted the interest of many Fair-goers was the incubator built by the sanitation officer, Mr. Fred H. Buckelew. This life-saving device for the care of prematurely born infants can be borrowed for use in homes in the County in which it may be needed at the request of the family physician.

The pneumothorax outfit with a large poster explaining how it is used in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis attracted unusual interest also. Well received, also, were the posters on syphilis depicting the main points in the prevention and cure of that disease.

Only one new case of diphtheria was reported to the Health Department last week, occurring southeast of Thorsby.

Leaders Are Named At An Organization Session September 6

Birmingham, Ala.—Pushing forward with plans for an epochal gathering of more than one thousand Southern leaders interested in seeking remedies for the social and economic ills of the South as set forth in the recent report of the National Emergency Council, permanent officers and committees for the Southern Conference for Human Welfare were chosen at a preliminary session of leaders here this week.

The Conference, heralded as "the South's answer to the National Emergency Council report," will be held in Birmingham November 20-23 under the sponsorship of hundreds of the South's most outstanding men and women—educators, ministers, labor leaders, farm experts, editors, industrialists and others.

Mrs. Louise O. Charlton, U. S. Commissioner at Birmingham and member of the Alabama Democratic Executive Committee, was chosen general chairman for the conference and will be personally supervising the ground-work for the South-wide session. Mrs. Charlton is widely known as a progressive leader in women's civic and political activities.

Governor Of Farm Credit Administration

F. F. Hill was recently appointed Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, succeeding W. I. Myers, recently named head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Cornell University. Hill has worked continuously at the Farm Credit Administration since it was organized in 1933, and has been Deputy Governor since 1934.

Although still only 37 years old, Hill is widely known for his work in agricultural economics and farm financing. His experience was drawn upon heavily by the Farm Credit Administration in preparing the "Federal value" appraisal policy which enabled the Federal land banks and Commissioner to refinance over two billion dollars of farm mortgage debts following the breakdown of agricultural credit in 1932-33.

Born on a farm near Kingman, Kansas, not far from the heart of the winter wheat belt, Hill lived there until he was 12 years old when his family moved to a 1500-acre farm near Davidson, Saskatchewan. At that time American farmers were homesteading new Canadian spring wheat land. While he was growing up, going to school and farming, what Hill saw of the boom and collapse in commodity prices and land values during and after the World War period impressed him lastingly.

At Cornell University where he was awarded a scholarship in 1923, after graduating from the University of Saskatchewan and working for a time as agricultural Extension agent, Hill specialized in farm management, agricultural credit, cooperative marketing and other studies accentuating agricultural stability.

Data On Federal Assistance Extended Farmers Given Out

"Growth in knowledge and the use of practical home and farm management practices in my opinion are the most important services that have been made available to rehabilitation farm families in Chilton County," said Marvin Durbin, County Supervisor, when visiting this office recently. "Placing our families in touch with better agricultural methods, as well as guidance in homemaking and proved operations to provide better living is more important than the loans we make," Mr. Durbin continued.

"With the assistance of Miss Ila Merle Brown, the rehabilitation home supervisor, in many cases our farm wives have surprised their men folks and deserve praise for their part in this uphill fight to better living from farm laborers."

"Many of our wives have been taken from the field altogether as they continue to prove their labors are worth more in the home than in the field. The careful planning of additional income activities, an sound management practices, together with preservation of products from garden and field, canning of fruits and of meats enabled most families to lay by a reserve of food that has been found to be the best possible insurance against crop failures. Regardless of what happens these families will have plenty to eat."

The saving in cash outlay for food supplies means that when crops are turned into cash the money can go for things to better living conditions and to pay off obligations and buy wanted and necessary items.

Chilton County farm families keep records just the same as business men do. The inventory, budget, and farm plan is set out in these records, and rehabilitation families know what they want to do and what is best for them to do, how much feed is needed, how many head of livestock to be fed, how many more chickens and how much feed will be required, hogs required for meat for the family and hogs to be raised for sale. Other requirements also of good farm management and husbandry are carefully worked out with the assistance of the rehabilitation supervisors.

"The increase in net worth of most of our families indicate the soundness of the farm and home plans worked out by each family with the aid of rehabilitation supervisors," concluded Mr. Durbin.

Mr. Shevnan says: "The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. EXCHANGE OF GOODS IS GREAT NEED OF FARMER

Washington, D. C.—"In the United States we have very definitely before us the problem of maintaining a market for our export cotton when at the same time we are able to grow far more than we can sell," said Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture today.

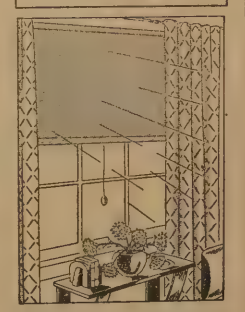

"But the cotton farmer is not alone in this problem. He is not alone in the world market. More and more the principal need of the cotton farmer of the United States," Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture today said.

"The cotton farmer is not alone in this problem. He is not alone in the world market. More and more the principal need of the cotton farmer of the United States," Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture today said.

"We do propose in the United States to make our cotton production methods as efficient as possible. By producing more cotton which can be protected from erosion, by using the most approved varieties of cotton which we are rapidly discovering through an intensive research program, and by reducing pest and other hazards. I believe we are going to be able to meet fair competition from any country in the world, provided we follow a sensible lending policy and provided our tariff policy with regard to the bulk of our imports is such as to enable foreigners to obtain the necessary dollar purchasing power to pay for our cotton surplus."

The statement which I have made with respect to cotton applies in principle to our other exportable agricultural products," said Secretary Wallace. "We believe we can meet legitimate competition from the world in cotton, wheat, and tobacco, and many other products. I believe that by following our trade-restriction program we can build up a sound foreign market for a considerable volume of agricultural exports, and I think we can fill that market in competition with unsubsidized exports from other nations."

Hints for Homemakers

WE'VE been delving seriously into the decorating and merchandising field, and in our quest for new of homefurnishings trends we've discovered color is going to play an extremely important part this fall and winter in the decorating of your home and mine. Of all the colors, yellow with its tonal range is to be outstanding. This means it will be featured in upholstery fabrics, in wallpaper, in paint and in draperies. A logical choice, yes, for it is cheery, warm and grand to live with during the dull winter months.

Even your new fall window shades will be in color. A tone called chrysanthemum yellow is the newest one on the horizon. When hung at your windows it gives your rooms a rich warm glow that is extremely pleasing; then too, it seems to bring the sunshine indoors even on gray days with the result that your home is a most pleasing, hospitable place to live in.

We've had another tip from the decorators—hang two shades at your windows they say—one for inside color harmony, the second for outside street uniformity—and thereby save as much as 45 per cent. This last is a substantial item to consider when the winter snow and cold set in for earnest.

Be sure your cloth shades are hung on new rollers—of well seasoned wood—only then can you be sure your shades will hang straight and true, and will work smoothly and silently.

Thorsby Institute

On Friday at chapel Miss Laverne Jones, history and public speaking teacher at Thorsby Institute, gave a talk giving reasons why as public speaking courses are helpful. They are not merely for the sake of giving reading but teach one how to breathe correctly, have poise, to give a talk without being self-conscious, etc. Miss Jones has had much training in this line and is able to teach adults as well as younger people. Perhaps there are some older people not in school who would like to form a class. It would prove very helpful to the members.

On October 14th at 7:30 P.M., the first open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be held.

Singer On Program At Alabama College

ROSE BAMPTON

Montevallo, Ala.—A series of top-ranking musical, literary and artistic attractions has been arranged for the benefit of the 1938-39 student body of Alabama College, largest in the institution's history.

First offering is Rose Bampton, dramatic soprano, famed for performances in concert, in opera, and with orchestra accompaniment, who will sing at 8:15 P.M. in Palmer Hall on Wednesday, October 5th.

Next will be Carl Sandburg, regarded by many as America's "most truly native poet", who will speak on the evening of November 2. Mr. Sandburg is among the world's best known living poets.

Lady Hay Drummond-Hay, England's great newspaper woman, comes to Montevallo December 2nd. She was aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its historic round-the-world flight, covered the Ethiopian and Chinese-Japanese Wars, and is expected to speak here on her adventures in many parts of the world with rebels and dictators.

Joseph Seigrist, violinist, who plays January 13th, is one of the most sought-after artists in his field. He has filled engagements this year with the New York, Cincinnati and Philadelphia Symphony orchestras.

Other numbers include Soo Yong, of stage and screen, known as the Chinese "Greta Garbo"; "The Sinner", February 3rd; the Humphrey-Weidman Concert Dance Group, March 1-2; and as a climax to the season, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, on March 23.

All students at Alabama College attend the series on their regular college fees. Others may obtain season tickets at $4.50, or separate admissions by writing to the Concert and Lecture Committee.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

By A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer

Auburn, Ala.—In trying to find a solution to the economic problems and especially the agricultural worries of the cotton growing South, probably our greatest danger and weakness is our difficulty in seeing the entire problem and determining the ultimate end of the various plans and courses of action offered. All of these plans look good at first sight. We also fail to recognize some of the steps that are important contributing factors to the proper solution of the problem.

There are several plans being advanced as more adapted to the needs of the South than the present Agricultural Adjustment Act. Farmers and others interested in the welfare of Alabama should make it their business to get correctly in mind a conception of: (1) what the major problems of the South are; (2) the conditions, circumstances, and factors that have led to the development of the problem; and (3) a sensible and logical program leading to a solution of these difficulties. We should have a full and free discussion on the complications we find ourselves entangled in and what is the most balanced course of action to make in correcting these complications.

A few of these might be listed as follows:

- (1) What kind of a program will aid farmers most in providing an abundant living, producing sufficient cotton for domestic and export demands and conserving our soil resources.
- (2) What kind of a program will aid cotton farmers most in getting their fair share of the nation's income.
- (3) What could we expect of the domestic allotment plan for cotton if it were adopted.
- (4) What problems do we have with relation to cotton exports.
- (5) What has been the effect of this and foreign countries' credit and financial policies on our cotton trade.
- (6) What is the cotton farmer's interest in this country's trade and tariff policies.

All of us remember one of the first simple childhood fables told to us, that of the agreement of all the birds to come together for a demonstration in nest building. It is recalled that this was accurately planned and each step was to be carefully explained and followed from the clearing off of the place on the ground where the nest was to be built until the soft downy inside was finished.

However, on the day that the birds came together and as the lesson progressed, many became impatient and flew away. Others were not willing to stay and see the finish; others thought they had learned sufficiently after the first step; and still others thought they

Well Known Resident Of County Died Sat.

James Albert Neeley, age 63, well known resident of this County, died last Saturday, September 24th, following a lengthy illness. Funeral services were conducted from the Bethany Church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock with the Rev. J. A. Range conducting, with J. M. Martin & Sons in charge of burial, which took place in the nearby cemetery.

Mr. Neeley was for several years a prominent farmer of the Enterprise Community. His health had been failing for several years. He sold his farm and moved to Clanton near the cotton mill, where he lived at the time of his death.

He is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Albert Neeley; one son, Aubrey, of Montevallo; seven daughters, Mrs. C. M. Chandler, of the Enterprise Community; Mrs. Eunice Taylor of Clanton; Mrs. Idem Jones of Thomas, Ga.; Mrs. Agnes Holland of Sylacauga; Mrs. Mary Hester of Sylacauga; Mrs. Madeline Strengh of Montgomery; and Madeline Neeley of Clanton.

Local Store To Make Special Offering Of Dutch Tulip Bulbs

Distribution Of Bulbs To Begin Soon

Word has been received by Tiffin Furniture Company from the national headquarters of the Spring-Air Mattress that the tenth anniversary of this product is to be celebrated this Fall through a gift offering of Dutch Tulip bulbs in a colorful Rainbow Collection, and that their store has been allotted a sizeable quantity for local distribution. The offer is so unusual that over a million bulbs have been contracted for.

The general offices of the Spring-Air Mattress are located in Holland, Mich., the city which has become world famous because of its annual Tulip Festival, and so it is highly appropriate that this company should use this means to promote the good will of its product. Tiffin Furniture Company reports that their initial quota of tulip bulbs will soon be on hand, and that an announcement of the offer will shortly be made. Because of the limited number of bulbs that will be available, those who wish to make advance reservations may do so at the store.

had better individual plans.

The result was that many birds drifted away after each step, and so build their nests today stopping with the last step learned. The whippoorwill merely selects a clean place on the ground and lets some of its eggs roll away and consequently is a rare bird. The simple-minded dove makes a mere bed of sticks, but the most sensible and hardy of all birds, the penguin, completes the nest for its young with a lining of the softest feathers plucked from its own breast.

The moral of this is, of course, to be thorough, learn all there is useful about the problem at hand, follow carefully all the agreement of all the birds to come together for a demonstration in nest building. It is recalled that this was accurately planned and each step was to be carefully explained and followed from the clearing off of the place on the ground where the nest was to be built until the soft downy inside was finished.

However, on the day that the birds came together and as the lesson progressed, many became impatient and flew away. Others were not willing to stay and see the finish; others thought they had learned sufficiently after the first step; and still others thought they

Most popular from the standpoint of fashion is this gorgeous Camisole five-eyelet tie. It dresses your foot in such very smart style that you'll thrill to every moment you have it on. MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 4 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Electrical "Measuring Spoons"

NO SALESMAN will try to sell you an "electrical measuring spoon" for your kitchen—because it isn't a kitchen gadget. But it does have a lot to do with the dependability of the electric service you use for cooking, lighting, refrigeration and other household, commercial and industrial purposes.

All electric equipment, even including lamp bulbs, is designed to use a voltage which must be kept within certain limits if the device is to operate satisfactorily. Here is where the "electrical measuring spoon" does its work. Engineers don't call it that, but a "regulator." The ordinary measuring spoon used in the kitchen will hold only so much of the ingredient being measured. The line or generator regulator automatically limits or releases the voltage of the electricity coming from the generator and passing over the wires, so that it is always right for use at the switch in your home or business.

In generator and line regulators you have another example of the development and use by private business, of equipment to make your electric service reliable.

The apparatus shown in the photograph was designed to regulate the voltage on wires carrying 54,000 horsepower.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce the booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

GROWTH OF THE LIQUOR HABIT

I wish to say a few words this week concerning the liquor habit and its growth. But before we do this, as we are going to mention, about the family that we have just recently baptized into the fellowship of our home church (Refuge).

The husband of this home was addicted to strong drink. His good wife read our articles in the Union Banner to him. He testified publicly that our articles started him to thinking on the way.

It has been God's plan down through the ages to save the entire family, but quiting habits will not save man. First, accept Christ and then you will know what habits to give up.

"And they said, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house (Acts: 16-31).

The husband of the above family said, "You can tell the people in your articles that I have paid the price for my indulgence in the liquor business, and I am giving it up once and for all, and I don't care if you call my name."

The above family is Mr. Allen Moatts and wife and two sons. The younger son has not become a member with us yet. He is small, but no doubt, he will be won to Christ by this family who we believe is out and out for the Lord.

With unprecedented rapidity the alcohol habit is being fastened on to the lives of American people. For the first time in history public revenues from alcohol's beverages exceeded one billion dollars last year. Outside of income taxes the Government receives more from liquor than from any other source. Do our American people stop to think of the tremendous waste of life, morals and economic purchasing power there is in this national debauch?

It is one of the causes of the present business decline. It is responsible for thousands of deaths and injuries on the highways. It means the degradation of youth, the despair of poverty, shadows of ill-health and millions devoted to irreligious living. Brewers and politicians are holding high carnival piling up profits and campaign funds while children starve, domestic happiness is blasted, terror and folly ride through the land. Where is the force that can restore the American conscience?

Interesting Letter And Article Received From Miss Meta E. Grace In New York

The following letter and article was received this week by the News, from Miss Meta E. Grace, former Home Demonstration Agent in this County. Both the letter and accompanying article are very interesting, and the many friends of Miss Grace in this County will be glad to learn of her work in the nation's largest city:

"Dear Editor:

From time to time I am meeting many of New York's celebrities and will in the future tell you something of these.

"Will you kindly remember me to my many friends through your paper and in case someone cares to send personal messages my wife the above address will reach me safely.

Enchanting New York

New York with its endless cultural and educational advantages for its seven million inhabitants of all races and speaking all languages, has developed into one of the greatest philanthropic cities in the world.

With its scientific methods of transportation including trains, boats, electric subways, taxi service, jitneys, and limited jitneys, enables the people to get to and from business and activities in an easy as well as a time-saving way which has developed great strides in progress and growth as individuals and as a metropolis. With three great subways already carrying passengers on local and express trains, one of which is being extended and another under construction, carrier thousands of people up and down town daily for the nominal sum of five cents for many miles. The newest of which is said to be in line with Moscow's famous noiseless sub and in less than no time passengers will be listening to pine dropping on the floor or to their neighbors' conversations while riding as a pastime or for recreation.

The living conditions of New York differ in localities with its never-ending streets and avenues but always there is the beautiful "Broadway and Amsterdam" that gives one renewed vigor. The long lines of tenement houses, its slums, its great sections of apartment houses and its several localities of beautiful homes both in and out of New York for many miles and many of which are near or may be on "Morning" or "Riverside" Drive, are filled with the people according to the purses they carry, the clothes they wear, or the language they speak.

New York's educational institutional schools and colleges number in the thousands, including both day and night schools of all occupations and professions from the lowest to the highest, each has a place of its own and in all, turns out annually thousands of prepared boys and girls or men and women who are spokes in this powerful wheel of progress that is now rapidly turning here in the East. What greater assets could any city have than to invest in the education of her own people, as is being done in New York today.

Lovely Hunter College for girls and the College of New York for Boys all having limited financial means are given free education and yet these colleges with high standards and well trained faculty are the best workingmen and the best materials to be had, and by the greatest architects of the land and country, filled to capacity each Sunday and to hear the well-prepared sermons that serves as a guiding light around the many pit-falls of life fills one with that inspirational reverence so essential to the God-fearing souls hungry and weary and needing to be fed with a spiritual essence of "Not how to make a living, but how to live."

The famous Henry Fosdick's Riverside Church with its sweetest carols ever heard. The St. John's Cathedral, which for most fifty years has been under construction and which will take at least fifty more to finish, but which will have the largest seating capacity of any church in the world when finished, to pay nothing of its exotic beauty and welcoming appearance. The old and spiritually St. Patrick's, which recently has entombed the remains of Cardinal Hayes, lends a view all of its own to visitors and those who worship there. The Little Church Around The Corner is constantly bringing happiness to hundreds of brides and grooms coming from far and near and at all hours to be united in holy matrimony or else to worship and afford its share of growth, likewise not to mention the hundreds of other churches just as important in the services they give and the boundless strength of people's burdens they bear.

The theatres so numerous and valuable, the clubs which are indispensable, the beaches and recreational centers, the sports and activities, the richness of talent both developed and undeveloped, the continual struggle for supremacy, the fight for power both in all his glory and strength and unconsciously this magnetic city called New York has a way of absorbing the public at once they fall in the great tide, are swept onward to that never-ending ring—one knows not where.

IN MEMORY

In the passing away of our dear uncle, G. G. Callaway on March 22, 1938, at the home of Mrs. Laura Patterson many hearts were saddened. He left to mourn his loving wife and two sons. Over yonder in the graveyard where the flowers gently wave, Lies one we loved so dearly In his cold and silent grave.

As his loved one, brokenhearted, Stood aside to weep, Safely in the arms of Jesus Dear uncle fell asleep.

He's gone but not forgotten. Never will his memory fade. Loving thoughts forever linger 'Round the grave where he is laid.

A precious one from us has gone A voice we loved is stilled. A place is vacant in his home That never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled A boon to us has given. Although his memory still lingers, His spirits rest in Heaven.

May the hearts of the bereaved be comforted by the thought That whate'er our God ordains is right Here let us take our stand. Though sorrow, pain and death makes earth. For us a lovelier land. —Written by Mrs. Odie Caton

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written by F. G. Stephens, Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Ocala

Department Of Public Welfare

The State Department of Public Welfare as it is now functioning was created by the legislature in 1935. It has a direct legal responsibility for the administration of certain services to children. The Department is also charged to act as the agent of the Federal Government in welfare matters. In discharging this cooperative responsibility to Federal agencies, the Department has made certain cooperative arrangements with such agencies as Works Progress Administration, Civilian Conservation Corps, National Youth Administration, Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, and others.

It is the purpose of this article to illustrate the scope of the public assistance program in Alabama. From the head of this department we learn that during the month of July, 1938, there were 40,623 cases who were either receiving financial assistance or had requested assistance. Of the number 29,166 cases were under the care of the department and 11,457 applications were pending investigation at the end of the month. Of the 29,166 cases which were under the care of the Department during July, 25,380 received financial assistance, and 3,786 were approved but received no financial assistance. There was 8.5 percent increase from June to July in the number of cases receiving assistance.

The amount of $209,886.31 was granted to the 25,380 cases which received financial assistance, the average amount of assistance per case being $11.42. The Department of Public Welfare grants assistance on the basis of need to the following groups: aged, dependent children, blind, mentally and physically handicapped, and those needing temporary help who are not eligible under regulations for the other groups. County and State Funds for old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind are matched by the Federal funds under the provisions of the public assistance titles of the Federal Social Security Act. County funds are matched by State funds for aid to the mentally and physically handicapped and for temporary aid.

Financial assistance was granted to 15,053 under the classification of old age assistance. The average was $10.02 per case. Aid was granted to 5,664 dependent children, at an average of $17.82 per case. Four hundred and thirty-five blind persons were assisted at a cost of $94.2 per case. The mentally and physically handicapped were cared for to the number of 2,033, the average assistance granted being $9.37. During this same period temporary aid was given to 2,195 persons, the average being $6.79.

The extent of unmet need can be estimated on the basis of the figures quoted above. To the 3,786 applications which were approved for financial assistance but were not receiving such during July may be added the 11,457 applications which were pending investigation at the end of July. Statistics show that approximately fifty-two percent of those who apply are eligible. The difference between the number assisted and the number eligible for assistance and the average financial aid provided gives one of the best evidences of the extent of poverty and distress in Alabama.

In June, 1938, only 16 children received aid to dependent children per 1000 estimated populations under 16 years of age in Alabama as compared to a national average of 21. Statistics show that approximately fifty-two percent of those who apply are eligible. The difference between the number assisted and the number eligible for assistance and the average financial aid provided gives one of the best evidences of the extent of poverty and distress in Alabama.

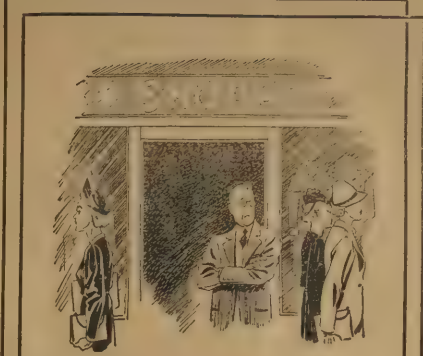

In June, 1938, 139 Alabamians out of each 1,000 of the estimated population 65 years of age and over received old age assistance, as compared to a national average of 218 per 1,000 estimated population. During the month, Alabama's average grant for old age assistance was $10.05, while the average for the nation as a whole was $19.48. Only five states had smaller average monthly grants than Alabama.

Recent estimates show that that 9 percent of Alabama population is receiving public assistance. This does not include persons assigned to Federal Works programs. Following this article will be a description of the child welfare services which are the responsibility of the Department of Public Welfare and a third article describing the service responsibilities of the Department to Federal agencies in the State.

There is one thing about the other store, though. It's well lighted, and the customers can see what they're buying. They also see many other things they hadn't thought of buying when they entered, but are reminded to buy because they're in plain sight under plenty of light.

T. L. WILLIAMS

Following his graduation from the Chilton County High School, T. L. Williams, Clanton District Manager of The Alabama Power Company attended the Newton (Alabama) Normal School one year and then launched into the hardwood lumber business for two and a half years. Feeling that this kind of business was too "hard" he decided to follow "Old Beck" for a while. Finally one day, after coaxing old Beck around the field for a couple of years, T. L. decided it would be much easier to process the products of the farm rather than produce them and he engaged in the gin and warehouse business for about four years.

Finally, the Bug bit him and he made a connection with the Wade Electric and Ice Company of Clanton, thus beginning his utility service in 1914. On June 11, 1917, he secured his first position with the Alabama Power Company as assistant operator at Lay Dam. After progressing through the higher position at Lay Dam he was transferred to Clanton on May 1, 1920, as Local Manager with 250 customers, and has been at that location ever since. As District Manager of that district he now has supervision of the electric service for over 1767 customers.—H. H. Luttrell, In "Powergrams".

DRILLING OF CITY WELL GOING FORWARD SLOWLY

Drillers of the new City well are having considerable trouble in their work. This trouble is in the form of a large rock about seventy feet down, through which the drills fail to pierce.

The City has run into this proposition in previous attempts to drill wells here. It seems this large rock formation extends under this entire section. At least this is the opinion of several engineers who have surveyed the territory, however, Mayor C. Fenn Jones expresses the hope that a sufficient supply of water will be reached soon.

The Layne Central Company, one of the biggest well drilling concerns of the nation, has the contract for the well.

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF ARRESTS DURING PAST WEEK

The past week could be termed a quiet week as far as the arrests were concerned. The records at the office of the Sheriff showed only five persons were placed in the County Jail through Sunday.

SAYS THE NEW PUBLISHER:

To The Readers Of Chilton County News, Greeting!

After looking over the whole State, and studying the advantages and disadvantages of many localities, with the purpose in mind of buying a weekly newspaper and "settling down", I have finally "laid in the Heart of Alabama—Chilton County.

I come to you, not as a stranger, but as a friend and neighbor, seeking employment for head, heart and hand—in the fact that here I will find security, serenity, joy, love and blessedness, and that our days together will be peaceful and happy ones.

There will be no radical changes made in the policy of Chilton County News, and there will be little change in office personnel, for the present. Bonnie Hand will continue as Editor, R. M. Tucker becomes Business Manager, John VanDerweir will be in charge of the mechanical department.

To make complimentary remarks about Billy Smith would be superfluous, as he is considered by Alabama's newspaper fraternity as the outstanding young newspaper genius of the decade in this State.

If I were to tell you a lot of things that I intend to do, and hope to do—and then fail in the doing, you would lose confidence in me. So, the only promise I am going to make is this: I am going to give the patrons of Chilton County News the best I have. I am going to work with and cooperate with the people of my community and County—their problems shall be my problems.

Chilton County News will continue to be published in the interest of all the people. We want all of the people to be interested in the publication of Chilton County News.

Sincerely,

Mark L. Tucker.

About three hundred ministers and delegates are expected to attend from over the State, and a number of visitors from out of State. The General Superintendent, Ernest S. Williams, of Springfield, Missouri, is also expected to attend the meetings. Elder J. C. Thames, the District Superintendent, of Elba, Alabama, will preside throughout the convention, and will preach the opening sermon on Tuesday, October 11th, at 10:30 A.M. The Devotional services will begin each morning at 9:00 A.M. There will be preaching at 11:00 A.M., 2:30 P.M., and 7:30 P.M. each day.

Hospital Service Corp. To Have Representative

Last week Mrs. Peggy Lokey, a representative of the Hospital Service Corporation of Alabama, was in this territory explaining the plan to the people of this section, and stated that a representative for this district would be named in the near future.

Mrs. Lokey was in Clanton again Tuesday of this week and stated that Mrs. Hattie Alred, who is well known in Clanton and Chilton County, had been named by the organization as official representative.

Mrs. Alred has already assumed her duties and stated to a representative of the News that she will be glad to explain the plan of hospitalization to those interested, and accept applications from those wishing to join.

The plan offers the security of hospitalization to everyone for only a small cost per day. It was endorsed by the Medical Association and authorized by an Act of the 1935 Session of the Legislature of Alabama. It is a non-profit organization.

PREPARATORY WORK FOR PAV- ING IS NOW WELL UNDERWAY

The clatter of machinery and the hum of engines of preparation points to the fact that Clanton will have several newly paved streets within the near future.

Work has gone forward steadily since the beginning of the project, and at present many of the streets to be paved are undergoing treatment by the steam shovels, surveyors, etc.

Democrats Open Series Of Meetings Over The County

The Democrats of Chilton County opened a vigorous and active campaign in behalf of the Democratic candidates on Tuesday night of this week, when a real old-time rally and get-together was held at Verbera with all the candidates and a good crowd attending.

Chilton Wins From Isabella Here Friday

The Chilton County High School Tigers chalked up another victory last Friday when they defeated the strong Isabella team on the local field, by a score of 7-0.

Early in the first quarter of the game C. D. Hayes took a forward pass and galloped across the goal line. Locklear took a pass for the extra point. Neither team made much headway during the remainder of the game. The Chilton boys matched to the three-yard line of the Isabella territory once, and a touchdown appeared certain until a penalty was imposed; the Chilton boys losing the ball soon afterward.

The Tigers, for some reason, did not display as much power or alertness in the previous game against Verbera. Isabella's boys displayed real fast action and timed lateral passwork. However, a general tightening up all way around is expected by the boys for their game with Maplesville next Friday. Where this game will be played has not been decided at this writing.

DISTRICT MISSIONARY MEETING

All Missionary Auxiliaries of Chilton County, Verbera and Clanton Circuits, Methodist Protestant Church, are urged to send representatives to the District Missionary meeting at Pleasant Hill, near Billingsley next Saturday, October 8th.

This meeting marked the opening of the last campaign necessary for the Democrats of this County to stage, stated Joe Mullins, chairman of the campaign committee, due to the fact that he is convinced that the Republican ticket will be so overwhelmingly defeated this year that they will not offer a candidate in 1940. Mr. Mullins stated that reports received from a series of campaign headquarters from all parts of the County show, without a doubt, that the voters will again go to the Democrats this year and by a much larger majority than ever before.

Throughout the meeting in Verbera Tuesday night there prevailed assurance of victory and a series of these meetings will be held over the County during the coming weeks. Judge J. Lee Smith spoke to the meeting this week and pointed out that this County is in excellent financial condition and that there was no comparison in this condition and that of the former administrations. AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR CALERA LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

An auto accident, in which five persons were injured, occurred last Sunday afternoon late, about seven miles north of a country road about one mile off the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway.

The fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Blankenship of Siluria received severe cuts about the head and body. In the car with Mr. and Mrs. Blankenship and the child were Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Blankenship, also of Siluria. The accident occurred cuts and bruises about the body. They were carried to the Highland Avenue Hospital in Birmingham by a Spigner ambulance.

MEETING OF INTEREST AT HOTEL TUESDAY

Official And Representative Of Purina Mills Lunch With Friends

At a luncheon at the Thomson Hotel last Tuesday afternoon, about 6 o'clock, attended by members of the Ralston Purina Company, and local Purina Feed Dealers, J. L. Ruffin and son, Bronson, also representatives of the two newspapers in Clanton, and J. H. Jackson, secretary of vocational agriculture at the Chilton County High School, many interesting facts were brought out regarding the proper feeding of livestock, poultry and the diversification of farming in this territory.

J. B. Nutter, salesman for the Purina Company, acted as master of ceremonies at the luncheon. The primary purpose of the get-together was to award Bronson Ruffin, who, with his father, J. L. Ruffin, have been distributors of the Purina Feeds for several years, a charter and certificate showing that he was a licensed Purina Feeding Advisor. Mr. Nutter carried the meeting over to Mr. L. C. Cardinal, Jr., District Sales Manager of the Southeastern District for the Purina Mills.

Mr. Cardinal explained the part his company was playing in the program to encourage diversification of farm (Continued to Back Page)

The 1939 Fair

Chilton County's 1938 Bigger And Better Fair is over, and we think much good was derived from the splendid array of exhibits—farm products, livestock, handicraft, and school work, also enlightenment along the lines of health, sanitation, work that is being carried on by the Chilton County Health Department. This was the second Chilton Fair held in many years, several years having elapsed—fifteen or more—since our County sponsored this enterprise, until last year, when leaders in our County, mainly Dr. V. J. Gragg, started the move, bringing back what never should have been discontinued.

With the closing of this year's Fair, the second in this series, we wonder how we ever got along so many years without one. Chilton County should begin now, preparations for the 1939 "Biggest And Best" Fair. That's the key to our progress, bigger and better every year.

Legalized Dove Baiting

Why do The Montgomery Advertiser and Birmingham News Publish letters from sportsmen who advocate legalized dove-baiting, when the writers of the letters show that they have no knowledge of the law.

The papers know that legalization of dove baiting in Alabama is as remote as legalization of dope peddling, because the State of Alabama has nothing whatsoever to do with the federal laws in dove baiting and dope peddling.

Letters in regard to baiting of doves, the three-shell limit or the seven o'clock time limit, should be addressed straight to Uncle Sam, or his Chief of the Biological Survey.

A writer of a letter-to-editor, published recently in The Birmingham News, says "We hope the next game warden will help us be law-abiding by permitting dove-baiting." That gentleman probably thinks the town marshal in the community in which he live makes the laws regarding robbery, and his local postmaster prints the stamps he sells. The game warden has just as much to do with making the federal game laws as a deputy sheriff has to do with amending the Constitution.—Greenville Advocate.

Getting Work Done

It is related of Henry Ward Beecher, the great Brooklyn preacher of the last century, that when a friend once asked how he managed to get through so much work in a day, he replied:

"By never doing anything twice. I never anticipate my work and never worry about it. When the time comes to do a thing, I do it, and that's the end of it."

The formula sounds simple enough, but how many of us can follow it? An exchange contrasts the methods of fussy persons with the concentration and directness of a Beecher, in this fashion:

"The fussy, hurried, worried man is the chap who tries to do everything at once. He dabbles in this and dabbles in that—finishing nothing. He picks up a letter to answer it and lays it down to pick up another letter and fuss with that. He puts the hard work at the bottom of the pile. He leaves a hard job on his desk day after day until it absolutely has to be done and then he rushes it out in such a hurry that it is seldom done right.

"The big things of life are never done by a fussy man. When one is worrying about half a dozen tasks that must be done in the future, he fails to do the present task as it should be done. One task at a time, finished and started on its way before tackling the next task, is a rule that makes for poise and power."

Clews On The Farm

Two stories that have appeared on nature-stunting on the farm may be evidence of nothing but two farmers' horticulturally adventurous tendencies, or they may be something else again.

One man in the West has been growing more kinds of fruits on a single tree than you can count on the fingers of both hands. Another man way over in New Brunswick has come through with an apple tree that bears 60 varieties of apples and two varieties of pears.

Let everyone hope that this is just good, clean fun, and maybe it'll be just that. The time being one of epidemics in the field of speculation on the possibility that these everything-from-one-tree adventures may be a new step toward universal self-sufficiency, which is getting to be the obsession of the age.

There appears the vision not merely of more and more self-sufficient nations but of highly self-sufficient individuals within the nations, fulfilling all their needs from a few everything trees, a combination grain-and-vegetable plot, and, say, a super-machine-hop-and-dairy.

This would be dandy if there would not also arise the vision of these self-sufficient individuals following the intellectual and emotional patterns some of the nations with the self-sufficiency bug are setting today. A man hates to think of a whole world full of people busy humbling their noses at one another.—Jackson (Miss.) Daily News.

Who's Superstitious?

Are any prospective candidates for the Presidency very superstitious? If so, and if they will ponder the following bit of history, they may not choose to run in 1940.

It is a curious fact that, beginning with 1840, all Presidents elected at 20-year intervals have died in office. And the fateful 20-year period recurs in 1940. Here is the strange record:

William Henry Harrison, -elected in 1840; Abraham Lincoln, elected in 1860; James A. Garfield, elected in 1880; William McKinley, elected in 1900; and Warren G. Harding, elected in 1920, all died while holding the office of President.

Harrison, who was 63 at the time of his inauguration, died of pneumonia exactly one month later. Lincoln was re-elected in 1864, but was assassinated in the month following his second inauguration. Garfield was assassinated a few month after taking office. McKinley's election in 1900 was for a second term, of which he had served a little more than six months before his assassination. Harding died suddenly at San Francisco, after serving two years and nearly five months.

Thus it will be seen that of the six Presidents who have died in office, five are included in the foregoing list. The other, Zachary Taylor, was elected in 1848 and died in 1850.—Florence Herald.

FDR Still Leads In Gallup Poll

According to the Gallup poll President Roosevelt is still the favorite with the American voters. The latest poll shows that the President is favored by 55.2 percent of the voters. This was taken on the heels of the attempted "purge" on the part of the President. Perhaps the voters think that it makes little difference as to the attitude of the senators they elect, because they expect the President to have his way in matters of legislation regardless of the opposition on the part of conservative senators. It may be that the action of the President in putting the conservative senators on the spot will produce a better behavior on their part in the next congress. At any rate the President is still the leader of the party and even the conservatives will hesitate to challenge this leadership in a straight-out liberal and conservative issue before the people.—Andalusia Star.

There seems to be an increasing interest in education throughout the nation and it is predicted that there will be more children enrolled in the public schools this year than ever before. More and more we are coming to realize that the public school system is the bulwark of those democratic principles upon which our government rests. More interest in being taken in training our youth in citizenship. Efforts are being made to increase their knowledge in government and encourage independent thinking. This is as it should be. Every student, even in the junior high schools, should know how his state and federal governments function.—The Southern Democrat (Oneonta).

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

FAREWELL—

With the passing of last week we said farewell to Billy Smith as publisher of The Chilton County News. We have enjoyed our work with the News under the supervision of Billy. From the day he purchased this paper from Mr. J. B. Atkinson we have endeavored to do our share in giving this county a newspaper it could be proud of, for it was on that day Billy hired a new printer's devil. We could not expect more courteous consideration from any employer than that we have received from Billy. From Printer's Devil to Editor—working side by side, we can honestly say that there has been not one word, hinting of ill feeling, between us. When the going was tough, and when the going was smooth, there has been one uppermost desire in our hearts, and that was to make the News a better weekly newspaper with each issue, and now that we continue the duties of Editor under the supervision of Billy, we feel that we will accomplish much, if we, in time, become half as good a newspaperman as Billy Smith.

WELCOME—THE TUCKERS—

There is always a little uneasy apprehension when one has a new boss. One is inclined to wonder what he will be like, and what kind of changes he'll make or whether you'll like him or whether he'll like you. We have been around the new owner of the News only a short while until our fears were allayed. Mr. Tucker has impressed us as a real gentleman, an experienced newspaperman, business man, and a square shooter. A man many years our elder, we feel that we can learn much from his guidance, and right here and now we pledge our every effort to aid in keeping the News up to its present standard, and trying, with every issue to help Clanton and Chilton grow, for as it grows, so shall the News grow. Coming to Clanton with Mr. Tucker is Mrs. Marion Tucker, and then there's the two younger Tuckers. We feel that Clanton has already taken them all to its heart, and that they will be an asset to Clanton, and Chilton County.

SCHOOL TEACHERS—MANY—

School teachers here, and school teachers there; school teachers almost everywhere. Monday of this week saw many Chilton County teachers in Clanton, when they convened for the annual institute. We have always been inclined to believe that it was following the teachers institute every year that school work really got underway. Here's best wishes for a most successful school year in Chilton.

PAVING—

Many residents of the City are finding it a problem to get to and from their homes in the city at the present. Work of getting the streets in shape for paving is underway, and in a big way. There's one consolation about all this, though, and that is we'll all enjoy for many years to come the many paved streets that Clanton will have after this work is ended. No longer can it be said that Clanton has no paved streets in its residential sections.

AN EARLY RECOVERY—

Dr. V. J. Gragg is in Port St. Joe, Florida this week, and with him are our best wishes for a great improvement in his health, while there. Dr. Gragg is a leader in this community, and his many friends here miss him and join in wishing him an early recovery and return to Clanton.

993 MILES OF NEW ROADS COMPLETED IN ALABAMA

According to announcement made by Judge John C. Petree, State Director for the National Emergency Council for Alabama, the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, in cooperation with the State Highway Department, has completed 993 miles of roads, has 304 under construction and has approved 135 miles for construction in the State of Alabama since 1933. They have built, repaired, or improved 63 grade crossings, and have 11 under construction now, as well as 8 that have been approved for construction, but on which no work has been started.

In June of this year, 3751 men were employed on Federal projects, 812 on State projects, and 1,048 were employed on maintenance work on the completed Federal and State Highways.

Judge Petree announced also that the total expenditure on this program by the Federal Government was more than 30 million dollars. This program does not include the mileage built or the money expended by the Works Progress Administration.

Alfred Bell of Lemington, Eng., worked his way up for three hours in a 130-foot chimney to rescue a stray cat. An eight-hour laugh from taking gas was enjoyed by Vito Roges of New York when he had a tooth extracted. George Colving of San Pedro, Calif., was fed up "after having nine fights with my wife's boy friend, whom I had thrown out of my house that many times." Divorce granted.

MORAL ECHOES.

D. W. Haskew

The prisoner stood before the judge and the judge sternly asked, "Why did you strike this man?" "He called me a liar, Your Honor," replied the accused. "Is that true," asked the judge of the man who stood by with a mused up face. "Sure it is true," said the accused. "I called him a liar because he is one and I can prove it." The judge turned to the defendant and asked him, "Did he have anything to say to that?" "That had nothing to do with the case, your Honor," replied the man, "even if I am a liar, I guess I have a right to be sensitive about it, ain't I?" We all find folks who are terribly sensitive about being called what they are.

When President Taft was a young law reporter he was sent out to study a case at Somerville, Ohio. After he had completed his work he discovered that he could not get back to his office that night unless he could get the railroad officials to stop the through express train. He called on the agent and asked of him if the fast train would stop for a large party. He was promptly informed that it would. "Then," he said, "have it to stop. I have a large party waiting for it." On schedule the train rolled up at the depot. Taft went on board and the conductor inquired where the large party was. The young man smiling and pointing at himself, said, "I am it. This is all, thank you. That is what you call lying and not lying."

One of those nosing kind of neighbors rushed over to the home of one to whom she took delight in departing gossip and related that she had just heard about a newly married couple. Then she complacently remarked, "One half of the world don't know how the other half lives." The neighbor, who was really tired of her gossiping visits, replied rather shortly, "Well, that isn't your fault." We all know a few people who go about like a Blue Bottle Fly—to light on bad smelling things and then fly away to where they can clean their feet. Some people seem to live that way they gather up and scatter abroad things.

Husband and wife were riding home from church. Said the wife to her husband, "Did you notice that lovely lavender hat and those exquisite pumps that Mrs. High-up was wearing today?" "No," said the husband. "I can't say that I did. To tell you the truth I've half asleep the most of the service." "Then you ought to be ashamed to admit it," retorted the woman, "that sermon of Dr. Haskew must have done you a precious little good." The preacher wonders who gets the most out of a sermon, the man who nods, or the woman who studies the fashions, during the services.

A tall husky man entered the office of the editor of the county paper and with no deception as to his feelings he shouted, "I've come to kill a printer." The foreman of the press business stepped up and looking him in the eye inquired, "Any printer in particular?" "O, any one will do. However, I prefer a small one, but fellows, I have got to have a fight to get on well at home. My wife is on the warpath since she saw in your paper where you referred to her tea party last week as being "a swell affair." For a moment it seemed that there was going to be trouble but the men agreed and shook hands but I do not know how the husband reported to his wife. Perhaps—Perhaps—No, I just will not say that all parties are swell affairs.

We were talking about people having peculiarities and one man boasted that he had less peculiarities than any one he knew. "Is that so," replied another. "Let's see. Do you stir your coffee with your right hand or your left?" "Of course I stir it with my right hand," said he. "Well," said the man, "most people I know stir their coffee with a spoon." You think that you have fewer peculiarities than your neighbors, but he says that you have many more than is to be found on his side of the fence. When it is all balanced up all of us are about the same. It is six on one side and a half a dozen on the other side.

POULTRY SHOW TO BE HELD AT GOLDEN GATE EXPOSITION

San Francisco—Two gigantic poultry shows, one for utility stock and the other for fancy fowl, will be held on Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay in 1939, to show off the industry which has an annual turnover of $1,250,000,000. The Golden Gate International Exposition will provide upwards of $45,000 in prize money for the two events.

This was revealed recently by Ezra J. Fieldstead, Chief of the Exposition's Livestock Division, who set November 13th to 19th for the fancy exhibition in 1939.

The poultry committee of the Livestock Division decided to split the general show when demands for space exceeded housing facilities, John Lawler, Chairman, reported.

The utility show will feature chickens, turkeys, rabbits and pigeons; the fancy exhibition will be devoted to turkeys, chickens, ducks, geese, bantams and water fowl. The California Poultry Improvement Association will sponsor the first and the latter will be held in cooperation with the American Poultry Association.

Winner of $30,000 in an "ugly man contest," R. M. Roney donated the money to a Melbourne, Australia, hospital.

Red Cross Nurse Is Envoy Of Mercy to Aged and Sick

The day is brightened for this aged invalid through the helpful call of the Red Cross Nurse.

IN MORE than 890 communities in the United States, the Red Cross public health nurse is a familiar figure as she goes on her daily rounds of mercy to the sick. During the last year these nurses paid more than a million visits to or on behalf of the aged, the invalid, the new born babe and mother, and children of all ages.

In her community the Red Cross nurse works with local medical authorities in examination of school children. During the last year Red Cross nurses examined 628,000 school children for physical defects, many of which they helped in having corrected.

These public health nursing services are supported by the communities. Many similar services on the remote islands of the U.S. coast, in mountain sections and rural areas are supported through national funds of the American Red Cross. The nurses also teach Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick course, reaching 55,000 persons last year with instruction in sanitation, care of the invalid, the infant, and disease prevention knowledge.

Nurses who meet required standards of training are enrolled by the Red Cross Nursing Service for quick recruiting in disaster or other national emergency.

THE shortest definition of salesmanship is — service. Every salesman should remember that one reason why service is important is that it builds in the mind of the buyer a feeling of satisfaction and confidence that makes the one-time buyer into a steady customer.

The most successful sales clerk in any retail store is the one who understands the merchandise he is selling and the customers who buy. The job of selling the right article to the right person is of great importance. Many persons appreciate having a clerk inquire as to the use which is to be made of a certain article and it is often good judgment on the clerk's part to express an opinion as to the material under consideration. It is the ability to give personal attention that sets the successful sales clerk apart from his or her associates.

Few persons say "Good Morning" or "Good Afternoon" well. It is possible to put a great deal of feeling into two words and the person who sells should learn that the proper delivery of the salutation is very important. Give it heartily and courteously, yet without overemphasis of gush.

Agricultural Adjustment in Alabama

By A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer

This week we are beginning a discussion of certain economic questions which face Alabama agriculture, and which must be solved if the State, South and Nation are to continue along the road of progress.

To get at the basic facts tied up with the many problems which are crying for adequate solution perhaps it is best to state question and then give the answers. Therefore, in our column this week we will follow this procedure.

1. What are some of the problems connected with soil conditions and uses in Alabama?

(a) Alabama farmers have an average of 6 acres of cropland per person. This compares with the United States average of 13 acres and an average for the State of Iowa of 21.

(b) This scarcity of land forces Alabama farmers to produce intensively cultivated crops such as cotton and tobacco that require large amounts of human labor. This scarcity of land also prevents to a great extent, due to low yields per acre, the crop diversification, production of food and feed crops, pastures and livestock which we all agree that Alabama needs so badly.

(c) Most of the land in the South is poor due to rolling topography, high rainfall, and a warm climate which increases erosion and organic disintegration in the soil. Sixty-one percent of the nation's badly eroded land is in 13 Southern States with conditions similar to Alabama. The South is losing top soil to the value of $300,000,000 annually by erosion.

2. What is the tariff policy of the United States and how does it affect agriculture in Alabama?

(a) The United States for more than one hundred years has followed a high protective tariff policy for the benefit of manufacturing industries. The value of most agricultural products and especially cotton is determined by the world price for such commodities without benefit of tariff protection. The result of this tariff protection for industries resources are suited, but when Alabama attempts to expand industrially, we find freight rate discriminations that make it practically impossible for the products of such industries to go to the markets where such products are consumed.

(b) The effect of this excess population engaged in agriculture and our condition of deficient industries has resulted in greater cotton surpluses, lower income, lack of markets for agricultural products, and the inability of people in the South to keep pace with the rest of the country in the use of manufactured products.

(c) The average cash income from farm production in the 38 states outside the South in 1937 was $359 per person. The average income per farm person in Alabama was $91. The average income per person in the United States not engaged in agriculture was $492 in 1935.

SOIL BUILDING PROGRAM BENEFITS SHORTER FARM

Auburn—Production of a "bumper" crop of cotton and feed material in spite of the hot weevil and bad weather conditions has convinced A. D. Ray, a farmer near Shorter, that soil-building practices pay big dividends. Mr. Ray reports that he has made 75 bales of cotton on 64 measured acres of land this year. He estimates that his corn will yield 35 bushels per acre. In addition to these crops Mr. Ray has produced enough peanuts to fatten 70 or 80 head of hogs and plenty of legume hay for farm usage. He says, "If we hadn't had a bad crop year, I'd have made a pretty fair crop."

Mr. Ray is an ardent believer in cover crops. He states that his aim is to have every acre of his farm under cover during the winter. He has been planting winter legumes for more than five years and likes them better and better each year. His experience has taught him that basic slag is of untold value under winter legumes. He reports that the two best crops he ever made were growing vetch that had been fertilized with 400 pounds of Basic slag. Mr. Ray has concentrated his efforts on soil building work. He states that now since he has his feed to the point where he can raise feed stuff, he intends to increase his livestock. His next efforts will be exerted toward the development of an ideal pasture. When this is done he will have a high yield of cotton; plenty of corn and permanent hay; Peanuts and hogs; pasture and cows.

When a son was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mitchell of Mitchellville, Ia., Mr. Mitchell became so ill from upset nerves that physicians ordered him to bed.

"Some years ago my boys climbed over the fence, and I want to pay for them," said an unsigned note containing a $1 bill received by Hans Kardel, secretary of the county fair at Charlotte, Mich.

Annual Chilton County Fair September 28-34.

The Annual Chilton County Fair was held September 20-24. At this time a large shed, which has recently been constructed on the Fair Grounds, was used to take care of livestock which was brought in by the farmers and club members. There were approximately 20 horses, mules, and colts, 6 beef animals, 30 dairy animals, and 16 purebred Duroc hogs and pigs exhibited. These animals were on exhibit for three days: On Friday, September 23, all animals were judged by F.W. Burns of Auburn, and Mr. Moore of Montgomery. The Chilton County Club won $20. The remainder of the cash prize money was awarded to the various farmers and club boys who owned the stock individually.

It is estimated that approximately 2500 people passed through the barn and observed the livestock on exhibit during the three days.

Beef Animals Purchased

A trip was made to Auburn September 13 at which time a beef animal was purchased by Frank Collins, a 4-H Club Boy of the Mt. Pleasant Club.

Annual Litter Show and Sale

The annual litter show and sale was held in Montgomery on September 15 and 16. Austin McCarty, Junior, was purchased by Frank Collins, a 4-H Club Boy of the Mt. Pleasant Club, which amounted to $25.00. Austin's pigs were farrowed March 4, 1938, which was then 6 months and 14 days old on the day of the show and sale. There were ten pigs in this litter and their total weight was 3410 pounds, for which he received 9 cents per pound, which figures $306.90. This makes a total of $331.90 gross income for 10 pigs. His total feed cost $146.00 leaving him a net profit of $185.90.

These pigs were a cross between Pure Bred Duroc Jersey Sow and Pure Bred Poland-China male. The above pigs were fed 4956 pounds of corn and corn meal and 700 pounds of hog supplement. In addition, they had access to a mineral mixture of equal parts by weight of charcoal, lime and salt. They were also fed green feed daily. This type of project shows very definitely that livestock furnishes a good market for home-grown feed crops and it is hoped that it will encourage more livestock projects of this nature in Chilton County.

Annual State Fair—Birmingham

were carried to Birmingham on September 25 for the State Fair where they remained on exhibit throughout the entire week. A judging team which consisted of W. B. Crow, James Messer, and Ned Dennis was carried to Birmingham Sunday also, to take care of the cattle and to compete with boys from nine other counties in judging dairy and beef cattle on Monday. These three boys won fourth place in the judging.

Tuesday was the day of showing all animals at the State Fair. On this day the County Agent, J. W. Fant and the dairy producer, R. M. Foshee, carried up other members of the Club to show their individual animals. The Chilton County Club won a total of $81.00 in cash prizes. During the day all livestock were paraded in front of the grandstand where many people observed the prize winners of the state fair. Several thousand people paraded through the livestock barns and observed all types of animals which were exhibited throughout the week.

"AN ALABAMA COMPANY SERVING ALABAMIANS"

Deceased Policyholders Received Benefits Amounting to 7 Times the Premiums They Paid In!

- During the first eight and one-half months of 1938 (to be exact, during the 256 days ending September 13th) Brown-Service saved the people of Alabama $1,277,500.00 in funeral costs! From each policyholder whose death occurred during that period the Company received an average of only $44.74 in premiums from the time the policies were taken out until death occurred.
- In other words, since January 1st, 1938, the Brown-Service Insurance Company SAVED the families of deceased policyholders the enormous sum of $1,277,500.00 in funeral costs for those buried during these 256 days... equal to a saving of over $4,900 per day in the aggregate to the families of these deceased policyholders... a saving of $1,277,500.00 which would have had to be paid out in funeral costs had they not been protected by Brown-Service Insurance!
- Brown-Service is therefore truly "An Alabama Company Serving Alabamians." We operate exclusively within Alabama... all our activities are in the interests of Alabama and Alabamians... we are investing all our assets within Alabama... and by maintaining a payroll of more than 600 employees and with 106 Funeral Homes throughout the state to service our policies, Brown-Service is not only building up a greater Alabama, but is at the same time helping in many ways by holding down the cost of funerals in our state.
- A Brown-Service representative resides in your neighborhood and without obligation will be glad to call at your convenience and explain the benefits of Brown-Service Insurance for you and your family.

BACKED BY FULL LIFE INSURANCE RESERVES!

- Each and every policy on which premiums are paid to Brown-Service is backed by full Life Insurance Reserves amply sufficient to carry out the contract. MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEFENDABLE
No. 5 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."
—REDDY KILOWATT

Before You Could Blink
Your Eyes

IT'S truly a "mechanical miracle"—this directional distance relay used on the Alabama Power Company system to isolate transmission line trouble without "hunting around."

It's one of the "brainiest" devices of the many types of relays in use. It is built so that it "knows" when and how fast it should operate in case of trouble or when it should let some other relay clear the system of trouble.

It works so fast that if you were watching it and blinked your eyes, its operation would be completed almost before your eyelids could move.

Protective relays of many types are installed at numerous points on Alabama Power Company system. They are among the many costly devices developed by engineers (in private industry) which keep your electric service dependable.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the book by writing Dept. 219, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

THE popular idea of advertising is that it consists chiefly in the writing of advertisements. More important than the preparation of copy, however, is the ability to understand the prospective customer's wants so as to know how the most effective sales appeal may be made.

All of us are engaged in some form of selling every day. Perhaps you need do nothing more than sell yourself. When all is said and done, successful selling depends largely upon each man's individual ability to adapt himself to the peculiar circumstances of each situation and to handle with skill the numerous details that enter into the sale. This requires the use of observation, diplomacy, persistence, patience and a full knowledge of the commodity one is selling. Of course, there can be no hard and fast rules for conducting interviews with an almost endless variety of human beings. The salesman, like the military general, must plan his campaign with all the resourcefulness at his command.

Enthusiasm is the spark in the salesman's personality. It is the glow of sincerity that radiates naturally from the face of the salesman who believes in himself and his product; who believes in the value of his product and the company back of it; and who believes in the possibility of selling as one that is worthy of his best efforts.

Sardis News

Sunday School was very well attended Sunday, but it could be better and larger if the people would just wake up to their duties. Let's everyone remember that next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days so let's everyone come out, because you will never regret coming. Sunday School at ten o'clock and preaching at eleven o'clock.

Power Company To Improve And Expand

Birmingham, Sept. 30.—Alabama Power Company today announced a $383,000 improvement and addition program for its transmission and distribution facilities in Southeast Alabama. This amount covers only the major equipment which will be purchased or moved into the territory and does not include regular minor extensions and additions which are made from year to year and which will probably amount to several hundred thousand dollars more during the next 12 months, if business continues at present levels or improves.

Preliminary engineering work has been in progress for some weeks on the project, materials and equipment are already on hand or on order and active work in the field is scheduled to start about October 15th with view of completion about March 15th, 1938.

This improvement program is the result of consideration given to the growth in the use of electric service in Southeast Alabama and to future prospects for this territory.

The project includes a partial rebuilding of the present high voltage line to Union Springs; the extension of 10,000 volt service as far as Eufula; the reconstruction of the 44,000 volt line between Eufula and Dothan; and extensive improvements and additions in and around Dothan.

The completion of this program should result in still more dependable electric service for Southeast Alabama. Its inauguration represents the conviction of officials of Alabama Power Company that the development of Southeast Alabama may be expected to continue. The program announced will mean sizeable expenditures in the section for labor, construction materials and supplies and other services within the improvement area.

Officials of Alabama Power Company state that "this substantial improvement program is in line with the Company's policy of providing electrical facilities in line with both the immediate and anticipated electric service needs of the territory it serves."

Clanton FFA News

The Clanton Chapter of FFA has started off for a good year. The members seem to have good interest in the work. We have started our activity program. If we carry out all the program we will have a most successful year. All the boys have pledged themselves to carry this out.

We entered an exhibit in the County Fair and won second place which was $40.00. We took this money and bought a registered Jersey Bull, which is being kept by Ray Miller at Miller's Dairy. We purchased it from Marion Smith, of near Thorsby.

ONE QUESTION Leads to ANOTHER

YOUR affairs are rarely so simple, whether they are business or social in nature, that a brief communication is adequate to settle them fully when the other party is in another city.

One question leads to another—and that is why a three-minute long distance telephone call is not only effective, but truly economical.

It is a two-way exchange of ideas. It saves time. It allows the warm tones of your voice to express your personality. It enables you to use a surprisingly large number of words. Best of all, it is low in cost.

Look in the front pages of your telephone directory, or ask the "Long Distance" operator, for the rates on the call you would like to make.

Long distance telephone rates on most calls are even lower after 7 P. M. every night, and all day Sundays. But any time, to anywhere, telephone you get results.

Plowing Terrace Channels

Proper plowing of terrace channels twice a year is essential to good terrace maintenance, according to Mr. James H. Wood, of the Soil Conservation Service area near here.

Since growing crops hinder the plowing of terraces, the period between the harvesting of summer crops and the planting of fall-sown grain or winter legumes is an excellent time to do terrace maintenance. Heavy rains during the past cultivating season caused considerable silting of terraces on clean-tilled fields, Mr. Wood said.

Plowing of terrace channels in the spring and fall can be done with a turning plow as the land is prepared for crops. Where breaks have occurred, these should be repaired with drag pan

MIRRORS FOR SPACIOUSNESS

WINTER winds howling outside will only intensify the cozy charm of this living room which is an excellent example of a modified modern decor. Although small, the room gains a sense of spaciousness from the strategically placed large glass mirror. The sectional divan is upholstered in one of the new home-spun in wine and tan and has a tan leather trim. The coffee table has mirror glass tops with chromium and shovel.

Where terrace ends have silted up, it is highly important that they be opened to permit water to flow freely out of the channel and prevent overtopping, Mr. Wood added.

In 1935 there were 39,626 wage earners employed in the textile mills and in the manufacture of textile products in Alabama. The average yearly wages paid was $581.99.

trim and legs of light walnut to match the triangular bookcase. The carpet is a warm brown toning in with the upholstery of the divan. Unseen are two other chairs, one upholstered in tan leather matching that on the divan and another in wine velour and a walnut desk with tan leather top. The interior decoration department of your favorite store will be glad to help you in planning such a room at moderate cost.

According to the monthly bulletin of the Alabama Industrial Board, there was shipped out of the State lumber products to the amount of $43,362,225. This brought into Alabama twice as much as all the cotton shipped out of the State.

There are 68 non-alcoholic beverage establishments in Alabama and the value of their products in 1935 was estimated at $49,607.77. The cost of the material used in their production was given at $18,958.52.

Game And Fish News
Union Springs Trials
The Fifth Annual running of the Alabama Amateur Shooting Dog trials was held January 30-31 on the Maytag preserve near Union Springs. It was announced by Rufus Maloy, Club secretary, in a letter to the Alabama Game and Fish News. Drawing from braces will take place Sunday night, January 29, at Union Springs. Entrance fee will be $3.50. Judge will be L. B. Maytag and Col. T. S. Fraser, while George Harden, Jr., manager of the Maytag preserve, will be guide and marshal. Last year in the two days running of the trials, 52 covies were found and handled. Harden says that 100 percent more bird food has been planted this year and there is a great increase in quail. Everybody is invited to attend the trials. Horses will be available at nominal cost, and lunch will be served on the grounds.
Quail Distribution
Shipments of Bobwhite quail to all parts of the State are being made at the rate of two or three truckloads a week in an effort to give every county in Alabama its share of the estimated 6,000 birds that will be available from the State Game Farm this year, according to Commissioner L. T. Quinn. On September 16th, a consignment of birds went to Jefferson, Blount, Etowah, Cahoon, Cleburne and Marshall Counties. September 19th, Chambers, Lee, Macon, Randolph and Tallapoosa got 100 birds each. The next trip was September 21, and birds were sent to Mobile, Baldwin, Conecuh, Escambia and Butler counties. On September 23 quail were delivered in Walker, Tuscaloosa and other counties in that section. The quail are released on lands designated by county conservation clubs and sportsmen's organization.

This Repeal Havoc
Here in the United States exist conditions which are fast becoming unbearable. About half of the young people drink intoxicating liquor—some are already habitual drunkards. More than 1,350,000 young women and girls are being used by liquor establishments to lure men to drink.
Our highways are filled with drunken drivers who menace the lives of travelers. In the year 1937, there were 39,400 deaths in traffic accidents; hundreds of thousands of persons were permanently crippled and incapacitated for coping with life's battle.
Drug stores, restaurants and grocery stores, which five years ago were respectable establishments and carried only clean line of merchandise are now little less than filthy saloons.
Our sidewalks are cluttered with the drunks—even mothers with babies in their arms stagger about.

Births of idiotic babies (which during prohibition was almost unknown) are rapidly increasing. Our list of defective and underprivileged children has mounted tremendously. The very air we breathe is polluted with the stench of alcohol.
Kidnapping and all manner of atrocious crimes are rapidly increasing. The demand for salacious literature has grown alarmingly. It is considered "smart" to get on a "jag".
It has become dangerous for a man to step out on a dark street, much more so for a woman.
Immorality runs unchecked. Syphilis and other death-dealing diseases have increased to such a terrifying extent that our government has made huge appropriations for the purpose of curing (if possible) those afflicted, and eradication of the disease, which, we know, is time wasted and money thrown away so long as we allow alcoholic drink.
Insane asylums, penal institutions and orphanages are filled to overflowing—many more such institutions to accommodate increase in cases.
Very few persons, in comparison to population attend any church, and scarcely anyone is interested in reform or uplift work, especially in this among the young people. Apathy, indifference and shirking of duty are now flagrant characteristics of a huge majority of our citizens. Those of us who still have a claim to respectability are content to merely drift along without lifting a finger to stop the trend to crime and shame which grows baser and baser, so prolifically, since it receives the greater part of its nourishment from alcohol.
In short, our once great nation has sunk into a quagmire of degradation from which the most uncivilized and savage country on earth should shrink with horror and disgust. We are filled with drunkenness, disease, poverty and crime of the lowest type imaginable. We stand upon the precipice of total destruction. We have forgotten our God!
"Who is to blame for our being in this horrible condition?" asks some reader. Our answer is The Voters of America, you are to blame. You caused our once sweet-smelling earth to send forth a stench which ascends into the heavens when you put that little "X" on your ballot in front of the word "Yes" to repeal the 18th Amendment, instead of placing it before "No," as you should have done. You never had thought that innocent little "X" would turn into a cross too heavy for us to bear, a gigantic, bloody cross, crushing us down, down, down into a pit of filth and slime, as repeal became effective, did you? Well it did.
Mr. Voter, do you remember what God says about the man who putteth the bottle to his neighbors lips and maketh him drink?

Oh, you never never gave a man a drink in his life, and you never touched the stuff yourself. You just voted that way because they told you it would make times better, you say. No, true, you never gave a man a drink literally, but you have put the bottle to the lips of millions by your voting wet. You have placed a stumbling block in their path, you are not innocent. A man's vote is a sacred tool to be used in the carving of his country's destiny. When you voted wet you used that tool to tear down and not build up—you used it to destroy and not to save the nation. Yes, Mr. Voter, you are to blame. God help you.—Rev. M. Lockhart, Rte. 5, Clanton.

HILL STORE OFFERING SPECIAL FALL OPENING PRICES HERE

L. J. Stewart, general manager of the local Hill Grocery Store, stated this week that they are offering real bargain prices on everything in the grocery line.

The Hill Store is a consistent user of newspaper advertising space, and Mr. Stewart told a representative of the News that their business had shown a possible ten percent increase during the past year, which sounds very encouraging, to say the least.

MAJOR IS DEAD
 "Major" is dead. "Major" was the name of the big white dog owned by the J. M. Martin family. You've often seen him on the street near the funeral home, we're sure. He was a peace-loving dog, and on hearing his eighteenth birthday "Major" was content to lie on the edge of the sidewalk and gaze upon the passerby with little interest. "Major" lived to a ripe old age, as the span of dog life goes, and we feel sure he passed a funeral in the usual efficient manner. 10-6-38.

In recent years other manufacturers have recognized the superiority of the sealed type of mechanism and have adopted it. But the General Electric mechanism is far beyond the experimental stage. Its quality and lasting performance has been proved in over 2,000,000 homes.

Here is a straight-from-the-shoulder statement backed by the largest electrical manufacturer in the world—the General Electric Company:

• In your home no other refrigerator at any price can produce more cold . . . preserve more food . . . freeze more ice and give more convenience for the little current cost of a General Electric.

★ VACUUM SEALED AND OIL COOLED ★ GENERAL ELECTRIC MONITOR MECHANISM

SEALED IN AN ARMOR OF STEEL,
HUSHED IN A BLANKET OF OIL
Safely protected by a casing of sturdy steel from air, dirt and moisture, the precision built General Electric refrigerator mechanism is cooled in a permanent bath of oil and at all times receives the additional protection of pressured lubrication.

Since 1927 the now famous and widely imitated General Electric Monitor Mechanism has been sealed-in-steel with a permanent supply of oil. 1938 General Electrics have the added advantage of

FORCED-FEED LUBRICATION

Probably the most important advancement of recent years in household refrigeration is General Electric's Oil Cooling and Forced-Feed Lubrication. By this ingenious method the permanent supply of oil is pressured to every bearing surface—circulated under pressure at the rate of three quarts per minute—so that at all times the bearing surfaces are separated by a fine film of oil. This means a minimum of friction.

Of most importance to you is the dollars and cents savings Oil Cooling and Forced-Feed Lubrication effects. Not only do they contribute to General Electric's recognized high efficiency and low operating cost but they mean years and years of added life to the mechanism. They have been important factors in increasing the potential life of present models almost three times those of a dozen years ago.

Something you'll never see (yet extremely important) in your G-E Refrigerator are the metal glass leads shown above. Through these leads power is introduced into the G-E mechanism. They create a truly hermetic seal—a seal as airtight and permanent as that of the canned foods you purchase at your market.

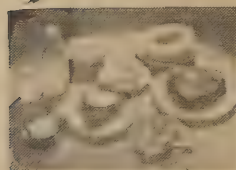

LIKE A RAISE IN PAY!

"A Penny Saved is a Penny Earned"

The purchase of a 1938 General Electric Triple-Thrift Refrigerator will be like a raise in pay the moment you start taking advantage of the multiple savings which it can effect for you. That's why budget minded people, people who have to watch their pennies, have purchased G-E refrigerators—for the money you pay for a General Electric is invested, not spent.

HERE ARE A FEW OF GENERAL ELECTRIC'S MULTIPLE SAVINGS

LEFTOVERS

5 YEARS PROTECTION

Behind the ingenious design and skilled workmanship in a General Electric Refrigerator stands the now famous 5 Year Protection Plan—a plan originated by G-E to protect the purchaser for five full years against failure of the hermetically sealed mechanism. And this protection is backed by the reputation and vast resources of the world famous General Electric Co. G-E knows from experience that its sealed mechanism can "take it."

The General Electric Company has been manufacturing electrical products for the past sixty years. The splendid reputation it enjoys is based upon quality products.

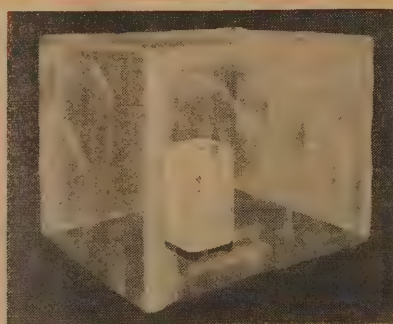

The same engineers who more than a dozen years ago were designing the refrigerating mechanism which revolutionized the industry are even today seeking new ways to still further improve the General Electric monitor mechanism. Over 40% of all General Electric employees have been with the Company for over ten years.

YEARS AND YEARS SUPPLY OF ICE

in a SINGLE DELIVERY

The moment your 1938 General Electric Refrigerator is installed in your kitchen you can throw away your ice card forever! Years and years supply of ice is made to you in that single delivery.

Not only does it assure you of years of adequate, dependable, and economical refrigeration; not only does it assure you of crisp salads and frozen desserts; not only does it assure you of plenty of ice in the shape of convenient cubes, instead of odd-sized chips or hunks; but it gives you all of this at a cost far below that of old fashioned and undependable refrigeration.

480 ICE CUBES
EVERY DAY

48 POUNDS IN 24 HOURS!

Of course, you'd probably never need 480 ice cubes in a single day, but if you ever did, any 1938 Triple-Thrift refrigerator over 5 cu. ft. capacity would be ready, willing and able to supply them to you. It indicates the vast reserve capacity of a General Electric Refrigerator—reserve power to give ample refrigeration and plenty of ice even in the most torrid heat of mid-summer's most scorching weather.

2 CUBES PER SECOND from the New
G-E QUICK TRAY!

NO FUSS... NO MUSS... NO WASTE

REVOLUTIONARY IN DESIGN

The new General Electric Quick Tray—quick in freezing, quick in tray release, quick in cube removal—banishes the inconvenience and waste of the old fashioned tap water method of ice cube extraction. The entirely new and entirely different linked cube dividers and the Triple Purpose Lever enable you to release two cubes at a time—and a trayful of twenty can be emptied in less than ten seconds! The Triple Purpose Lever also fulfills the function of easy tray release—and even has a bottle cap remover... out of the way, yet handy when you're most likely to need it.

Ice cube removal from the G-E Quick Tray is simple, easy, convenient—and there's no fuss, no muss, no waste.

Time, Trouble, and Temper Saving Tray Release.

*Tests indicate that 20% of the ice which has been frozen in ordinary metal trays is melted when cubes are released by the usual method of splashing trays under tap water.

DRAWER ACTION SLIDING SHELVES

EVEN THE TOP SHELF SLIDES

You'll find a whole cabinet full of convenience features the moment you open the door of your 1938 General Electric Refrigerator. One convenience that you'll surely appreciate is the sliding action of the shelves. Shelves glide in and out with an easy drawer action making foods stored at the rear of the shelf readily accessible.

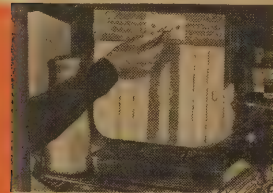

And an important feature is that on G-Es even the top shelf slides—and that's the shelf that usually has the large and tipy bottles in the front... bottles which block access to foods stored at the rear unless you have a top sliding shelf.

Not only do most G-Es have sliding shelves, but shelves are adjustable in height. This gives you flexible food space which can be varied to meet practically any storage need.

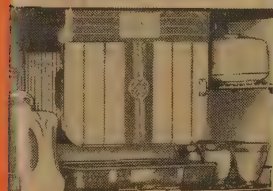

Even bulky foods such as turkeys, roasts, watermelons and foods in large containers are easily accommodated in a 1938 Triple Thrift refrigerator.

AT LAST—AN ELECTRIC SINK! ONLY THE NEW GENERAL ELECTRIC RANGE HAS ALL THESE THRIFTY FEATURES

The G-E Electric Sink banishes the two most disagreeable tasks of all housework—washing dishes and handling garbage. Now, simply by turning a switch on the General Electric dishwasher all the dishes used by the average small family in one day can be washed in less than ten minutes. And they will be washed hygienically clean—cleaner than it is possible to do by hand!

Every scrap of food waste—scraps, parings, yes, even bones, are instantly disposed of right at the sink. Down the drain into the Disposall they go, where they are quickly reduced to a thin pulp and flushed away like water. No odors, because the Disposall cleans itself—no clogging, because of the scouring action of the pulp the drain lines keep clean.

THE G-E DISHWASHER

With the G-E Dishwasher you can throw away your dishpan. Dishes, glasses, silverware—even pots and pans—can be washed all at one time faster, easier, and much better.

THE G-E DISPOSALL

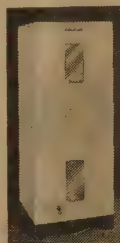

With the G-E Disposall you can throw away your garbage can. So simple a child can operate it. Users say that it costs less than a dime a month to operate.

GENERAL ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

Once you install a G-E Water Heater you can forget it—and enjoy an abundant supply of hot water at all times quickly and economically. The Calrod Heating unit is immersed directly in the water for efficient, low cost operation, the Thermosnap temperature control maintains a constant temperature, and the heavy insulation keeps the water hot.

Choice of three styles, rectangular, round, or table-top, with heavy galvanized or monel tanks—and fourteen different sizes from five to one hundred and forty gallons.

1. TEL-A-COOK LIGHTS. Inform you instantly when and where the current is on, and indicate the degree of heat being applied. Save electric current by eliminating needless waste. A new exclusive G-E feature for extra thrift.

2. SELECT-A-SPEED CALROD UNIT. Five cooking heats from one unit, with one switch! Hi-Speed, Half-Speed, Quarter-Speed and Thrift-Speed; for keeping foods warm, a new Low-Speed.

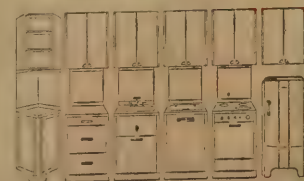

3. TRIPL-OVEN. Three ovens in one! 1-Speed Oven for single shelf cooking... 400° in 5 minutes. 2-Speed Large Master Oven. 3-General Super-Broiler.

Everything a Modern Kitchen Should be

GENERAL ELECTRIC UNIT KITCHEN

G-E kitchens are complete in every detail—everything from major electrical appliances even to the nuts and bolts! In shape, color and size each section matches every other section to give an over-all effect of harmonious unity. Complete G-E Unit Kitchens include Electric Refrigerator, Electric Range, Electric Sink (which includes both Electric Dishwasher and Electric Disposall) in addition to all steel cabinets with adjustable shelves and interior illumination, wall panels, lumiline sub-cabinet lights and chrome trim.

These six sections are the basis of a complete General Electric Unit Kitchen. They are interchangeable, and can be adapted quickly and inexpensively to any kitchen regardless of size or shape. It is only necessary to attach each section to the wall in the position desired. Additional sections such as an all-steel broom closet, utensil cabinet, three- or four-drawer base sections are also available.

A TRULY MODERN HOME LAUNDRY

Now you can have a truly modern home laundry! General Electric has developed an amazingly efficient line of Washers and Ironers, beautifully styled and conveniently priced, to fit every pocketbook.

General Electric Washers operate so quietly that washday nerve strain becomes a thing of the past. The General Electric Activator washes clothes whiter, cleaner and without tangling.

The One-Control Wringer, used exclusively on General Electric Washers, is a feature that you will enjoy. One control starts the rolls, reverses them, tilts the drain-board in the proper direction, and releases all pressure.

Your ironing can be done in less than half the usual time (and economically, too) with G-E Ironers. And think of the effort saved! Simply sit in front of the Ironer, smooth out the fabric to be ironed, and the rest is done automatically.

WAR ON MOTHS AND DIRT WITH G-E CLEANERS

A new moth-proofing power sprayer has been added to the cleaning attachments of the General Electric Cleaner. Now housewives throughout the country can clean their rugs better, easier, and faster and protect them from moth damage.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL TO START IN COUNTY SOON

Chilton's Quota Set At 450; Drive To Open On November 11th

It is time for the citizens of this County to start preparing for the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, which will get underway November 11th.

County Chairman of the Red Cross, and J. Mell Martin, who is again serving as chairman of the Roll Call, have announced that J. Stanley Lewis, Field Representative for the Red Cross, will be in this City Friday and Saturday, to assist in making preparations for this year's Roll Call.

"We should go well over our quota, which is set this year at 450," said Mr. Martin, when commenting on the coming drive. "Let us look back to the year 1932, when the tornado disaster descended upon our county. At this time the Red Cross came to our aid when it was needed most. And in December, 1936, when another tornado struck the western part of Chilton, they were by our side, rendering aid that should never be forgotten by Chiltonians," Mr. Martin continued.

There are seventy-eight Red Cross Chapters in the State of Alabama, and Chilton County ranks twenty-eighth down the line, according to a chart in the office of Mr. Martin. The average membership for the State is two percent of the population, and Chilton has not quite reached the average.

It will take a long time for this County to repay the debt it owes to the National Red Cross, and this year's drive will be the most extensive ever made in this County. Mr. Martin stated that it is his wish that this County go far over the 500 mark, and at least place Chilton County above the average two percent of population.

"This is a personal obligation of the citizens of this county," Mr. Martin continued, while discussing the coming drive. "If one or two members of the firm by which you are employed, joins the Red Cross, this does not excuse you. Every person should become a member, even if a small sacrifice has to be made," he concluded.

The drive, opening on Armistice Day, will continue until Thanksgiving, and the selection of workers is underway by those in charge of the drive. A meeting will be held at one of the hotels in the City next Friday, at which time, Mr. Lewis will be in the organization of the drive. Those interested in this work are asked to contact Mr. Martin either tomorrow or Monday.

Clanton Wins Third Game Last Friday

The C. C. H. S. Tigers came through their third game of the season victorious, when they defeated the Mapleville eleven by a score of 13-6 on the latter's field last Friday.

The Mapleville team was considered one of the strongest the Tigers were scheduled to meet this season. Armstrong and Melton made touchdowns in this game, with Melton scoring the extra point.

The boys will meet the B team of Sidney Lanier High of Montgomery, at the local park next Friday afternoon and this game promises to be packed with action from beginning to end.

Messrs. Curtis Billingsley and Rufus Gann attended the Texaco meeting held in Monticello Wednesday of this week.

APPLICATIONS BEING TAKEN FOR FARM AID

Marvin Durbin Urges Chilton Farmers Wishing Federal Aid To Apply Now

Farm families who desire federal aid to finance crop-making operations next year are urged to make arrangements early, said Marvin Durbin, Rehabilitation Supervisor, in charge of the Farm Security Administration office in this County.

Ample funds have been provided for next year's loan requirements of families who farmed with FSA assistance this year, and additional funds are now available to allow more families to be aided.

"Advice from our regional office in Montgomery, states that new families may be helped this year if applications are submitted in time to be handled. New applicants are urged to make arrangements before the rush season. Applications will be available at the local office in the Johnson Building. This office will be open each day in the week except Sunday to receive new applications."

Democratic Meetings Continue Over County

Continuing their drive under the able leadership of Joe Mullins, two of the biggest rallies to date were held the past week at Isabella and Thorby.

At Isabella on last Thursday night the largest meeting until that time was held, and with plenty of pep and enthusiasm. A large number of voters were present, expressing their hearty support of the Democratic ticket as a whole.

Yesterday night the Democratic Candidates were met by a large crowd at the Thorby Public School. Great interest was displayed by everyone, and each candidate was heartily applauded. Following talks made by the candidates, Judge Smith made an impressive talk, pointing out the fact that the Democrats are not criticizing anyone, but are running strong on their merits, and he predicted a Democratic landslide for the entire ticket.

Following is a list of meetings for the future, to which everyone is cordially invited.

SOME CONFUSED ON COTTON TAX AT MEETING SAT

County Agent's Office Submits Two Telegrams From Auburn Regarding Tax

Two telegrams were received at the office of County Agent J. W. Fant last Monday, which greatly aided in clearing up some confusion resulting from a meeting held last Saturday afternoon at the Courthouse by a group of farmers of this County. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the present cotton program set-up.

The confusion centered around the question of penalties which will be placed against cotton produced in excess of the government allotment. Following is a release from the County Agent's office in regard to the matter:

"I am quoting below telegrams received from Mr. A. W. Jones, Administrative officer in charge of the Soil Conservation Program, Auburn, Alabama, and Mr. Thomas Martin, Chairman, State Agricultural Conservation Committee:

CONGRESSMAN JARMAN SLATED TO HEAD GOVERNMENT PRINTING

Is Likely Choice To Head Important Government Dept.

Russell Kent, Manager of the Birmingham News-Age-Herald Washington Bureau, says:

"Without considering possible November election casualties, sufficient changes in the personnel of House and Senate already are in sight to assure advancement of several members of one Alabama delegation when the Seventy-Sixth Congress meets January 3rd.

"With one exception is the practical certainty that Representative Pete Jarman, of the Sixth District, will be named chairman of the committee on printing, succeeding Representative J. Walter Lambeth, of North Carolina, who declined to offer himself for re-nomination this year and is retiring from Congress. Representative Jarman, who was elected for his first term in Congress just two years ago, established something of a record when at the outset of the Seventy-Fifth Congress he was named chairman of the committee on memorials. Commissioners Secure Large Sum For Use On Local Roads

Entire Amount Of Government Funds Will Be Used On County-Owned Roads; County Commissioners Are Congratulated

Through the untiring efforts of Probate Judge Smith and the County Commissioners the roads of Chilton County are coming in for another big share of funds supplied by the Federal Government, and which funds are to be used exclusively on County-wide road building, materials and improvements, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and members of the Commissioners Court.

Judge Smith received communications from Senator Lister Hill and Congressman Peter Jarman to the effect that the project had been approved, and that an allotment of $83,700.00 is to be forthcoming to this County for this new work.

This is quite a large sum and will mean a great deal to Chilton County, not only in the matter of improving the county-owned roads, but in boosting the payrolls of the County and furnishing employment for many farmers whose gross income for the past year has been less than $312.00, and others. Farmers whose gross incomes are less than $312 are urged by Judge Smith and the Commissioners to register with the Department of Public Welfare, so that they will be eligible if needed for employment on this project.

For some time the County Commissioners Court has been working on the project, and with the assistance of Senators Hill and Congressman Jarman, and Mr. Hall, it was put through. The County administration has been receiving the hearty congratulations of many since the announcement was made. Judge Smith advised the News that in the projects to be supported by this $83,700, the bulk of the money will be spent for labor and material, and that the County road machinery and other equipment will be used directly under the supervision of the County, while the labor will be certified to the Works Progress Administration by the Department of Public Welfare.

The work is now in progress and about 350 persons are to be employed at the beginning, but it is hoped that more all projects are completed that from 500 to 750 will be used.

The following telegram was received by Judge Smith from Congressman Jarman: "Judge J. Lee Smith, Chairman, 'Commissioners Court, Clanton, Ala. 'Am delighted over Presidential approval your County-wide road improvement program for $83,700. This should very materially improve the excellent road system Chilton already has. Kind regards to you and each member of the Board.

CONGRATULATIONS

The people of Chilton County are due heartiest congratulations to those men who compose the Commissioners Court of this County for their successful handling of the project which will enable this County to secure a large sum of money for use on our County roads.

The announcement this week that $83,700.00 is coming into this County to be used on the roads, is good news and to Judge J. Lee Smith, Commissioners Howard Odell, Monroe Parrish, R. L. Outley and J. P. Bean, the News extends its congratulations and appreciation for their efforts toward building Chilton County. May you continue your good work throughout the coming years.

Buy Wisely

"Buy the things you want and can afford to have." That is the thought expressed in a fine editorial printed recently in the Mansfield, Ohio, News-Journal.

"There's too much inactive money," the editorial says. "There has been postponement of buying clothing, furniture, floor covering, draperies, electrical conveniences of various kinds—as well as numberless other large and small items.

"Construction of new homes, or remodeling of old homes, has been put off . . .

"Out-dated automobiles have been continued in use by motorists who can well afford a new car.

"All of these things have contributed to the general slow-down of industry and business—thus encouraging the reign of fear that has engulfed so much of the nation.

"Money is of no earthly good—except for use!

"Earn, spend, save," is a formula under which individual and national progress is assured."

The man who spends less than his means would normally dictate, is as much of a burden on the country as the man who continually spends more than he can afford. This country possesses an almost limitless market for commodities of all kinds. We need more homes, more cars, more roads, more farm an factory machinery, more clothing, more labor-saving devices in home and industry. It is purchases of things such as these that make new jobs, new purchasing power, higher national income, and greater opportunity for both capital and labor.

Spend wisely and frugally. Keep your budget balanced. Don't get yourself in the hole. But always remember that sound spending is vital to the maintenance of our standard of living, to the advancement of recovery, and to the ultimate attainment of prosperity.

Another Landmark Passes

One by one, the landmarks of Alabama are being devoured in flames. The latest to go was the Old Methodist Church at Belleville, which burned to the ground last Monday morning. This church was built in 1870 when 'Grandpa' Joe Sampey gave four acres of land and paid for the building. The church was built by hand, there being no circular saws then; as a precaution against fire, even then, 'Grandpa' Sampey refused to allow the old candlesticks to be replaced by kerosene lamps when the latter became of use.

But the kerosene lamp replaced the candle and electricity replaced the old oil lamp, and last Monday night the church was destroyed by fire. It took only 30 minutes for fire to destroy what it took three men months to make, back in 1870. And, if one of those newfangled blow torches had never been used to remove the paint from the building, it would be standing today.—Jack House, In The Birmingham News-Age-Herald.

Capitalistic government, functioning under the fundamental principle of "Equal rights to all; Special privileges to none," is the best government yet devised by civilization. The only route back to safety and the sanity of this principle, is for the Government at Washington to curb profiteering and racketeering. And, unless this is done, collapse and chaos are among the possibilities of the not far distant future.

Unsignificantly bill boards which mar the landscape along the highways furnish one of the greatest hazards to safe motoring. No driver can keep his or her mind on the operation of the motor vehicle while gazing at an attractive sign at the bend in the road—or elsewhere.

Many minds become "streamlined" worrying over streamlines."

Preservation Of Civilization Job For American Ruralites

Wright A. Patterson, Editor-In-Chief of Western Newspaper Union, and whom we consider one of the best informed newspaper men in the World, writes as follows in the October 8th issue of the Publishers' Auxiliary, as regards "the place in the future of the people of rural America:"

SAFE—SANE

The place in the future of the people of rural America, people of the towns and farms, was emphasized by the events at Munich, Germany, on September 29th.

On November 12th, 1918, I was visiting in London for an hour with one of the greatest English statesmen of the World War period—Arthur Balfour. On the streets outside, the joy-crazed people were celebrating, as they did for more than a week, the signing of the Armistice the day before. As we listened to the noise, Mr. Balfour said:

"The people of England and other nations do not realize that the world is today facing more serious problems than those of war; that today the civilization we have known is in jeopardy. Russia has gone Bolshevik. We have no idea of what will happen in Germany. Italy is on the verge of Communism; France is close to the same condition. England is threatened, and America is affected in its large cities. National and world systems which have been the foundation of the civilizations we know may disappear sometime within the near future.

"But if the civilization we have known is lost, it will be but a temporary loss. In time it will be restored to the world by the rural people of America. They, as a class, are the safest, sanest, most dependable people of the world today."

The events at Munich recalled that statement. Those events marked a new advance of European "isms" on the civilization we have known, a change to systems with which America has not been familiar, but which are encroaching upon us through the mass elements of our large cities.

The safe-sane, dependable rural American people portrayed by Arthur Balfour 20 years ago, are today the greatest safeguard for the civilization which has made America prosperous, and made for a contented and happy people. They have a job to do today in preserving the civilization and systems we have known and appreciated.

The ideas, activities, purposes of the rural people of America are reported and interpreted by the country press, which represents them. The country press is one of America's typical and valuable institutions. It has a definite place in the preservation of civilization, and measures up to that place. It cannot be influenced by European dictators, as these dictators have influenced statesmen of European democracies.

Trouble In The Tarheel Hills

A North Carolina deputy sheriff went out the other morning in search of a still. Going quietly through the woods he soon came upon an old negro making a fire under a still. According to The Stanley News, and Press, the Negro thought a hunter was approaching, so didn't bother to interrupt his fire building. Here is how the Tarheel paper reported the conversation that followed:

"Making liquor," Deputy Paul asked in a matter-of-fact tone.

"Ain't making water," the Negro replied, unmindful of whom he was talking to.

"Going to sell it?" the "dep" continued.

"Ain't going to give it away," the man replied. And then he turned slowly to see who it was asking so many fool questions. His eyes almost popped out of his head as he recognized the questioner.

"God Lawd," he exclaimed, "if it ain't the Sheriff!"

"It ain't the preacher."

"Gonna take me to jail?" the Negro asked.

"Ain't gonna take you to church!" was the reply that accompanied the snapping on of the handcuffs.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The rattlebrained freaks with mental quirks for "cracking up" musical classics into "jingle brainstorms," should all be lined up in a row and shot—one hour before sunrise.

The South can never prosper so long as it insists on paying low wages to its producers, while the citizens of the South persist in buying and consuming commodities produced in other sections of the country where higher wages are paid for production.

ARMORY FOR CLANTON—

There has been some discussion around Clanton about the possibilities for a National Guard Unit and Armory for this City. At a recent meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club this subject was brought up. Nothing could be accomplished regarding the matter until contact could be made with the office of the State Adjutant General, to learn of the requirements of a city before a unit could be established and an Armory built. John Higgins, one of the City's young business men, who is very much interested in this matter, visited the office of Brigadier General Coleman in Montgomery last Monday but met with disappointment, when informed by the General that no Federal Funds were available for the erection of more armories in this State, the last one going to Ramer, Alabama. General Coleman stated that he did not know when more funds would be available, but stated that if Clanton was desirous of an Armory those interested could get such time money loans available, drilling regularly, and that the War Department would in time furnish rifles to these young men for their drills. This would place Clanton in position to secure an official commission for a National Guard Unit and an Armory at such time money loans available. Clanton could certainly use an Armory, which could also be used for social and business meetings, and would really be an asset to this City, as Clanton is greatly lacking in recreation centers, and places where the citizens may meet for discussions. We sincerely hope the people will become interested in this matter, and that we will some day, in the not so far distant future, enjoy this addition to our fair City.

WILL YOU JOIN?

Some time between November 11—Armistice Day—and Thanksgiving, you will, without a doubt, be asked to join the National Red Cross. Before you make excuses to the one asking for your membership, think back only a few years and remember what this organization did for us when we were stunned by one of the greatest disasters of the nation. The Red Cross spent thousands of dollars in Chilton County, and we should consider it our sworn duty to repay in this small way, for the helping hand extended to us then. If you would like to become a worker in the coming drive you are asked to join, contact Mr. Martin, Chairman of the Roll Call, and Disaster Chairman, or Dr. C. O. Lawrence, County Chairman. Chilton's quota has been placed at 450 this year. The population of Chilton County is over 33,000; the population of Clanton is near 3,500—and the National Red Cross is asking for 450 members at one dollar each, or more, if one wishes to give more liberally. Consider this your personal obligation and let's make the number of members reach far over five hundred.

AT THE HEALTH OFFICE—

Strolled into the Chilton County Health Office the other day and on into the Sanitation department, where Fred Buckelew, County Sanitation Supervisor, holds forth. Buckelew is not such a mountain of a man, being short of stature, but don't let that fool you. The work he is carrying on in his department is to be commended. At least, that is our opinion, and we looked around quite a bit. Buckelew has made maps of the county, and he has placed markers over this map, designating the location of cases of all kinds of fever, and other diseases that are being treated by the Health Department. Improvements in the sanitary condition of the County are under the direction of Mr. Buckelew, and if a small fellow with an ever-ready smile tells you it's time to clean up your place of business, back yard, etc., it'll be Fred Buckelew.

DOWN SOUTH CLANTON WAY—

After being confined in a Montgomery hospital for some time, where he underwent an operation, R.W. Lowe, owner and operator of the R.W. Lowe General Store and Service Station, is back on the job and his many friends are certainly glad to see him back at his post. The name R. W. Lowe and South Clanton go hand in hand and whenever you're down in that neck of the woods (or town) down by and get a load of that R. W. Lowe South Clanton Hospitality.

LOST IN CLANTON—

We started home the other night and before long, we almost concluded that start was all. With almost every street in the residential section of Clanton in a state of disrupt, traveling has about become a thing of the past. After heading down this street, only to find that this street was closed; after heading up that street to find that that street was blocked; thence heading out another avenue, bounding over mountains in the middle of the road, only to find that this—I mean that—where were we? Anyway, we finally reached home, with only the knowledge that maybe some day we'd have good old paved streets leading to our place of abode, to console us.

D. W. Haskew

You may have many traits of character, but if you do not have the self control you are like an automobile with the driving shaft loose. Most anything is likely to happen. Self control is no mysterious thing that can be reached only by a select few. Nor can it be gained by an overnight effort. It is something that comes from cultivation. I knew a man who was a master of apples. When he saw one he wanted it and he discovered that he was taking it, whether it was best for him or not. He knew his weakness and so to cure himself of this desire and to make himself master of himself, he bought a large red apple and placed it on his desk and instructed himself not to touch it until bed time. That was his way of gaining self control. I knew a lady who, if she wanted anything, she got it and she was minus of control. Self control is the driving shaft of your life and it pays to keep this part of your machine in good order.

I went into a modern home. It was up-to-date in all the conveniences of the day. If the inmates wanted light they turned a switch. If they wanted heat in the room or on the cookstove they turned a switch. If they wanted to go places they stepped into a car at the door and turned a switch. When I was a boy if we wanted fire, light or anything else, we had to produce it by special effort. No switches regulated our home, but for some reason my parents had the habit of regulating their children with a switch. I can see it now as it stuck up there on the wall behind the double barreled shotgun. When there was disorder in the family, that was about the only time that my parents ever turned on the switch. And I can bear testimony that things were regulated without delay. The modern home is one in which a switch regulates everything but the children. It may seem cruel but I am convinced that some of our modern homes would be better if parents would turn on the switch in regulating family life.

One day the housewife came into the kitchen and found the salt, soda and flour, milk and oil in a heated argument. The salt said that it was man's greatest friend. The flour, soda, milk and oil made the same claim. They had argued until they were foaming at the mouth and were about ready to tumble down off the shelf and have a free-for-all on the floor. Just at this time they were interrupted by the wife coming into the kitchen. She rebuked them thus, "You are a nice bunch of foods to be here disputing and quarreling with one of you is worth a thing with out the help of others." Then she rolled up her sleeves, dipped up some flour, salt, soda, milk and oil and soon had them mixed and in the oven. Out came the bread that fed the hungry. How foolish for one man to claim that he is it. Not many of us would be worth picking up by the roadside if we were not linked up with other folks.

And it came to pass that old Milt Sim built for himself a nice little platform over the river, on which he could sit and fish all day. Along came a great fresher one to his platform and the river had moved a fifty yard away. Where old Milt had fished for years there was nothing but a sandbar left, but he was now too old and simple to see to it that his platform and fish were on the sandbar. That was where he had fished when he was younger and why change his fishing place in old age? Verily, Verily, I say unto you that that minute a man starts living in the past and becomes so set in his ways that he cannot change, he is like Milt Sim. He will soon be fishing on a dry sandbar. When we get wabbly, cranky and crabbed, then it is time for us to fade out of the picture.

I have seen lots of things in life, but there are a few things that I never saw. I never saw a horse or a cow, or a sheep, nor, not even a billy goat smoking. I have never seen a porpoise, a trout, a skip jack, a cat, nor, not even a sucker smoking. I never saw a turkey, a peacock, a rooster, a dove, nor, not even a buzzard smoking. If Dame Nature had intended that men and women should smoke, she would have built them on a different plan. She would have installed them with a grate, a damper and a smokestack, and she would have put a smoke consumer, that would have been up-to-date, that would have been up-to-date, that would be or not, this smoking habit that men and women have adopted is out of order. Oh, well, we are just passing through the "Lightwood Knot Age" in the human family. We will soon learn that we can travel without smoke.

RED CROSS AIDS 15,000 STRICKEN FAMILIES IN NEW ENGLAND

Washington, D. C.—Chairman Norman H. Davis recently informed the Chilton County Chapter that the Red Cross has given emergency relief to 6,000 people in the New England and Long Island hurricane flood area, where more than 600 people lost their lives or are still missing. The Red Cross is giving emergency aid and rehabilitation to approximately 15,000 families in this devastated section. Davis said.

An appeal was issued for a minimum Red Cross relief fund of $500,000 to care for the homeless families of the stricken region, and contributions were being received in a quick and generous response, particularly from the New England States.

Five area headquarters have been set up by the Red Cross, as follows: Providence, R. I.; Hartford, Conn.; New London, Conn.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; for Long Island and Springfield, Mass.

Thousands of Red Cross volunteers have been working among the flood victims, with the assistance of 150 Red Cross volunteer workers, who were rushed into the storm area.

Mr. Davis said that rehabilitation would be given to families who were without means to reinstate themselves. This will require rebuilding and repairing hundreds of houses, furnishing, clothing and some aid to small businesses. One of the acute problems is the heavy losses suffered by the fishing fleet out of the New England and Long Island ports. The Red Cross recently has mobilized temporary fish boats and equipment, such as nets, lobster pots and traps, for the fishermen so that they could continue at work, pending permanent relief measures.

The Red Cross also had assigned many welfare workers to investigate problems of families who may have lost breadwinners through death, so that women and children would have care to tide them over until state or federal relief was granted.

"The Red Cross is the only agency that will take care of the human problems of these distressed families," said Mr. Davis. "I am told that the majority of these 15,000 families will prove to be without resources of cash or credit to meet the repairs and other needed rehabilitation measures."

"These families become the charge of the Red Cross. We have sent 150 Red Cross workers, including building supervisors, family welfare workers and others prepared to immediately check with the families. Roofs must be repaired, chimneys rebuilt, some whole houses rebuilt, means of livelihood restored for these thousands of people. Families are now being told by the Red Cross headquarters in all of the storm sections to register their needs."

"The Red Cross is grateful for the cooperation of the many government agencies in the area. The WPA is doing a fine clean-up job in the stricken towns, and is cooperating everywhere with the Red Cross. Other agencies, which are prepared to loan money where families have resources of credit, are clearing through the Red Cross headquarters."

"I feel confident that every need is being promptly met. Our Chapters met and overwhelming relief task in the early days of the emergency."

A resume of the reports made recently to Mr. Davis, showing the extent of the suffering follows:

Connecticut—6,100 families; Massachusetts, 4,400 families; Rhode Island, 2,340 families; Long Island, New York, 750 families; New Hampshire, 1,000 families; Vermont, 600 families.

Within a few hours after the hurricane.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

By A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer

What are we up against in Alabama in regard to our farms, our factories, our schools, and our general well being? Last week we discussed some of the soil problems of Alabama and the South, the effect of the tariff policy on agriculture here, and the effect of manufacturing and industries on farm living and general conditions.

We in the South, although our section has been classed as the major economic problem of the nation, are beginning to realize that we must act if our condition is to improve. A frank discussion of some of our problems helps us to crystallize our thinking and to marshal our forces for betterment.

Alabama and the remainder of the South, through the effects of poor soil, the high tariff, and the lack of more industry to go along with agriculture, supports 28 percent of the population and yet we have only 11 percent of the bank deposits of the nation. In other words, we seldom get ahead enough to have money to put in the bank.

In addition our system, now being changed, of growing cotton only, with a pay-day once a year requires extensive use of credit. This, together with the uncertainty of income from cotton with its fluctuating prices, has resulted in high interest rates, increased mortgage indebtedness on farm lands and a high degree of tenancy. The average farm tenancy in the United States is 43 percent—in Alabama, 60 percent of the people engaged in farming are tenants.

Just what effect has all these problems had on living standards here in Alabama? Well, the average value of the farm home in the South is $650. More than a third of these homes are unimproved, more than a third unscreened, only 5 percent have water piped into the house, and only three percent have water piped into bathrooms. A much smaller percentage of farm people in Alabama have such conveniences as telephones, automobiles, radios, electric current, and similar improvements enjoyed by people in other sections.

Next week we want to try to show you how these problems of agriculture affect health, schools, use of the soil, and also how these conditions affect not only Alabama and the South but the entire country as well.

came struck, Red Cross Chapters were mobilized their forces, and were housing, feeding and clothing refugees in almost a hundred points.

In Hartford, Connecticut, last Friday and Saturday, the Red Cross had 2,200 persons, including 100 infant babies, in its charge. Through arrangements with Willard B. Rogers, Hartford hotel man, efficient plans for feeding were made. Three city schools, a State Trade School, the County building and an armory were used to house the refugees, who were supplied with army cots, mattresses and blankets.

Last Saturday, for example, the Red Cross served the Hartford refugees for breakfast, cat meal, boiled eggs, bread and butter and coffee. The lunch was similarly wholesome and at night they had hamburger steak, potatoes, pie and cake and tea, coffee or milk. The children and older people had an afternoon snack, and the babies received a cereal diet.

Death Toll From Accidents In the Home Arouses Nation

A potential victim is the housewife who uses cleaning fluid near the open flame of her kitchen stove.

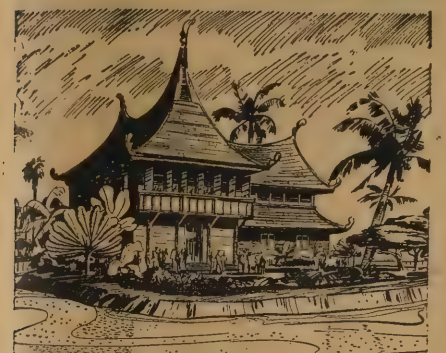

THE dangers that lurk in the home have only been brought forcibly to the attention of the public within the past two years, through activity of the American Red Cross and other safety agencies. Public attention has been concentrated in greater degree upon the upward trend of the death toll from motor accidents. In 1937 motor vehicle accidents claimed 35,600 lives. Accidents in the home claimed 32,500 lives.

The people who lost their lives within the four walls of their homes were victims principally of the following: falls, 17,500 dead; burns and explosions, 5,600 dead; poison, 1,700 dead; firearms, 800 dead; mechanical suffocation, 1,000 dead; all other causes, 4,800 dead. In addition about 4,700,000 persons were injured.

Some of these deaths were preventable, according to the American Red Cross, which urges every family in the home and on the farm to check each October a list of hazards issued by the Red Cross, and to follow simple precautionary rules.

Falls claim the lives of aged people in a ratio of 80 per cent to the total annual death toll from this cause; two-thirds of fatal burns occur in the home, and are the chief victims of accidental poisonings in the home. These startling facts should make every household look into the safety of its home, the Red Cross warns.

Fire Prevention Pays

The President's proclamation setting aside the week beginning October 9th as Fire Prevention Week is a timely reminder to every thoughtful citizen of the importance of preventing the needless waste occurring each year from forest fires.

Joseph C. Kircher, Southern Regional Forester of the United States Forest Service, says that the prosperity of the South in the years ahead is vitally bound up with the conservation and wise use of her forest resources. With the expansion of timber industries, Mr. Kircher states it is necessary that everything possible be done to insure adequate permanent timber supplies. The first step in this direction is to stop the tremendous waste of present and potential timber by fire which kills and injures trees before they can serve a useful purpose.

Figures show that during the calendar year 1936 fires burned over 40 million acres of woodlands in the Southern States from the Carolinas to Texas, resulting in a estimated total loss of about $42,000,000, which does not include the tremendous intangible losses which always follow forest fires. As a horrible indictment against man's carelessness and indifference, the records show that 90 percent of all forest fires are man-caused. As evidence of the value of protection measures, less than two million acres of the entire 40 million burned over were in areas receiving organized protection.

State and Federal foresters and other organized agencies are uniting in an effort to enlist the cooperation of all the people of the nation to prevent this wanton destruction of public wealth. Due to this effort, there are now in the Southern Region more than 85,000,000 acres of forest land under organized protection through the cooperation of the Forestry commissions of the Southern States and all federal protection agencies. Mr. Kircher states that this is an increase of about 34 million acres since 1933. The timber conserved through this plan is a contribution toward the establishment of permanent industries in the South. The commercial value of Southern forests will increase steadily and every loyal citizen should do his utmost to prevent woods fires from any and every cause.

By Tom McCord
Union Stockyards, Montgomery

A forward step was taken in the cattle industry in Alabama on the 4th of the month. A group of approximately 100 men and women interested in cattle breeding—particularly Aberdeen Angus cattle—met at the Passmore & Smith place in Autauga County and toured the pastures and cattle.

After a delightful barbecue served by the host, Mr. G. C. Passmore, the assembly enjoyed addresses by Dr. R. S. Sugg, Beef Cattle Specialist, of Auburn, and Mrs. W. H. Tomhave, Secretary of the American Aberdeen Angus Breeders Association of Chicago. These gentlemen pointed out the advantages of State Association for the purpose of developing and promoting the interest of the Aberdeen Angus breed within the State.

In due time a motion was made and passed to organize such an association and to name it The Alabama Aberdeen Angus Breeders Association. The following officers were elected: J. C. Harper, Oak Hill, President; W. M. Russell, Tuskegee, Vice-president; Dave Johnson, Hardaway, Secretary-Treasurer. The Board of Directors elected consisted Judge J. E. Horton of Athens, G. C. Passmore of Prattville, O. B. Willis of Greensboro and Dr. E. P. Gibson of Enterprise.

It was voted to have an auction of Alabama Aberdeen Angus Cattle at the Union Stockyards at Montgomery some time in April of 1939. In the event it is impossible to get enough in Alabama, good Aberdeen Angus Cattle will be brought in from out of the State to make up the consignment. The definite date of the sale will be made later.

This move on the part of the Angus breeders of Alabama is a step in the right direction and progress will be made.

ALABAMA'S GOOD HEALTH ASSET TO TOURIST TRAVEL

"Alabama's reputation as a State where excellent health conditions prevail is one of its greatest assets in the competition for tourists," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in commenting upon a recent estimate that approximately 42,000 persons from other states and from foreign countries become temporary Alabamians every year.

"Let a serious epidemic develop and the impression get abroad that a person takes a chance of contracting a serious illness by drinking Alabama water, eating Alabama food, sleeping in Alabama hotels and tourists, or associating with Alabama people, and you will see Alabama's beautiful highways become virtual strangers to 'foreign cars,'" he added. "It is the responsibility of the State Department of Health and the 67 county health departments to prevent such a disaster from occurring. These agencies maintain special machinery to protect the health of all those residents of this State and other states, who depend for food and shelter upon such facilities as may be at hand when hunger or sleepiness overtakes them while away from home."

Dr. Baker called attention to vital statistics reports showing marked reductions since 1915 in the death rates for typhoid, whooping cough, diphtheria, malaria and other diseases.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton!

Enchanting New York

By Miss Meta E. Grace
New York City

Greetings:
Up early, and while sipping coffee read the morning's mail, among which was a note from Mrs. Charlotte B.
Ware, chairman of the committee who made it possible for me to spend the year in New York and she says, "Miss Grace, we are happy you selected Columbia and New York for your year's study and we want you to have full advantage of New York's culture and knowledge. Of course, I slipped in for wisdom will both strengthen and enhance your future work and happiness, and we feel that you have made the right beginning and now we wish you good luck."

Having registered for all the points the law allows, observed and definitely selected my course, I slipped in for a chat with my advisor, Dr. Helen Judy Bond, who is also National President of the Home Economics Association, and learned Columbia was a bit under the 18,000 students expected this year due to, it is its right, the war and storm as well as economic conditions here and there but from the size of classes the full number must be here.
Over for Glee Club practice, which is an inspiration seldom known, double checking my course, I find a schedule
"worth a million", including a course with outstanding authors as Dr. Newton, Counts, Childs, Winchell, Bryson, Andrews, and for recreation, the Capello Choir, Glee Club, Music Appreciation, which carries me into twenty-five outstanding operas and musicals during the year. For personal responsibilities I find myself co-chairman of the Extension and Home Economics Organization for the year, a member of the Council, and Publicity chairman of "What's Going On In Columbia". Astonished to find most or so many night classes, well organized and filled with progressive an up-to-date methods and ideas. Spare time allows a rush trip down-town to see and do the following:

First, on board the "Queen Mary", which, if anything surpasses the "Waldorf Astor" in all its comfort and beauty, with its beautiful $8,000 royal suite, its three class cabins, its traveling provided with complete recreational activities and interests suitable for all types of people. A joy to behold.

Having been entertained much in the past by the lovely synthesized music of Jan Garber and orchestra the strong desire to see him again led me to the Strand, where he excelled all programs of the past and where he presented his new discovery which the audience could never let go, that precious little Patricia Norman, who came almost up to the throne of star, "Evelyn Merman, Broadway's Singing "Heat Wave" and star of Alexander's Ragtime Band, who in person, gave with her glamour and golden voice, several numbers. "The Garden Of The Moon" was good too and Joe Venuti and his Swingin' Cats, including Jimmie
Fidler, himself, was excellent.

Over for tea with the Graduate Club and to hear Dean Russell speak on the possible communistic worries likely to requirements. Under this loan farmers will be given from one to five years in which to repay the amount they borrow, at 5 percent interest for the time the money is used. This loan can also be used to re-finance mortgages on livestock, tools, etc.

"Loans are made to families who own or rent lands that are capable of producing a good living and the additional earnings to repay loans. If the borrower is a tenant it is required that he have written a lease for the period of the loan."

"Assistance is given the family in working out a practical plan of farm and home management. This plan, worked out by the borrower and the County Rehabilitation Supervisor, outlines the operations for the year, based on available farm labor and productivity of the soils to be cultivated. The plan provides for food for the family and feed for the stock so that the family can live at home and also produce a cash income to retire debts and buy more livestock and equipment, or other practical requirements."

HOOKWORM PROBLEM DESCRIBED BY DR. STURKIE

The importance of hookworm infestation as a health problem in Chilton County was stressed today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, in a weekly departmental bulletin. Quoting from the most recent survey of the County (1935), the health official pointed out that of 4,356 children examined, 1,177 were positive for hookworms. Calculated on a basis of percentage, this amounted to twenty-seven percent of all school children in the County. Comparing the incidence with white and colored people, Dr. Sturkie pointed out that of 3,506 white children, 1,102, or thirty-one percent had hookworm, while 850 negro children only 75 of 8.8 percent were positive for hookworm. The study also revealed considerable difference in the percentage of infested children in different schools. The greatest percentage was in Free Springs, where 78.5 percent of the children had hookworm; other schools with a high incidence were Concord B, with 61.8; Powpell, with 61.3; Flint Hill, with 57.2; and Morganville, with 57.1.

In pointing the way to control of this problem, Dr. Sturkie declared that the building of privies was the only permanent solution. Treatment of infested individuals plus wearing of shoes has brought about some reduction, he said, but attempts to remove all worms by treatment have proven too expensive to be practical, because of the necessity for repeating the treatment.

The survey showed that while Chilton County does not have the worst hookworm problem of any county in the State, it nevertheless, has enough hookworm infestation to challenge its people to exert their efforts to control the disease. While many cases are mild, according to the local health officers, there is seen frequently in Chilton County cases with severe anemia, retarded mental and physical growth, etc., and other manifestations of severe hookworm disease.

office of Senator Hill: Montgomery, Ala. October 10, 1938

"Hon. J. Lee Smith, Judge of Probate, Clanton, Alabama.

"My Dear Judge Smith:

"In the absence of Senator Hill, who is out of the City at present, this is to advise you that the Works Progress Administration has notified this office of the recent approval of the project on which the Senator has been working, sponsored by the County Court Commissioners for an allotment of $8,700, to improve County-owned roads throughout Chilton County.

"The Senator will be delighted and assure you it has been a pleasure for him to have been of service in this connection.

"With every good wish, I am, Very sincerely, ROBERT FRAZER, Secretary

It is to be remembered that the appropriation ever made to Chilton County by the National Government ($80,000), was obtained through the untiring efforts of Judge L. H. Reynolds. The people of the County should feel proud of the fact that during trying times of 1933 Judge Reynolds obtained this money, thus set the pace for future appropriations for Chilton County. The people of Alabama and especially those in Chilton County know that Judge Reynolds has been a pioneer in road building in Chilton County and Alabama.

it is understood he will be transferred to the chairmanship of the primary committee—a more important assignment—at the outset of the Seventy-Sixth Congress.

"Speaker Rayburn will be inposed in the Democratic caucus for nomination to that high office. The Republicans will nominate a candidate, as usual, but the same speaker will be elected by the House in January, for not even the most optimistic Republican claims the November election will give House control to that party.

"Representative Henry B. Snow will remain as head of the powerful committee on banking and currency. He and Congressman Jarman are the only House members of the Alabama delegation to head committees.

"Representatives Boykin, Hobbs, Patrick, Starnes and Sparkman are expected to advance in rank on the committees on which they hold membership. Boykin and Patrick are members of several committees. In the last session after Hill resigned as chairman of the House militia affairs committee, he went to the Senate. Representative Sparkman relinquished membership on several committees and was elected to the military committee, which handles TVA legislation in the House. Judge Hobbs is a member of the judiciary committee on appropriations. Military, judiciary and appropriations are exclusive committees; that is, no member of any of these committees can be a member of any other regular committee of the House.

"It is expected that Representative Luther Patrick will make an effort in the next Congress to give up his present committee assignments in favor of membership on the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, of which his predecessor from the Ninth District, former Representative George Huddleston, was a member for years. There are in sight already four Democratic vacancies on the interstate commerce committee.

A summary of the outstanding services rendered to the people of Chilton County by the local Health Office, was released early this week by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. The report included all work done by the Department since its establishment in March, 1935. The total number of children protected against diphtheria by the Health Officer and nurse during the period was 4,432. 3,564 smallpox vaccinations have been given.

C. C. H. S. TIGERS DEFEAT LANIER TEAM BY SCORE 13-6

Winning their first three games of the season, the C. C. H. S. Tigers defeated the strong Lanier B Team on the local field by a score of 13-6 late Friday afternoon, making four straight games won in a row.

The C. C. H. S. Boys displayed the old spirit throughout the entire game, with steady offensive and defensive playing. The Lanier team, however, was no pushover, as was demonstrated by the final score.

Bucky Armstrong scored the first touchdown for the Tigers in the first quarter, with "Snowy" Melton crossing the chalk in the third quarter for the second.

The Tigers will meet the Sylacauga team at Sylacauga next Friday night for the fifth and what is predicted the hardest game of the season.

PLANS FOR RED CROSS DRIVE ARE UNDERWAY

Field Representative Here To Aid In Organizing Local Drive

Plans are rapidly getting underway for the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, which is scheduled to open on November, 11th, Armistice Day, according to Roll Call Chairman, J. Mell Martin, who also serves as disaster chairman.

J. Stanley Lewis, field representative of the National Red Cross was in Clanton last Friday and Saturday assisting in the organization of this year's drive, which will continue until Thanksgiving Day.

While here Mr. Lewis stated that it was his opinion that Chilton County would exceed all previous memberships this year and go over her quota, which has been set at 450. He commended highly the work of Chairman J. Mell Martin, who stated this week he has already secured several workers for this year's Roll Call. Dr. C. O. Lawrence is Chairman of the Chilton County Chapter.

FIRST TO JOIN

To Miss Annie Gardner, head nurse at the Central Alabama Hospital here, goes the honor of being the first to become a member of the Red Cross this year, although the Roll Call had not officially opened. The News thinks that this is a splendid example set by Miss Gardner, and should be followed by every citizen of this County.

Chilton ranks twenty-eight down the line in the list of seventy-eight chapters in the state, in membership. Chilton also is listed as one of the Chapters having less than two percent of the population as members in the Red Cross. It is the desire of those in charge of this year's Roll Call to place this County above the two percent average, as Chilton County has received much benefit from the National Red Cross.

Roll Call Chairman Martin, this week asks the question "Which arm in the City of Clanton or elsewhere in the County, will be first to become one hundred percent?" By this he means which firm will be first to have every employee become a member.

PILOT CLUB MET WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT METHODIST CHURCH

On last Wednesday evening, October 12th the members of the Clanton Pilot Club held their regular monthly business meeting in the basement of the Methodist Church. After business, presided over by President, all of the new members of the Club had charge of the program which was very interesting.

The program was in the form of an amateur program with Merle Brown acting as toastmistress. Several interesting features being that of Sophia Jones impersonating Mae West, Nor Meroney forgetting about her business ability, skipping around the room and getting Fiquette "tricked". Ruth Sessions gave a reading, Willie Maude Kelly, Zora Guy Smith and Delilah Grant sang a song.

DR. V. J. GRAGG RETURNS FROM PORT ST JOE, FLA.

Dr. V. J. Gragg returned to Clanton last Sunday from Port St. Joe, Fla., where he has been for some time, resting and recuperating from a recent illness.

Although Dr. Gragg's condition has improved, he stated to a representative of the News that he did not get the rest desired due to the very unsettled weather in that section of Florida.

He asked the News to state to his friends that Mrs. Gragg would be in his office from Saturday on, attending the regular routine of business, and that anyone wished to make payment on their account, same would be appreciated.

CAPTURE OF NEGRO RESULT OF NIGHT CHASE

Sheriff And Deputies Trail
Armed Negro All Night
Recently

Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies were called to the Minooka Community, below Calera Wednesday afternoon, October 12th, to capture a negro, William Henry Green, who is alleged to have attempted to enter the home of a Mrs. Ward, who was ill in bed, but was put to flight by a large dog owned by Mrs. Ward's husband, who was away from home at work.

According to a statement from Sheriff Hardy, he secured bloodhounds from Spigner Prison to track the negro, and after an all night chase he was captured on the railroad track just south of Calera early the next morning. Fresh bloodhounds were sent for by Mr. Hardy but before they arrived the capture was effected.

Sheriff Hardy stated the negro, giving his age as 58, was armed and that several shots were exchanged during the chase but no one was injured. A warrant was sworn out by R. C. McVay, who stated the negro had been staying in the outbuilding belonging to him and that the negro had stolen several articles in the community, housing them there. McVay is a resident of the Minooka Community. Green was charged with burglary and grand larceny.

At a recent meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, the subject of a National Guard Unit and Armory for Clanton was brought up for consideration and discussion. A National Guard Unit and Armory, without a doubt, would be an asset to this community, besides having a well organized National Guard Unit, an Armory would furnish quarters where gatherings of various types, social functions, etc., could be held.

Whether or not money for this project was available from the Federal Government was not known at that time, but John Higgins, one of Clanton's younger business men, who is vitally interested in the matter, made a trip to Montgomery, where he talked with Brigadier General Coleman, State Adjutant General, about the possibility of such a unit for Clanton.

Higgins was told that no more Federal funds were available for this work at the present time. (The Federal Government furnishes practically all the funds except a small amount by the State.) However, General Coleman stated that this City was interested to the extent that it would form its own militia unit, drilling regularly, it would be one of the first to be officially organized, and its chances for securing the Armory would be good, when more money was appropriated for the National Guard.

During the past week several young men have agreed to come into the organization, and it is expected that many more will join the organization within the next few days. A company of approximately seventy-five members is desired.

It is understood that the State War Department will, in time, furnish the company with rifles for their drills, if anyone interested in the matter are asked to contact John Higgins, or Lieut. T. H. Walker, for particulars.

State, Walker, Educational Advisor at the local C. C. Camp, and a reserve in the U. S. Army, has agreed to assist in the plan.

Democrats Continue An Intensive Drive

From T. B. Derasum, secretary of the Young Democrats in Chilton County, comes this notice:

"You are urgently requested to attend a meeting of the Young Democrats at the Courthouse in Clanton, on Thursday night, October 20, at 7:30 o'clock. There is some very important business to be transacted.

"A prominent out-of-town speaker will be present to address the Club."

A large enthusiastic crowd met Monday night at Union Grove. Interesting talks were made and plans laid for a more intensive drive than heretofore.

As the time grows longer, larger and larger crowds are attending these meetings and showing their eagerness to make this election November 8th, one that the Democratic Party in Chilton County will long remember as a banner-day by their overwhelming victory.

Following is a list of meetings for the future, to which everyone is invited:

Collins Chapel—October 21st.
Mapleville—October 24th.

Cooper—October 26th.

Macedonia—October 28th.

Janice—October 31st.

Clanton—November 2nd.

Clanton—November 4th.

Thanks A Million

We are sincerely grateful for the many expressions of goodwill and good wishes, coming from individuals, from fellow newspaper friends throughout the State, some from other states, and many letters and telegrams from friends who are not connected with the newspaper business. This faith that our fellows have in us, will spur us on to do our dead level best to serve our Town, our County, and our Nation, as good citizens should.—The Tuckers

Chilton County And The Red Cross Roll Call

It is quite some time until the Annual Red Cross Roll Call Drive opens in this County, but it is not too soon for all of us to start thinking about what kind of response we will give to this year's plea of this great humanitarian organization.

Chilton County knows of the work of The National Red Cross. We have been extended their helping hand in several instances in the past. Every man and woman in our County cannot help but be cognizant of the fact that without this helping hand many of our citizens would have suffered greater hardships following our disasters. They came to our aid without persuasion, and cannot we come to their aid by giving the little sum that is asked of us at this time?

This newspaper is firm in the belief that our County will respond willingly this year. A few pennies laid aside each day until November 11 will insure your membership in the National Red Cross, and will assure their help in times of need. Let's give willingly and liberally this year. A friend in need is a friend indeed. Their friendship has been proven—let's prove our gratitude sometime between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving.

Behind The Scenes

We are taking the liberty of quoting from a late release from "Behind The Scenes" as follows:

"Back to work we go" is now the theme song chanted by business men throughout the land with war scares, baseball classics and hurricanes out of the way, for the time being at least, the country is rolling up its sleeves for another era of prosperity. The business picture at this stage of events, although admittedly less dramatic than the recent martial headlines, give a firm basis for an optimistic feeling. Major steel companies are now turning out ingots at 50 percent of capacity and better. Detroit and other automotive centers according to report produced approximately 1,000,000 cars in the last three months of the year, a figure which only a month ago was considered impossible. The number of buyers from out of town stores registering in New York, always a significant index to watch, has increased heavily during the past week. It is reported that sales in practically every department of one of the major chemical companies have moved up sharply. The strength in the stock market and the relief from war threats abroad is causing a renewed activity in new financing.—Monroe Journal.

One of the puzzles of contemporary politics is the marked characteristics of John D. M. Hamilton. His strategy seems to be to keep trying to maneuver his party into a defensive position. Much of his energy is devoted to thinking up new ways of lining up his ranks solidly on a field where they may deny, with great vehemence, various accusations and insults. How does Hamilton expect to make touchdowns if he insists on handing the ball to his opponents on every scrimmage?—Oklahoma City Oklahaman (Rep.)

Church Membership Still Tends Upward

Every now and then one reads a gloomy prediction that religion is on the decline in this country. But, every now and then we read statistics which disprove these predictions.

The Christian Herald, which regularly makes a religious census of the nation, reports that church membership in the United States is now at its greatest figure, both numerally and in proportion of the population. Nearly one-half, or 49.9 percent of the country's population now is affiliated with some church. In 1920, the proportion was 39.8 percent, and in 1880 it was only 19.9 percent.

The total church membership of the nation now stands at 63,848,094. This is an increase over last year of 754,136. But the nation's increase in population is estimated at only 908,000, which means that 84 percent of the new population finds its name on the church rolls.

It is true, of course, that some of this increase in the percentages of church membership may be more apparent than real. The average age of citizens in this country is rising. Inasmuch as church membership is a matter of adult life more than juvenile life, the larger proportion of older persons will naturally be reflected in a larger ratio of church membership to total population.

Nevertheless, we seem a long way from losing faith in religion. With half of the entire population having some church affiliation, which means a much larger percentage of the adult population belonging to the churches, the future of religion in America is not discouraging. Despite all the counter attractions of the day, the increase in so-called "worldly" pleasures, a faith in a God and exercise of that faith still seem essential parts of life to most Americans.

The Busy Advertising Merchant Is Always A Winner

When a country weekly newspaper editor becomes so elated over his own business that he can boast about the up-to-date, live merchants who advertise regularly, he is really bragging on his town. We heard such a publisher complaining that in good times his merchants didn't need to advertise for business and that in hard times they didn't feel able. Nearly every merchant will agree that it pays to advertise, but a great many of them do not know how to make it pay them. The merchant who studies his advertising needs and sees that his place of business and his goods are placed before the reading public may be counted on to have something in his store and to survive all the hard times that may happen along.—Tuskegee News

Be Wary

A short time ago it was announced that the post office department was investigating certain "mail order" insurance companies, to see if they were operating in violation of the law.

Whatever the results of this investigation, the prospective insurance buyer will do well to keep on his guard. "Prize" policies, whether for life, accident, or what-not, usually contain long lists of exceptions and limiting in fine print, which makes it impossible for the unwary buyer to actually obtain what he thinks he is purchasing.

Buy your insurance from a well-known company, with agents in your locality. Pay standard rates, and get policies that mean what they say. That's the best insurance protection anyone can obtain.

To be intolerant of intolerance is also intolerant.

A thief is a thief, whether he steals the meat out of your smokehouse, burglarizes your bank, fiddles from your pockets, or grafts from your government.

He who grows great in the hearts of his fellows anchors his barque with a chain of steel; he who grows great in his own estimation anchors his barque with a rope of sand, which is soon dissolved by the ever-changing tide.

Alf M. Landon advises Democrats to vote for Republican candidate in the congressional elections in order to "save the Democratic party". Remembering that Mr. Landon carried only two states when he ran for President on the Republican ticket in 1936, some people might suspect that his real concern is for the Republican party. Certainly it seems to be more in need of saving. His reasoning is a little too finely drawn to be convincing.—Galveston News. (Ind. Dem.)

We Observe
By BONNIE HAND

GLAD TO SEE YOU BACK—

We're certainly glad to see Dr. V. J. Grange back home after a stay of several days at Port St. Joe, Florida. He stated to Ye Olde Observer that he was glad to be back, and although his condition has not improved so much, he has hopes of being able to return to his work as staff surgeon at the local hospital in the near future. Yes, we're glad to see you back, Doc, and our best wishes for an early recovery are with you.

MORE ABOUT ARMORY—

Well, it looks like we might get something started in connection with the Armory we spoke of in this column last week. John Higgins states that several of the local boys have voiced their desire to form an unofficial National Guard Unit and drill regularly. This is encouraging and we certainly hope that more will come into the organization later. Although there is no money available in the State at the present time for the establishing of a National Guard Unit and erection of an armory, Clanton would be lined up for the next one placed in the State, through the organization of this unofficial Unit and manifestation of interest in the matter. If you know of any healthy young fellows who would like to get some real military experience, refer them to John Higgins, who will see about getting these young men lined up.

A DANGEROUS INTERSECTION—

Did you ever stop to think that when you drive down the avenue from the Baptist Church and come into the highway between the Clanton Motors building and Teele's Service Station, you must look twelve directions for oncoming autos? This is certainly a dangerous intersection and care should be exercised by every autoist when driving onto the highway here. The next stop light erected by the City should be placed at this point, we think.

A RAIN IN CLANTON—

Is needed very badly at the present time. It's really getting dusty hereabouts, but we are eager to see the streets of Clanton that are undergoing preparations for paving in case a good rain falls on our fair City. Our theme song would be "Singing In The Mud", instead of "Singing In The Rain". Ye Olde Observer is almost in need for a change to mud after several weeks of dust. You who don't live on one of these streets don't know what you're missing.

A BARGAIN—

This week the News makes an announcement of a proposition, that, in our estimation, is worthwhile. For every new subscriber added to the News' circulation list and brought in by a present subscriber, this present subscriber may get his subscription marked up for another year for only five cents. And, too, the subscription price for a new subscription is only one dollar. If your subscription to the Chilton County News is about to expire, now is the time to get it renewed for only fifty cents—one-half of one dollar.

MORAL ECHOES
D. W. Haskew

Stagg's champion baseball team was one day defending its college title. The batter had singled one to the right field and a man on second base came racing over the plate with the winning score. Stagg came running to meet him crying, "Go back to the dugout, you cut it by a yard." "But the umpire didn't see it," whispered the runner. "That makes no difference, get back," said Stagg. "It may cost the game for this college, but we play on the level." The ball champion lost the game for his college, but he won the elements of a fine character.

On leaving the hotel I called for my bill at the desk. The clerk figured it out, and handed it to me. I looked it over and addressed him thus, "For some reason this bill is not correct." The man at the desk replied, "Let me see, if it is not right, we will make it right." Then I called his attention to the fact that he had not charged. He traced the record of the bill and found it charged to another man. Then he looked at me with an unusual expression on his face and replied, "One in a thousand." I am not certain that I knew what he meant, but anyway I felt better on the inside. On that same trip I saw a man lying in his sleeves because he was able to pass one on the clerk at the hotel, and get by without paying an honest charge. It is better to have an empty purse and a clear conscience, than to have much money and a conscience that condemns.

Next to character, an idea is most valuable. One day O'Sullivan was working in a printing plant and he discovered that he felt better when standing on a rubber mat. The shock of the machinery was lessened and he had more strength for his task. Other workers in the shop thought it a fine idea and when O'Sullivan would leave his machine they would take his rubber mat and stand on it. He would come back and find it gone. Then he had an idea that if he would just cut off a piece of rubber the size of his shoe heel and tack it on, that he would carry his rubber protection with him. His working pals saw that this was a good idea and so they went to him to treat their shoes to a rubber heel. Now those rubber heels are made by the millions and O'Sullivan became wealthy and just because he had an idea. A new idea will make you rich and famous.

We were, all very proud of a certain man on our college team. He had the best batting average in his league and interest ran high when he stood at the plate. As I looked upon him I observed that this star on the diamond fiddled three times to where he made one sure hit. He would fan out, knock a fly or a rolling ball out of the fielders. On an average of one ball out of four he made good. It is a fact that great batters fail to hit more times than they hit. It is also true that a great football player is often stopped with no pain. All of this means that success is not won without reverses. If you are a normal man you are going to fail more times than you succeed. However, folks will forget how many times you fanned out in the beginning of the game if you will knock a man when a man is in the inning when all the bases are full. This is the thought that should cheer us up when going seems hard.

Out of the long ago there comes to me an old myth that tells of a magic skin. It told that this skin could wear it and then wish for anything he wanted and it would come to him. If he wanted money he wished for it and it came. If he wanted power wear the skin and wish to sit and power came. The sad thing about that magic skin was that when a man wished for anything while wearing the skin, that the wish would cause the skin to shrink and by the time he had received the thing wished for the skin would be squeezing out his very life. When I read that myth I said to myself, "That skin is selfishness." It is a fact that when an man robes himself in selfishness he will usually get what he wants but in the getting the man is choked until he becomes less a man. Examine yourself and see if you are wearing that skin today. If you are, just mark what I say, it will finally shrink your soul until life will be miserable for you.

J. C. EDWARDS WRITES

"Editor, Chilton County News:

"I ask for a little space.

"If ye are reproached for the name of Christ happy are ye (I Peter—4:14).

"One who is reproached because of faithfulness to Christ has the evidence he is pleasing to God and, therefore he rests contentedly in God's love.

"Happy means a supremely blessed state by reason of being in God's family and in a favorable position with the Lord. It does not mean hilarity. Anyone who is careless and negligent in performing his assigned duty and is chastised for that reason and sings and says, 'Well, I've told the Lord all about it and now I'm happy,' that person is deceiving himself. To be sure God knows everything.

"Mistakes cannot properly make one happy, but will make him sober and thoughtful that he may profit thereby and make further progress. One can hardly be said to be happy when he is engaged in a real combat with the enemy.

"The joy of the Lord is essential. God's law never changes because God never changes. His law points out the way to everlasting life. Justice is the foundation of God's Throne. Love is the fulfilling of the law, whosoever, therefore, will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God (Jas. 4:4) and in 5th Psalms we read, 'For yet a little while and the wicked shall not be,' and the 11th verse says 'the meek shall inherit the earth.' Therefore all people should seek righteousness. Seek meekness. It may be ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger (Zeph. 2:3).

"Today it seems that men's hearts are failing them for fear and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth for the power of heaven shall be shaken (Luke 21:26). Read Hebrews 12:26—27, there are things that cannot be shaken.

"Abraham believed God and it was counted unto him for righteousness. We should remember that faith without works is dead.

"I see my letter is getting too long, and from what, Rev. Lockart said in his letter October 6th, many voters were voted wrong and some of them were members of some church. Members of churches make mistakes as well as others. We cannot hinder prophecy from being fulfilled.

"Very respectfully,

"J. C. Edwards."

Former Residents Of This County And Now Of Texas Visit Here For Several Days

Mr. J. R. Conell, son, Woodrow and son-in-law, O. J. Walker, of Mincola, Texas, were visitors to Chilton and Coosa Counties the past week. Mr. Conell is the brother of the late W. H. Conell of Stanton. He visited Dr. O. Conell and Hershall Conell, his nephews and sons of the late W. H. Conell of Natasuiga. Mr. Conell is a former resident of this County, moving to Texas, when he was 22 years old. During his stay he visited different places familiar to him during his boyhood days.

Among those places visited was his father's grave at Chestnut Creek. He was present at many of his old friends homes there, including the home of Gains Silas, where he stayed the night. Leaving there he came to Clanton and ate dinner with Henry Burnett and stayed there at the homes of G. W. and W. S. Willis at North Clanton. He visited also his old home place in the Mt. Zion Community.

He attended singing at Mountain Springs Church Sunday afternoon.

He left for his home in Wood County, Texas, Monday, October 17th. Mr. Conell is now 67 years of age.

Mr. Conell requested during his visit here to have these little verses or speeches, as he called them, put in this paper, because they were some he had learned when he was a boy here.

The Shrewd Barber

Here stands the shrewd barber with razor and pan.
Both talking and shaving as fast as he can.
No man in the village has more to say
Of the wind and the weather and the news of the day.

No sooner had a gentleman taken his seat,
Well covered with napkins spread over him neat,
Than a barber began, not a moment to lose,
With a most inexhaustible baggage of news.
A very fine day, Sir, and yet if I'm right,
We'll certainly have some rain before night.
Come Mr. Barber is your French fleet nearly done?
I could do twenty while you're doing one.
You're talking to fast to know what you're at.
I hate to see people so full of the chat.
Very well, Mister Barber, what have I to pay?
Only sixpence, Sir,
Thank you and good day.
Me And Miss Dinah
One day me and Miss Dinah went out walking
By the margin of the river.
The wind was blowing kind of fresh,
And made Miss Dinah shiver.
She shivered so I thought she'd fall,
And in my arms I catch her.
When the wind came and blowed so hard,
It blowed us into the water.
Miss Dinah she went in head first,
And I went head foremost,
And though I froze my nose and toes,
My heart was stilled the warmest.
The people thought us drowned.
Miss Dinah, she was first to shore
But I was never found.

IN MEMORY

Sleep on, little brother,
In your sweet and silent sleep.
For in Heaven there's no pining,
You may rest at Jesus' feet

Dearest brother, how we miss you
And your voice is quiet and still.
You are gone from our home here,
And your place can ne'er be filled.

Dearest brother, we know you suffered,
And loud prayers was your request,
But we know that you're in Heaven.
Jesus gives his little ones rest.

I can remember when you kissed me,
And you told your Lord goodnight.
You said he took your name
Down into the book of right.

Dear brother, our hearts are saddened
For we can't hear your goodnight call.
We can't see you across the table,
That's when we miss you most of all.

Dearest Otto, you know we miss you,
As through life we journey on,
But I pray that we will meet you
In that sweet and happy home.

IN MEMORY

Many heart were saddened late Monday evening, October 10th, by the death of our dear friend, Ollie Smith. For some reason, we know not why, God saw fit to call him away from his wife and little children, but we know God knows best all we can do is look to God for comfort and pray that he will understand it all by and by.

He was loved by everyone who knew him. He had many friends. We truly believe he loved God too. He was 40 years old. He was born and raised in Chilton County. He was laid to rest at New Cedron Church.

He leaves to mourn, his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Smith; 8 children, Mrs. Jewell Headley, James Thomas, Clarence, Barney, Robert, Eric Dell, Vernon Smith; and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Smitherman and Mrs. Emma Clecker; one brother, Albert Smith, and a host of friends and other relatives.

6 THERE ARE 6 SIX IMPORTANT REASONS-- Why MODERN LAUNDRY SERVICE IS THE SENSIBLE ANSWER

The Magic of modern science has taken out of the home a drab and disagreeable task and transformed it into a specialized professional service. With the kerosene lamp, the wood stove, and the weekly baking, home washing has happily become a thing of the past for economy-minded home managers of today. Our laundry is proud to be a part of the industry which has made possible this modern freedom for American women. And we are proud to be able to point out these important advantages which have made modern laundry service the logical answer to the family washing problem.

Consider these Facts:

- 1 PROFESSIONAL SERVICE COSTS NO MORE--Professional laundry washing not only frees the modern woman of work and worry, but also provides a better product at no greater cost. Test after test has shown that when all costs are figured fairly, you pay no premium for the professional efficiency that our modern service affords.
- 2 DOCTORS RECOMMEND IT--Modern commercial laundry service, as a guardian of public health, has earned the highest regard among doctors and public health officials everywhere. A recent survey revealed that, on the average, there are 6,000 times more bacteria remaining in the final rinse water in home washing than in the final rinse in the laundry. Reason enough for doctors to recommend the laundry's pasteurized washing.
- 3 PROTECTS FABRIC LIFE--Contrary to an old notion, it is now a proved fact that clothes washed in the modern laundry do not wear out faster than clothes washed at home. A scientific study made by the American Institute of Laundering actually showed a slightly lower fabric strength loss in clothes washed in the laundry than in the clothes washed by regular home methods.
- 4 SAFEGUARDS COLORS--In our modern laundry service, complete protection of even the faintest colors is assured. Every article in your family washing is accurately classified according to color, type of fabric, and type of article, when it comes into our laundry--and is washed according to its own particular requirements.
- 5 KEEPS WHITE THINGS WHITE--Laboratory tests have repeatedly proved that modern laundry washing keeps linens cleaner and whiter than even the most careful home washing. Our scientific washing process employs only "zero soft" water and the purest soaps, and uses ten to twelve complete changes of water during each single washing. No water is ever re-used in our laundry.
- 6 SCIENCE PERFECTS EQUIPMENT AND METHODS--The Modern laundry is not simply a mass production version of home washing. It is a scientifically designed and equipped "factory" which produces a highly perfected professional "product". Constant scientific research keeps the laundry abreast of each step in the progress of modern industry.

TABERNACLE IS HOST TO BIG CONVENTION

Southeastern District Council Of Assemblies Of God Met Here Last Week

One of the most widely attended and most successful religious conventions ever to assemble in Central Alabama met at Clanton with the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle last week, Monday through Thursday, October 10-13, when the Southeastern Council of the Assemblies of God, District of Alabama, met with the local members here.

The convention came as a finish to a one-week revival, conducted by the Rev. T. H. Spence, both revival and convention being voted by the assembly as the most successful ever.

This is the first time the Southeastern District Convention has ever met north of Montgomery. Some 350 ministers, delegates and visiting pastors in from all over Alabama and bordering states.

Religious meetings were held each day at 11:00 A.M. and 7:00 P.M. with business meetings of the Council delegates meeting at 9:30 and 2:30 each day. During these business meetings, the Rev. Martin L. Smith, of Mobile, was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee and General Superintendent of the Southeastern District Convention, to succeed Rev. Thames, of Elba, who had asked to be relieved of the duties after a term of some years, during which the District Association and its field has prospered wonderfully.

The religious services were well attended by people of this community, and the large gospel tent, seating some 700 men, never over half large enough to accommodate the crowds. Inspiring messages were delivered by Revs. Vogler, Smith, Thames, Hickman and others. After calls were given at all meetings, and the results were quite inspiring. Musical direction during the convention was under the guidance of Rev. Helms.

Thank Chilton County People

Without the wholehearted cooperation of the people of Clanton and immediate vicinity, the housing problem for the hundreds of delegates might have been a serious problem, but members of the entertainment housing committee were warmed by the fine response they received from these--our neighbors. People of all denominations--Pentecostal, Baptists, Methodists, and others, went out of their way to respond to this call of the Tabernacle committee for sleeping quarters for their visitors.

For this, members of the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle offer their sincere thanks, and await the opportunity to themselves be of assistance to their neighbors and friends whatever their denomination, at any time that opportunity may present. We truly thank you for all your wonderful help in a time when we needed your homes for our people. We can never forget this favor, nor appreciate it enough.

The Convention closed Thursday night after a most successful session. The visiting delegates and other expressed their hearty approval of the Clanton Church, as well as of the City of Clanton and her fine people. It is believed that the convention will meet again next year, inasmuch as all visiting delegates were heartily in accord that this was the best convention in the history of the Southeastern Conference.

The Clanton Gospel Tabernacle invites you to attend its preaching services, as well as its Sunday School, which meets at 9:45. Come out and be with us.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT COLORED CHURCH HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

A musical program entitled "Wings Over Jordan" will be presented at the Union Baptist Church (colored) Friday, October 21st, at 8:00 P.M.

A chorus of twenty-five voices will render the program featuring Negro Spirituals and Jubilees. The chorus is under the direction of M. E. Few, principal of Clanton Colored Elementary School.

Special seats have been reserved for white people of the city.

CEMETERY CLEANING AT LIBERTY HILL CHURCH, OCT. 27

There will be a cemetery cleaning at Liberty Hill, near the hills west of Clanton, on the afternoon of October 27, according to an announcement given the News this week. Persons interested in this cemetery are asked to meet early in the afternoon and bring necessary tools with which to work.

CLANTON METHODIST Church

Did you know that we are feeling mighty good about something and we want to pass it on to you and we shall all rejoice together? That something is that records of last Sunday and of the same Sunday a year ago show that last Sunday we had 42 more people in attendance at Sunday School than we had a year ago. We think that is fine, but did you know that if it would come who should come would yet increase the attendance about 100 more? Now let's be thankful for the increase we have had and work even harder to get an even greater increase for next Sunday and all future Sundays.

Our hearts go out in sympathy and love to the family of our faithful member, Bro. R. S. Sumner. May God's richest blessings of comfort be shed on them lovingly and may his mantle be cast on someone who can be just such a blessing in our church as was Bro. Sumner. We personally and as a church shall miss him.

We want all the ones who are having to be absent from our church services to know that we are remembering them and miss them, and are praying that all will well with them soon.

All who can, let's carry on the Lord's work as best we can and not fail in any way any of the services, Sunday School, preaching services, Leagues and all others.

MAPLESVILLE P. T. A. MET ON MONDAY, OCTOBER, 10TH

Gwin; Publicity, chairman, Mrs. W. E. Coburn.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Gandy. The needs of the school were discussed and plans made for the year's work. A special membership drive was begun October 4th and will continue through October.

The second Monday evening in each month is the regular meeting time. All meetings begin at 7:30.

All officers and teachers of the Sunday School are to hold the week, October 30-November 6, in reserve for the special study course, to be taught in our church by Mrs. C. H. Cosby, of Birmingham.

There will be an ordination service climaxing the evening worship service on next Sunday evening, October 23, at which time two newly elected deacons, Dr. Charles Moore and Mr. Frank Scott, are to be ordained by the church.

Next Sunday, October 23rd, is State Mission Day and our church will observe the occasion by special gifts to the work in our own State. MRS. W. C. WARRICK

A hush came over the city like a mighty palm when the news was flashed on last Friday evening, October 7th, that the spirit of our much beloved aunt had winged its flight into the great beyond. She had passed her 86th birthday.

The days of her years were well-spent in loyalty and devotion to God and to her home.

Again the silver cord has broken and a noble and upright servant of God has left us, but her chair is vacant, and while antique will be absent from our earthly home, may we be prepared to meet her in Heaven.

Miss Mary Jack Dobson Of Wedowee Becomes Bride of James Dewey Williams

Following is a clipping from The Roanoke Leader, Roanoke, Alabama, and will be of interest to many of this section.

"Attracting wide interest was the marriage of Miss Mary Jack Dobson, of Wedowee, to James Dewey Williams, of Clanton, which took place at the Baptist Church in Wedowee Saturday afternoon, October 1st, at 4:00 o'clock, before a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The Rev. H. M. Murphree performed the ring ceremony.

"Preceding the ceremony a program of pre-nuptial music was rendered. Mrs. N. D. Burson sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and Floyd Sweet sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Maddox Britain, pianist, who also played the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches and Schubert's "Serenade" during the impressive ceremony.

"The church was decorated in bridal tones of green and white. Arranged for the background for the bride party was a pyramid of ferns, in the center of which was placed, a fourteen-branched candelabrum. On either side seven branched candelabra holding cathedral tapers were grouped. A large basket of Easter lilies and arrangements of white dahlias completed the setting.

"First to enter were the ushers, Hugh Overton and Edward Lovorn, of Wedowee, who lighted the candles. Betty Wright, of Wedowee, and Louise McMurray, of Heflin, junior bridesmaids, dressed in rural autumn velvet dresses and carried colonial bouquets tied with matching ribbons, entered next.

"Bridesmaids included Miss Jean Drinkard, of Falkville, Miss Frances Carpenter, of Decatur, wearing gold velvet; Miss Eula Mae Wessinger and Miss Edyth Kerr, of Wedowee in rosy blue velvet; Miss Irene Cashie, of Wedowee, and Miss Betty McSwain, of Clanton, wearing wine velvet. They entered two at a time and, like the junior bridesmaids, carried colonial bouquets and their dresses were fashioned like the bride's. Each wore in her hair matching velvet flowers tied with velvet ribbons that fell to the floor.

"Mrs. Jim Roberts, of Clanton, sister of the groom, served as matron-of-honor. She wore a costume of blue velvet. Miss Sara Dobson, of Wedowee, was her sister's maid of honor. Her dress was light blue velvet. She and the matron-of-honor entered separately and carried colonial bouquets. The attendants' dresses were fashioned alike and had Irish lace collars.

"Little Vernon Dobson, Jr., of Atlanta, dressed in a black velvet suit with satin blouse trimmed in Irish lace, preceded the bride and carried the ring in an Easter lily.

vention of pread of the disease. Special pride, the Health Officer declared, is taken by the Department in its pneumothorax clinic established in June, 1938 under the sponsorship of the local Tuberculosis Association. Three patients, he pointed out, have been admitted to the Montgomery County Sanatorium during 1938.

The syphilis control program now one of the most important phases of the local health program, got underway effectively in October, 1937, when a treatment clinic was started in the local office. Since its beginning a total of 110 persons have been admitted for treatment and 1,874 treatments rendered. Prior to furnishing free drugs for anti-syphilitic clinic treatment to private physicians.

In addition to treatments a total of 160 follow-up visits have been made by the health officer and nurse.

During the period the workers in the Department have supervised 330 cases of communicable diseases and have made 878 visits to homes to prevent the spread of these diseases.

Reviewing the nurse's activities, Dr. Sturkie reported a total of 736 expectant mother and 339 infants visited by the nurse and a total of 1268 visits to these mothers and 842 visits to infants. The nurse's work, he stated, is primarily a teaching program to instruct mothers to visit the family doctor early in pregnancy.

Through the effort of the County Sanitation Officer a total of 490 sanitary pit privies and 14 septic tanks have been installed, 419 inspections of eating establishments to prevent the spread of diseases transmissible through food have been made.

Although the Department has given satisfactory service with its limited personnel the need for expanding the local Health Program is very evident, according to Dr. Sturkie. Recently, he said, he has brought this to the attention of the local Commissioners Court, the members of which have agreed to study plans to improve the health service being rendered in the County.

one stealing his fowls sometime in the night of October 12th, and awakening two neighbors, Luther Mims and Walter Gillespie, they gave chase to the three boys, who were riding in a coupe automobile.

The chase continued up the highway toward Calera, and some distance below Calera the men giving chase succeeded in stopping the car by shooting the tires. Two of the youths fled, but one, Albert Sargent, surrendered. Lester Sargent was shot near the heart during the affray, but fled into nearby woods, and was not found until Thursday morning when the men returned to the scene of the shooting. He was brought to the hospital, where he died last Friday.

John D. Armstrong was elected as Vice-President, and succeeds Mr. Page as Vice-President.

A Board of Directors was also elected, as follows: O. T. Dickey, J. W. Fant, Dr. V. J. Griggs, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, J. M. Martin, Homer Roberts, T. H. Walker, and O. M. Webb. All officers will assume their duties January first, and at that time the appointing of committees will take place. Mr. Page has announced that within the near future he will call a meeting of the newly-elected directors to map out objectives for the Club during the coming year.

One of the major objectives of the Kiwanis Club during the coming year is to aid in securing a lighted recreation field for Clanton. This will entail considerable expense and it is hoped that the cooperation of the County and City officials, also the County Board of Education, this much needed improvement will be made.

The program for the Club's meet tonight is in charge of T. H. Walker, who has announced that a program explaining the functions of the CCC will be presented by the representatives of the County Board of Education, manager of the Thornbury Government Fine Tree Nursery, will be on hand to talk to the gathering.

City Asks Cooperation During Water Scarcity

The dry weather and the inadequate water supply system has presented a situation in the City of Clanton that requires the cooperation of everyone in conserving the supply of water as much as possible.

Last week the City issued circulars, the substance being as follows:

"The flow of water into our wells is growing less every day. We ask everyone, that each person economize to the limit in the use of water.

"Do not wash cars. Do not water the lawn. Postpone all brick and concrete work. The strictest economy is absolutely necessary to avoid a more serious situation than now exists.

"Many things have happened that delayed the completion of a well contracted for more than a month ago. You have a duty to perform and we believe you will do your part fully."

The circular was signed by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who stated early this week that he appreciated very much the cooperation he was receiving and that our supply of water is now better than it has been for some time.

TWO WEEKS UNTIL RED CROSS DRIVE

Chilton County Will Have Opportunity To Repay Organization

Friday, November 11—exactly two weeks from tomorrow, will mark the opening date of the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, and it is during this campaign that officials of the drive expect to see Chilton go over the top with the largest number joining in the history of the Roll Call.

This obligation Chilton County owes the Red Cross is nothing short of a chance to return a good deed. The Red Cross is asking only a small bit in return for the many dollars it has spent in Chilton County.

Fifty cents of every dollar taken

FIRST 100 PER CENT

The first business or organization in Chilton County to become 100 per cent again goes to the credit of Miss Annie Gardner, head nurse at the Central Alabama Hospital. Miss Gardner has secured the membership of every employee of the hospital—even down to the negro orderly, so to the Central Alabama Hospital goes the honor of being the first to become 100 per cent which means every member of the organization.

during this Roll Call will remain in this County to be used by the Chilton County Chapter—this money to be spent wisely to aid the suffering in cases of disaster, and to help the needy in Chilton.

The other fifty cents will go to the National Red Cross to be used to aid the suffering and needy throughout the entire nation. At times money coming from the local chapter is not nearly enough needed. It is at these times that it becomes necessary to call on the National organization.

Our quota, which has been placed at $450, is expected to be acquired, and several memberships over.

DR. GRAGG EXPECTED TO BE BACK AT OFFICE SHORTLY

Dr. V. J. Gragg, who has been sick for several weeks, says he hopes to be able to resume active duties at his office and at the hospital by the first of next week. Mrs. Gragg is already in the office and will be glad to wait on anyone wishing to pay their bills.

Miss Katherine Pratt, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Pratt of this City, spent the week end visiting in Verbena.

Lord, I Apologize

Lord, I was blue and discouraged this morning, but it is different this afternoon, and I want to apologize for feeling that way. This morning I thought there was ample reason for an attack of the blues. My bank account had gathered its folds about it and departed into a far country. The installment on my car was past due, and I had no money with which to pay it, my insurance was in bad shape for non-payment of premiums. Necessity has been forcing me to work hard and long for many years at a salary much less than I know myself to be worth. This morning it seemed that some of my friends were growing distant and cold. Then too, the cook didn't show up at our house, and my wife was so busy helping me with my job that the question of lunch was uncertain. Somehow in my shaving this morning I turned the razor too sharply inward and my face felt like a peeled onion must feel when it is taken from the warm earth and its protective cover removed. On top of that I didn't get enough sleep last night because I had to work so late. I got up thinking about notes coming due all too soon, accounts that were old and covered with moss. This morning it seemed that everybody demanded that I pay them, and that nobody felt any obligation to pay me what they owed. Until nearly noon I kept sinking deeper and deeper into the quicksand of despair and self-pity.

Then I walked up the street and happened to see an elderly lady—terribly afflicted. An eating cancer had literally destroyed her nose. She was looking for the welfare office. No doubt, she had suffered many days, weeks and months, in an agony which I could only imagine. Many times in the middle of dark and sleepless nights her cry for relief must have winged its way into the mysterious ether of the universe about us. And also, certain, seems the fact that she will suffer many more days to come. I thought: How sweet death must seem in such bitter affliction. But so far as I observed she was not railing against an unkind fate.

It is not given me to understand why human beings are sometimes brought to such a condition of suffering in this life, but my heart was deeply touched with pity and compassion. Her name, her home—I do not know, but Lord, I apologize for worrying you with my little troubles this morning.—The Chambers County News.

The world will wake up one day to find that greatness means more than ability to stay in front of the clicking cameras.

We can't recall the time when more people who do not farm, were telling the farmers of Alabama how to farm.

We congratulate Editor Forney Stephens of the Oneonta Southern Democrat, on rounding out forty-four years of useful service to his community, his county, his state. Any editor who has survived the wrath of those who do not like the way the paper is run for forty-four years has certainly earned whatever kind of "degree" it is that Brother Yerby gives the pupils in his school of "Old Timers".

Comes Parker Campbell of Scottsboro and announces that he has taken over complete control of The Scottsboro Progressive Age and The Scottsboro Citizen, and that he will continue to operate them as individual newspapers, from the same plant. We consider Parker one of the best qualified weekly newspaper men in the State, and believe that he will give the people of Jackson County newspaper service that they will appreciate and be willing to pay for.

It is estimated that 1,000,000 persons have secured employment, and have been dropped from the relief rolls of the nation since the first of June.

The State Chamber's Report

Commenting on the report of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, dealing with the State's income, The Birmingham Post says:

"The current report of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce dealing in detail with the State's income and the manner in which it is spent or distributed should eliminate the many false ideas of fabulous tax wealth and gross extravagance.

"It has been pointed out repeatedly in these columns that the figure of $81,000,000 and more, which has been used by some as the State's income was incorrect—deliberately so in some cases—and that even the gross figure of $71,000,000 included large sums merely collected by the State for other agencies but not available to it for maintenance of the normal functions of state government.

"The State Chamber's report, which incidentally was issued by its committee on government, is authentic and official since it presents figures which were checked by state officials.

"And what does it show?

"It shows first that the State's actual annual income is $58,000,000, instead of the 71 or 81 millions about which we have been hearing. It shows further after the deduction of Federal grants, social collections and monies turned over to the counties that the State is left only $34,000,000 for all of its functions. Deduct from that amount funds for schools, roads and all other earmarked monies and we find that approximately $7,000,000 is left for appropriation by the Legislature.

"Savings can be made, of course. Numerous job, no doubt, can, and should, be eliminated, but let us not mislead ourselves into believing we can cut down the State's income by the elimination of certain tax, and, through economy, still provide a functioning government, plus an eight months' minimum school term.

"It can't be done."

Straight Thinking About Railroads

It's time the people did some straight thinking about railroads.

It is apparent that there are but two long-term solutions to the so-called transportation problem, regardless of temporary palliatives. One is to permit the lines a rate structure that will be sufficient to meet expenses and return at least part of the "reasonable return" of five and three-fourths percent stipulated by the Transportation Act—a return which the industry has not been able to earn in a single year since the war.

The other is to permit matters to drag on as at present, with more lines going bankrupt, until government ownership, with resulting subsidization of the industry, remains as the only way our principal medium of transportation can be kept going.

What would the first solution entail? It would mean a modest increase in freight rates that would average but a few cents per family annually. No industry would suffer serious harm. To the contrary, all industry would be benefited by increased railroad spending and employment. New rolling stock would be purchased, service would be extended and improved in many instances, and the industry as a whole would stride ahead with confidence and aggressiveness.

What would the second solution entail? It would mean that the government would have to spend billions of public funds to purchase the railroads and pyramid the national debt to still dizzy heights. It would mean annually heavier taxes to meet deficits. It would mean poor service, if past precedent is any arbiter—don't forget the sad experience the country had with government operation during the War. It would mean that the country's largest single industry would be politically owned, politically managed and politically dominated—and would probably become the most menacing patronage machine in the nation.

Dispassionate surveys have shown that the people are overwhelmingly opposed to government ownership of railroads. But that opposition won't be enough to stop it—if the lines aren't given a living wage, which is all they ask for. No other business in the world, large or small, is expected to operate year after year and spend more money than the law allows it to charge for its product. That is the heart of the railroad problem.

We believe that prosperity has returned when we see a generous sprinkling of five dollar bills on the collection plates of the local churches.—Chambers County News.

"Prosperity", me eye, that will be the millennium.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

A LIGHTED FIELD—

The C. C. H. S. Tigers bowed to Sylacauga last Friday night on the latter's modern, well lighted field. This was the first defeat of the Tigers this season and we say here and now that we were certainly proud of our boys. The two teams appeared evenly matched and interest in the game demonstrated by the huge crowd of spectators swelled high. We could not help but think about what an asset a lighted recreation center would be to Clanton, as we watched this game on Sylacauga's field. A lighted recreation field is one of the objectives of the Clanton Kiwanis Club during 1939, and we have high hopes that by the time the next football season comes rolling around, Clanton will have a lighted field. Attendance at the night games would be larger, and more interest will be manifested in football, as well as other recreational activities in Clanton. Here's to a lighted field next season.

PARADE OF CARS—

At about this time every year the parade of new cars gets started. Two local automobile dealers are already showing the new models in their respective makes, and from what we can learn, most of the new cars in the parade will appear in the downtown showroom before many more days have past. Yes, Sir, there's some mighty pretty automobiles in the new models and at this time every year we have to fight the new car bug, with all our might, and even then we are sometimes poisoned by its sting and plunge forth and buy ourselves a new bus. Look like we'll have to inoculate ourselves well this season, as old man pocket-book is as flat as a Coca-Cola that has been opened two days or more. But, man to man—they're beautiful.

BE CAREFUL—

We were just finishing up the paragraph above when the fire alarm went off full blast. The first thing that came into our mind was something we'll wage many more people in this town thought about. That is the crisis in our water supply at this time. Fortunately this particular fire amounted to very little, being extinguished before it gained headway, but we shudder to think what a real fire in the business section of Clanton would do with our water supply so low. Mayor Jones has respectfully asked the citizens of our town to use the water sparingly, in order that we might be able to cope with such emergencies, and tide us over the dry spell until an ample supply could be secured. It will be up to us to be as careful of fire and use the city water as sparingly as possible. Mr. Jones tells us he is receiving splendid cooperation from the service stations and other establishments using lots of water.

CONGRATULATIONS—

We extend congratulations to Mr. John C. Page on being chosen to head the Clanton Kiwanis Club for the year 1939. We predict many accomplishments under the gavel-wielding of Mr. Page.

THE RED CROSS—

Here's hoping Chilton County will go over the top this year with many memberships in the National Red Cross, when they open their annual Roll Call. Chapter Chairman C. O. Lawrence and Roll Call Chairman J. Mell Martin are expecting Chilton to really show its appreciation to the Red Cross this year, for the help given us in our times of need. Can you think of any better way you could spend a dollar than using it to become a member of the National Red Cross?

BRIDGE COMPLETED—

The Highway Department has announced that the bridge that will span the creek on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway will be opened to traffic on November first. The bridge that formerly spanned this creek was one of the many washed out during the flood which hit last Spring. The bridge now being erected will be of sturdy build and considerably wider than the other one. The temporary bridge and detour at this point has caused much inconvenience and motorists over the State will be glad to hear of the completion of the new one.

TWO FROM CHILTON ARE AUBURN FRATERNITY MEMBERS

Two students from Chilton County are to be found on the list of 350 who pledged this fall to 20 of the fraternities and sororities at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Formal initiation into the Greek letter organizations will be delayed until after the close of the first semester during which time the pledges will be required to meet certain scholarship standards.

The fraternity pledges from Chilton are Willard Hayes, Harvey Nix, Maplesville, Theta Chi.

D. W. Haskew

A father and mother came to the parsonage in great distress. In tears they told me of their boy who was at the door of death. A large rattlesnake had buried his fangs in the boy's leg and his life was in the balances. They said that prayer was the only thing that would save his life. With bowed heads we lifted that boy to God and the boy lived. They were deeply concerned about their son when they knew that he was bitten by a deadly reptile. I see many a son, many a daughter, bitten by the rattlesnake of whiskey. Wonder why parents are not alarmed when they detect that alcoholic poison has been injected into the blood streams of their children. The drinking habit is to be feared as much as the bite of a rattlesnake.

I was on the highway to Montgomery when a man ran out of his home and flagged me down. He wanted me to carry him some distance on the way. I took him in and soon he was telling me his story. Said that his father was on the WPA list in Andalusia. That he made something like a dollar a day during the week and that on Saturday night he would get on a big drunk and spend every cent he had made. He said that his father could not live with him on account of his drinking. Last of all this man said, "This is a great government when it will give a man a job during the week, then sell him whiskey on Saturday and get it all back." My heart bled as I listened to the story of this man. I was true in ten thousand other cases. I am wondering what Christian people are going to do about such things.

On entering a drug store I held in my hands three letters that were addressed to parties who lived in my home town. Each envelope had on it a three cent stamp when only a two cent stamp was required. The manager said to me, "Do you know that you are wasting three cents on those letters?" Then he related to me his experience in his store. He said, "One night I went through my waste basket and found eleven broken glasses as the result of one day's business at the drinking found. Those glasses cost me sixty cents. In one month's time meant a loss of eighteen dollars." Then he added, "Any man can catch a big leak in his tank, a business man to catch the little leaks that will sink any business." When we learn to take care of the little leaks, then we have skill enough to do some traveling on the sea of life. Save your pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves.

A lot of folks are curious to know where I get so many little things to write about. It was curiosity that killed the cat. A Missouri stable man put his hand into a mule's mouth to see how many teeth the mule had. The mule closed his mouth like a vise to see how many fingers the man had. Thus the curiosity of the man and the mule was satisfied. When a man keeps his tongue still, his eyes open, his ears listening and his brain acting, he can find out a lot of things.

One of those know all and do alls stood gazing through the window of a taxidermist. An owl was perched on a pedestal before him and the feet of, who thought so well of himself, thought so highly of his ability, addressed the sightseer with the lowly manner that I couldn't stuff and owl better than that, I would quit the business. The head is right, the poise of the body isn't right, the feathers are not right, the feet are not placed right and in fact that is a hum job." He was about to proceed to his criticism when the owl shook himself, turned his head and winked at the man out of one eye. The crowd laughed and the egotist moved on. I am enough human to enjoy seeing one of these "know all and do all" fellows get a good dressing.

I was told that Mr. Manard of Macon, Ga., a traveling salesman and a deacon in the First Christian Church, has recently invented a unique collection box. The collectors at church carry this box around at the service and when a nickel is dropped in a bell will ring. When a quarter is dropped in a bell will ring three times. When a penny is dropped in a blank explodes. When the fellow in the pew puts nothing in, the collection box will take his picture. I would like to sit in the pulpit and watch this collection box make the rounds. Doubtless I would hear many explosions and quite a bit of bell ringing and then, too, there would be many pictures taken.

4-H Club Member Makes Creditable Record

Credit is due Edwin Mims, Clanton, Route Four, who is a 4-H Club member. Edwin Mims has turned in the first 4-H Record book for the year 1937-38. He is a member of the Thorsby Club and this is his first year in Club work.

Taking as his project, cotton, he rented one acre of land, paying, $50.00 rent. The cost of seed was seventy-five cents and the cost of the fertilizer was $10.00 making a total of $15.75 expense. Edwin planted Dixie Triumph cottonseed and used 200 pounds of acid phosphate, 200 pounds of nitrate of soda, 200 pounds of ready-mixed fertilizers, making a total of 600 pounds of fertilizer and 42 pounds of plant food. His total market value for the entire crop was $46.40, leaving a profit of $30.65.

Young Mims attended seven club meetings during the year and has started a bank account of his savings. Below is a copy of a story written by Mims:

"The reason I became interested in Club work was because I wanted to learn more about agriculture. I fertilized and worked my project well. I planted my cotton the 9th day of May. I laid off the land and bedded it, then planted. After the cotton was up 10 days I barred it off and then chopped it. Then I divided it up and added put soda to it the next time I ploughed it. I waited another week and then hoed it. Then I ploughed it again and then in about a week I layed it by. I fertilized before planting and after chopping."

"The weather was just right to make a good cotton crop."

"I plan to put what money I have after paying my debts in the bank."

Health Department Checks Oysters Sold

The value of the State Health Department's program of supervision of oyster sales and shucking plants was pointed out recently by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, in a weekly bulletin. Since contaminated oysters have been known to be responsible for epidemics of typhoid fever, he stated, the supervision of oyster plants and the constitution of an important phase of the Department's typhoid control program.

As far back as 1880 Sir Charles Cameron of England showed that oysters might be responsible for the spread of typhoid, but according to the local officer, it was not until an epidemic occurred in 1924 in Chicago that this question was brought to a head in the United States.

The present program in Alabama as in other coastal states consists of sanitary surveys of oyster beds to determine the possibility of pollution and efforts to divert sewage from the beds, bacteriological examinations of the water from the beds and the oysters themselves, and inspections of the sanitation of the shucking plants. Each oyster shucker whose plant and method of operation meets the requirements of the Department is given a certificate bearing a serial number which must be shown on the can in which the oysters are shipped either stamped or embossed. Truckers who bring oysters from the coast must also have certificates.

The local health Department cooperates in the program as Dr. Sturkie pointed out, by checking oysters sold in Clanton and in the County to see if the can bears the serial number of a certified dealer.

J. W. HOSEY HAS SECOND CROP OF APPLES AT HIS PLACE HERE

J. W. Hosey, well known barber here, is showing at his shop a sample of his second crop of apples, which he says is growing at his place in Clanton. These apples are not grown, and are well developed, and Mr. Hosey stated that he might be able to harvest a full crop of ripe apples by Christmas—maybe.

Evangelist L. J. Cooper To Return To Clanton

The many friends in Clanton and Chilton County of Evangelist L. J. Cooper will be pleased to learn that he is scheduled to be in the city again this year with his big tent and broadcasting car, beginning Sunday, November 6th, the first service to be at that afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The tent will be located on the vacant property of Mr. W. C. Robinson east of the Thomson Hotel. Week day services will be at 7:30 each evening.

Conducting the singing for the services will be Rev. Ray Walker of Belton, Texas, a very outstanding singer of gospel hymns and choir director.

Evangelist Cooper and Rev. Walker are now engaged in a religious campaign in Newton, Miss., and report that they are having a wonderful revival of the old-time religion. A New newspaper says: "Local pastors endorse his work, for he does not stir trouble for the local churches; he rather builds them up. All the local pastors are cooperating in the meeting in Newton."

Grand Rapids, Mich., is the home of Evangelist Cooper, and he is a minister of the Northern Baptist Church. Although born in America, his ancestors traces directly to Holland. He is thirty-seven years old and never heard of a vice rendered in the English language until he was nearly grown. He now speaks fluently in English.

An invitation is extended all to remember this date and attend every service possible.

FREAK EAR CORN FOUND BY R. E. JOHNSON RECENTLY

R. E. Johnson, who resides near Bingley, brought an ear of corn to the News Saturday that might rightfully be termed a quintuplet ear.

This ear of corn was made up of five well developed ears growing around this main ear were five reasonably well developed ears.

Mr. Johnson stated that in his field of corn almost every stalk of corn has at least two ears, but this particular stalk on which the freak ear grew, had only the five-in-one ear.

Enchanting New York And Its Celebrities

By Miss Meta E. Grace
New York City

Greetings, Friends:
Another beautiful day, delightful weather, I'll say.

That much-talked of play, "Shadows and Substance," I just couldn't stay away from, so down I went. It was well acted and the famous writer, actor and artist, Paul Vincent Carroll, met me with that serious composure, but warm and welcome manner, unlike the stern and hard Cannon that plays such a mysterious role. One needs a strong catholic background to fully appreciate the play but the most unusual of its kind as well as deeply soulful individuals the writer has chosen to greet.

Anxious to meet New York's new discovery, the twelve-year-old baritone, Bobby Brittain, with the fully developed Lawrence Tibbett voice, I set sail to Major Bowes' office to find his secretaries and met and talked with Major's lovely and capable secretary, as well as talked here and there among the various individuals awaiting to go on the program. An afterwords finally got to that adorable Bobby. He sang "That's Why Darkies Were Born" and did the beautiful poem that he wrote when contemplating suicide. He made such success over the aid that Major asked him back the second week and went over so well that he is now in the making of a seven-year contract with NBC at $1000 a week. Later, Bobby came to see me and I found him to be as intelligent and witty as his voice is good.

On the way home I dropped in to refresh myself at Jack Dempsey's, however Jack was out but I've an invitation to greet him later. Jack's many friends are making of his business a great success, I'm told. He is very generous with his friends and a great supporter of President Roosevelt.

"Up to the 'Cloisters' to New York's most beautiful parks, gardens, exhibits of Rockefeller's present and future, a continuity of displayed Biblical characters, as the Virgin Mary and the Child in ever so many places, the famous hunt pictured on tapestries was also good. After feasting a long time on the gardens, my little friends, Betty Kohn and I sat out under one of the prettiest trees a long while and dreamed we were back in the Southland where the air, the birds, the sunshine and the wide open spaces spoils you forever.

Now back to the lovely International House for tea and to meet more people from all over the world. Mr. Damadian tells me the House takes care of at least five hundred people and only one tenth of them are selected from over the United States—he himself is an Armenian and on the official staff to see the proper arrangements made. Having met and danced with representatives from Persia, Italy, Austria, Canada, Germany, France and England and many others to the various tunes of their native countries made the occasion so delightful that I'm hoping to accept another invitation a bit later on.

Among the good friends I have

Mrs. Allan Freeman, Jo Ann Freeman and Jim Adie Adams, of Columbus, Ga., spent the week end with Mrs. G. C. Adams.

Mr. Joseph Thraikill of Columbus, Ga., spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thraikill.

Mr. Robert Williams is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Williams.

The presiding Elder of Montgomery conducted services at the Methodist Church Sunday morning. After the services a bountiful dinner was served.

Clanton Methodist Church

When we were in school we hated for our teachers to look over our work and say, "Now, you can do better than this." Now we wonder if our teacher over all is looking at our work for the Church and wishing he could tell us that we could do better work for Him, because our Sunday School records show that we had three more in attendance a year ago than we had last Sunday. Next Sunday's Orphanage Day at our Sunday School, and let's do our very best to have a record attendance for our Sunday School and a record-breaking offering for our children of the Orphanage. You know, "Inasmuch as ye do unto the least of these, ye do unto Christ."

The preaching services are at 11:00 A.M. and 7:00 P.M., as usual. It should be that the early ones should have the front pews, but since the opposite is the custom, let's have a large crowd at preaching services next Sunday so that the late ones will have to go right near the preacher in order to find a place to sit.

And Young People of the Junior and Senior Leagues, you are needed at your Leagues. Will you every one be there next Sunday at 6:15 P.M.? We expect you.

Interest, Baroness LePeur, who has been lovely to me and whose invitation I have accepted to join her with her Countess friend at the Hotel Astor with Circle International held in the Woodhouse Salon, Tuesday evening. The Baroness runs Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt a close second with her energy and accomplishments—well educated in many languages and countries, is the type you hope will keep talking, so interesting is she.

Having been cared for throughout the summer by dear old Col. and Mrs. George Cruise Cook, I reluctantly left them to move into Whittier Hall, but be nearer classes and activities and find it most worthwhile. My good friends, Dr. and Mrs. Bennett, have now returned from the South, where they spent the summer and are to carry me to see Helen Hayes in "Queen Victoria" over the week end.

Future plans that are immediate are to Harlem, where I hope to meet Father Divine, to the football game in West Point, to Trinity Church Sunday, then the new week's plans will be made. This new social atmosphere, intermingled with new trends and progressive ideas is indeed like living in another world and so interesting is it that each day, each hour and each minute is so completely filled that it seems I must be dreaming. I'm indeed thankful to all those. The Extension Department of Agriculture, and to committee of awards, who have made it possible for me to share these opportunities.

Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Levine and son, Myron, visited friends and relatives in Birmingham last Sunday.

Too Few Acres in Farm May Lead To Soil Misuse

One of the big problems in remedying soil misuse is the small farm where the operator is often forced to overwork the soil in an effort to make a living income for his family.

In the Yearbook of Agriculture for 1938, "Soils and Men" is pointed out that of the approximately 6 millions of farms in the United States reported in the last census, nearly 37 percent were less than 50 acres in area, and almost half of these produced crops with a gross value of less than $1,000 annually. Their net value was considerably less.

These small areas became farms for several reasons. Often the prospective farm operator can afford only a small place. Promotion and real estate subdivision have lured many people to purchase small holdings on which it

DROP IN WPA ROLLS IS SEEN BY HOPKINS

Downward Curve In Relief Expense Forecast After Parleys With President

By Harold Oliver, in The Montgomery Advertiser
Hyde Park, N.Y., Oct. 23.—Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief director, after a week of conferences with President Roosevelt, said today he expected to see the "relief curve go down," and predicted a smaller WPA appropriation for next year.

Interviewed on leaving the temporary White House for an official inspection trip in the West, Hopkins said: "I have been talking about WPA and its relation to a rise in employment and business. It is perfectly clear we are getting a rise in production and employment and that rise is reflected in the size of the WPA rolls."

"I look to see the relief curve in America go down at an early date, in spite of what some political enemies think. Our curve goes down as national income, productivity and employment go up."

Asked about next year's relief needs, Hopkins replied: "I do not know what the amount of the appropriation will be, but it undoubtedly will be a figure related to a smaller WPA than we have now."

He said he had been talking over the new fiscal year needs and an appropriation to carry WPA through the last four months of this fiscal period—March 1 to July 1 next—in a general way, but said this was more or less a "day-to-day" matter and the President did not expect to hear from him definitely on that until mid-December.

The relief chief said the "old charge" that he shove up the relief rolls before election and bring them down immediately thereafter is a lot of nonsense.

He touched briefly on State politics in terminating the interview, saying he would be back East in time to see "a 500,000 majority" for the reelection of Democratic Gov. Lehman over Thomas E. Dewey, Republican.

That means "Sir Galahad," he added, referring to Dewey, "will stay home. He won't have to worry about that commuting trip to Albany."

Hopkins departed for a speech in Chicago and a conference with Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois. He also will drop in on other WPA officials between Chicago and Salt Lake.

He will spend several days with James Roosevelt, who is recovering from an operation at a Hollister, Calif., ranch, before returning East Nov. 3 or 4.

Whether non-military departments will receive cuts in the new budget to make up for increased appropriations for national defense is a question that will remain unanswered until actual transmission of the budget message.

An indication that such might be the case, unless the money is to be raised by higher taxes, was given by the President recently when he told newsmen he had asked budget officials to bring along a supply of blue pencils for the fiscal parleys.

Except for the radio address here Nov. 4 on behalf of the State Democratic ticket, Mr. Roosevelt has only one speech, scheduled from Washington Wednesday in The New York Herald-Tribune forum on current problems.

CLANTON QUARTET TAKES AN AIR HOP TO NEW ORLEANS

Leaving Clanton at 5:50 A.M., Sunday morning, October 16th, four of Clanton's native sons fared forth on a never-to-be-forgotten air jaunt to the southern convention city, New Orleans. The four aeronautical ace (to be) are Mr. Leo Thompson, Mr. H. H. Porterfield, and Mr. Charles Wade and Joe Ben Downs traveling in Charles Wade's Monocoupe.

These four made an uneventful run of one hour and forty-five minutes in the air. Mobile, Alabama, a very short distance into New Orleans; the run was consummated in exactly one hour. A 15-minute tour of the City was enjoyed by the party before setting down at Shushan Airport.

At Shushan the pilots of each plane were required to register and after having the planes checked over, the party enjoyed a few minutes' rest in the spacious lobby of the airport terminal and depot. Souvenirs were purchased and cards mailed to friends and relatives.

At this point the party was taken in charge by Mr. E. C. Guderian, representing the H. Kohnstamm & Company, nationally known dealers in laundry supplies. Mr. Guderian and his two young sons, who accompanied him took the party in his automobile for a more detailed inspection of the city. The time being limited, however, this was held down to only two hours. In this time many interesting sights were viewed including the beautiful parks, the unique cemeteries and an extended drive through the old French Quarter. The streets were being decorated with flags and bunting for the Eucharistic celebration, which is being held there this week.

Lunch was enjoyed at a very quaint cafe in the old French Quarter, after which as the time was short, a hasty trip was made back to Shushan. The trip was begun at 1:10, which was to be made via Meridian, Miss., and on to Clanton. The strong easterly tail wind, which was enjoyed going down there, was still much in evidence. Now it turned into a quarter head-wind that made the going rather rough, generally and held the planes down to a maximum of eighty miles an hour on the lap to Meridian.

After taking two hours and fifteen minutes of air time at Key Field, Meridian, the planes were again re-fueled. Leaving Meridian at 3:45 P.M., the trip was made on to Clanton, back using a strong easterly head-wind. The planes were held down to a bare seventy-five miles an hour.

The party arrived at Gragg Field at exactly 5:30 P.M., or practically dark. An altitude of 1500 feet was held practically the entire trip. The speed averaged 100 miles an hour, returning 75 to 80 miles per hour. Mr. Thompson assumed the position of Navigator and took the lead. Mr. Wade following in the van.

A good trip was enjoyed by all the party going and coming; nothing whatever, went amiss in the least. Both plane motors functioned in top trim the entire distance. Although cloudy weather was had all day and an occasional rain was run into, and generally the air was somewhat "bumpy", it was a very enjoyable trip to all concerned.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton!

LEGISLATURE HAD ONLY $6,962,000 TO APPROPRIATE

State Chamber Makes Study of Alabama's Income and Reports Findings

Montgomery, Ala.—Only $3,962,000 out of the State of Alabama's gross receipts for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1937, were available for appropriation by the state legislature, according to a study of state receipts and disbursements made by the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the request of Mr. Benjamin Russell, president. Members of the state chamber government committee who made the study were: Gen. John C. Persons, chairman, Dr. Lee Bidgood, Donald Comer, H. A. Phares, J. W. Scott, and M. H. Sterne.

In releasing the report of the committee here today, Mr. Russell stated he requested the study because of apparently widespread confusion as to the amount of money actually available to the legislature. "The figure of $71,000,000 has frequently been given," Mr. Russell said, "as the state's income for the fiscal year, but the amount of cash actually handled by the state, after eliminating interdepartmental transactions, was only $58,000,000. This $58,000,000 included social security collections, federal grants and money turned over to counties and only $34,000,000 was left for all state operations. Schools, roads and other earmarked funds accounted for all of this $34,000,000 except $8,700,000, of which amount debt service and social security absorbed approximately $1,740,000, leaving only about $6,960,000 for appropriation by the legislature."

Mr. Russell's letter to the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the Committee's report follows:

Alexander City, Ala.
October 8, 1938

General John C. Persons,
Chairman, Committee on Government,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Birmingham, Alabama.

Dear General Persons:

Several members of the legislature, as well as private citizens who are interested in government affairs, have suggested to me that the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce could render a distinct public service by making a study of the income of the State of Alabama with a view to ascertaining what proportion of the state's total income will be available the coming year for maintenance of those departments of the state which are not supported by earmarked funds.

In view of the approaching session of the legislature, when many problems of appropriation and taxation must be considered, it seems to me it would be most timely and most helpful if such a study could be made. I hope that it is possible for your committee to undertake the study now and present your findings at an early date for the enlightenment of those interested in the financial status of our state government. I am confident that your effort in the matter would be appreciated, not only by those directly concerned with legislative matters, but also by the general public which is manifesting such a heartening interest in governmental problems.

Yours very truly,
Benjamin Russell, President,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Alexander City, Alabama.

Birmingham, Alabama.
October 13, 1938
Mr. Benjamin Russell, President,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Alexander City, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Russell:

In response to your letter of October 8th, the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce attaches hereto a statement of the receipts and disbursements of the State of Alabama for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937.

The figures are taken from reports of the State Treasurer and Comptroller. This statement is condensed and simplified.

Your attention is called to the difference between gross and net figures and to the many earmarked funds. Anyone examining these figures should keep these distinctions constantly in mind in order to arrive at the true net funds available for general purposes. You will see from this statement that only $8,706,000 of the State's income was available for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937, for the general fund or appropriation by the Legislature. Of this sum $229,000 was used for debt service on harbor and renewal bonds, which is an annual charge until bonds are paid, and $815,000 was used for Social Security purposes and was earmarked for that specific purpose.

The balance of the income, viz. $6,962,000, was available for appropriation and expenditure by the Legislature. The main items of expenditure are shown on the statement.

Nineteen thirty-eight figures are not yet available. When they are ready your committee will supplement its report and analyze them. From information now in hand it appears that the 1937 receipts will be exceeded. The gross figures may reach a total of around $90,000,000, but in our opinion only a relatively small part of this increase will be income available for State expenditure.

Very truly yours,

H. A. Bidgood
Donald Comer
J. W. Scott
M. H. Sterne
John C. Persons, Chairman
Committee on Government

Fiscal Year Ending September 30, 1937

Gross receipts in all funds $71,548,000

Each department is required to account for all funds which it handles regardless of the source of the funds and large amounts are accounted for in more than one department; for instance, the Highway Department handles something like $2,500,000 a year from gas tax and tag tax receipts, into the debt service fund, and very nearly all the amount received from the sales tax is transferred to various other funds. The total of such inter-departmental transactions plus a small amount of refunds was $13,274,000

This leaves the cash actually received by the state $58,274,000

Included in the above are: Collections on account of social Security Statutes $7,242,000

Federal grants for road construction and various other purposes $6,544,000

Warrants representing gasoline tax funds anticipated $1,750,000

Operating fund of A.B.C. stores $352,000

Total funds collected by the State but not available for state purposes $15,888,000

Balance of Revenue $42,386,000

Taxes levied and collected by the State and turned over to counties and cities, principally gasoline tax and sales tax $8,121,000

Amount applicable to State operations $34,265,000

The greater part of the amount applicable to State operations consists of earmarked funds. The largest items are:

Motor vehicle tax, three-cent gasoline tax and certain other revenues available only for road debt service, construction and maintenance. (Not including $4,459,000 Federal funds) $11,611,000

Funds for education, including tobacco tax, various severance taxes, a portion of sales tax, three mills ad valorem tax, poll tax and various other taxes (including net appropriations and transfers) $12,794,000

Income tax, dedicated by constitutional amendment solely to payment of Refunding Bonds until all funds are provided for, and thereafter to be used to reduce ad valorem taxes $2,010,000

Pension Fund, consisting principally of one mill ad valorem tax $930,000

Funds earmarked for agriculture $439,000

Funds not earmarked pass through the General Fund. The more important revenues going into the General Fund are corporation franchise tax, 2½ mills ad valorem tax, insurance department licenses, business licenses, net revenues of State Docks Commission, registration of securities and charges for examination of books of county officials. Total receipts of the General Fund for the year aggregated $8,706,000

Total disbursements from the General Fund for the year aggregated $8,950,000

Among the largest items are: Appropriations to education $2,776,000

Charities, hospitals and correction (including $894,000 for insane and feeble-minded institutions, $289,000 for feeding prisoners, $100,000 for Alabama Boys' Industrial School) Total $1,458,000

Debt service on Harbor bonds and old Renewal bonds $929,000

Social Security funds $15,000

Authentic Reports From Editors Refute Attacks On Federal Farm Program

"Several times lately," writes Nathan R. Greene, of R. D. No. 1, Muir, Michigan, "I have read articles by news paper columnists, also editorials and news articles, describing apparently with great enthusiasm the low price troubles that good weather and surpluses have brought on the farmer. It is amazing that anybody could get so much pleasure over grief as these newspapers get over troubles of the farmer. Don't the newspapers know that when the Farm Program helps the buying power of farmer families over the nation, it also helps business advertisers and the newspapers?"

Most of the metropolitan newspapers overexert themselves in behalf of the policies of the Federal Farm Program. No part of their so-called "American way" is more important to them than merciless antagonism to all phases of the New Deal's farm program. Although their congressional nominees assume a synthetic liberalism, frequently of late they open their press prompt return to both surplabundance of farm products and higher tariffs to shut off fast growing

Convict Department appropriations $500,000
Expense of Legislature $154,000

These special appropriations and expenses left a fund of some $2,000,000 available for expense of maintenance of all departments of the State not supported by earmarked funds.

The principal items of such expense were:

Comptroller's office and examination of accounts $336,000

State Tax Commission (not including expense of collecting earmarked funds) $145,000

State Department of Health (including expenditure for county work) $324,000

Governor's Emergency and Contingent Funds $139,000

Judiciary, including Circuit Judges and Solicitors, Supreme Court and Court of Appeals $372,000

National Guard $107,000

Offices of Governor, Auditor, Archives and History, Attorney General, Treasurer, Secretary of State $122,000

Departments of Insurance, Banking, Mining, Labor, Employment Service, Service Commissions and Geological Survey $172,000

Departments of Child and Public Welfare $106,000

export markets under the reciprocal trade agreements.

However, with its issue of August 27, 1938, Editor & Publisher, journal, own organ, carried an agricultural supplement. It supplied first hand news of newspapers and their editors about farming conditions all over the country which dwelt upon the relationship of farm buying power to business generally. None of the editors were gloom or unfriendly to the farm program, few: "Michigan Farm Income Nearly $250,000,000; Pacific Northwest in Strong Position; Iowa Farm Income Tops Half-Million; Central Ohio Farm Income 75 millions; Georgia exports $200,000,000 Income! North Dakota some 100,000,000 Texas Income About 1937 Northwest Crop Brings 100 millions" etc. The reports cover all agricultural regions supplied by the newspapers.

On its editorial page of that issue, Editor & Publisher dispels the charge of numerous fake farmer "rebellion" organized and supported by the Republican high command, that the farmer is being compelled to "practice scarcity." It says, "We have a song in our hearts. The reason is the annual reports in our agricultural supplement of magnificent fecundity, awesome, lavish productivity."

Do 1938 declines in farm prices mean that the press really takes seriously the politician ad columnists quoted in their column to the effect that farmers "are back to the disaster of 1932?" Not according to the agricultural supplement of the reliable Editor & Publisher. Of course, in 1932 the farmer had no national farm program. Farm income this year is a billion dollars under that of last year but it is three billion dollars above that of 1932.

Naturally the real situation of agriculture is neither all rosy nor all gloomy. It is one of the serious problems being frankly faced and met.

LEVINE BROTHERS TO OBSERVE 2ND ANNIVERSARY WITH SALE

Advertisement In This Issue Lists Some Of The Many Bargains Being Offered During This Annual Event

Levine Brothers, one of Clanton's leading dry goods stores, is this week opening their second Anniversary Sale, commemorating the end of two years of business in Clanton.

I. S. and Sol Levine, partners in this popular dry goods establishment, have been in Clanton in the dry goods business for four years, having been connected with the store here known as Mazzie's. They entered into business for themselves in the early fall of 1936, with a small stock of goods on hand.

This small business grew to become one of the leading stores of its kind in Clanton. They later added a five and ten cent department to the store, which has grown in popularity each day since its establishment.

Levine Brothers have endeavored to give to the people of this territory the very best in first class merchandise with prices that have been popular throughout the entire two years. The Messrs. Levine stated that it has been their desire to aid in the growth of Clanton and Chilton County since their establishment here, and that during their second Anniversary Sale they are sacrificing profit in order to place on sale merchandise at prices that will benefit the people of this section.

L. S. Levine, senior partner of the firm, stated that each and every customer during this Anniversary Sale will be given courteous attention and that they are endeavoring to place on their counters items in merchandise that will mean real savings to the people of Chilton County—the people in whose midst they have enjoyed being for four years.

Chilton Tigers Suffer Defeat By Sylacauga

After emerging from four successive games this season, the Chilton County High School Tigers bowed to the strong Sylacauga team on the latter's field last Friday, by the score of 14-20.

Both teams displayed marvelous power, the Chilton team featuring the sensational running of Earl "Snowy" Melton, Buckey Armstrong and Buel Locklear.

Leading late in the fourth quarter of the game by a score of 14-13 the Tigers lost the ball by an intercepted pass. The Sylacauga team then marched to another touchdown, converting the extra point.

A large crowd attended the game, including a goodly number of Clanton supporters of the Tigers team.

NEW BRIDGE

Work on the new bridge which will span the same creek on the Lay Dam Road is expected to begin some time in the near future. This bridge, however, will be erected by the City, it also being in the City limits. It will be erected at the same time the paving of the road gets underway, a Federal and County project, with the section of the road in the City limits being paved cooperatively by the City and Federal government.

The State Highway Department, through the Bureau of Publicity, has also announced that the Highway from Harpersville, ten miles north on Alabama 91, is now open to all traffic, thereby affording a new all-paved route between Birmingham and Columbus, Georgia, with the exception of sixteen miles between Sylacauga and Goodwater. This particular stretch is expected to be completed not later than early Spring.

Longer Farm Leases Stressed By Durbin

The Rehabilitation Loan Program in this County calls for soil improvement and better tenure arrangements this year," states Marvin Durbin, County Rehabilitation Supervisor. "Longer leases are necessary to make real headway in rebuilding soils to produce abundant yields."

"The old system of leasing a farm for one year or for a cropping season has been determined one of the principal contributing causes to the plight of many farm families and the present condition of land."

"Effort will be made to aid families who rent lands to secure leases for at least three years, and where possible, for five years, so that a soil-building program can be included in the farm plan for next season and for subsequent years. Written leases will be required declaring the agreement between tenant and landlord and both will be adequately protected by definite provisions of the leases. By soil-building practices the tenant will see improved yields come from his labor and the landlord will have his land improved for future advantage," he continued.

Farm plans this year will include a livestock program where proper leases are secured and a start will be made in pasture developments. The fine feed crop made this year enables many families to increase their herds or to make a start if no livestock is owned at present.

Approximately 121 families in this County were aided last year and most of them will farm again with the assistance of the Rehabilitation program. Most of these families made a real jump upward toward security and many more are well on the way with ample food and feed reserves, good working stock, tools, livestock and their equipment almost paid for.

Applications are now being received in the local office for group service loans to buy needed sires, harvesting or farming equipment. These loans are made to finance purchases of needed services or equipment in any community where fees charged for use of same may repay purchase loans.

Democrats Confident As Election Day Nears

Campaign Chairman Satisfied With Response By People Of County To Series Of Meetings; Candidates State Cases

Tonight will bring to a close the series of meetings which have been conducted by the Democratic Campaign Committee at various strategic points over the County, when the final gathering will be held at the Courthouse in Clanton at 7:00 o'clock.

The Campaign so far has been conducted on a high plane, and political observers over the County have voiced the opinion that the Democrats will poll a larger vote than has ever been polled before in the history of the party in this County.

Attendance at the meetings which have been held over the County since the first, which was held at Verbena, in Beat 5, on the night of October 4th, has been good and much interest has been demonstrated in each gathering by the people in each section of the County.

Joe Mullins, who has again this year headed the Campaign, stated this week that he is exceptionally well pleased with the splendid support he has received throughout the campaign, and expressed the belief and hope that the voters of Clanton County would fall in line to help elect the entire Democratic ticket, thereby giving a complete co-ordination between the State Democratic officials and the County officials.

With this co-ordination Clanton County stands well in position to receive many benefits by a continued Democratic alignment between these state and County officials.

On another page of this issue of the News will be found a sample of the ballot to be handed the voters of this County on November 8th. This ballot should be studied carefully by the voters, and marked accordingly on election day. Also on this page will be found a letter to the voters from each Democratic nominee, in which they ask for the support of the voters on the merits of their qualifications for the office they seek.

In the second half the Isabella eleven, through their well-timed passing and brilliant running, ran up three more touchdowns. These were made by passes from Davis and Middlebrooks to Alston and Earl Klinger. After this there was no other scoring made.

The Orville team displayed good sportsmanship and fine spirit throughout the game.

Clinic For Crippled Children To Be Held In Vocational Building

A diagnostic clinic to serve Clanton and several of the neighboring counties has been scheduled for Clanton on November 11th by the Crippled Children's Association, according to an announcement made by the local health department early this week. The approval was given to the clinic by the County Medical Society in its meeting in September, it was revealed by the County Health Officer. Quarters for the clinic are being furnished by the local department of Education, which has arranged for the use of the vocational building of the Clanton County High School for this purpose. About 26 crippled children from Clanton County are scheduled to attend the clinic to receive check-ups following treatment to be administered by Dr. Marcus Skinner of Selma, Orthopedic surgeon, will serve as clinician. A special effort is being made according to local health officials, to have local practitioners visit the clinic and participate actively in the program by the health department, which is bringing this problem to the attention of the County Commissioners and requesting a local appropriation to assist Clanton Counties who lack the funds to gain entrance to neighboring County sanatoria for treatment.

Included in this week's health department news bulletin was a report of a tuberculosis x-ray clinic held last week in the office of the local health department at which 44 Clanton County suspected of having tuberculosis received free chest x-rays. The chest clinic, visiting Clanton County every 6 months is held solely for the purpose of discovering cases of tuberculosis and constitutes a formidable weapon in the local fight against tuberculosis. Efforts are being made to strengthen the local tuberculosis program by the health department, which is bringing this problem to the attention of the County Commissioners and requesting a local appropriation to assist Clanton Counties who lack the funds to gain entrance to neighboring County sanatoria for treatment.

City To Seek Water At Yellowleaf Creek

Efforts To Secure Water By Drilling Wells Are Unsuccessful; Work On Project Is Expected To Begin In Near Future

At a recent meeting of the City Council it was voted by the body to secure water for the City's use from Yellow Leaf Creek, which flows through this County, the closest point to the City being about four miles almost due north. A contract with one of the largest well-drilling concerns in the County to ascertain an adequate supply of water has, at all appearances, failed. The greatest flow of water yet reached by the drillers falls far short of the required amount, and Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated this week to the News that the Council had unanimously decided to abandon the attempt to secure water this way.

Favorable Progress On Paving Project

Due to the favorable weather conditions within the past few weeks much progress has been made on the paving project underway on the City streets.

There are ten streets and avenues to be paved under the present contract with the Southeastern Construction Company. Five of these streets and avenues lie on the western side of the railroad and five on the Eastern side.

Several thousands of feet of drain pipe have been laid and every section has undergone the work of shovels. At present the placing of gravel on some of these streets is underway. This alone will give the City reasonably good streets until the work of laying the black top begins.

Mayor Jones stated that he is well pleased with the progress being made within the past few weeks and that it is his belief Clanton will have some very fine streets when the work is completed.

The Next Time

Mr. Business Man
Chilton County, Alabama
Dear Sir:

The next time that a solicitor of an order of your printing needs, for an out-of-town concern comes around, why not propound a few questions to him, something on the order of the following:

Ask him what printing concern he represents.

Ask him would you get the job done over right should the printers make an error, or ship you something not measuring up to your specifications.

Ask him how much he thinks you would save by placing your order with him.

Ask him how much the postage and C. O. D. fee would amount to.

Ask him if his concern would be in position to keep the people of Clanton and Chilton County—where you live and operate your business—informed about the growth of your business, your social activities, your notices, etc.

Ask him if his firm would be in position to tell the people of this territory, through the medium of advertising equal to the coverage offered by your local newspaper and printing plant, of your bargains in merchandise, the expert service you offer, etc.

Ask him if his firm depends upon this territory almost entirely for its support.

Ask him: if the members of his firm make their purchases in your town, and thereby contribute to its support.

Ask him if his company walks along with you when you prosper; struggles with you and boosts your trade when times are not so good.

After you have asked the gentleman these questions, don't stop but ask him two more, the next one being whether he thinks the few pennies you might save by giving him the order would compensate for the services rendered by your local printer. Last, but not least, ask him if he thinks it would be fair under the circumstances, to give him the order.

At this point, say "no" to the gentleman—if he's still around.

Danger In Old Cars

Old, worn out automobiles constitute a menace when operated on the highways, not only to the occupants but to other people as well.

It is not surprising therefore that the suggestion is being made that there should be a systematic inspection of automobiles by officials who should have the power to order out of service obsolete cars that are dangerous to other vehicles and pedestrians.

The number of accidents on our highways amount to an alarming total each year and every means should be adopted which might reduce the toll of life and accidents. To bar all rambling wrecks and worn-out cars would probably help.

Stanley Hajduk of Hammond, Ind., walked into police headquarters and asked to be locked up, explaining, "My wife acted mad at me and said I ought to be in jail, so here I am." Police accommodated, and locked him up.

—O—O—O—

The constantly increasing demand for speed and fast living by the American people has placed economic control of the nation in the hands of a few money-mad individuals whose God is Gold, and whose ambition is to dominate their fellows.

—O—O—O—

A subject the Chicago Tribune cannot discuss without shrieking hysterically is the New Deal. The latest, and perhaps silliest, of the Tribune's displays of venom against everything Rooseveltian is an editorial in which it insinuates that the administration wants war because it would bring real dictatorship to this country. No world leader hates war more sincerely than Roosevelt. None will go farther to avert it.—Little Rock Democrat.

Shall We Decay And Die?

Shall we decay and die for lack of co-operation and understanding in regard to the needs of the commonweal?

Every government that has permitted its industry to dominate its agriculture and husbandry, has decayed and died. The late German empire, which perhaps reached the highest state of industrialization, is a fair example of what may be expected if American industrialists persist in demanding the lion's share of the good things of life at the expense of the rural peoples and industrial employees.

If the industrial North and East do not speedily change their unfair attitude of discrimination and dictation toward the agricultural South in its fight for equal opportunity, a serious unpleasantness is bound to follow.

Addressing the Montgomery Rotary Club, Donald Comer, the fairest minded industrialist, of whom we have any knowledge, said:

"We continue to be the victim of an unfair administration of the interstate commerce law, of the administration of the Federal Tariff Commission.

"The North has all the manufacturing industry in this country and the South cannot become industrialized without some of this industry moving from the North to the South. The South doesn't want a government trade ditch dug to the urban centers of the North, but it does want barriers in the way of discriminatory freight rates removed.

"For one hundred years, the South has had to pay for the things it bought from the North with dollars—dollars which came to us from our exported raw products. This has worked a hardship on our land and our people. That procedure will not continue. Fair trade must be by barter; if we are to continue to buy things from the North they must in a large measure take their pay with things from the South. We can't have international trade on any other basis and certainly the trade between the states must be on that basis, too."

Murder By Motor Car

Murder by motor cars is on the decline, according to the National Safety Council. Traffic accident fatalities for the past nine months have registered a steady decline. This decline has taken place in the face of a slight increase in mileage figures.

All of which seems to indicate that the speed crazed mass of 40,000,000 drivers, known as the motoring public, is slowly awakening to a new found responsibility—safe driving. Possibly the average driver is discovering that the modern high speed automobile can be a vehicle of horrible death as well as of comfort and convenience. If so, a great stride is being made toward the day when once again the family car can be trundled out for a week end holiday with reasonable assurance that all will return intact.

Sooner or later the motoring public will have to get the fact through its head that the present slaughter on highways is criminally needless. As was recently pointed out by the New York Times, "it will have to learn that murder by motor car—although it may not lead to the chair—is still murder and that it is the part of good morals, good sportsmanship and good citizenship to drive and walk safely."

—O—O—O—

Business is showing considerable vitality. Even when the war scare was at its height, it didn't go back a great deal on the whole, though security prices sagged. To-day, with business certain that hostilities have been postponed for some time, it is moving up steadily.

There are some dark spots in the picture, of course. One big one is the dilemma of the railroads—the upshot of the wage negotiations will to a large extent determine the immediate future of this industry. In some areas labor troubles remain an unsettling factor, and there are rumors of more strikes ahead. If these occur on a large scale, the entire outlook could be quickly changed for the worse.

In the meantime, retail trade is improving in most parts of the country, production is picking up in all lines of raw and manufactured goods, and construction is going forward. New life in construction, as a matter of fact, is one of the very best of the business omens.

—O—O—O—

Drunkards and bootleggers have run on Dry tickets and have been elected without hesitancy, and this will recur if that is made the sole issue in any political campaign, unless it is confined solely to a referendum on political affairs without a great deal more harm than the good that would or could come from it.—Thomasville, Ga., Times-Enterprise.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

HALLOWE'EN—

From reports we can gather, little vandalism was resorted to by merry-makers last Monday night, at which time spooks and goblins are supposed to run wild through the city's streets and witches ride high in the heavens. Many of the city's residents awoke Tuesday morning to find objects in places they were not intended, and peculiar marks on their doors. But all this was only in fun, and we sincerely hope no one resorted to the wanton destruction of public or private property last Monday night.

BEGINS SOON—

The columns of the News have been used liberally within the past few weeks in an effort to remind the people constantly of the importance of becoming members of the National Red Cross through the local Chilton County Chapter. We should not need very much persuasion to join this worthwhile cause in its march to aid suffering humanity for it was in our time of very great need that the Red Cross appeared without great persuasion. It would be nothing short of a shame on this County should we let them down now. Get your dollar ready, my dear reader, and let's show our appreciation.

ELECTION DAY—

Next Tuesday, November 8th, Chilton County votes again. In a certain way, everything seems to sidetrack for an election, and of course, it is important that every voter cast his or her ballot on the day when officers are chosen to head the governments. We predict a fair and square election this time with every voter casting his ballot according to his convictions. There are able men on both tickets, and let us hope that every loser—and there's sure to be several—in this election, will display the sporting quality and fall wholeheartedly in line with the victor.

INVASION—

How many people in this section heard that sensational radio program last Sunday night, and how many became scared that the end of time had come? We have an idea that Charlie McCarthy was the center of attraction for the radioists at that time Sunday night, and Ye Olde Observer was no exception. Charlie is still the drawing card of radio at that hour each Sunday evening, and it looks like CBS tried to steal some of the wooden imp's show. Anyway if Charlie hadn't been on the

D. W. Haskew

An insurance man tells me this one. "Not long ago a woman came running into my office, all out of breath, saying in agitation, 'Sir, write me a policy on my house and be in a hurry about it.' The agent was not moving to suit the good sister and she cried again, 'I mean, Sir, for you to get down to writing that policy.' Then he inquired, 'Why such haste.' 'Young man, I will tell you why,' said she, 'my house is on fire.' That sounds like a lot of folks on the question of religion. We are prone to put off the matter of preparing to die until death knocks at the door.

An Irishman was charged before the courts of assaulting a neighbor and fracturing his skull. During the trial several physicians testified that the man's skull was very thin. He had in medical terms, "a paper skull". The Irishman was convicted as charged and the judge asked, "Have you anything to say before sentence is passed?" Pat stood up and replied, "No, Your Honor, but I would like to ask one question." "Well, proceed," replied the judge. "Your honor, can you inform me what in hell was a man doing at the circus jamboree with a skull like that?" One day I saw a moral weakling standing around a certain joint and I wondered why did that man stick about places of that kind. If you have a thin skull you had better stay away from place where fists and billets fly, and if you have weak will power you had better stay away from places where temptation is on the march. If a man has a weakness for drink, what in the heck does he mean to hang around a joint, or a whiskey store.

One day Pat and Mike were walking through the cemetery reading the epitaphs carved on the grave stones. Mike stopped on an elevation, and putting his hand above his eyes he started surveying the surrounding country. Pat seeing him, inquired, "Mike, what be ye looking for?" Mike replied, "O, Pattie, I am looking for that other cemetery where they bury the scoundrels. All the folks buried in this cemetery were angels." Death hides out the body and then too death hides out much of the meanness of folks. Guess it is nice to think well of some folks after they die, for no one thought well of them while they were living. Like Mike, we often wonder where they do bury the scoundrels.

Far out on the rim of the new West court was in session and a man was tried for stealing cattle. The case was given to the jury. For hours they argued and disputed behind closed doors and then finally stalked back into the court room. The judge asked them for their verdict. The foreman replied, "Judge, we have not rendered a verdict. We have come for legal advice. Not one of us believe that this man stole the cows as charged, but we all think he would have if he had only had a chance, and we want to know if we had not just about as well find him guilty?" Did you know that there are a lot of folks who are out of jail, who carry with them the principle of guilt. Many a person prides himself, herse with being pure, but what would you be if you had the opportunity to be impure?

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ADA MIMS

It was on Wednesday evening, October 19th, when the Lord called our dear aunt away. She was ill only a short while. She leaves to mourn her going, her husband, four sons and four daughters.

The remains were laid to rest at Mt. Nebo Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with the Rev. Joe Gipson officiating, Spigener in charge.

Pallbearers were Kelly Ray, J. E. Ray, Hosey Ray, George Moore and Leonard Traywick.
Over yonder in the graveyard,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
In her cold and silent grave.

As her loved one, broken hearted
Stood aside to weep,
Safely in the arms of Jesus,
Dear aunt Ada feel asleep.

She is gone but not forgotten
Never will her memory fade,
Loving thoughts forever linger
'Round the grave where she was laid.

A precious one from us is gone.
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

COLLECTION OF ESCAPE TAXES TOTALS $314,127

This Amount Might Have Been Lost, Says Chairman Henry S. Long

Collections of "escaped" taxes—not necessarily tax money deliberately withheld, but which officials said required extra efforts to get—swelled Alabama's fiscal income this year.

Henry S. Long, chairman of the State Tax Commission, said recently that during the first nine months of the current calendar year the income tax division alone, headed by J. A. Stephens, added $314,127 of "escapes" to the total revenue.

Stephens' division in addition to collecting income taxes, also administers the law levying an excise tax on banks and financial institutions.

Long said much of the additional revenue, described by some tax officials as "gravy that might have been lost" was collected by field agents sent into other states to audit the books of foreign corporation doing business in Alabama.

The income tax department, operating with eight field agents and handling both the income and excise tax duties, collected during the nine months ending September 30th, a total of $2,387,033, of which $2,177,500 was income tax and the remainder excise.

Collections of delinquent or "escaped" taxes totaled $314,127, of which $171,095 was income tax and $143,032 excise. Stephens explained that escapes brought into the tax fold included revenue past due from 1936 and prior years. The addition of this "gravy" revenue to the state treasury this year was attributed by Stephens partly to the fact enforcement of the financial institution excise tax law was placed in the hands of the income tax department, whereas previously there was no field force for administering it. Another reason was a Supreme Court decision which held that certain business companies, including automobile finance companies, were subject to the tax as well as banks, with which the courts said they competed. There were several court rulings in favor of the state in individual cases.

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wiser business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means, stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future. We believe America is just beginning. Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country: for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payrolls in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a part of our tire requirements... a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of dies... and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We don't supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing that no one's hand touches but ours. Of nearly everything else we use we build some quantity ourselves, to find, if possible, better and more economical ways of doing it. The experience and knowledge we gain are freely shared with our suppliers, and with other industries.

Henry and Edsel Ford, on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Ford Motor Company, June 16, 1938

We take no profit on anything we make for ourselves and sell to ourselves. Every operation, from the Ford ships which first bring iron ore to the Rouge, is figured at accurate cost. The only profit is on the finished result—the car or truck as it comes off the line. Some years, there is no profit for us. But we see to it that our customers always profit. A basic article of our business creed is that no sale is economically constructive unless it profits the buyer as much as or more than the seller.

Our new plants have helped us build more value into all our cars for 1939. That means more profit on the purchase to the purchaser.

We have not cut quality to reduce costs.

We simply will not build anything inferior.

NEW TESTING EQUIPMENT

While we were putting up new plants to produce cars, we constructed new equipment to test them. The first weather tunnel of its kind ever built for automobile research went into operation at our laboratories this year.

It makes any kind of weather to order. The weather it delivers every day would take months to find in Nature. Our cars are weather-tested to give you good service in any climate anywhere.

In other tests, every part of the car is punished unmercifully. Then our engineers tear it down to see if they can find abnormal wear or any sign of weakness.

The money we spend on tests saves you money on repairs. And your family car is safer and more dependable when we put it in your hands.

THE NEW CARS

We have two new Ford cars for 1939—better cars and better looking—but we also have an entirely new car.

It's called the Mercury 8. It fits into our line between the De Luxe Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is larger than the Ford, with 116-horse wheelbase, hydraulic brakes, and a new 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine.

We know that our 1939 cars are cars of good quality. We think they're fine values in their price classes.

With new cars, new plants, new equipment, the whole Ford organization is geared to go forward.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY, Dearborn, Michigan

Pictured above is Wallace Waites (right) with Carlos Wilson, age 19, the picture being made following the capture of Wilson by Waites on Tuesday morning, October 18. Wilson was wanted on two charges of highway robbery, one in connection with the "emergency call" robbery of Dr. Evans of near Sylacauga, at which time Wilson, in company with a companion, is alleged to have taken Evans' car, and money and then tying him to a tree. Officers here were notified that Wilson was in this County by Sylacauga officers. Officers Arthur Willis, Wallace Waites, T. J. Thornton and J. A. Nivens entered a wide hunt in this area for Wilson throughout Monday night, and Tuesday morning a telephone call to Waites' residence that Wilson was thought near Shelby, Ala. resulted in Waites capture of the youth in the Negro waiting room at the railroad depot there. Wilson was turned over to authorities in Sylacauga.

Real Meaning Of "Poppy Day" Is Explained
By The President of The Chilton Auxiliary

Because our Poppy is an emblem of sacrifice, those who love it are making every effort to teach the public all over the country the true meaning of the flower. The world in general has forgotten the War, and if, in the season of Memorial Day or Armistice the Poppy can make the indifferent public remember the sacrifices which have been made for it by the men who gave their lives that our country might be saved, then, indeed, the first and greatest mission of the Poppy sale has been fulfilled.

It is also well for the public to be reminded that the War is not over for thousands of former fighting men who are now in the hospitals, nor is it over for the wife and little children who need assistance as the results of the inability of some man to care for them.

The second mission of the Poppy sale is to recall to the people the debt we owe these men in the hospitals.

The American Legion and the Auxiliary have "taken up the torch" and are keeping faith with those who gave their all, by pushing the Poppy Sale each year. The funds from this annual sale of memorial Poppies is for financing the Unit's Rehabilitation and Child Welfare.

Such as caring for the World War Veterans, disabled, who still are to be found by the thousands in government hospitals, while other thousands are in life. Nearly a million dollars are expended each year by the Auxiliary in hospital and welfare work for the benefit of the disabled, as well as an inestimable amount of personal attention, which is often the most valuable thing that can be given a suffering man in a hospital far from home.

For the children of World War Veterans the Auxiliary is doing a very important work. It is aiding thousands of children every year to receive the necessities of life. Believing that the children of men who lost their lives in the War or results of the War, are entitled to equal educational advantages with other American Children, the Legion and Auxiliary are continuing a joint effort to bring opportunities for higher education to all War orphans.

The people of Chilton County will have an opportunity to show their interest in this great work and help car-

Thorsby Junior High School News

For Week Of October 27

The enrollment is heavy this year. The grammar school has enrolled 234 pupils, while the Junior high Department has enrolled 50.

School was dismissed last Friday at noon so the faculty might attend the Statewide PTA Convention in Birmingham.

Our P. T. A. organization is having extension pipes installed which will carry drinking water to the building where the first three grades are located.

Prof. Weldon made a business trip to Clanton last Monday evening.

Mr. Jack Jones, a member of the U.S. Navy, gave an interesting talk in Chapel exercises last Monday. He carried the group through an imaginary journey across to the Hawaiian Islands then up into Alaska, following down the Pacific Coast, through the Panama Canal, out through the West Indies and Virgin Islands, and then into several of our large cities: New York, Boston, and Washington. Many points of educational value were given.

Prof. R. B. Johnson attended the funeral of his uncle, Mr. D. Martin, at Mulberry church last Tuesday afternoon.

Several parents have already made visits to our school. We hope that many more are planning to acquaint themselves with the things their children are doing in school activities this year.

A joint chapel program is held in the auditorium every Monday morning at 8:00 o'clock. Invitations are open to those interested.

All homes having old copies of current magazines, periodicals, books of literary and scientific value are requested to donate them to our school library as soon as their usefulness in the home is no longer warranted. You may have some old discarded book which will be of great value to our school reference and research work. All contributions will be gratefully appreciated.

Miss Jones' fifth grade class is working up a unit on "Safety Town". Stop by her room and see it. It's real interesting.

All the teachers report a safe and pleasant trip to Birmingham last Friday.

The back screens of the auditorium stage have been remodeled for the forthcoming programs of the year.

What became of our school band? Let's go, boys. Just a little more pep and interest.

A reception honoring the faculty was held recently. A large group of enthusiastic parents and teachers assembled for a joyous occasion of good fellowship and wholesome enjoyment. It was reported that this was the largest number ever assembled for this annual event.

POTASH-STARVED POTASH-FED

After all, you don't fertilize crops for the crops' sake. You fertilize them for INCREASED RETURN TO YOU. Check your harvest and see if potash had a chance to increase your 1938 income. Rusted cotton, low yields and poor quality of tobacco, corn, vegetable, fruit, and legume crops result if the soil and fertilizer do not supply enough potash.

It is not too early to be laying your plans for more income from potash next year. Talk over with your county agent or experiment station your yields this year as compared with what you can expect from your soil if given the right amount of the right fertilizer for the crops, which you will plant next spring. Ask your dealer or manufacturer about fertilizers high in potash. You will be surprised how little extra it costs to apply enough potash.

Write us for further information and literature on the profitable fertilization of Southern crops.

The 4-Point Program For Alabama Farmers

1. Alabama farmers should become more self-sustaining by producing more of the things they consume.
2. The livestock and poultry side of farming should be steadily increased.
3. Additional cash crops should be produced whenever conditions for producing and marketing there crops are favorable.
4. Truck crops should be further developed in those sections and localities especially adapted to this type of farming.

My Aim

By S. Lanier Gibson

I seek not fame, that fickle friend, Oft found at dawn and lost at noon: I envy not that we call wealth For which men fight and die to soon, And gained, adds not a single wave Of warmth unto the chilly grave And often struts a kinsman's strife; I do not crave to thrill the world By making flights amid the stars, Nor do I seek the hero's realm Where worth is scored with battle scars For while he basks in nations praise, A thousand homes are robbed of ways To sustenance for child and wife, Lord, rather let me live each day, That when I die a few can say, He helped and loved his fellow man. He cheered old age and trusted youth, Lived for others: God, home and truth And toiled to finish Heaven's plan.

No. 7 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature to your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Rough Stuff

IN A football game, it's the referee's job to keep the game going smoothly and to prevent, so far as possible, "rough stuff" from developing.

In the operation of a dependable electric light and power system, such a referee who can prevent Nature's "rough stuff," but the referee can prevent the "rough stuff" from causing more than a temporary interference with the smooth and dependable flow of electric service.

In this business we call that referee the "oil circuit breaker," one of which you see in the picture. The oil circuit breaker is the aristocrat of the same family to which the ordinary fuse in your home belongs. Should "rough stuff" develop in your household wiring from some cause, the fuse "blows out" and thus warns you that an abnormal condition exists and prevents damage from that condition. When Nature starts her "rough stuff," the oil circuit breaker—whose mechanism automatically opens connections submerged in oil—cuts off the circuit and "stops the game" until the abnormal condition can be eliminated.

The oil circuit breaker in the picture is capable of stopping 2 million horsepower of "rough stuff" in about 1/4 of a second! On Alabama Power Company lines are thousands of oil circuit breakers of various sizes to help keep your electric service dependable. They are among the many other marvels which private industry has developed to make electric service cheap and dependable without the aid of extravagant tax-eating "emergency" governmental grants and subsidies.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Clanton Methodist Church

Last week, checking our Sunday School record, we were afraid our Lord was frowning on these results of our work for our Church, but this week we feel that He is looking kindly on us with one of His Heavenly smiles, saying, "Well Done", because some one has and some others have been busy about our Lord's work in our Church and we shall in that way soon have reached the goal we wish to attain. God calls us to work in His Kingdom, and with all His Great God Heart He wants us to say to the words of Matthew 25: 21, 23 and 28, "I have been faithful to you in all things."

A number of our regular members were absent Sunday, and now we just urge that everyone who came last Sunday return next Sunday with others, and that the regular members who were absent return next Sunday with others, and we shall in that way soon have reached the goal we wish to attain. God calls us to work in His Kingdom, and with all His Great God Heart He wants us to say to the words of Matthew 25: 21, 23 and 28, "I have been faithful to you in all things."

Sunday School begins at 9:45 A. M., Wednesday, 11:00 A. M., and 7:00 P. M. Let's attend, worship, bring others and receive blessings, while building our Lord's Kingdom.

Be sure and see this in "Optimistic Oscar" at Jemison High School Friday night, November 11. You don't know what you'll miss. CB there!

what The National Red Cross has done for the people of this County in past years for everyone who happened to be in the path of the cyclone can tell you what was done for them. But now Roll Call representative and enter your membership or send one dollar to me and I will enroll you.

"Our County Chapter moved up to twenty-eighth place in the State out of a total of 78 chapters last year, still our total membership in the County was less than one and one-half percent of the population of the County. Did you know that our own State of Alabama is the only state in the Union with membership of less than two percent of its population? The highest rating of any state in membership is eighteen percent."

We have some splendid Roll Call workers, who are giving their time to the cause and you are urged to contact them and not wait for them to call to see you. This is just as much your obligation as theirs and I do want to see Chilton County and Alabama move up nearer their proper place in this worthy cause. Let's all join.

Lawrence H. Lee Answers Last Call

Lawrence H. Lee, personal friend and legal advisor to Governor Bibb Graves, passed away at his home in Montgomery, Wednesday morning, after being confined to his home for several weeks.

Mr. Lee and Gov. Graves were law partners for many years, and when Graves was elected Governor for the first time, he made Mr. Lee his legal adviser, and appointed him to the same position when he was elected the second time. Mr. Lee was considered one of the best lawyers in the State, and was known to thousands of people as one of the most considerate, accommodating and friendly men who has ever been defuncted with the Executive Department of the State Government. Lawrence Lee's death leaves a vacancy that will be hard to fill.

Mrs. W. V. Mitchell (Margaret Owens) of Long Beach, Calif., is visiting relatives here.

D. J. H. Romig went 200 miles into isolated country near Anchorage, Alaska, to hunt moose. Returning empty-handed, he discovered fresh moose tracks on his lawn.

MAPLEVILLE MAN KILLED LAST THURS

Angles Chambers Found Dead By Brother; Well Known In County

Angles Chambers, age 30, of near Maplesville, met death last Thursday afternoon, when his truck on which he was working rolled over his body, as he attempted to scotch the vehicle with a logging pole.

The accident occurred near the home of Frank Perry, and according to information reaching the News, Chambers' truck apparently stalled on a hillside and while he worked, the truck started rolling backwards. In an effort to stop its descent Chambers attempted to place a logging pole he had on the truck under the rear wheel. A sharp cut of the front wheels threw him to the ground underneath one of the front wheels, which rolled over his chest.

Mr. Chambers was found late in the afternoon by his brother, who summoned aid. He had been dead for some time, Coroner J. M. Martin, along with Patrolman Earl Henley, who investigated, rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 11:00 A.M. from the Sardis Church, with the Rev. J. D. Hopper and Rev. J. M. Stillwell officiating, with J. M. Martin and Sons in charge (Continued to Back Page)

Notice!

The Chilton County News wishes to again call the attention of its correspondents and those wishing articles in its columns each week to the importance of getting them in as early as possible.

Unless you get your news in early each week there is a possibility of it being omitted, as the duties of a weekly newspaper editor are many, especially on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and unless your article gets set up in type early in the week, it might get caught in the late rush, throwing the News late about going to press, and resulting in good news which is appreciated by the News, being left out.

The News was forced to omit several news items last week due to their late arrival at the office. Your cooperation in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Chilton Tigers Win Over Wetumpka Fri.

The local High School team won its fifth victory Friday last week in six starts when it took the strong Wetumpka High School team over the hurdles to the tune of 14-0. Reports from the game state that the Tigers got one of their best games out of their system on that occasion. It would be unfair to mention one of the boys without giving all credit for the victory, however, one of the best plays of the game came on the first play in the second half when Melton ran sixty-five yards for a touchdown behind perfect interference.

The team plays at home this week, and a good crowd should see this game between them and Holtville High.

Clanton Methodist Church

At this season of the year when we celebrate Armistice Day, the day twenty years ago peace settled temporarily on the face of the earth, may we look deep into our hearts and learn whether or not we are at peace with our God. We have that Wonderful, Wonderful Peace, Sweet Peace the Gift of God's Love. Can we truthfully sing "It is well, it is well with my soul"? Blessings be on those who can, and who will prove it. If we cannot does it not behoove us to seek God with our whole hearts and continue seeking until we have learned the lesson our God teaches and then continue seeking until we have that peace which passeth all description and surpasseth all other pleasures of life. When we obtain that peace, may we seek to let others to search for and receive the same blessing.

I guess we must have buried our talents for last Sunday. I have just brought the same ones back to the feet of our Master, because last Sunday we just met the record of the same Sunday a year ago. We if we can, and our works will prove it. We had the same Sunday a year ago. We just to say that was good and we are proud of that, but let's do better and increase our average attendance, not just for a Sunday or two, but for all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus and daughter, Billie Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tyus and little Miss Jessie Mae Watson were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

PEOPLE ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE GENEROUSLY

Final Plea Is Made By Officials Of Drive; Workers Are Announced

The twenty-second Annual Red Cross Roll Call will get underway tomorrow, November 11, lasting for 14 days, terminating on Thanksgiving Day. A final appeal is being made this week by those in charge of this year's drive, voicing the hope that Chilton County will respond generously to the appeal.

Roll Call Chairman J. M. Martin announced this week that workers for contacting the public for membership have been organized, and that solicitations will begin on Friday morning of this week.

Last week Mr. Martin cited figures showing the work being carried out by the Red Cross in the past year. Fifty cents out of every dollar goes to the National organization and the remaining fifty cents stays in Chilton County, where it is used to aid the needy, and victims of major and minor disasters.

Benefits derived from the Red Cross by Chilton County has been emphasized. Following the recent tornado disaster the Red Cross spent several thousands of dollars caring for those stricken, and rebuilding homes demolished by the tornado.

Chilton County is one of the few counties in the state of the sixty-seven counties in the state in the number of memberships. Chilton is listed below the average two percent of population in memberships, however, it is hoped this year will place our county above the two percent mark.

Much could be said about the great work being carried out by the Red Cross, and it is wish of every worker in that great organization that the citizens (Continued to Back Page)

J. M. Martin Appointed Director In Cham. Of Commerce

Last week J. M. Martin of this City received a letter notifying him of his appointment as local director in the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Martin announced this week that Mr. Leo C. Turner, Assistant State Secretary, will be in Clanton next week to discuss the organization in the interest of the organization.

The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce was organized about fifteen years ago and has grown rapidly since its organization. The immediate objectives of the organization have been set out as follows:

(1) To conduct a survey of each county in Alabama to ascertain its natural resources—its farm products—its present industry, and from such information determine the character of industry can tie in to the best advantage in each particular county.

(2) To provide in Alabama, to the extent possible, good year-round markets for the employment of products and to lighten agriculture with increased industry and in so doing "level up" the income of agriculture and bring up its buying power.

(3) To encourage the erection of industrial plants suitable for the processing of the particular products and resources of each county in the state, these industries to be locally owned wherever possible.

(4) To bring about in Alabama more and more processing and refineries of the products of farm and mine and quarry, such refining processes will result in the employment of additional thousands of Alabama citizens in preparing the products for the merchants' counter, ready for consumer use.

(5) To plan carefully for the conservation of Alabama's pine and other forest resources, and for reforestation.

(6) To gather, catalog, and make available to the public, through the information of all resources and general information of Alabama. To serve as a clearing house for all interests in our State. To cooperate with all commercial organizations, civic clubs, and other activities and agencies in Alabama.

(7) To publicize Alabama to all sections of our country, and to the world.

While at the carnival she will enjoy a round of parties and other entertainment in company with other princesses from Alabama towns. The carnival will take place November 24 to 26th.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By Rip
God, the Master Creator, does not need your help. Try to help those on the ground around you who are without friends, health or money.

Time For A Charge
No man is allowed to operate a railroad locomotive—though it runs on rails along a predetermined track, with every conceivable safety device to prevent accidents—without long and vigorous training, and periodic examinations for health and capability.

No man can command a ship—though it plies oceans and waterways where the chance of collision with another vessel is microscopically small—without similar training and examinations to determine fitness and ability.

Man can fly an airplane—though its highway is empty air—without providing absolute proof of his competence.

Yet any man can operate an automobile down crowded streets and highways, where the margin between safe passage and a possible serious accident is a matter of inches, no matter how ill-fitted he is to drive safely.

Physical infirmities, bad vision, defective hearing, and, most important of all, psychological handicaps that make safe driving impossible—these are found in literally millions of people who are today operating steel juggernauts capable of hundred-mile-an-hour speeds. We'll never go far toward solving the accident problem until every state takes the steps necessary to making certain that no person is given a license without providing proof of reasonable capability and a thorough knowledge of traffic regulations. We've let the incapable drive as they pleased—and they've made our highways a shambles.

MORALECHOES.
D. W. Haskew
In New York, Mrs. Esther Fuer made a funny story work for the King County Hospital for a blood transfusion. Two years ago her body quit its blood making functions and she faced death. A transfusion saved her life. Since then she has returned to the hospital every two weeks for a new supply of blood. After each transfusion she lies a normal life for two weeks, then she goes back to her lips, her eye balls turn blue, her skin the color of death and she becomes exhausted. All this tells her to return for another supply of blood. Doctors say that she may live for years on the blood of others. Living on the blood of a man she never saw is Mrs. Fuer's experience. As Christians we are living by faith on the blood of One whom we never saw. That Man is the Man Jesus Christ. His blood was freely shed for the remission of our sins on the cross of Calvary. Every day we need a transfusion of His blood into our heart that we may live in Him.
An English lady was resting in a park. She saw a small boy leaning against a tree holding a sparrow tenderly in his hands. She inquired why he was holding a captive bird and he told that it was because the little bird had a broken wing. The good lady then begged that she be given the bird that she might carry it home and nurse it until its wing was well. The boy replied, "If you don't mind, I think I will take care of it myself. You see, lady, I understand." Then she observed that the boy had a deformed limb and had to hobble along with it in an iron frame. We may be sure that the Lord Jesus Christ understands all our sufferings. He was made sin for us and in the process took upon himself our suffering natures. He, therefore, can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. What a joy it is for us to know that Jesus understands.

Poor Business, Indeed
During the last several years and quite recently, we have noticed some of the schools in the county using stationery printed outside of the county. Yet these same schools keep on sending in their programs, school notes, announcements of concerts or other money-making ventures and ask the county papers to print them free of charge, and with quite frequent request to "put it on the front page". Wonder what they would think of the local newspapers if they returned the items sent in with the notation: "Send this free advertising to the city newspaper, or up to the North and have them use it for you?"

The Jackson County papers for many years have been, we believe, the most liberal papers we know in the matter of not charging for all sorts of advertising services given schools, churches, lodges, societies, sports, cards of thanks, and many other items which are usually charged for by newspapers. If we charged for these items like the usual newspaper custom, it would run into several hundred dollars a year. But we have always contributed this support freely, and in return think the local printers should have preference in the matter of printing orders when there is cash to be spent.

There are those other local businesses and people who buy out-of-town printing in the belief they are making some money by doing it. Yet these same people would be highly offended if the local newspapers ignored the marriages, deaths or births of any members of their family, or failed to recognize in a news way their importance in the community. Recently a local merchant was giving the editor advice on "why not start a trade at home campaign," when right then this merchant had Ohio printing on his desk he had bought from a stranger.

Your town newspaper is a local public servant. It displays your virtues to the world and keeps hidden your vices. The times you want it and need it, you usually find it standing by. And when you are not needing it, it is poor sportsmanship to send your printing money up North or out of the county because some agent makes you believe you can save a dime or two.—Scottsboro Progressive Age.

The World's Best Milk
A health specialist recently pointed out that the United States, on the whole, has the best and purest milk supply in the world. A considerable part of the credit for this immensely important achievement must be given to the large dairy marketing cooperatives of America. Part of their work has been to show farmers how to improve both the health and productivity of their herds—and also how to handle milk in the safest possible manner. These lessons have been widely followed—and our pure milk supply is the result.

ALABAMA'S MORTALITY RATE FIVE PERCENT LOWER IN 1937
Montgomery—Alabama's provisional infant mortality rate for 1937 was approximately five percent lower than the 1936 rate, according to announcement today by the State Department of Health.
The provisional 1937 rate was 63.4 per 1,000 live births, as compared with the 1936 rate of 66.6 per 1,000 live births.
Provisional vital statistics figures show that 100 fewer Alabama babies died before reaching their first birthday last year than in 1936, in spite of an estimated increase of 32,037 in the State's population.

THE SPOILER
Summer came a perfect day
Showing autumn on the way.
Azure sky with tint of haze;
Mellow sun's low slanting rays.
Balmy air with touch of tang;
Wind that whistled as it sang.
Poplar, Chestnut, Oak, all brown,
Made each hill a lovely crown.
Maple, cedar, pine's rich tints
Gave it a cloak of red and green.
Field and meadow, grass and weed
Sere of leaf, has gone to seed.
Then came a man—all Nature's foe
Saying grass and leaves must go.
Piled them high with fiendish zeal,
Struck a match upon his heel.
Now gray ash, and specter bare,
Greet all those who travel there.
Bird and beast no shelter find,
Man has used his match—no mind.
Exc.
found his boy and he was alive. How many of you fathers and mothers have sons and daughters lost in sin? Maybe if you would pray more for them, you would be more likely to find them. Do you not feel an urge now to pray for that lost boy of yours? Tell me, how can you have a happy moment when your children are lost to God and heaven?

WATER FOR CLANTON—
The present plans set out by the City of Clanton for securing an adequate supply of water for city consumption appears to meet with everybody's approval. Drilling wells has proven a mere waste of time, and the idea of going to Yellow Leaf Creek is perhaps a good one. Yellow Leaf Creek is perhaps the largest creek in the County and it will take a prolonged drought to cause a shortage of water in the town when this system is set up. City officials have already purchased the site for the huge tanks which will be necessary to store the water. We hope the work on the new project will go forward without interruption, and that Clanton will not have to worry about the water question after it is completed.

COOPERATION—
Tomorrow will see the opening of the Annual Red Cross Roll Call Drive. We are firm in our belief that Chilton County will "go over the top" this year. Distribution of posters, literature, etc., report splendid cooperation by merchants in allowing posters to be placed in their show windows, handling literature in an effort to advertise the drive. Everybody appears to be in sympathy with the Red Cross, but it's how we show our appreciation for the work of this organization by contributing our dollars, that counts. Friday marks the opening of the drive. Will you respond?

MRS. GOLDSTEIN—
Our sympathy with the bereaved families of Saul M. Goldstein and J. O. Chambers this week. Mrs. Goldstein, we learned Monday passed away in Evansville, Ind., last week. Mr. Goldstein, former merchant in Clanton, and a civic leader, and Mrs. Goldstein had their home in Evansville since leaving Clanton. News of her death came as a shock to her friends here.

SOL'S GEESSE—
Sol Levine tells us he really got results from a small advertisement he placed in the Chilton County News this week. Mrs. Goldstein, we learned Monday passed away in Evansville, Ind., last week. Mr. Goldstein, former merchant in Clanton, and a civic leader, and Mrs. Goldstein had their home in Evansville since leaving Clanton. News of her death came as a shock to her friends here.

THE COMING HOLIDAYS—
Christmas isn't far off, so the calendar says, but of course Thanksgiving comes first. We're not saying that Thanksgiving is not a real holiday, and one that every American observes with reverence, but Turkey just never did appeal to the majority of the people like Santa Claus. The Christmas holiday season is looked forward to by millions from year to year. This year will be no exception. Rumors of wars will not keep the Christmas down in this country. And Thanksgiving Day will be observed with family gatherings at which the spirit of thanksgiving will prevail.

Cane Creek
Sunday School and B. T. U. were well attended Sunday and Sunday night. The Intermediate and Junior Unions in B. T. U. are doing extra well. The singing Sunday afternoon was good, and was enjoyed by everyone present. The opening song was sung by R. E. Jones, prayer by L. D. Hughes. Directors for the afternoon were Emmett Wilson, Raybon Crow, Paul Hughes, Jasper Jones, L. D. Hughes, J. B. Crew and Floyd Little. Songs were sung by two different quartettes consisting of J. B. Crew, Miss Nita Jones, L. D. Hughes, and Jasper Jones. Another consisted of M. J. Crew, Paul Hughes, Raybon Crow and J. B. Crew. The closing song was sung by both quartettes with dismissal by Emmett Wilson. Pianists for the afternoon were Misses Hughes and Lillie Mae Weldon and Mrs. L. D. Hughes and Mrs. Kermit Connell. We were very glad to have the visitors with us and invite them to come back every time they can.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness and consideration shown during the illness and death of our beloved son, Carl. Especially do we thank Dr. Taylor, Dr. Newton, and the nurses of the Prattville Hospital—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith and Family.

Bids Asked On New Highway To Tuscaloosa

From Montgomery Advertiser

The State Highway Commission received today for bids to be opened Nov. 15 on a project that will mark another step toward construction of the much discussed and long planned "University Highway" to connect Montgomery and Tuscaloosa with a modern, all-weather motor road. This project is grading, draining and construction of bridges on twelve miles of the route, extending from the town of Line Highway to Prattville. The section in Autauga County, from Prattville to the beginning of the new project, is now being graded and drained in preparation for paving.

At present, the only all-paved motor route from Montgomery to Tuscaloosa is via Birmingham, with a total of 165 miles. The new route, extending in almost a straight line between the capitol and University City, is 107 miles long. It follows the Bee Line Highway to Prattville, thence through Prattville via the already paved spur road, and from there passes through the town of Line Highway, and on to Tuscaloosa to the City of Tuscaloosa.

Considerable paving has been done in Tuscaloosa; some in Bibb and near the Town of Coville, and practically all the remainder of the route in Bibb and Tuscaloosa is improved, but there has been no improvement preliminary to paving in Chilton.

Exclusive of that part either already under construction or soon to be placed under sections in Autauga and Montgomery, the route includes 19 miles in Chilton County, 36 in Bibb and 20 in Tuscaloosa.

The Highway Commission also requested bids, to be opened November 15, on grading, draining, bridge construction and bituminous paving of 5-1-2 miles of the secondary or "feeder" road in Chilton, the route is 19 miles between Clanton and Lay Dam.

IN MEMORY

Over yonder in the graveyard,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies a soul we love so dearly,
In his cold and silent grave.

Oh, Stanley why did you have to go?
You left your loved ones in grief and woe.

You bade no one a last farewell,
You said good-bye to none;
Your loving heart had ceased to beat
Before we knew you were gone.

Your cheerful smiles and kindly ways
We pleasantly recall;
You had kind words for everyone
And died beloved by all.

We miss you most who loved you best,
God bless you, Stanley, we hope
You're at rest.

—Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pierce

The Fighter

By S. Lanier Gibson

Life, deal with me as with a man;
I do not seek a bed of down.
I'd rather fight thro' field of thorns
And truly win a victor's crown.

'Tis better that the heart be prick'd
Lest it become too satisfied;
But wounded it will strive to reach
The plane which fits a real man's pride.

Off times when situated well,
Man's ambition chills and dies,
And in that state of dire distress
The roads he travels never rise.

God pity him who's known no grief;
He never knows the heaven-sent rest
Which wraps the man who fights and wins
And wears the scars upon his breast.

Drainage Work

Three demonstrations were given on the value of terracing with an attendance of twenty-four. This ditching was done with dynamite, and in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service located here in the County.

Two purebred Poland China Boars were given Chilton County by Cosby-Hodges Milling Company while the 4-H Dairy cattle from this county was being shown at the State Fair in Birmingham. These hogs were given under the following conditions:

1. The farmer must agree to breed 4-H pig club member's girls free of charge for two years. At the end of the time the boar will become the property of the farmer. If, for any reason, the keeper wishes to dispose of the boar before expiration of two years it shall be turned back to the Club Agent.

2. A fee of $100 may be charged others who wish to use the boar.

3. It is recommended that these boars be fed a balanced ration in order to properly develop them.

4. The name and address of the farmer keeping the boar will be furnished to Cosby-Hodges Milling Company, Birmingham, Alabama.

5. Registration and transfer papers will be furnished by Cosby-Hodges Milling Company, the boar being registered in the name of the farmer.

6. The name and address of those getting service to be furnished Cosby-Hodges Milling Company upon request at intervals.

Poultry Demonstrations

The County Agent and Assistant County Agent spent the day in Auburn at the opening of the Poultry Breeding Project which was started October 1, by John E. Ivey, Poultry Specialist. This project is very highly recommended by the National officials on down to the Specialist in our own State extension service.

County Bull Ring Organized

The County Agent and Assistant County Agent were successful in obtaining two more high bred Jersey animals which are being kept by A. D. Headley and Clarence Oaks on a co-operative plan.

The money used for the purchase of these animals was obtained from the Farm Security Administration and is to be paid back in five years through the services of these animals.

This county now has four bulls that are partly owned by the 4-H Calf Club which makes Chilton County have one bull ring in which they can alternate the bulls from one community to another, thereby being able to use one bull from eight to ten years and not cause any inbreeding.

The Month Of June Appears To Be Slipping As Wed Month

A recent release from the State Health Department tends to show that June is losing its popularity as marriage month. Following is the release:

"December was the favorite month for marriages in Chilton County last year, the State Department of Health disclosed recently in making public a compilation of marriage certificates received by its Bureau of Vital Statistics, which showed that 38 marriages were performed during that month. The County's marriage certificates for the entire year totaled 349.

"In the State as a whole, the State Department's figures show that December was by far the most popular marriage month of the year. In 40 of the 67 counties December marriages exceeded those performed during any other month of the year, as compared with only two counties in which June, the traditional marriage month, outranked all other months in the number of marriages performed."

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 8 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

STAR ATTRACTION

See the Hero Foil the Villain!

IF YOU reside in a thinly-settled suburban or rural neighborhood, and are one of the persons whose spine tingles with a thrill when the hero saves "Little Nell" from the clutches of the villain, you'll get a "kick" from learning about the "hero" of this advertisement.

Your hero's name is Repeater Fuse, a southern-born gentleman with three lives, employed by Alabama Power Company engineers and one of the many items of electrical equipment "made in Alabama."

For the villain of our little melodrama we have Nature, transformed into a witch, who, in occasional whimsical mood, fleetingly flicks at some of the rural lines of Electra, the heroine, striving to put her handyman, Reddy Kilowatt, out of commission and annoy you (and us) with an unnecessary interruption to your dependable electric service.

That's when your hero, Repeater-Fuse, steps into the play to foil the villain, giving all three of his lives to do so, if necessary. Here's how Repeater Fuse plays his part:

The villain causes a momentary abnormal surge of power over the wires, along which Repeater Fuse is stationed as sentry. This surge is intercepted by one of the fingers you see in the picture holding one of your hero's lives, technically known as cartridge fuses. There is a report, as of a gunshot, and one of Repeater Fuse's lives is no more. But instantly this happens, another of the fingers places another "life" in the breach. If the trouble is still on the line, Repeater Fuse loses another of his lives, and possibly a third. When, in rare instances, the elements of all three cartridge fuses are exploded, that means that Nature or accident has caused more than momentary trouble. Then real-life heroes—the members of our capable repair crew—go out on the line and speedily restore service, and renew the elements in the repeater fuse, so that it may again play its part when necessary.

Interruptions to your electric service are rare, because most electrical disturbances are only momentary, and repeater fuses and other ingenious equipment such as you've been reading about in these advertisements, handle them automatically and so swiftly that, except for a brief flicker of your lights, you do not know there has been a disturbance.

It takes more than merely poles, wires and "free money" to supply dependable electric service.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

It is certain we can drive foreigners out of the cotton market; that we can gain our foreign market; and cut foreign cotton acreage with big crops and low prices as advocated in the domestic allotment plan? Not if we judge the future by the past. Increase in foreign cotton is not a new thing under the sun. From 1780 to 1920 the price of cotton ranged from 6 cents to 40 cents. For the same period the increase in production of foreign cotton was about 44 percent for each 10-year period. The War reduced foreign production for a short while. After War the increase started again and has continued.

Since 1870, we have had 19 record American cotton crops, each bigger than any previous crop. In all except

4 of these instances, foreign cotton acreage was actually increased instead of being cut following our big crop. This sets the chances at 15 to 4—nearly 4 to 1—in favor of the conclusion that a big volume of American cotton is by no means certain insurance against an increase in foreign cotton acreage. In 1925, foreign cotton acreage was 43 million; in 1937, it was 58 million. 90 percent of this increase occurred in 4 countries—Brazil, China, Russia, and Uganda. Causes of the increase in these four countries have little relation to the cotton policy in the United States. The increase from 1925 to 1937 in Brazil was about 5 million acres. During most of this time the price of Brazilian cotton has been high in comparison with the price of cotton in the United States. The price of a pound of cotton in Sao Paulo, Brazil, averaged only about 10 percent more than the price of a pound of cotton. The margin in favor of cotton expanded greatly after 1929.

As coffee became cheaper the spread between cotton and coffee widened. In 1931, the spread in favor of cotton was 42 percent and in 1937 80 percent. In addition, by devaluing its money, Brazil has kept the price of cotton to Brazilian producers at or above pre-depression price while the price of cotton to farmers in the United States has ranged from one-third to two-thirds of pre-depression prices. The price of cotton in New Orleans in 1936 was more than 30 percent below the 1928 price. Held up by currency exchange manipulation, the price of cotton in Brazil was 8 percent higher in 1936 than in 1928.

For these reasons, farmers in Brazil have shifted from coffee to cotton just as farmers in Oklahoma often shift from wheat to cotton or from cotton to wheat or the farmers in the Southeast Alabama and Georgia section shift from peanuts to cotton or cotton to peanuts or peanuts for hogs to coffee and the advantage in price of cotton, big cut in coffee acreage and a big gain in cotton acreage in Brazil was inevitable. It would have taken place regardless of the cotton policy of the United States.

It is generally admitted that the increase in Russian cotton has little if any relation to our policy. Russia wants to and will produce for her own needs. Regardless of what we do, Russia will determine its own cotton acreage for some time to come.

China is governed slightly more by our own course than Russia, but our policies have very little influence on Chinese cotton acreage. Most Chinese cotton is used in China and China's expansion traces back to the rise of the textile industry in China and Japan. The increase in Uganda is the result of a British colonial effort begun soon after the turn of the century, and cotton production in that East African country has been encouraged regardless of price. What we do in America has practically no effect on Uganda's course.

The increase in foreign cotton acreage and production and the cut in our exports are related. Sales of American cotton to Germany have been reduced from a normal of more than 1,500,000 bales to about 600,000 bales. This cut in sales of cotton to German mills accounts for more than one-third of the

Summary Of County Agent's Activities For Month of October

Days in the field, 8 1-2; days in the office, 17 1-2; calls made, 5,545; telephonic calls, 426; farm visits made, 20; other meetings held in relation to projects for adults, 22; attendance, 1,642; miles traveled, 1,085; press articles written, 4; talks made, 6; personal letters written, 488; circular letters written, 17; copies sent, 7,384; U. AAA Work

A large part of the County Agent's time has been spent in the office talking with farmers concerning their compliance for 1938 and advising them about the planting of winter cover crops in order to draw out their soil building allowance.

The farmers have purchased already over 15,000 pounds of winter legume seed to be planted in Chilton County this fall. Dry weather has handicapped planting but with rain in the next few days I believe there will be more winter legume seed planted in Chilton County this fall than ever before.

County Review Committee Meeting
The County Agent met with the County Review Committee on October 17 and 18. Approximately 70 cases were presented in person to this committee, while other cases making a total of about 200 were passed on.

Rural Electrification Association Meeting

On October 17, a Rural Electrification Association meeting was held with an attendance of 10. The farmers who are cooperating in this project seem very interested and it is hoped that they will be benefited by their efforts.

Subsidy Applications

A schedule of 12 meetings was held over the County taking applications for Subsidy payment. At these meetings there was an attendance of 1,090. Practically all applications for persons

Jemison F. H. A.

The Jemison F. H. A. met Wednesday, November 2.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Maine Glascock.

The opening ceremony was given by the club officers. The devotion was read by the secretary. The roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The treasurer gave her report. The reports of the standing committees were next in order. The chairman of the publicity, program, social, refreshment and yearbook committees gave their reports.

The reports of special committees were next in order. The chairman of the committee to find a school property for the club and the publicity committee for the play gave their reports.

There being no unfinished business new business was next in order. Plans for a party for the F. F. A. and F. H. A. were discussed and also plans for the fathers and mothers banquet. There was a discussion on initiating persons who help to foster the club development into the club, as honorary members.

As three honorary members are all that could be initiated into the club the first year, it was moved and carried that we initiate three honorary members into the club.

Several persons were suggested by members of the club. These were voted on and the three receiving the majority of votes were Miss Martha D. Foshee, Miss Miriam Harvey and Mrs. Ballard.

A committee consisting of Myrtle Lou Crim, Elizabeth Bold and Eunice Lowery was appointed to write the invitations and plan the initiation.

There being no further business the program committee took charge. There were interesting talks were given. They were "An Artist," by Homer D. Martin—Jani Horne.

"Fog Warning," by Winslow Homer—Loverly.

"The Rust Mother," by Whistler—Maxine Mims.

The initiation committee then took charge and two new members were brought into the club. They were Helen Hubbard and Hildon Bussey.

The refreshment committee took charge and refreshments were served to all members.

There being no further business, a move to adjourn was in order.

The loss of the adjourn by Myrtle Lou Crim and seconded by Geraldine Hubbard.

All here in favor and the meeting was adjourned with everyone looking forward to another meeting next month.

total cut in our cotton exports.

We don't buy much from Germany and Germany doesn't buy our cotton. The Smoot-Hawley tariff and similar restrictions. But Germany has increased her purchases of cotton from Brazil. She did this the simple reason: she could not obtain dollar exchange to buy our cotton. She could work out a barter arrangement with Brazil, one of the reasons being that Brazil found it much better to ship cotton out of the country to buy industrial products than to try to buy these products with depreciated currency.

Italy and other countries also is due in the main to tariff barriers—to our refusal to admit foreign products. This could get dollar exchange for use in buying our cotton.

Thus we see by examination of the essential facts that the chief argument of the so-called domestic allotment plan—that unlimited production would recapture our world markets—is not supported by experience or economic justification.

Our hands are clasped at last forever. Perhaps we'll never meet again. I've loved you as I could love no other. This parting fills my heart with pain.

While through this weary world I wonder, My thought will be alone with you. In memories I will see you ever, I loved you better than you knew.

Football Game Friday At 2:30 P.M.

The local football team will meet the strong high school team from Holtville High School Friday afternoon at 2:30 on the local field. A good game is assured as Holtville has a strong team this year having lost only one game by the score of 7-0. Last year the local team went down to defeat at their hands by the score of 52-7. This year the Tigers should be cut to wipe out the sting of that defeat.

The Chilton boys have played a fine game all the way this year, winning six games and losing one. Sylacauga defeated them by the score of 20 to 14. There remain only two games on the schedule of the local team. Holtville here Friday and Columbiana here Friday, November 18.

Remember the kick-off promptly at 2:30.

HOMECOMING HELD AT OLD HOME PLACE OF W. J. BONE

On Saturday morning, November 5, out at the old home place of the Rev. W. J. Bone, deceased, kinfolk and more kinfolk began to gather in from various parts of Alabama and other states. This gathering continued to increase the crowd until well after the noon hour. There were relatives from Washington, D. C., Auburn, Aliceville, Montgomery, Prattville, Independence, Sylacauga and other points. There were many honor guests and neighbors, life long friends of the family.

The weather conditions were ideal, and after about two hours of greeting, handshaking, etc., a short program was rendered. Words of welcome were brought by J. F. Bone, then a song and prayer were offered. At this time Rev. W. S. Cox spoke briefly of his acquaintance with the Bone family in very touching words. He then introduced Rev. Marion Dopsin, who preached a very beautiful and impressive sermon stressing the thought of an eternal home gathering. Services ended about one o'clock at which time a very nice barbecue dinner was spread. Brother W. P. Lowery of Thorsby thanked the dear Lord for the occasion as well as the lunch and then eating and talking followed. All the afternoon was spent talking of by-gone days and of the present-day problems of life. It was indeed a very delightful occasion, although it was mingled with tears and sadness.

CLANTON GRAMMAR P. T. A. MET TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Clanton Grammar School P. T. A. met on Tuesday afternoon, November 1, at 2:30 in the absence of Mrs. H. K. Christiansen, the president, Mrs. Omar Reynolds presided over the business meeting.

A well planned program was given with Mrs. J. W. Pant serving as leader. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. L. J. Stewart, who read the 27th Psalm.

The financial situation of the schools of Chilton County was the study of study. Mrs. Pant introduced Mrs. Napoleon Johnson, president of the County Council of P. T. A.'s, who spoke on the cost of operating the schools in Chilton County.

Mrs. J. T. Searcy talked on the importance of the county and district school taxes, and emphasized the fact that these taxes expire before September, and must be renewed by a vote of the people. Mrs. Pant expressed the hope that all P. T. A.'s in the County would enter upon an active program to inform the public of the necessity for the continuation of local school taxes.

The attendance was splendid. Sixty-nine votes were cast deciding the winner of the half-holiday. For the second time the room of Mrs. J. T. Searcy was acclaimed winner.

Alabama livestock is now practically free of tuberculosis and cattle ticks.

Prospects Good For Mitchell Dam Team

Steve Stanley, manager of the Mitchell Dam Basketball Team, which last year won the District championship in Montgomery, stated the early part of this week that the outlook for his team was even better this year than last.

Doc Baker is captain of the team this season, which has not yet officially opened, however two scrimmage games have been played so far, one with the strong Jemison team. Mitchell Dam won this game by a score of 34-10. Many of the old players are back again this season, with some new on the team, but not new in the art of looping the basket.

One of the most important games scheduled for this season is the one with the famed House of David. This game has been set for March 10. Mitchell Dam played this team last year before a large crowd. This is one of the most looked-to games of the season, the House of David team being nationally known.

BANKHEAD TO SPEAK HERE TOMORROW

Alabama Senator To Address Farmers-Regarding New Farm Program

Senator John H. Bankhead, conducting one of the most extensive non-political campaigns in the history of the State in the interest of better farm knowledge of the farm legislation situation will address farmers and business men at Clanton at 10:30 tomorrow (Friday). The address will be given at the courthouse and will begin at 10:30 in the morning.

Senator Bankhead has appeared in every section of the State since he began a speaking tour several weeks ago. He is attempting to inform farmers and others interested in farm legislation just what they are faced with and what chances they will have under new legislation which Congress might pass.

The Senator, considered one of the best cotton authorities in Washington, and who, as a member of the Senate Agricultural Committee, has been instrumental in the farm legislation passed recently, will discuss the cotton situation from before the World War up to the present. He will also explain the domestic allotment plan as a substitute for the present AAA program and will tell farmers what they can expect unless they take an active part in the December 10 referendum when cotton marketing quotas for 1939 will be approved or disapproved by the cotton farmers.

Reynolds Urges Farmers To Hear Senator

"Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Alabama:

"I notice from the press that Senator John H. Bankhead will speak in Clanton next Friday, November 18th, at 10:30 A.M.

"I hope the people of Chilton County and especially the farmers will turn out to hear Senator Bankhead on the farm program.

"I realize that many of the people of this county are very much opposed to the way the program is being administered in this county, in fact, I feel like there should be some amendments to the law. I think every one-horse farmer should be allotted as much as four or five bales of cotton without any measurements or interference on the part of the government. As I understand the program, it is beneficial to the large farmer, but not to the small farmer. As I have said, I do not believe the small farmer can comply with the Government's measurements when they have to be within one-tenth of an acre correct, especially when small plots of land have rigged edges. I know of many instances in this county where the Federal officials have measured the same plot of land two or three times and have varied from one-tenth to one or more acres on the same plot, which shows the farmers themselves could not comply with the law.

"I again urge the people to turn out and hear Senator Bankhead, because he is an authority on the cotton program. We want to do what is best for the farmers and when we help the farmers we help the other classes in the county.

"Yours very truly,
"L. H. Reynolds".

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN ISSUE WARNING REGARDING TAGS

Local Highway Patrolmen Wallace Waites and Earl Henley asked the News to issue a warning to the motorists of this county that the 1939 tags and drivers' license must be displayed from now on.

Messrs. Waites and Henley state that they wish to cause trouble and embarrassment to no one, but their orders are to see that this law is enforced, and they are, in a polite way, asking for the cooperation of drivers of motor vehicles. So, if you are stopped by either of these two gentlemen within the next few days, don't feel offended—they have their orders to see that everything is in order.

Nitrogen Treated Peas Kill Three Cows In Co.

R. G. Cook, well known young man residing in the western part of the County, stated Monday of this week he lost two cows last Saturday, both dying after they had eaten Austrian Winter peas after they had been treated with nitrogen.

Mr. Large, of near Isabella, also had a cow to die from eating the treated peas. Mr. Cook stated, and asked that the News issue a warning to the farmers of the County to prevent their stock eating the peas after they had been treated, as death follows directly.

A container of the treated peas carelessly left where they might be found might result in the stock eating same.

Chilton High Defeated By Holtville High Here

The C. C. H. S. Tigers lost their seventh game of the season Friday afternoon on the local field, to the strong Holtville eleven. This brings the number of losses by the Tigers to two, having won five.

The Holtville boys were favored to win this game, having had a strong team for the past several years, however, when the final whistle blew Clanton was trailing by only one touchdown, 13-7.

The Tigers did splendid work in holding Holtville to this score, being outweighted considerably. A change in tactics on the part of the Tigers, in the latter part of the fourth quarter, resulted in the sole touchdown made, with the extra point being converted. Perfectly timed lateral passwork carried the boys across the stripe for this one and only touchdown.

The Tigers will meet the Columbiana team on the latter's field next Friday afternoon for the final game of the season. The boys are to be congratulated on their splendid playing during the entire season.

Sanitary Conditions Of Eating Establishments Of County Pointed To By Health Department

Efforts of the local health department to promote improvement of the equipment of Chilton County's eating establishments in accordance with the new health permit system have been very successful, according to a weekly bulletin from the health department. Of Chilton's 67 eating establishments, soda fountains, meat markets, etc., 59 have been issued permits, having qualified by making the necessary improvements in their equipment. Only eight remain which are yet without permits and these operators, the health department reports, have been given citations by the license inspector for operating without a privilege license. Under the health permit system now in force, a permit issued by the local officer, must first be obtained by an operator before he can purchase a license.

In summarizing the improvements made throughout the county, Dr. Sturkie, County Health Officer, stated there were 17 establishments which installed hot water under pressure, eight which installed sanitary privies, three Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies confiscated fifteen gallons of whiskey in the eastern part of the county one day last week.

Sheriff Hardy stated that he and his deputies had been told that a certain smokehouse in Beat 16 was the hiding place of a quantity of whiskey. On a warrant they went to the place, but found the building locked. Residents of the place appeared to know nothing about the locked smokehouse, so the lock was pried from the door, revealing the whiskey.

Two warrants were issued for the arrest of two persons residing on the place.

Another Kind Of Scottsboro Case

At the North Alabama Methodist Conference just held at Anniston last week, it developed that the Scottsboro Methodist Church was tops of the whole conference in progress during the last year, having a most amazing report to make before the conference. And, greatest of the credit, without question, due to the pastor, Rev. J. A. Bentley, who has spent only one year in our city. He came to Scottsboro exactly a year ago and found a congregation which had sold its church property and had a good lot and about $6,000 cash on hand from the sale to start a new church plant.

Brother Bentley immediately took charge of the situation and took personal charge of raising the money and building a church that would be a credit to our town. In less than one year the church had risen from the lot and today stands as one of the most beautiful church structures in the state, modern in every way, a real $35,000 structure. And it is all paid for without one dollar of indebtedness against it or any of the equipment or church holdings in Scottsboro. In other words, the Scottsboro Methodist Church today was free of all debt a $35,000 to $40,000 church plant, virtually all of this great sum being raised during the last six months among the congregation and the largest individual contributor, we believe, gave $1,000 to the project.

Brother Bentley has made a magnificent record and he will continue to do his good work here, we hope, for several more years to come. When a man can harmonize Scottsboro Methodists enough to have them plunk down all this cash and effort, he is entitled to all the praise that can be given him.

The new church is waiting now for the last work, the installing of the beautiful memorial windows which are the best money could buy.—Scottsboro Sentinel.

The Mail Order Way

A bulletin gives the following advice to merchants on how to meet the ever-present mail order competition:

A farmer went into a hardware store and inquired the price of a certain make and model of rifle. The price quoted him was $10.00.

"But I can get it from a mail order house for nine dollars," the farmer objected.

"We'll meet that competition," the hardware dealer assured him.

"All right. Let me see the rifle."

"Oh, no," replied the dealer. "If we meet the catalog price we have to sell on the same basis, 'sight unseen.' Can't take time to haul out the rifle and wait for you to look it over."

Rather reluctantly, the farmer then asked that the rifle be turned over to him and charged to his account.

"No, if we sell it to you at the catalog exactly the same way the catalog house house price we'll have to sell it to you exactly the same way as the catalog house does," said the dealer. "Give me the catalog house price in cash, plus the price of a stamp, a post office money order and the express charges from Chicago; then ten days from now the rifle will be delivered to you."

But the farmer didn't want to wait ten days for the rifle, and he preferred to look it over before he bought it. So the result was that he walked out of the store with the rifle; and a ten-dollar charge was added to his account.—Eufaula Tribune.

Alabama's antiquated constitution doesn't need amending any more. What it needs is reconditioning and streamlining by a Constitutional Convention.

The University Highway

Editor's Note: Chilton County News will be glad to print any comment by any citizen of Chilton County on this subject. All articles must be signed by the writer.

The following appeared editorially in The Montgomery Advertiser, Friday, October 11th, 1938:

"The Tuscaloosa News has waged a long fight for the proposed University Highway, and now the the State has advertised for bids for the paving of a 12-mile stretch in Autauga County The News reaffirms its position.

"This new stretch will help a lot," the Tuscaloosa newspaper says, 'but it will still leave us far from our goal. The road can be paved all the way from Montgomery through Prattville to the Chilton County line, and again all the way from Tuscaloosa through Centreville and thence southeast to the Chilton County line—but that still leaves the Chilton stretch as the fly in the ointment. It is an inescapable fact that the assistance of Chilton County must be obtained before we can make this highway anything more than a dream.'

"The News is not unsympathetic toward the Chilton County case, however untenable that position is when considered in the light of all the facts. The interest of the whole state is above the secondary interests of one town. The News says:

"We understand Chilton's position, and we can sympathize with the people of that County. The people of Clanton do not wish to spend the people's money on a road which will hurt Clanton by directing traffic away from the county seat and sending it through Maplesville across the southwestern part of the county. It is poor business, they contend, and we can see their point—but we do not feel that if this State a whole is to be developed, all of us have got to make certain sacrifices that a greater number may benefit, and the Chilton road is one of these sacrifices.

"Selma and a good part of Dallas County have bitterly fought the plan to improve that stretch of road on the Birmingham-Mobile Highway route which skirts through Safford in the western part of Dallas county, thus diverting business away from Selma. Nor was it easy for Tuscaloosa to lend its assistance on the six-mile section of the same highway which barely touches the eastern fringe of our county near Bucksville, and thus serves few of our people, but this stretch was essential to far more people than those who live in Tuscaloosa. The money which Tuscaloosa County spent on this road could have been used to far better effect somewhere else, but Judge Walker and the others in authority realized that, by refusing to lend their help, they would be pulling another dog-in-the-manger trick. They cooperated fully, and this County has the satisfaction of knowing that its hands have not been dirtied by its selfish refusal to help in the development of a greater system of roads for the entire State.

"In the Chilton County case, there are far more people to be considered than those who live in and near Clanton. We freely admit that we have a defective system which necessitates the expenditure of a large sum of money, by one county on a road which will serve those of other county more than those of its own, but it is a defect which we may as well face and make the most of, if we expect to get anywhere in developing this State. The Lord Himself so arranged is that a straight line is the shortest distance two points, and it is unfortunate that the founders of Clanton did not foresee the day when there would be a state-wide demand for a straight-line road from Montgomery to Tuscaloosa. They might have established Clanton in the location which Maplesville now occupies—but there you see! Clanton, under those circumstances, would have missed out on the Birmingham-to-Montgomery Highway, and that would not have done at all'.

"Chilton County should realize the advantage of having the University Highway. It is not even definite that Clanton will stand to lose anything at all. On the other hand the county as a whole is certain to profit from the new highway.

"After all, it is better to have two main highways pass through Chilton County than one."

CONGRATULATIONS—

An announcement on the front page of last week's Chambers County News, of Lanett, Alabama, was to the effect that on November 5th the ownership of that paper changed from C. L. Walton to the people Teel, Victor Norris and George Foster. We are not acquainted with Mr. Foster, but the other two members of this partnership are well known in these parts. Vernie Teel and Victor Norris were members of the Chilton County News staff for some time. Mr. Teel left Clanton June first, 1936, to become Managing Editor of the Chambers County News, later became editor, and the news of the purchase of this weekly by these two gentlemen will be received with interest by the people of Chilton County. We extend our hearty congratulations and best wishes to these three men, and we lose no time in predicting great things for the Chambers County News, serving the Chatahoocnee Valley under the ownership of Vernie Teel, Victor Norris and George Foster.

HERE ONE YEAR—

Raymond Underwood, manager of the Spigener Funeral Home in Clanton, last week celebrated his first anniversary here. Raymond has made many friends since he came to Clanton, and his management of the branch of the Spigener Funeral Home has meant much to the firm. Here's hoping he'll be with us many years to come.

TOGETHER FIFTEEN YEARS—

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin of this city celebrated their Silver Wedding Anniversary last week—fifteen years of married life. That's a pretty long time, and occupying the position in their community as Mr. and Mrs. Heflin do, they received the hearty congratulations and best wishes from their many friends here. If fifteen years seems as long accordingly as eight months—

OUCH!—

My dear readers, pardon the abrupt and disastrous ending of the above paragraph, as it looks like Ye Olde Observer will never learn that the Madam is the censor of this column, and that we just can't get away with anything like that. We just rambled off with our thoughts—until all went black. (It wasn't the roof falling, as we thought for a moment).

O-O-O

MORAL ECHOES.

D. W. Haskew

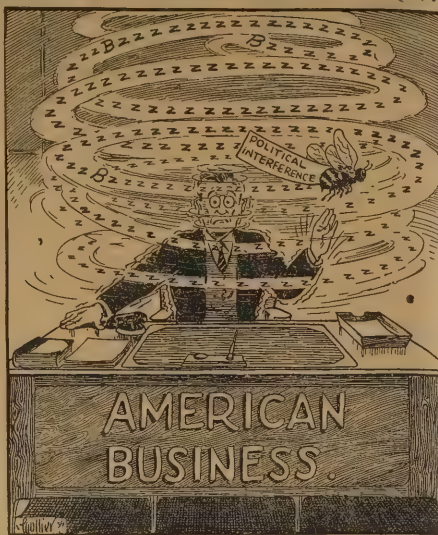

This world is full of surprises. An Irishman was in a park in New York and seeing a parrot in a tree, remarked, "What a pretty bird. I shall climb and catch it." He was told to let the bird alone, but Pat had a way of his own and climbed up to the parrot. On reaching the limb on which Polly was sitting, the parrot turned upon him and said in perfect English, "Well, what is it?" Pat lifted his hat and said, "Excuse me your honor, I thought that you were a bird." When Pat reached the ground a moment later he was still wondering.

It is strange how many men we find who seem to have no job other than to discuss politics. Two women were discussing their married troubles while they washed clothes on the opposite sides of a fence. One said to the other, "By the way, what is your husband doing now?" The one just over the pickets replied, "Oh, he is setting around telling what is going to happen next election day." "Sakes Alive," replied the other one, "Then he is done turned prophet." "No, he ain't, he is turned to be a dead loss to his family." God pity a wife who has a husband who has turned into a street corner orator on politics. Generally he is a dead loss to his family.

Two little girls were about to be late for school. One of them stopped dead still in the road and said, "Come, Alice, and let's kneel down here and pray God that He will keep us from being late at school." "No, No," replied Alice, "let's keep hiking and pray while we hike." In these days there are many folks who are sitting on their front porches praying, "Good Lord, feed me." Better get up and go to work and then pray, "Good Lord, feed me." God is not going to help those who are not willing to help themselves.

I knew a doctor who was very plain spoken. He did not coddle his patients and pity them in their whining ways. One day a patient came to his office with a long story of troubles. This doctor knew that she was one who was nothing more than a bundle of nerves and never failed to magnify her ailments. This patient said to the doctor, "I feel a terrible pain in my finger, doctor, every time I let my hand hang down." The doctor replied, "Then in the name of common sense, woman, why do you let your hand hang down? When you know that eating too much, reveling too much, dissipating too much will hurt you, why in the name of common sense, why do you do these things. What fools we mortals are.

The pastor was sitting at his desk on Sunday morning when there was a timid knock on the door. "Come in," said he. In walked his six-year-old son. He advanced to his father's chair and with a trembling voice, said, "Daddy, how long are you going to preach to-day?" The father seemed that something was wrong and replied, "Oh, I guess that I will not preach over twenty minutes." A smile played over the boy's face, and on seeing this the father inquired why. The little lad replied, "Nothing much, daddy, only the boys said that they were going to beat me up if you preached over thirty minutes." We all know preachers who make little boys and big ones to suffer much when they preach over thirty minutes. There are more ways to punish folks than to beat them over the head with a stick.

Chilton Goes Republican

From The Montevallo Times
News from over the hill Wednesday morning tells us that our neighbor county of Chilton has gone back to the Republican party. It is said that every Democratic candidate in Tuesday's election lost by margins of 200 to 500 votes.

Chilton is rated as traditionally Republican. A few years ago enough of the Republicans voted Democratic to place the county in the Democratic column. President Roosevelt carried the county, thereby being the first Democratic presidential candidate to do so in forty some-odd years.

Many will seek an explanation why the Democrats did not hold the ground they gained. The answer is easy. The Democrats who were elected wasted their success and their opportunity to continue successful by discord in their own party ranks.

Money was substituted for principles, it is reported, and we are inclined to believe the report is true. Personal political grudges were allowed to actuate the motives of officeholders one against the other, instead of the common interests of all the people of the county.

Money is more flexible than principles. The dollar is an illusive thing. Now you have it, now you don't. Some men can take a dollar bill, twist it into a wad, break it in two, unfold the parts and hand you a complete dollar bill for each part, thus making two dollars where there was only one (apparently).

No telling what may happen in politics, religion, family or anywhere, when money becomes the balance of power and the guiding influence. A balance should be stable, and the money is not that.

There is some reason for the guess that money had a big part in swinging the Republican victory in Chilton Tuesday. If so, it will not be long until something else will happen.

A county is in a helluva fix when determination of its election of public officials is made by the crowd that will pay the most money to swing the victory.

It makes politics plumb disgusting—and we come to this conclusion again—we are glad we are not in politics anymore.

COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE TO DYNAMITE DITCH NEAR LOMAX

Assistant County Agent B. N. Ivey stated early this week that they would dynamite a ditch on the farm of H. S. Shaw, located about two miles north-east of Lomax, Thursday morning (today), using 1,000 pounds of dynamite.

Mr. Ivey stated that one shot would be set off about 9:00 A.M., with one following at 2:00 P.M. Dynamiting a ditch has been proven to cost less than having it dug by workmen. Mr. Shaw's land is considered good, but is inclined to remain soggy. This ditch will drain the land, making it tillable and more valuable.

Fifteen States Join Cotton Campaign

Delegates From Newly Formed State Councils To Launch National Drive At Memphis, Nov. 21

Stoneville, Miss.—The first movement in the history of agriculture in which the growers and first handlers of cotton have united to increase the consumption of American cotton and cottonseed will be launched when the delegates of 15 cotton producing states meet in Memphis, Tenn., November 21, to organize a National Cotton Council.

The Council would unite the various associations of growers, ginners, warehousemen, cotton merchants, and cottonseed crushers.

The objectives of the organization, as outlined by Oscar Johnston, Scott Miss, former director of the U. S. Cotton Pool and prime instigator in the movement for unity, are to increase the consumption of American cotton and cottonseed products through development of world markets, expansion

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened a few weeks ago when Jesus saw fit to take our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Pierce, away. She was 78 years old. She was loved by everyone who knew her. She was always ready to serve her Lord and she bore her suffering in vain. Our dear mother was laid to rest in Bethel cemetery with Spigener in charge. Revs. Grady Williams, Joe Moore and Manning conducted.

She leaves to mourn her death, seven children, Mrs. C. W. Gray, Mrs. C. C. Gray, Mr. Reyonles Pierce, all of Verbena; Mrs. Wade Friday, Mr. Jim Pierce, of Billingsley, Mrs. J. G. Pierce, of Cardova and Mr. Shirley Pierce of Summerfield, Ala.; two brothers, John Silas of Montgomery and Gaines Silas of Clanton and a great host of grandchildren and great grandchildren. Dearest mother, how we miss you. And your voice is quiet and still. You are gone from us forever. And your place can never be filled.

Dearest mother, we know you suffered. Oud loud prayers was your request. But we know that you're in Heaven. Jesus gives all His loved ones rest.

Sleep on, dear mother. In your sweet and silent sleep. For in Heaven there's no more suffering. You may rest at Jesus' feet.

Dearest mother, you know we miss you. As though life we journey on. But we pray that we will meet you. In that bright and happy home.

of U. S. markets through advertising, and sales efforts, research for new uses, legislation to encourage consumption, coordination of efforts of all cotton interests in above objectives and such other programs as those in which the five primary groups are in agreement.

"Only increased consumption of cotton will permanently insure the cotton farmer's income and his buying power," Mr. Johnston declared in commenting on the purpose of the Council.

"The approach to the problem of absorbing cotton surplus to date has been production control, coupled with direct subsidy to producers. The cotton interests have made no organized efforts to sell their product."

"The voice of cotton is as soft as its lint and as low as its price. We must give cotton a Magna Vox with the man power and money power to make it selfheard."

During the past two months state Cotton Councils have been organized in fifteen cotton producing states from Virginia to California, looking toward final consolidation into the national organization to be formed at Memphis.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer

The small amount of land available per person in Alabama, which forces farmers to try to produce intensively cultivated cash crops that deplete the soil, the rolling topography of the land which makes it subject to severe erosion and the tariff and freight rate discrimination against the South affects our schools, our health, our financial condition and our very living standards.

Last week I pointed briefly to the effect these problems of the South had on our financial conditions, home conveniences and improvement, and our living standards.

This week, I will attempt to show you further effects of these soil depleting, soil-robbing, income-decreasing problems and facts that you and I am facing in Alabama today. I am going to quote some challenging figures and facts that show that every other Southern farmer and business man should do all in our power to correct.

In Alabama such diseases as pellagra, typhoid fever and malaria, hookworm, and tuberculosis are much more prevalent than in other sections of the country. Due to low incomes, inefficient diet and lack of facilities, the control of these common diseases is difficult.

Alabama has far fewer doctors, nurses, and hospital beds per unit of population than any other section of the country. Many rural communities of the South are practically isolated from well trained medical personnel and the people are therefore the greater sufferers from all health hazards.

What about the schools in the South? Have these problems made themselves felt there too? Most decidedly so. The South of which Alabama is a typical state, is attempting to educate one-third of the nation's children with one-sixth of the nation's school revenue. An annual expenditure of 250 millions of dollars would be required to bring the average expenditures per pupil up to the national average. This lack of funds has resulted in shorter terms, fewer grades, less school property and equipment and underpaid teachers.

Next week I will point out other problems and factors that are working against the South's agriculture. It is only through an understanding of our conditions that we can make any progress in improvement.

Kudzu For Eroded Land And Hay

Many farmers in the Soil Conservation Area near Clanton, are planning to retire eroded areas in their cultivated fields to kudzu before the next planting season, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Supt.

With proper planting, proper land preparation, fertilization, and first-year cultivation, kudzu will provide permanent protection to severely eroded areas and will afford additional hay for feed. Layden series is another perennial well adapted for erosion control and hay production in perennial field strips.

When kudzu is used in field plantings, rows of kudzu may be interplanted with a row crop the first year. This will insure cultivation for the kudzu and provide a return from the row crop on the land the first year. By the second year the kudzu will spread over the intervening spaces.

Farmers in the area who had kudzu in the third growing season this year harvested excellent yields of hay in addition to the protection the kudzu afforded their land. Some of the farmers who harvested or graded kudzu hay this year were: C. C. Cofer, J. N. Dennis, R. M. Foshee, J. D. Haggard, O. H. Lawrence and Dr. H. M. Nix.

Lespedeza For Erosion Control

Annual lespedeza left on the land two years gives much better control of erosion than one year's growth, according to James H. Wood, of the Soil Conservation Service area, near here.

Many farmers in the area have mowed hay and others are harvesting seed this fall from two-year strips of lespedeza established as part of the regular strip rotation system on their farms, Mr. Wood said.

In many cases farmers are producing enough hay from perennial strips of kudzu and lespedeza to provide their winter feed requirements and are leaving the annual lespedeza on the land to control erosion and to be turned under in the spring for soil improvement.

Even when a two-year old growth of lespedeza is mowed, the stubble left on the land provides considerable protection against erosion. A new practice that is gaining favor is the sowing of rye or small grain or lespedeza stubble, which will give added protection to the soil, utilize the available nitrogen and may provide winter grazing.

Farmers who are following approved strip crop rotation are planning next spring to sow annual lespedeza on grain strips planted on row cropland this fall. The lespedeza strips sown on grain will provide protection against erosion as the old strips of lespedeza are followed with row crops in the spring. This is a three-year strip rotation of row crop, small grain, and lespedeza two years.

There are five broom factories in Alabama that manufactured brooms at $166,436.00 in 1935.

APRIL 15, 1926 ISSUE OF CHRONICLE HAS LETTER OF INTEREST

April 15, 1926, issue of the Rockford Chronicle, which was, at that time published by Wallace F. Fruit at Rockford, Ala., was brought to the News office recently by Arnold Wyatt, local youth, who stated the paper belonged to his aunt, Mrs. Eulilia Hull, also of Clanton.

This issue of the Chronicle carries a letter, purported to have been written by the Savior and found at the foot of His cross. The Chronicle clipped the article from an issue of the Greenville, Tenn. Times, which stated the letter was handed to them by Mrs. Ruby Crutchfield of Trezevant, Tenn., who stated that bad luck had followed her since it came into her possession, after being handed down from generation to generation.

The contents of the letter is composed of commandments set out by the Savior, coupled with an injunction which says the letter must be published by the holder or the holder will be bound by bad luck all of his or her life. The letter and its history is rather lengthy, and interesting, and we are sorry lack of space prevents us from reprinting it.

University, Ala.—An atmosphere of real battle over the campus of the University of Alabama this week, when a detachment of the 69th Coast Artillery demonstrates modern fighting equipment to both basic and advanced students in the Reserve Officers Training Corps unit.

A searchlight demonstration was given Monday night, November 7th, by the Coast Artillery seniors.

The United States Housing Authority (USHA) was created in the United States Housing Act of 1937 and came into being November 1, 1937. Nathan Straus is Administrator of the United States Housing Authority, which has as its program the lending of 90 percent of the cost of slum-clearance and low rent housing projects for slum dwellers in the lowest income brackets.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) was established by Act of Congress, June 1934. Stewart McDonald is the Federal Housing Administrator. Federal Housing Administration loans no money but insures mortgages for the construction of homes by aid for private individuals.

In brief, the United States Housing Authority functions as follows: Deals with public housing agencies only. These are generally called Housing Authorities.

Make loans and grants for capital cost of slum-clearance projects and makes annual contributions in form of subsidies to assure the low-rent character of the project.

Promotes building by cities at rentals that slum dwellers can pay.

Addresses itself solely to housing for the under-privileged one third of the population.

Those who have not paid their membership fee, are urged to be ready when the workers call. The work will continue up to and including Thanksgiving Day, which is next Thursday, November 24th. Let us all strive to make a still better showing for Chilton County. Chilton County this year is expected to break all previous records in number of memberships. Following is a paragraph from a State Press Release concerning Chilton County's part in the Roll Call:

"Among the sections of the State planning on a sharp increase in enrollment this year is the strip right at mid-Alabama, comprised of areas covered by Chapters of Chilton, Coosa, North Bibb, North Perry at Marion, Shelby, South Perry at Uniontown and South Bibb at Centerville.

"Chilton, which last year made a highly creditable showing, this year is conducting one of the most active campaigns in the state under the direction of J. Mell Martin of Clanton. Chilton last year was in the upper bracket in the State but Chairman Martin is not satisfied and has set as his goal a much larger increase which will fit in with the statewide objective of a forty percent increase this year."

There are 37 railroads serving the people of Alabama. These lines have a total of 5,399 miles and they penetrate every county in the State. The first railroad built in Alabama was in 1830 and was less than two miles in length. It was built to haul river freight around Muscle Shoals.

QUINN GIVES RULES FOR THE SAFETY OF ALA. SPORTSMEN

Montgomery, Ala.—(AP)—Rules of safety for hundreds of Alabama sportsmen, who will go afield in search of game, were cited recently by L. T. Quinn, state conservation commissioner.

The State Health Department reported 16 persons were killed in hunting accidents in Alabama last year. Quinn gave 12 "cardinal principles" for handling guns, in the hope such of these deaths may be avoided. They are:

1. Do not load your gun until you reach your hunting grounds.
2. Always unload before climbing a fence and never lean a loaded gun up against anything.
3. Never carry your gun with the safety catch off.
4. Never put your hand on the muzzle of your gun.
5. Never rest the muzzle on the ground.
6. Never jump a ditch with a loaded gun.
7. Do not load your gun in the house.
8. Do not carry a loaded gun in an automobile or on a horse.
9. Unload your gun before entering a boat and never load in a moving boat.
10. Never point a gun at anybody.
11. Never point your gun at any object unless you intend to shoot.
12. Never shoot at a question mark—it might be a man or a woman.

ONE OUT OF EIGHT ALABA- MIANS OWNS AN AUTOMOBILE

In Alabama one out of every eight persons owns an automobile. The average for the United States is one out of every four persons. There are seven States that have an automobile to every three persons. They are Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, and Wyoming.

There are three states, California, Nevada and Oregon, in which there is more than one automobile to three persons, or about one car to every two and one-half persons. In Arkansas there is one auto to every eight and one-half persons and in Mississippi it is one to every ten persons.

It will be noted that the greatest percentage of autos to population is in the Western States.

MRS. SARTOR SUCCUMBS AT HOME HERE

Pioneer Resident Of Clanton
Dies Suddenly Last Thursday A.M.

Mrs. Mary Bell Sartor, age 68, widow of the late W. H. Sartor, died at her home here last Thursday morning at 6:30. She had been in failing health for several years, but her death came unexpectedly, and as a shock to her many friends everywhere.

Mrs. Sartor arose Thursday morning, but had been up only a few minutes until suddenly becoming ill, she lay back down on the bed, where she died within a few moments.

The Sartors were pioneer residents of Clanton, and had contributed greatly to its growth in years past. Mr. Sartor died last July in almost the same manner in which Mrs. Sartor passed away. Mrs. Sartor is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Barney Roberts and Mr. L. C. Ross, both of Clanton; two brothers, Lee Watts and George Watts, of Rayville, La.; one sister, Miss Callie Watts, of Clanton. She is also survived by several grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3:00 from the home with the Rev. Marvin Truett, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church, and the Rev. Oscar Davis, pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, officiating. J. Mel Martin & Sons in charge of burial, which took place in the Clanton cemetery.

Palbearers were friends of the family, H. T. Pipes, M. L. White, Percy M. Pitts, W. W. Wingard, J. Wiley Littlejohn and Ben J. Sessions.

RECORDS SHOW LARGE NUMBER TAGS BOUGHT

Number Of Licenses To Operate Vehicles May Exceed 1937-38

Chilton County vehicle owners trekked to the Judge of Probate's office at the courthouse between October 1 and November 15 and purchased 2,393 tags, allowing them to operate these vehicles during the coming year.

Records at the office of Tax Assessor A. D. Martin showed that there were 195 motor vehicles on which no county, county or state taxes were paid, and these vehicles were purchased after April 1.

Records in Mr. Martin's office show that approximately fifty vehicles had been assessed since November 15th, with the penalty being paid by their owners.

Types of motor vehicles for which tags were purchased, are as follows:

Passenger cars, 1,684; 131 of these required no city, county or state taxes.

Trucks, 664; 61 of these required no city, county or state taxes.

Ambulances, 4; 1 of these required no taxes.

Motorcycles, 3, all requiring taxes.

Trailers, 37; 2 of these required no taxes.

The number of tags to be purchased during the fiscal year 1938-39, is expected to exceed the number purchased during the 1937-38 fiscal year. This number was 3,001.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith stated this week that the number of tags purchased during the last two or three days before November 15th, the final day before penalty was, he felt sure, more than any year previous since he has occupied that office.

Prominent speakers from Montgomery will be on hand to speak to the group, and every member is urged to be present, on Wednesday (tonight) instead of Thursday.

Bankhead Spoke To Large Crowd Here

Senator J. H. Bankhead, of Jasper, Alabama, spoke to a huge crowd of Clanton County farmers at the courthouse last Friday morning. The public mass system which was used, enabled those unable to secure room in the building to hear the speech.

Senator Bankhead discussed the cotton program which has been in effect in the past and the proposed program for the coming year, which will be voted upon by the farmers December 10. He also talked on the importance of controlling the amount of cotton raised. He explained the reason for the huge surplus in this country at the present time.

DR. S. J. EZELL OUT AGAIN FOLLOWING AN OPERATION

Friends of Dr. S. J. Ezell are glad to see him out following an operation in a Montgomery hospital.

Dr. Ezell's condition has improved rapidly since the operation, and he will be able to return to his work within the very near future.

Kiwanians Hear Pro- gram On N. E. W.

A most interesting program, in charge of President Patterson Hicks, relative to the observance of National Education Week, was rendered last Thursday night at the meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Prof. Hicks gave excerpts from the report of the National Emergency Council made to the President several months ago regarding the existing conditions in the South. He pointed out the lack of money for educational purposes as compared to the North and other sections of the country.

J. C. Page, incoming president of the Club, presided at the meeting. The Club has as its guest, Prof. Rassadex Moxley, of Thorby, recently elected at County Superintendent of Education. Mr. Moxley talked briefly to the Club, expressing his appreciation for the display of interest in education in this County by the Club, and the cooperation he feels sure he will get from this organization.

Repeat Of Absentee Ballot Law Favored In Grand Jury Report

STATE OF ALABAMA
CHILTON COUNTY

To Hon. Arthur Glover as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the Grand Jury for the July Term Special session, have completed our investigation of all matters that we felt needed our attention at this time and herewith submit the following report:

During of investigation we have considered eighteen cases and have examined 40 witness and are returning herewith ten true bills.

There have been rumors of widespread fraud and violation of the election laws in the primary elections held in the County during this year. We have made an effort to make an investigation into these rumors and charges that have been current over the County. To this end we had before us several witnesses, but were unable to get evidence from any source that would warrant us in returning true bills against anyone. We, therefore, have not returned any true bills with reference to election law. (Continued to Back Page)

C. C. H. S. BASKETBALL TEAM TO PLAY OZARK HILL BILLIES

The Chilton County High School Basketball Team has scheduled a game with the Ozark Mountain Hill Billies for December 14th, according to Coach Dewey Cox, who last year turned out one of the district high school teams in this district.

The Ozark Hill Billies are nationally known, and is an all-girl team, and in a way, like the famous House of David Team. They are considered the tops in entertainment, with their goody antics. These girls play straight men's basketball, using their rules, asking no odd or no special conditions. They are considered the most beautiful uniformed team in the world.

This team is owned by C. M. Olson, who owned the Olson Swedes, famous team of several years back. Their Christmas Carnival is in Crossville, Tenn. and when they meet the C. C. H. S. boys December 14, a large crowd is expected to turn out for the game.

Give Thanks--

Scarcely had the Pilgrims settled in the Bay Colony three hundred and eighteen years ago when the terrible New England winter descended upon them.

Only half of the party survived the hardships and suffering of that first year. Those who were spared carried on like the dauntless pioneers they were, lived and prospered.

Give thanks for the example set us so many years ago. The homely virtues of self-discipline and perseverance are still the unfailing source of abundant prosperity.

ISABELLA DEFEATED BY MA- PLESVILLE FRIDAY, 18TH, 21-14

The Isabella Mustangs lost the final game of the season Friday to the Maplesville team. The outstanding feature of the game was a brilliant display of passing on the part of the Isabella backs. Austin Kinler starred for the Mustangs through his tenacious ability to grasp the pigskin thrown by Davis and Middlebrooks. As to yardage gained by line and end around plays, the Maplesville team held the edge, but in aerial attack the Mustangs showed their superiority.

The final score was 21-14 in the townsmen's favor, however, both sides made the game thrilling from the beginning.

MISS ARMSTRONG SPONSOR AT HOWARD-SOUTHERN GAME

Miss Mary Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Armstrong of Clanton, was selected as sponsor for the Howard-Southern football game played in Birmingham last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Armstrong attends Howard College where she is a sophomore this term. This is quite an honor for her young lady, that of sponsor for her college team. Miss Armstrong was also selected to ride on the float previous to the game, and rendered selections at the piano at the reception held. The high average in her work combined with her charming personality made possible her selection for these honors.

BUSINESS MEN OF CITY SEND C. C. H. S. BOYS TO GAME SAT.

Several business men of Clanton voluntarily paid for the transportation of the members of the C. C. H. S. Football Team to Birmingham last Saturday to see the Birmingham Southern-Howard game played there.

Admission to the game was also paid by these men as a compliment to their splendid playing this season, which the boys brought to a close when they defeated the Columbiana boys here last Friday. This was a most generous move on the part of these public spirited men.

C. C. H. S. Closes Sea- son With Columbiana

With a 30-14 victory over the Columbiana eleven here last Friday afternoon, the Clanton County High School Tigers brought to a close a most successful season.

The Tigers have played nine games this season, losing only two, and are to be commended. The game last Friday featured the sensational running of Earl "Snowy" Melton, who made two long runs for two of the touchdowns. Every member of the team did himself credit in this final game.

*Following is a list of the games played this season and the score in each game:

Verbena, 33-0; Isabella, 7-0; Maplesville, 13-0; Montevallo, 13-0; Lanier, B, 13-6; Sylvauga, 13-19; Wetumpka, 13-0; Hotville, 7-13; Columbiana, 30-14.

Legion Auxiliary Here Is Rapidly Growing

The Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary is rapidly growing. It has been organized a little over a month with twenty-three paid up active members. All officers and chairmen have been named.

Membership in the Auxiliary is limited to women who direct personal connection with World War service through a member of their immediate family who served with the armed forces during the War, or through their own service with the armed forces. Upon establishment of eligibility, such women may become members of a local unit. Any woman is also a member of the State Department and the National organizations, just as a citizen of Alabama and the United States. By the payment of dues in the local unit, a member also contributes to the support of the states and national organizations.

All women who are eligible to membership in the Auxiliary come under one of the following classifications:

Mothers, wives, sisters, or daughters of men and women who were in the military or naval service of the United States between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918, and who died in line of duty or after honorable discharge.

For the next two weeks the Unit is making an extension drive for membership. Any who are interested in joining will be welcomed at the next meeting on December 5th, at 7:00 o'clock in the City Hall. An interesting program is being planned. The Legion will join the Auxiliary for the social hour.

Mrs. Marlar is formerly of Grove Hill, Ala., and is a graduate of the Alabama College, Montevallo.

Mr. Marlar is at present located in Birmingham, where he is serving in the distribution department of the Alabama Power Company. He was formerly with the local operations division of this company, stationed at Montevallo.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE DRIVE TO BEGIN THURSDAY

Drive To Begin Thanksgiving And Last Until Christmas; Fights T.B.

Thanksgiving Day is the day set for the opening of this year's Christmas Seal Sale Campaign. Proceeds from the sale of these seals will go to aid tubercular people in the county and state. The campaign will continue until Christmas, according to Leroy Martin, executive secretary of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association, which recently elected new officers for the new year. Mr. Martin is in charge of the drive.

This is a most worthy cause and deserves the support of every citizen of the County.

In addition to the usual seal sale, this year will see the sale of bangles, which are to be pinned to the coat or dress of those buying. Seals are being mailed out over the county this week, and those receiving them are asked to send their remittance in the enclosed stamped envelope. If they are unable to take the seals they are asked to return the balance. The envelope is addressed to Louie Smith, who has been elected treasurer this year.

Every school teacher in the county is being mailed 100 seals to be offered to the students and their parent for sale. Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, is president of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association with Patterson Hicks as vice-president. They have expressed the hope that Chilton County citizen will respond generously this year.

Secretary Martin stated this week that if anyone in the County fails to receive these seals, or is not contacted by one of the workers, they should not feel slighted, and that seals may be procured by calling the office of J. Mel Martin & Sons.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL DRIVE ENDS THANKSGIVING

Final Check-Up Expected To Show Chilton Going Over Quota

Chilton County's 1938 Red Cross Roll Call, headed by Roll Call Chairman J. Mel Martin, will come to a close on Thanksgiving Day. It is hoped that the end of the call will find Chilton County going above her quota, which has been set at 450.

Reasonably good response has been met so far, but there are many yet who should enlist in this most worthy cause, according to Mr. Martin. Many firms and organizations over the county have joined 50 percent since the beginning of the drive.

More Firms Make Honor Roll
Added to the list of firms becoming one hundred percent members and thus getting on the Honor Roll, besides those published last week, are the following: County Health Unit, Peoples Savings Bank, Dr. H. M. Nix, Maplesville.

Mr. Martin stated that although the time for memberships closes Thursday, anyone wishing to contribute would not be denied the privilege, as there is really no closed season for becoming a member of the Red Cross.

A complete report of this year's work will be made in next week's papers, allowing time for a complete check-up.

ONE BEFORE MAYOR CHARGED WITH PUBLIC DRUNKENNESS

One person came before Mayor C. Fern Jones last Monday morning charged with public drunkenness. He was fined $8 and costs.

NEWS DAY EARLY THIS WEEK

The Chilton County News comes to you one day early this week, due to the fact that no mail will go out on the rural routes Thursday, which is Thanksgiving. Every member of the Chilton County News staff extends you best wishes for a happy Thanksgiving.

—The Publisher.

Chilton County News is thankful because it is located in the best Town, in the best County, in the Best State, in the best Nation on Earth.

Cotton Essential In Preparedness Program

While the Federal Government is spending millions on millions for preparedness against the possible invasion of a beligerent enemy, by storing up various and sundry war materials, bought at high prices from the millionaire munitions manufacturers, it is striving frantically to have the cotton acreage of the South reduced in order that production may be lowered.

Now everybody who knows anything, knows that cotton is one of the prime essentials in fighting a successful war, and it seems to us that the sensible thing for the Government to do would be to buy every surplus bale of cotton available and convert them into preparedness products. This would at once solve the over production problem.

There is no more reason why the metal industries should be working overtime, piling up war supplies to be stored away, than there is for cotton products to be stored away for the same purpose.

If this nation were to be suddenly plunged into a war, (and just that thing has happened before), the Government at Washington would be calling on the farmers within twenty-four hours to produce every bale of cotton possible to be used in the nation's defense.

The Lost Leader, And A Shattered Idol

There was a time, a little more than a decade ago, when Charles A. Lindberg could have had almost anything within the gift of the American people. He was Popular Hero Number One, and nobody else came anywhere near his acclaim. But Lindberg did not relish the role of help. He found out that he did not like the limelight he had deliberately, although perhaps unwittingly, won. Finally he left the country. That move to England, the American public could accept because of the tragedy of the first Lindberg baby.

But the public favor dropped rapidly when Lindberg accepted a medal from the Nazi Government and was reported to have praised German efficiency. The present temper of the American public does not make idols of those who accept favors from the strutting tyrants of Berlin.

And now comes a report that the Lindbergs are seeking to take an apartment in Berlin for the winter. The report prompts The Montgomery Advertiser the comment that if all Lindbergs wants in this country is to be let alone, he could come back in perfect ease now, because no self-respecting American citizen "of any sense and dignity" will go about him.

In one box in Lee County there were six election officers and only five votes showed up in the tabulations. If a man is going to draw pay for holding an election in Alabama he ought to be made to vote. Three dollars each for six officers is too high to pay for five votes in a general election. In a primary election one dollar and a pint will usually get votes but in a general election in Alabama a gallon of sorghum should be the limit.—LaFayette Sun. And we were thinking all the time that Chilton was the only County having election problems to solve.

After running a newspaper for thirty-five years, Smith Deal, Dathan editor, says he aims to make some arrangement with St. Peter to turn away some of his delinquent subscribers at the Pearly Gates—Alexander City Outlook. What Deal wants is a new kind of a "New Deal".

A Billion For Defense

The news of President Roosevelt's armament program is news which we all are and should be interested in, especially when such power-mad dictators as Hitler have the leading European nations bowing to his will and granting his requests.

Of course, the program has not been definitely mapped out, but it is expected that an appropriation of between $300,000,000 and a billion dollars will be asked to be added to the billion already in the budget for the fiscal year. This is to be spent on a navy and air program to protect our shores.

We are a people who believe in peace, but we like to be able to defend our ideas of peace by being well prepared to protect our shores against invasion. Realizing it is a costly plan to keep a heavy armament program, yet we should keep abreast with the changing conditions among the European nations and contemplate any possibility of having to bow to any other nation.

We would say "millions for defense, but not a dime for offense".—Lineville Tribune.

Be thankful that you are living in Chilton County, Alabama, on this good Thanksgiving Day.

Washington writers are predicting a "business boom" will start within sixty days. All right, let 'er come.

The rain has come and Chilton County farmers for a while are going to forget the propagandists and take care of their fall plowing.

It is said that as a part of the government's rearmament plans, development of aircraft engines as powerful as locomotives are under way.

Any civil law of any state or nation which grants special privilege to one class of citizens while denying the same privilege to others, is undemocratic.

We know of no county where the Republicans will die harder than Chilton, if they are defeated again.—Luverne Journal. But, dadgummit, they weren't defeated.

Try as we may, we Americans can't ride ourselves rich in motor vehicles, nor can we spend ourselves out-of debt through borrowing.

Opportunity, the mud-sill of lasting independence, is always found at the bottom. Energy is required to progress upward. The laziest lout in the community can fall off the house-top without effort.

Frank M. Dixon, Democratic candidate for Governor, led the ticket in Chilton County General Election November 8th with 2356 votes. J. D. Rockett, Republican candidate for Tax Assessor, came second with 2302 votes.

ALABAMA EDITORS SAY

Pitts For Posey

Last four years Winston County's John Posey has been the only Republican in Alabama's Legislature. Last week he got beat, but the next House still will have a lone GOPer on its roster. Clanton's able Percy Pitts, running on the Republican ticket for Chilton County's seat, squeezed through to regain the place he held in Benjamin Meek Miller's administration.—Alabama Magazine.

You can't convince many people that our country's broke when they see the immense crowds attending football games over the week ends.—Prattville Progress.

The Dooly Yams have been gathered and housed, and it has been open season on the O'possum since October the 1st—good eating. Yeah.—Luverne Journal.

Hoping and waiting and also working for something that you will never get is better than not hoping at all. A man without hope is as bad off as an airplane would be without a motor.—Montgomery Weekly.

One Crenshaw farmer who lives a few miles from Luverne, brought and sold 26 hogs at the hog sale Tuesday. The 25 hogs weighed 5,465 lbs. or an average of a little over 210 lbs. This farmer received a check for $349.76, which will no doubt come in good at this time of year. This farmer stated that he kept enough hogs to supply his family plenty of meat. We mention the above to prove that there is money in raising hogs.—Luverne Journal.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND
WE NOMINATE THIS ONE—

As the best laugh of the season, we nominate the following, clipped from the front page of the Union-Banner, issue of November 17, 1938. The Union-Banner is jubilant over the results of the recent election, and we hardly blame them, but the following paragraph contains information which we observe by the Banner, that should be in some oddity section, like Ripley's "Believe It Or Not"—but we understand proof has to be furnished with statements made in this department, and proof that Republicans and prosperity go hand in hand—well, maybe they mean hand in hand like it did back in 1930 and 1931. Here it is:

Immediate Effect Felt
"Within 24 hours after it was announced that Chilton County had gone Republican last Tuesday, cotton jumped two and three dollars a bale, and Wall Street stock markets began to hum and soar with new life and alacrity. This is nothing new, however, because it is generally known that the Republican Party and which we hand in hand. It happens every time."

THE C. C. H. S. TIGERS—

The Chilton County High School Tigers are due commendation for their splendid playing during the season just past. F. H. Spicer, coach of this bunch of boys, is also due a great part of the praise for the success of the 1938 team. The boys won seven out of nine games this season, and we believe fair play was in every play they made in every game, making it an even more successful season. We extend congratulations.

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE—

Thanksgiving Day will be the beginning of the Christmas Seal Sale Campaign, the proceeds from the sale of which will go to aid Chilton's Tuberculosis children. Proper treatment of this dreaded disease by medical authorities can greatly reduce the number of cases in our County. Your purchases of these Christmas Seals will help some in the fight against Tuberculosis.

TALK ABOUT A CROWD—

The Tax Assessor, Tax Collector and Judge of Probate offices saw business pick up November 14, but we expect the clerks in these offices would like to see this business more evenly distributed each year. There are always people who wait until the last day before a penalty is placed on the tags, before they buy. Part of this can be remedied and part cannot. Some tag-buyers find it hard to raise the money by the last day, and some wait until the last day, thinking maybe something will happen and they'll get out of buying the tag. S'funny world.

FOOTBALL—

Football is on the fade-out, and basketball is making it debut for this season. We have heard much about the prospects for the C. C. H. S. Team for this season, but if they can play basketball this season like they did last year, Clanton will have another cracker-jack good team. Mitchell Dam is coming forth with another championship team this year, and Manager Steve Stanley expresses the opinion his boys are stronger than ever this time. We're looking forward to the game March 13, when they meet the "House of David". These bewhiskered gentlemen are about the only ones that are able to turn the heat on the Dammers, but of course that's expected. Wouldn't there be a celebration should Mitchell Dam defeat the "House of David"? Anyway, we're looking forward to some good basketball teams in Chilton County this season.

TURKEY AND FOOTBALL GAME—

The News is out one day early this week and Ye Old Observer and the rest of the force of the News proceed to wash off the printers ink and get ready for a grand and glorious Thanksgiving. We'll be on the scene when Alabama meets Vanderbilt, but previous to that we'll be around when that turkey is served. We're wishing you all Turkey A-Plenty and an all 'round happy Thanksgiving.

D. W. Haskew
It was a cold morning and it was my duty to start the fire. The night before rich kindling had been provided. On just a fifty I had a roaring blaze. On another occasion I was my duty to start the fire, but no one had provided rich kindling and all I had was some soggy wood. It is useless for me to say that no fire could be started. As Christians we are constantly praying for God to start a revival fire in our own hearts and in our church. If we will only provide the fuel that will burn under the power of the Spirit, it will not take long for God to have His altar blazing with power. The truth of the matter is that we provide such soggy timber for a revival fire, that it is just out of the question for God to get a blaze on His altar. When we provide the inflammable timber God will set us on fire.

While I was in school each student was supposed to have a sponge in his school bag. When we were ordered to the black board we would take our sponge and wipe the board clean. I saw nicely the sponge would wipe out the figures on the board and leave it clean. One preacher inquired of another, "Do you suppose that Rev. Beatum will ever wipe out those debts that he has left behind?" The reply was, "No, he isn't that kind of a sponge." Ask yourself, "Am I the kind of a sponge that wipes out all of my debts?" If not you are a mighty sorry sponge.

A young lady who thought herself to be somewhat was talking to her pastor about a new family. The pastor was using her to visit the young lady in the home and show her some attention. With a tilted nose and scornful look, she replied, "They are quite ordinary people, aren't they?" "Yes," replied the pastor, "they are quite ordinary people. They keep their engagements, attend church regularly, eat plain, wholesome food, stay at home at night, pay their bills and have family prayer." That was one time the pastor was glad to let the chips fall. The real folks in any community are the folks who pay their bills and live like Christians.

Tell me why it is that when a fellow borrows money from you he will generally cross the street to keep from meeting you? Mr. Ducker borrowed ten dollars from Mr. Wiseman and one day they met face to face. Ducker knew that he was going to be asked for the money and tried to beat his creditor to the bush by asking, "Excuse me, what was the denomination of that bill you loaned me?" Mr. Wiseman replied, "Episcopalian, I suppose, as it keeps lent very well."

One day a man owed me five dollars and he said to me, "Parson, if I live I will bring that that money on next Saturday." Sunday morning I called up the Undertaker and offered my services in the funeral of this brother. He finally shouted over the phone, "Why, the man is not dead. I saw him pass the place this morning." I informed the man by way of explaining myself, "That man said that if he lived he would pay me the five dollars that he owed me, and he did not do that I thought that he might have died." Here is what the undertaker said as he hung up the phone, "He lied, and died." If you have a recipe to prevent folks from telling a falsehood about paying a debt, wish that you would have it published. Here is my recipe, "Do not lend and do not borrow." The credit system is ruining our country.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer

Any program which increases the acreage of cotton increases the labor of women and children in the fields of the South. It has been estimated that one-fourth of the labor needed to produce a sizable cotton crop is by women and children, and cotton farmers well know that the proportion is greater when the acreage is increased. Conditions that put women and children in the fields in greater numbers go hand in hand with poorer living standards.

Farmers should bear in mind that they can make very little, if any, use of "the foreign market" for cotton at four or five cents per pound. Sale of our cotton at four or five cents per pound to foreigners would be subsidizing them at our expense. Such a price for cotton brings into existence the height of exploitation of both soil and human resources.

There is another important factor that cotton farmers should keep in mind. In considering a farm program based on "parity on domestic consumption." For the 10 year period, 1926-27 to 1935-36, about 43 percent of the cotton produced in the United States was consumed domestically—that is in the United States. For the same period 89.6 percent of corn and 87.4 percent of wheat produced in the United States was consumed in the United States. These figures indicate that "parity on domestic consumption" means parity on less than half of the cotton crop for cotton farmers and parity on most or all of the wheat and corn crop for the farmer who produces these crops. Cotton farmers have a right to continue to fight for a program the aim of which is to give them parity on a normal year's domestic consumption and exports.

Who are the active proponents of this proposed substitute plan? Oddly enough (or, as to be expected) very few farmers, those who toil in the fields with their families have been found advocating the domestic allotment plan but a great deal of interest has been manifested by certain individuals or groups of individuals who are picked and leaves the hands and ownership of the producer. There are certain processes, handlings, and services that a bale of cotton goes through on the way from the farm to the spinning mill for which a fixed charge is made and the more the bales there are to handle the more charges can be collected for such services. Not only that but as the price of cotton goes lower carrying to some extent the prices of other commodities down with it, the relative purchasing power of a dollar fixed charge is increased. There is therefore some reason for interest on the part of some individuals and groups for more bales of cotton and a cheaper price per pound though this is a rather vicious blow below the belt to the farmers, who, because of lack of information, are misled by such reasoning, especially in view of the fact that the Southern farmers have the lowest income, and therefore the least opportunity to provide a satisfactory living and keep properly abreast of the times in which they live of any group in this country.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

HAVE you tried unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice for breakfast? Youngsters as well as husbands like its natural field-fresh flavor. Its sunny color and zesty taste. Mothers like it also because they know that fruit juices are important in the diet all year round and natural pineapple juice, pressed from sun-ripened fruit, is a good source of vitamins A—B—C and important mineral elements. It's so easy to serve these busy mornings when lunch boxes must be packed and youngsters hurried off to school. Chill the juice in the refrigerator overnight and to serve, merely pierce the can and pour the juice into glasses.

For family use it is practical to buy a large can of unsweetened pineapple juice. The natural sugar content of unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice makes this beverage a refreshing pick-me-up for lagging energy. School children as well as adults who are hungry in mid-afternoon will find their energy quickly increased and hunger appeased after drinking a glass of pure pineapple juice. Consumption of fruit juice between meals is preferable to other in-between-snacks because it does not spoil the appetite for luncheon or dinner.

Crimson Tide Plays Only One More Game

University, Ala.—With but one game left on its schedule (Vanderbilt on Thanksgiving Day), the Crimson Tide takes a rest this Saturday and is not scheduled to play.

The final game of the 1938 season will pit Vanderbilt and the Tide in a traditional battle which will be staged on Birmingham's Legion Field on Thanksgiving Day. This will be the 18th meeting of the two teams and the Tide took the upper-hand in the series with a victory last year. The series now stands, Bama won 9; Vanderbilt won 8.

So far this season, the Tide backs have swept over a mile of gridiron on running plays. The total yardage gained by the Tide on running and passing plays totals 1,925. The opposing teams have penetrated the Bama line for only 386 yards on running plays and been able to gather but 221 yards through passes.

The Tide secondary is especially alert on pass defense, statistic show, for the Bama back have intercepted 17 aerials thrown by their foes and allowed 20 of 62 passes to be completed over their positions.

In first downs, Alabama has picked up 96 counters to 28 for the opposing teams. Only five extra points have been missed by the Bama boys, having made 14 out of a possible 19 attempts.

COTTON REPORT

Census report shows that there were 9,788 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1938 prior to November 1, as compared with 18,214 bales ginned prior to November 1, crop of 1937.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR JOHN GILES LAST FRIDAY

The death of Mr. John Giles, affectionately known by many relatives and friends throughout the State as "Uncle John", occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George E. Brown, in Thorsby, Tuesday night of last week.

Mr. Giles passed his eighty-ninth birthday one month before he died and until a short while ago he was active and in good health. Despite his advanced age he retained remarkably well memories of Civil War days and the reconstruction period long before Clanton existed.

His death reminds us that the ranks of our pioneers are rapidly thinning. He will long be remembered as a model citizen and a beloved character in Chilton County, where he spent his entire life.

Funeral services were held at the Mineral Springs Baptist Church Thursday morning. Services were conducted by the Rev. W. S. Cox, assisted by Rev. Truett, with burial in the family cemetery, beside his wife, "Aunt Nannie", who preceded him in death twelve years ago.

Funeral services were held at the Sherman and Alex, of Clanton; Albert of Mineola, Texas; one sister, Mrs. William Waggoner, also of Texas; his daughter, one son, A. L. Giles; seven grand sons, three grand daughters and four great grandchildren.

RESULTS OF TESTS ON LEGUMES GIVEN OUT RECENTLY

Dry weather has hampered winter legume planting in Alabama but there is still time to plant, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising that numerous requests have come to him regarding the fertilizer to be applied.

Tests for nine years by the Alabama Experiment Station in all sections of the State have shown that basic slag, rock phosphate, superphosphate, and triple superphosphate have been best sources of phosphorus and best legume fertilizers. Basic slag gave an average increase of 4,017 pounds of vetch over check plot; superphosphate, gave 3,952; triple superphosphate gave 3,937; and rock phosphate gave 2,978. Colloidal phosphate gave the least increase of all over no phosphate, 2,075. Experimenters have proved that most Alabama soils need phosphorus for good crop production, including legumes, he said.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton!

IVESTOCK URE ORE & LOGIC

By Tom McCord
Union Stockyards, Montgomery

At this season of the year the one thing that is uppermost in the minds of good cattlemen is the wintering of their herds. To some, of course, this is of little importance as this class of people will follow along the line of least resistance and as soon as they have harvested every mouthful of grain, hay and fodder, they open the old gates and bid them "goodbye" until spring time begins to freshen up the meadows and the neighbors begin to put in their crops.

This system has served its time and taken its toll in Alabama and the cattlemen who is making an earnest effort to "paddle his boat upstream" instead of drift along down stream has a definite plan to care for his stock when it is well nigh impossible for them to take care of themselves.

Mr. John Hetham in the Hereford Journal quotes a young herdsman who "hit the nail on the head" when he congratulated him on the manner in which he was wintering his breeding herd. The young man's reply was, "Any fool should know it is cheaper and easier to maintain condition than to let the herd run down in the Fall and try to make it up on winter feed. We have tried both ways and know the economy of never losing the milk fat on young things or grass fat on our older cattle. Besides, there is the satisfaction of being able, any day, to show your herd to visitors without apologies that don't help the cattle and simply confirm the visitor's opinion of your short-sighted, short-handed caretaker."

When a man places his brand on a critter he not only declares ownership of it, he also accepts the responsibility of its welfare. It is indeed poor business to let a herd of cows go to skeletons in the winter months and then suffer the penalty of a cut price on the calf crop when it is harvested. Invariably is the man who has wintered his cows hard who is dissatisfied with his returns from the year in the cattle business.

We usually get out of any business just about what we put in it. Care for the cows this winter better than ever before and have the quality that brings a profit next summer when you go to market.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

Last of a Series

What Makes Alabama Power Company Electric Service Better Than 99% DEPENDABLE?

Ordinarily, when you hear of something spoken of as 99% perfect, you're inclined to consider it pretty good. But did you ever stop to think that if your Alabama Power Company electric service were only 99% good, there would be 87 hours and 36 minutes, or nearly 4 whole days and nights each year, when your electric service would be off? Contrast this with the rare and brief occasions when you experience an interruption to your electric service.

What makes Alabama Power Company electric service so dependable? Even the finest power plants, the most rugged transmission lines, the best equipment cannot, of themselves, supply you with adequate service at low cost. There must be an ideal of service behind them. That this ideal exists you know if it has been your opportunity to learn of the performance of many Alabama Power Company employees in cases of emergency. That same ideal of reliability is what inspires the effort toward constant improvement and installation of devices on Alabama Power Company electric system to keep your electric service as nearly perfect as possible—more perfect than a mere 99%.

The part some of the more interesting of these devices (they're really mechanical marvels) play in helping keep your Alabama Power Company electric service dependable is described in an interesting booklet which is yours for the asking. Write Dept. 319.

Music Appreciation Club Holds November Meeting

The November meeting of The Music Appreciation Club was held at the Baptist Church on November 15th.

The big vases of bright autumn leaves by the altar filled the auditorium with a thanksgiving atmosphere that fitted well the religious theme of the afternoon's program.

The president, Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., presided over the business meeting. The most important matter of the lengthy meeting was the report given by Mrs. Grady Heflin, chairman of the committee that met with Mayor C. Penn Jones to select a curtain for the stage of the City Hall. She announced that Mayor Jones had ordered a very modern and lovely curtain.

The members were urged to attend the next choral practice on December 7th at the home of Mrs. Henry Stanley.

A paper, "Oratorio In The Time of Bach and Handel," was given by Mrs. Barney Roberts. The description of Handel's "Messiah" was so vivid that one could almost hear the words of the lovely arias.

Miss Grace Ezell gave the following organ solos: "The Swan," Saint Saens; "Audente," (Violin Concerto); Serenade, Schubert.

Miss Ezell's rendering of these selections was delightful. Following the program the hostess, Mrs. Joe Mullins, served tea to the members and guests.

HOMEMADE BROODER PLANS AVAILABLE FOR FARMERS

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers who have heretofore been unsuccessful in brooding and raising a flock of chickens can now take care of from 50 to 75 chicks in any kind of weather with an easily-constructed, inexpensive and economically-operated brooder made at home, states D. F. King, associated professor of poultry husbandry at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

This brooder, which can be constructed for around five dollars, is heated by a common kerosene lamp, has been in use in Louisiana for a number of years and has proved highly successful in brooding the small number of chicks which are found on the average farm. It eliminates buying expensive brooder equipment and does away with all heating duties except filling the lamp with kerosene.

It is designed to fill the needs on many farms for a brooder to take care of from 50 to 75 chicks, or less, states Mr. King. One or more of these simple brooders which can be constructed in a few hours by the farmer will make it possible to secure chicks early and eliminate excessive losses due to diseases, parasites, vermin, and cold weather. It is built of ordinary lumber, tin, hardware cloth and poultry wire. Most of these materials can be picked up around most farms and the construction cost further reduced.

The bottom, top and sides of the brooder are made in sections which makes the brooder easy to clean or to move to other locations. It contains a brooder four feet long and a wire-covered sun porch six feet long to allow the chicks plenty of sunshine.

Mr. King has just issued a bulletin that gives the bill of material and the methods of construction for this brooder, which will serve in helping farmers raise more poultry on the farm. Those interested in obtaining this bulletin should write to D. F. King, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama.

USE OF CRIMSON CLOVER IS INCREASING IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala.—Emmett Sizemore, district extension supervisor, announced here recently that 686 crimson clover farm demonstrations are expected to be established in twenty Southeast Alabama counties this fall to show farmers the value of the legume in conserving and improving farm land.

These demonstrations are farms on which the owners and the county agents are planting crimson clover to show other farmers the value of the crop in this section. From time to time the county agents will hold meetings at these farm demonstrations to allow other farmers to learn planting methods and harvesting. In addition, farmers will be shown crops that follow the crimson clover to see the effect it has had in increasing and improving the crop yields.

More than 300 demonstrations have already been arranged by the county agents and the total number is expected to reach 686 before planting season is over, according to Mr. Sizemore. Leaders in the number of demonstrations anticipated are Tallapoosa with 200; Elmore and Randolph with 75 each; Clay and Coosa with 50 each; and Bullock with forty. Every county shows an increased number of demonstrations over former years, according to Mr. Sizemore.

Dynamiting Of Ditch On Farm Of H. S. Shaw Last Thursday Most Interesting

Approximately fifty or seventy-five business men, county and city officials, along with farmers of the community gathered at the place belonging to H. S. Shaw, located about one mile northeast of Lomax, last Thursday, to witness the dynamiting of a ditch approximately one-half mile long.

The ditch blasted was in the swamp between the farm and Yellow Leaf Creek. The purpose of the ditch was to drain the bottom land surrounding, making it more adaptable to farming.

Mr. Shaw, himself, surveyed the ditch in cooperation with the County Agent's office. The placing of the dynamite was under the supervision of E. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent, and a representative of the DuPont Dynamite and Powder Company.

After the ditch was surveyed, and trees in the line were cut the placing of the dynamite took place and was finished about four o'clock in the afternoon. One stick of dynamite was placed three feet in the ground every sixteen inches apart. If a tree stump was in the straight line, sticks of dynamite were placed sixteen inches apart around the stump, just like it was placed in the line.

Unless the dynamite is placed carefully and exactly the same spaces apart, the entire load will not go off at the appointed time. This occurred Thursday afternoon as the placing of the dynamite was done hurriedly in order that the work might be completed that day.

One interesting feature of the project is the way the load is set off. Only the one stick at the beginning of the line of dynamite is set off by a battery. When this stick goes off the jar sets the next stick and so on until the entire line of explosives goes off, in an unbroken chain. If one stick is a few inches wider than the others the chain is broken and the explosion stops.

The ditch blasts on Mr. Shaw's place Thursday required three shots, but when all was completed a perfect ditch filled with water was the result. This method of ditching has been proven to be cheaper to the landowner than labor for the digging, besides taking less time.

This was about the fourth or fifth ditch made by this method in the county, with work under the supervision of the County Agent's office.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Geiger and daughter, Mary E. and Mrs. L. V. Farnum, all of Birmingham, came down and spent the day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus, Sunday.

Paul Stark, horticulturist of Louisiana, Mo., has perfected a cherry which birds do not peck, because it is yellow when ripe.

NOTICE TO COTTON PLANTERS

Be sure of your seed next year. Plant seed that are good. I have about 40 bushels of Sunnyside Hi-Bred, wilt resistant, 12-16 to 14in. staple, 44 to 45 percent lint. I believe this is the best all around cotton I have ever planted. Made 4 bales on five acres this year.

Ask Mr. Popwell or Mr. Dennis. Seed pure; ginned thoroughly, cleaned seed caught on floor. As long as these seed last, I will swap 1 for 2; or swap for corn at same rate. They must please you or your seed back.

Girls 4-H Club Meeting

The Union Grove 4-H Club met last Friday, November 11, 1938. We have 3 more members that joined Friday. The roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Wilma Thrash. Miss Barber gave us a lecture on curtains. We had a joint program with the boys.

Mr. Ivey explained to us about the different coat programs and told us to tell our parents about them. We did not have time for a song, but dismissed ourselves by saying the 4-H Club pledge.—Reporter, Lois Smith.

Make Your Money Count In A Coat

Buying a winter coat? Then study the personal needs before choosing the kind of coat which your money will buy, Catherine Haynes, clothing and handicraft specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, advises Alabama housewives.

Each lady who spends money for a coat desires satisfaction for the money which she has made herself or by some means "wangled from a 'friend husband.' Point she should consider occasions when coat will be worn, type needed, number of years coat will be worn, price that can be paid, and color which must be adapted to long-time needs.

Women should look also with discernment toward the all-purpose coat which has simple and conservative lines, a semi-tailored garment. A dressy coat belongs only in the wardrobe of the woman who has more than one coat to wear. Miss Haynes says to look for a coat with a high neck to keep out the cold, a close-fitting sleeve at the wrist, a wide front lap, ample walking room, comfortable shoulders, long sleeves, ample sitting room and a good hem.

Other points for one to search for in the winter coat are pre-shrunk, color fast fabric, high percentage of wool, and a label with a fabric guarantee, coat cut according to correct grain of material, armholes and seams reinforced with pre-shrunk tape, interlining of muslin in front and back shoulders to preserve fit, sleeve lining put in by hand to give fullness, coat and lining hemmed separately and men and facing finished separately.

Judgement and study will mean money well spent on the winter coat and more serviceable wear after it is bought says Miss Haynes.

Baker Club

The Baker Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Ben Sims Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with eight members and three visitors. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Ben Sims, followed by singing, "Follow The Glean", and the "Sing Your Way Along". Then the secretary called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Two new members were welcomed to the club. After the business the meeting was turned over to Miss Barber, who gave a demonstration on The Dyeing and stenciling, several beautiful luncheon cloths and scarfs, etc. When shown to the ladies what had been made by stenciling, and hot pan holders. After the demonstration, refreshments were served to the eleven ladies present. After the club dismissed until December 13.

COTTON ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS TO FOLLOW 1938 PLAN AGAIN

The same method that was followed in determining cotton acreage allotments under the 1938 farm program is being used in setting up the allotments for 1939, according to T. H. Martin, Gordo, state AAA chairman.

This method is specifically provided in the farm act under which the program operates, he states. County and community committees are now working out the allotments of individual farms in accordance with the act.

"Many persons are interested in the details of how the cotton acreage allotment of an individual farm is established," Mr. Martin states. "The procedure is laid down in the law and the committees must follow this procedure. It is the same for all farms."

In general, all farms which have produced cotton in any of the past three years receive allotments.

For farms on which the highest planted and diverted cotton acreage during the past three years is five or less acres, the farm's allotment is the highest cotton acreage planted and diverted during the three-year period.

A small reserve will be available for farms with allotments between five and fifteen acres. No farm will have an allotment in excess of the highest cotton acreage planted and diverted during the past three years.

The law provides, however, that notwithstanding the other provisions no allotment is to be less than fifty percent of the 1937 planter and diverted cotton acreage on the farm, unless an increase to fifty percent might cause the allotment to exceed forty percent of the farm's tilled land.

A small reserve acreage is available in each state for allotment to farms producing cotton in 1939, but which did not produce any cotton in the three preceding years.

"Tobacco Road" To Be In Montgomery, 28th

JAMES BARTON As "Jester" Lester

"Tobacco Road," the outstanding stage success of the last twenty years, will be presented at the City Auditorium, Montgomery, for one performance Monday evening, November 28th.

John Barton heads the cast of the company which is on its fourth coast-to-coast tour of the larger cities of the United States. This is the only company presenting "Tobacco Road" on tour.

Written by Jack Kirkland and based on the celebrated novel of the same name by Erskine Caldwell "Tobacco Road" has stirred more discussion than any other stage play of many years. Its phenomenal success is attributed to the fact that it shows a truthful section of life among the penniless share-croppers of the back country of Georgia. It is now in its fifth year on Broadway and its lengthy run has been equalled by only one other play, "Abe's Irish Rose" in the entire history of the American theatre. It has been presented in more than 180 of the larger cities of the country, including Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle Cincinnati St. Louis and Washington.

"Tobacco Road" takes a typical family of tenant farmers living in squalor and poverty, ignorant of everything but sex and religion, and shows the humor and drama to be found in the routine of their daily lives. So powerful is this drama that leading newspapers throughout the country editorially pronounced it to be "the epic American play". It has also been indorsed as an authentic and important American document by such literary celebrities as Theodore Dreiser, George Jean Nathan, Alexander Woolcott, Marc Connelly, Stark Young, Carl Van Doren and many others; and prominent clergymen have preached sermons urging their congregations to see the play as a portrayal of existing conditions. Its production led Congressman Kramer of California to introduce a resolution into Congress to investigate the condition of the

The "Judas Goats" Of Alabama 4-H Club

Repeal

In Chicago's stockyards, where animals are slaughtered for the nation's food, visitors may see the killing of squealing pigs that have their throats cut and of heavy oxen destroyed painlessly by men who swing heavy, blunt sledge hammers on the skulls of the animals that pass below them.

The killing of sheep, however, visitors are not allowed to see. The sight is too pitiful. A big goat wearing a bell walks out and starts up an incline chute and the silly sheep follow after him. As they go bleating along the incline, men slit their throats and they bleed to death.

The goat with the bell around his neck walks ahead of them as they climb the incline and walk along one behind the other toward the men who stand ready with sharp knives to cut their throats. Nobody harms the goat. He walks on, goes back, brings in another lot of sheep, bleating to their doom. He is trained to walk ahead of sheep that are to be slaughtered.

Chicago reporters have named this big goat with a bell on "Judas," because his business is to destroy. He is called the "Judas Goat" because he leads innocent, bleating sheep to their bloody doom.

In 1932 America was in the slaughter of a tragic depression. National forces were milling around in dazed confusion. Out walked the big repeal-peddler. They were wearing bells and stepping proudly. Like bleating sheep, American voters fell in line and followed after them. We have been betrayed and led to the slaughter by these "Judas Goats." They said repeal would reduce taxes. Those taxes have been reduced? They said repeal would reduce the national debt. It has more than doubled. They said it would produce revenue enough to balance the national budget, but in 1936, the national budget lacked $2,800,000 being balanced. In other words, legislation of liquor has not produced enough revenue in four years to balance the nation's budget the one single year of 1936, by over $800,000.

In the four years of repeal, it has produced less than 2,000,000,000.

They said repeal would stop bootlegging, but the government apprehends an average of 300 bootleggers a week and in addition to bootleg stills, bootleg revenue stamps and sell bootleg liquor in licensed places of business.

They said repeal would reduce crime but despite the fact that liquor law violators were released and court dockets cleared of liquor cases upon the advent of repeal, the Federal prison population increased twenty-five percent the first year of repeal and according to information given out by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the average increase over the whole repeal era has been forty-seven percent, less than three years Stanfor Bates, head of the Federal Prison System, went before Congress and appealed for appropriations to build new federal prison systems to house the influx of prisoners following repeal and in 1936 fifty-two percent of Federal prisoners were there for violating liquor laws.

They promised that dry territory would be protected but the Federal Alcohol tax unit has every year issued thousands of liquor licenses in dry states and thereby cooperated with the bootleggers and lawbreakers to violate state regulations with an impunity that would shame the devil.

They said repeal would end kidnapping but the nation continues to be checked and rocked repeatedly by kidnapping of some man, woman or little child.

They said repeal would create respect for law and promote temperance among the youth of the land. Crime has steadily climbed until it has reached the animal toll of fifteen billion and youth leads the possession and young men and women today fondle each other in the orgies of debauchery amid the dim shadows and secluded corners of the beer joints and liquor dives of this country in a moral madness that mocks all decency and disgusts Satan himself.

They said repeal would regulate and control the liquor traffic. But according to J. Edgar Hoover, there were more violations if liquor laws in America in 1936 than there were in the hectic year of 1932.

Traffic deaths, which for ten years prior to the repeal of National Prohibition, averaged 26,000 annually, have continued to mount in defiance of the greatest safety campaigns ever conducted, until they now reach approximately 50,000 or nearly double what they were under prohibition. Latest records reveal the facts that traffic deaths due to the mixture of alcohol and gasoline range from forty to sixty percent in the various states.

These facts must be faced. They cannot be obliterated. They cannot be ignored. They must be accounted with. They show the utter folly of repeal. It has failed as a revenue move, it has failed to reduce crime. It has failed to regulate the liquor traffic. It has failed

Exporting Of Cotton To Chile Increases

Exports of American cotton to Chile amounted to 1481 bales in September, which is nearly twice the amount exported in August and considerably larger than the amount exported to Chile a year ago.

This continues the trend in Chile toward an increasingly large consumption of American cotton. For the year ended July 31, 1938, Chile purchased 11,510 bales of American cotton valued at $1,025,000 as compared with 5,202 bales in the corresponding period of the previous year.

violation, but we wish to take this means of making the following recommendations with reference to certain changes in the election laws:

1. We feel that the Absent Ballot Law should be repealed.
2. The Legislature of 1931 passed laws calculated to remove fraud and corruption from elections, but we feel that in so far as is legally possible the Legislature should put on the Statute books more strict laws.

3. This Grand Jury is of the opinion that much of the basis for the charge of fraud at elections, not only in this County, but all over the State, is brought about because the elector does not actually have a secret ballot, and it is our opinion that the Legislature should remedy this situation by proper legislation to do away with the numbering of each voter's ballot.

In conclusion, we feel that there is much improvement needed in our election laws in that the Absentee Ballot Law be repealed, the manner of taking the name of an elector and numbering his ticket should be abolished, and that the criminal law touching election violations be made much stricter and we take this means of calling on

Truck Accidents Bring Death To Three Men

TWO YOUNG MEN SUCCUMB TO INJURIES

Third Man Crushed To Death By Lumber On Truck

NEGRO IS ALSO INJURED

Doyle And Euell Smith Sustained Fatal Injuries Sunday

Truck accidents, which have occurred in this County within the past few days took the lives of three Chilton County men and seriously injured one negro.

An accident which occurred near the Mars Hill Church in that community, resulted in the fatal injury of two persons, Doyle and Euell Smith, ages 26 and 23, respectively. This accident occurred last Sunday around noon.

Information gathered by the News regarding this accident was that the two young men were riding on a truck being driven by Erby Gothard, when the vehicle overturned while going down a hill near the Mars Hill Church. Both Doyle and Euell Smith were crushed underneath the overturned truck. Gothard was not seriously injured.

Doyle Smith died that afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. Euell died Tuesday morning at 9:00. Both men died in the Central Alabama Hospital here, where they were carried by residents of the community.

Funeral services for Doyle Smith were held from the Mars Hill Church Tuesday morning with the Rev. Green in charge. Interment was in the Mars Hill cemetery with J. M. Martin & Sons directing.

He is survived by his widow, one brother, one sister, and his mother, Mrs. Bibba Smith.

Funeral services for Euell Smith were held from the Mars Hill Church Wednesday morning with the Rev. Green in charge. J. M. Martin & Sons, conducting burial.

He is survived by his father and mother, one brother and four sisters.

Pat Tucker, a resident of the Alpine Community, was crushed to death early Tuesday when he stepped his truck suddenly to avoid a collision with a school bus, throwing the load of lumber he was hauling forward against his seat. He died shortly afterwards. A negro riding on the truck was seriously injured. The accident occurred beyond Maplesville on the highway. Both were carried to a Selma hospital by a Selma ambulance. Funeral arrangements for Tucker had not been announced at the time of this writing.

PATROLMEN CHASE YOUTH; CARS WRECKED

Highway Patrolmen Henley And Waites Slightly In- jured But Get Man

An eighteen-mile chase by Patrolmen Earl Henley and Wallace Waites of a fleeing young man, Charles J. Gintz, of Chicago, in a 1938 Chevrolet sedan, resulted in the wreck of both cars and Patrolmen Waites being confined for a day or two in the Central Alabama Hospital here, and the capture of Gintz.

The two Patrolmen, who were at the time in Thorshy, received a call from Verbena about 7:00 o'clock Saturday morning, that a young man in a 1938 Chevrolet sedan had ordered ten gallons of gasoline at the Midway Service Station below Verbena and had driven away without paying for it. They

Mr. Tiffin has been in the furniture business in Clanton for several years, with his father, J. B. Tiffin, of the Tiffin Furniture Company. The success this business has attained will lend assurance to the belief by Chilton County people that the T. E. Tiffin Furniture Company will be equally successful.

Mr. Tiffin has announced that he will formally open the doors of his new store on December 15th, although he leaves this week for Cullman, where he, along with Mrs. Tiffin, will make his home.

Mr. Tiffin has recently sold his home in Clanton and although Clanton and Chilton hate to lose Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin, the best wishes of its people go with them to their new home. Cullman is to be congratulated on having this popular couple in their midst.

The T. E. Tiffin Furniture Company will be located in the new Fuller Building on the 31 Highway in Cullman and Tom asked the News to extend a cordial invitation to his friends to visit him when in this city.

Christmas Seal Sale Is Going Forward

According to Leroy Martin, Executive Secretary of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association, the Christmas Seal Sale Campaign, which opened Thanksgiving Day, is getting off to a good start.

Mr. Martin stated this week that it is his wish that the people receiving the seals, which are being mailed on this year, buy as many as possible if they are unable to purchase the entire 100, and return the remainder.

Mr. Martin expressed his appreciation to those who are assisting in the drive. Money received from the sale of the seals, which are one cent each, will be used in the fight against the dreaded disease—Tuberculosis.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL MUST GO ON

(EDITORIAL)

Without warning and without time for preparations to be made beforehand, so that the students in The Chilton County High School might continue their classes, the Chilton County High School Building was wiped out by fire that made short work of the job in less than one hour.

It must be considered that a large majority of these students—over 400 in all—lost all or part of their textbooks—not even counting the equipment with which to continue their studies and the quarters furnished by the building that they were accustomed to. Many of these students and their parents are unable to purchase more books, and at the least, will require quite a sacrifice.

This was the predicament in which the youth of Clanton and surroundings found itself last Tuesday morning. Next to their homes, what could a fire take from them more necessary to their well being than their school building, and school equipment?

The News believes that the major question facing the citizens of this community Tuesday morning was—"What shall we do until we can erect a new building?"

The Clanton Baptist Church stepped forward and offered the use of its annex until something else could be done. And may we say here, they are to be commended.

It is true that 400 boys and girls, or at least a large majority of this number, were not used to having classes in a Church annex—the church was not built or accustomed to having this large group of young people gathering there for classes—but this was an emergency.

Let us all hope that those who will head the work of securing funds and erecting a new and modern Chilton High School will meet with hearty cooperation from every citizen of Chilton County to the end that we might place these students in a building surpassed by none in its efficiency for their use.

Funeral services were held from the Mulberry Baptist Church with the Rev. G. E. Williams conducting and Spigner Funeral Home in charge of burial, which was in the adjoining cemetery.

Palbearers were James Arnold, Claud Conway, Herman Lecroy, Buster Popwell, Dick Massey and Wilbert Conway.

Although Miss Turner's health had not been good for some time, her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends.

Cause of her death was attributed to heart failure. She was stricken on the streets of Birmingham. The News was informed, and died almost instantly.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Turner of the Isabella Community; one sister, Miss Gladys Turner and one brother, Neal Turner of Lay Dam, who was with her at the time of her death.

Chilton High School Destroyed By Fire Last Tuesday

Martin Thanks People For Red Cross Response

Red Cross Roll Call Chairman J. M. Martin asked the News this week to express to the people of Chilton County who responded to the call of the Red Cross during the recent drive, his profound thanks and appreciation.

Mr. Martin stated that the workers in the drive had worked faithfully and untiringly, and that he expected to contact each one personally and express his thanks.

It was hoped that a complete report could be made of the results of the drive this week, but Chairman Martin stated that he had not had time to complete the report, which will be made through the papers at a later date. However, he stated that the County responded better this year than last, but that he feared the quota of 450, which had been set for this year, would hardly be reached.

Radie Earl Dennis Is Victim Of Drowning

Radie Earl Dennis, age 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dennis, of near Mims Ferry, was drowned last Friday when he fell from the ferry he was operating at Mims Ferry below Lay Dam.

Witnesses to the tragedy stated that young Dennis and a small boy were crossing the river toward the Coosa side, when Dennis accidentally slipped and fell off the end of the flat. The boy on the ferry shut off the motor by which it was driven, but instead of climbing back onto the flat, Dennis started swimming toward the shore and was drowned before he could reach it.

His body was not recovered from the river until 2:30 Saturday afternoon, and was found by searchers only a short distance from where he was seen to go under.

Coroner J. M. Martin returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 11:00 o'clock from the Chestnut Creek Baptist Church, with the Rev. J. D. Hughes officiating and Martin & Sons in charge of burial, which was in the nearby cemetery.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dennis, seven brother and four sisters.

TOTAL LOSS ESTIMATED AT $56,000

Nothing In Building Saved From Early Morn. Flames

TWO HOMES ARE ALSO DESTROYED

Residences Of Wilson Robinson And Jim Parrish Total Losses

The Chilton County High School here was completely destroyed by fire early last Tuesday morning, including many hundreds of dollars worth of equipment in the building, and leaving over four hundred boys and girls with no quarters in which to hold their classes for that day.

The fire, which is believed to have originated in the cellar and boiler room, was a raging inferno when discovered and the alarm turned in. Clanton's Volunteer Fire Department was handicapped in fighting the flames by a shortage of water and a broken pressure valve on the truck pump.

The Vocational building on the northeast corner of the building was saved, although seriously menaced by the flames, and caught fire once. The school building was destroyed within an hour after the flames gained sufficient headway.

Alarm Turned In

Mrs. Jimmie Taylor, wife of home located directly in front of the School building, was the first to discover the blaze, and promptly gave the alarm. This was 3:25 A.M. Mrs. Taylor said she was awakened by the sound made by the cracking window panes as the flames rushed out from the cellar into the main parts of the building. The flames were coming out of the northeast side of the building, Mrs. Taylor stated, when she first took notice of the fire. A stairway from the cellar, where the furnace is located, leads to a doorway on the west side of the building.

Clock Stopped At 1:15

The Chilton County High School had an electric clock suspended at approximately four hundred and one of the clocks in the Vocational building was stopped at 1:15, which leads one to believe that the fire in the Vocational building, was burned down before the fire was extinguished, or perhaps a shortage in one of the pipes might have started the fire.

New Equipment Destroyed

Not one item was saved from the building. Among the items destroyed was over one hundred dollars worth of

SERIES OF BURGLARIES IN CLANTON

Downtown Stores Broken Into; Merchandise And Money Taken

Burglars in Clanton have been active over the week end, according to reports from three of Clanton's leading business houses. These stores report $175 or $200 in money and merchandise taken and perhaps more, if an accurate check could be made of the goods taken.

D. L. Blacketter, manager of the Yellow Front Store, reported that burglars entered his store through a skylight last Friday night and took $111 in cash which he had hidden in the store, and several items in merchandise, just how much he was unable to accurately estimate, as a complete list of the articles taken was hard to make. A leather jacket was taken from a show window.

The burglars entered the store by prying the top from the skylight and using an old rope to lower themselves to the floor. It is believed there was more than one of the culprits. They left the store by prying off the hump from the back door.

The same night, burglars entered the Ross Hardware store prying the bars on a back window apart and dropping to the floor on the inside. Only about one dollar in cash was taken from the cash register, but a check-up

"Has Man Picked Up A Dangerous Toy?"

Birth control, and the high-speed production of luxuries and means to leisure by the modern machine age, threaten civilization with disaster unless mankind learns greater wisdom in the use of these powerful but dangerous implements.

Such was the warning given in Philadelphia recently before the American Philosophical Society, by Dr. Alfred J. Lotka, President of the Population Association of America.

Dr. Lotka pointed out that of all animals man is the only one that has been able to harness natural forces on a large scale to increase the power of his own muscles.

Man's maldistribution of goods and leisure, however, presents far less of a problem than does his recently discovered ability to control his own rate of reproduction, in Dr. Lotka's opinion.

"We may well ask," he said, "has an immature human race stumbled upon a dangerous toy? Are we children playing with a loaded gun? Shall we grow up in wisdom before tragedy engulfs us? Is this the riddle of the Sphinx, to fail in which means destruction? Or may we perhaps look forward to an era of an awakening in wisdom, commensurate with the rocket-like ascent in knowledge? Should this come about, then Utopia, from a dream, would become a real presence."

Man as murderer of his fellow-mamals was indicted on 72 counts before the meeting by Dr. Francis Harper of the American Wildlife Protection.

Since the beginning of the Christian era, Dr. Harper declared, some 72 species and subspecies of mammals all over the world have become extinct, primarily through human agency. The North American record is especially bad: In slightly over 400 years 24 forms, exactly a third of Dr. Harper's list, have been wiped out.—Dr. Frank Thone in Birmingham Post.

ALABAMA EDITORS SAY

This Is No Time For Frivolities

Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York announces that his fourth inauguration, on January 1st, will be "just a simple ceremony" because "this is no time to spend money on frivolities."

Governor-elect Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania wants his inauguration to be "as simple, dignified and inexpensive as possible" because of "the widespread distress of our people and the serious problems facing us."

Two minds with a single thought—a Democratic mind in the Union's largest State and a Republican mind in the second largest state. And it's an excellent thought. We commend it highly to all who are about to enter public office in every state—Birmingham Post.

Twenty Years From Now?

It is believed that within twenty years there will be double the amount of motor traffic. If that be the case, there must be necessity of a hospital every thirty miles whether there is a town there or not. Fort Payne should today have a half million-dollar hospital for a county like DeKalb.—Ft. Payne Journal.

Fifty Miles Is Fast Enough

We understand that Pennsylvania has made fifty miles an hour the top speed for all autos on their highways and what is more they are enforcing it and that a good reduction in accidents has followed. High speed is the cause of most serious accidents no matter what may be claimed to the contrary.—Haleyville Advertiser-Journal.

MARK REMARKS

The spirit of Chilton County says: "Release the Chilton County High School plant which burned Tuesday morning, with the most modern building and equipment in Alabama."

Right on the heels of Thanksgiving came the publisher's good friend J. B. Atkinson, bearing a good-sized batch of honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned, unadulterated, home-made sausage—the first of the season to come our way. So, today the publisher is at peace with the world and all mankind—thanks to a good country lawyer who knows how to grow good country sausage.

We were truly glad to see Jim Benson's picture in the Scottsboro papers this week, the occasion being his induction into the office of Probate Judge of Jackson County. The Publisher of Chilton County News got Jim into trouble some twenty years ago, when he sold him The Progressive Age, and it is nothing but right that we should rejoice at his falling into such a "soft snap" as the Probate Judgeship of Jackson County. Jim Benson is a good man and will make a good judge.

Chilton County people are glad that a fine bridge is to be built over the Tallapoosa River at Tallassee. However, they believe that there is a far greater need for a bridge over the Coosa River between Chilton and Coosa Counties.

A poultry marketing association is being organized in six Central Alabama counties: Elmore, Shelby, Coosa, Tallapoosa, Randolph and Chambers, the purpose of which is to make possible a better market for poultry and eggs. Why doesn't Chilton get in on this?

The newspapers are full of talk about the King and Queen of England coming to America and the Duke and Duchess of Windsor returning to England. That is perhaps news, but Chilton County folk are more interested in when again, if ever, they are going to get a "decent" price for their farm products.

There is something wrong with a community where "Fifteen thousand people are starving to death," as reported in a Birmingham newspaper a few days ago, and where fifteen thousand others a few days later brave snow and ice and pay several times fifteen thousand dollars to witness a two-hour football game.

The U. S. Census Bureau announces an estimated population of 130,215,000 for continental United States, and if we are to believe all we read in the newspapers and magazines, and hear over the radio and various and sundry conferences, about 130 million of them are "bellyaching" about something.

Better go slow with this talk about abolishing "ear-marked" funds. If memory serves us right there are quite a few dollars "ear-marked" for education. Shall we ask the Legislature to make "fish of one and fowl of another"?

The rumblings from that Human Welfare Conference held in Birmingham last week, remind us of an old-fashioned black and tan Republican convention being held in Sylvan Street Hall in Selma long, long ago.

The American patent system is more than one hundred years old, and is also one of the major causes of the concentration of the wealth of the nation into the keeping of a very few individuals.

A common fault among we Americans is to take too much and too many things for granted.—Birmingham Post. Yeah! and too much and too many things not granted.

That Human Welfare Conference just marched up the hill to Birmingham, and then marched down again. So, that's that.

The Nation's Number One Problem is not the South. It is "How can we destroy the propagandists before they destroy us."

Don't try to dodge Santa Claus. If you do, you are an old miser, a skin-flint, a tightwad, a piker, in fact, just a flat tire.

You are just as safe in the air as you are on the ground—while you stay in the air.

This is a dandy old world, in spite of microbes and human cussedness.—Mark.

We Observe

NEW PASTOR—

Clanton Methodists, as well as all Clanton will regret to lose the Rev. Marvin Truett, who has been appointed as pastor of the Enterprise Church during the coming year. The Rev. Daniel will replace Rev. Truett as pastor here, who will be welcomed wholeheartedly by the citizens of Clanton.

GET THEIR MAN—

It can truthfully be said that Patrolmen Earl Henley and Wallace Waites get their man, but we'd say their man almost got them last Saturday at the climax of their chase from Thorsby to Calera. Fortunately no one was seriously injured, and these two gentlemen can stick another feather in their hats as a result of their good work in this case. We're glad to see Patrolman Waites out again after a short stay in the hospital. Their patrol car was a Calera wreck. It was an eighteen-mile chase that resulted in the wreck of both cars—but they got their man.

MARY CLAY TURNER—

Miss Mary Clay Turner, whose death occurred suddenly in Birmingham last Saturday, was one of Chilton County's most likable young women, being well known in Clanton where she had worked for some time. She also served as Secretary of the Chilton County Unit of the State League of Young Democrats. We extend our sympathy to her bereaved family.

C. C. H. S.—

The Chilton County High School building, through whose doors many Chilton County young men and women have passed through out into the world during the past years it has stood, is standing no more. This building went down under the ravages of fire in quick order, and although the loss was great, including the building fixtures and other equipment, Chilton County parents who had children attending the institution can be thankful that there were no casualties, as the building caught fire while unoccupied. The cause of the fire, dating back to negligence on the part of somebody, perhaps, is not the major concern of the educational department of this county at the present time, for it is very important that classes go on in some way, in some quarters. This fire again points out our lack of water

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

It was Sunday morning on the farm and I walked out to see the life of the place go into action. I observed that the chickens cackled and crowed and sought for food just as they did the other days. I also observed that the cows cut the grass and chewed their cud and sought for water and shade as on other days. Even the hogs rooted and grunted and squealed as they did on Monday. Ducks quacked and peafowls squawked. No form of farm life seemed to know that it was God's day. I went into the house and there I saw father and mother. The room was full of brothers and sisters, but there was a difference. There were no loud noises. All had on clean clothes. No one was engaged in work. We were studying our Sunday School lessons and talking of the church day before us. What made the difference between the life on the outside and the life on the inside? It was a God consciousness. The beasts, the swine and the fowls lived in the physical and the Sabbath meant nothing to them. In God man lived and and improvements that might be made in our fire-fighting equipment, all of which, we hope, will be made at the earliest moment possible.

moved and had his being, and down in his heart there was a desire for worship. When you see folks setting up a Sabbath day aside they are living on a level of the beast and the bird. Sabbath is a day of rest and worship and if you live where you worship God, you will be where people worship God.

I was hunting squirrels in the woods sections of the farm and came upon a tall poplar tree. By the side of the tree hung a grape vine that was clear in space for not less than fifty feet. I wondered how that vine had made the climb. Then it occurred to me that when the vine was growing that it clung to the poplar tree and made its way into the branches. After its climb and after it had run its vines up the branches of the tree, the body of the vine let go the body of the tree and there it hung, supported by it on the top of the tree. The vine used the body of the tree as long as it was needed and when no longer needed, it let go. There it was swung out into space because it was well anchored in the top of the tree. There are many things in this world that we need to use in our upward climb. When we become well anchored on high, we should learn the fine art of letting go the things not needed. When we have a strong grip on heavenly things we are not so dependent on earthly things.

We want to thank the Revs. J. R. Cost, Marion Dopson and M. Lockhart for the kind words that were spoken. Words cannot express our thanks to those who helped during the sickness and our bereavement.—Mrs. O.P. Henson and children.

MARY CLAY TURNER

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Turner and carried the soul of their loving, precious daughter to home in Heaven. Words cannot express the empty place that can never be filled. Everyone loved her for her kind, thoughtful ways. Her smile was always bright and happy for her loved ones and friends. Our one comfort is knowing God's way is the right way and that she will never suffer in His presence.

Mary had passed her 25th birthday. Oh, so young, but God knows best.

She is survived by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Turner, a brother, Neal; and a sister, Gladys and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held last Sunday, November 26th, at Mulberry church. Services were conducted by Rev. G. G. Williams, Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

YOU CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE PURINA MAKES!

BIDDY PURINA

A fellow stopped in the other day and said, "I've been hearing a lot of folks talk about 'See the Difference Purina Makes'—and after feeding it myself I can see that it sure does a better job, all right. I'm getting more eggs from my hens than ever before."

Yes, folks, Purina Laying Chow do make a difference. They've got what it takes to get hens laying at their best. Change to Purina Layens, the complete feed, or Purina Lay Chow, the supplement, now, and see the difference Purina makes!

CONDUCTED BY MISS MATTIE JO BARBER

The Enterprise 4-H Club met Wednesday, November 2. The meeting was called to order by the president, Esther Burkhalter. The opening of the meeting was given by Miss Barber. The roll was called by the secretary and the minutes of the last meeting were read.

After all business was disposed of, there was a very interesting discussion given by Miss Barber on how to arrange the kind of curtain one should use in various rooms. The meeting was well spent in something that is needed and also beautiful.

Officers for the coming year are as follows:

President, Esther Burkhalter; vice-president, Irene Gray; Secretary, Inez Williams; Treasurer, Pauline Henley; Reporter, Gerie Mae Williams; song leaders, Lurie Mae Williams and Eunice Varner; local leader, Valera Stroud. The president appointed seven different people to arrange a program for each month.

We are looking forward to a good year of work, and let's put our mind on this, while we are in this type of work.

Governor Proclaims Arbor Day, Dec. 9th

Governor Bibb Graves has named Friday, December 9th as the date to conduct Arbor Day exercises in Alabama this year. The text of the Governor's proclamation is given in the following:

WHEREAS the welfare and prosperity of the people of the State of Alabama, and their health, comfort and culture, are in a great measure dependent upon the preservation, enjoying and use of tree and forest natural resources with which the State is endowed; and

WHEREAS trees and forests maintained in a condition of productivity and usefulness are among the greatest resources of the State; and WHEREAS change in the social life of the nation concurrent with advancing civilization have made greater the need of mankind for outdoor recreation associated with trees, forests and woodland; and

WHEREAS a period of special consideration of the problems relating to the proper use, restoration and care of trees and forests in Alabama is highly desirable for annual observance;

THEREFORE, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of the State of Alabama, do designate and set apart the day of Friday, December 9, 1938, as Arbor Day, and recommend to all the people of the State that, either individually or in groups, they observe that day by the planting of trees, and by conducting

Reynolds Writes About Clanton's Advantages

"Editor, Chilton County News: "I want to congratulate Judge Smith and the Commissioners Court, Mayor Jones and the City Councilmen for their efforts in contracting for five miles of the Lay Dam road, and for the fine bridge they are going to build across the creek just Northeast of Clanton. I am sure this road will be of more benefit to Clanton and to the farmers coming to Clanton than any road we already have."

I wonder sometimes if the citizens of Chilton County realize the favorable situation of the location of Clanton and Chilton County. We are forty-four miles from Montgomery with a good highway, forty-four miles from Selma with a good highway, fifty-eight miles from Birmingham with a good highway. When this Lay Dam Road is completed we will have a new hard surface road to Birmingham, which will be four miles nearer than the present highway. This Lay Dam Road will open up a highway to Talladega, Anniston, Attalla and Alabama City.

"We are located not only in the center of the State, but the center of population of the State. There is not room to build another town between Clanton and the cities already mentioned. "Clanton has more favors to offer for different manufacturing plants than any town in Alabama. We are favored with advantages that no other town in Alabama has. All we have to do is show the people of Alabama our favorable location and I believe we will soon have various manufacturing plants located here."

"Respectfully yours,

other appropriate exercises with view to furthering the knowledge and appreciation of the great public value of Alabama's trees and forests.

In accordance with its custom, the State Commission of Forestry has prepared a pamphlet containing program material especially selected for use in Arbor Day exercises. Educators and leaders of civic and other organizations may secure copies of the Arbor Day booklet by writing to the State Forester, 5 North Bainbridge Street, Montgomery, Alabama, giving the number of pamphlets required.

L & N RAIL TESTED THROUGH HERE ON NOVEMBER 16TH

Since it has been demonstrated that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad periodically tests the steel rails in its main track for hidden defects. The ingenious contrivance that does the testing, the Sperry Rail Detector Car, is now on the lines of the L & N and examined the rails through Clanton on November 16th.

This mechanical diagnostician, equipped with the most modern devices for testing rail in track, moves along at a speed of about 7 miles per hour under its own power, hunting and finding existing flaws, if any.

It employs a low voltage electric current, created by two gasoline driven generators, to set up a magnetic field around each rail the car passes over. Conditions within this field are recorded on a chart within the car by a pen which traces a straight line in the absence of flaws. When an irregularity disturbs the field, the pen deviates from its straight course and simultaneously an automatic spray gun sprays a pot of paint on the rail at the point where the disturbance occurred. The operator stops the car and makes a hand test with a delicate meter to determine the extent and nature of the flaw, makes a report to railroad officials who immediately have the defective rail replaced before the flaw can assume dangerous proportions.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LIZZIE LAWRENCE

Her toil-worn hands are folded.
Her weary body laid to rest.
Her soul has flown beyond recall
To seek eternal rest.

Our cross so long he helped us bear.
Our work she helped us do.
We seldom remembered that she was old
That her year was almost through.

But now she has closed her tired eyes
In one last peaceful sleep.
We will miss her now in our long day's work.
She will never more keep.

She cheered us when we were weary.
She soothed us when we were tired.
Yet we always forgot to remember,
That hers was the soul that was tired

Her troubles now are over.
Her soul has gone to rest.
The ones she loved that went before
With them she is now at rest.

—Mr. and Mrs. Union Lawrence
Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Kimbrough and son, Duke, Jr., of Chattanooga, Mrs. Ben Tyus and daughter, Billie Ruth, and Mrs. J. B. Tyus, all of Birmingham, came down Friday and were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

Terrace Maintenance

The Nichols broad-base terrace is the best type of terrace a farm can have. Properly built and maintained, they will conserve soil and water for an indefinite period of time.

Recent surveys reveal that many farmers after going to some expense and trouble to build broad-base terraces are not giving much thought to the proper plowing and maintenance of this valuable adjunct to their farms.

Now that land is being prepared for winter plantings, furnishes an opportunity to correct faults in mainline broad-base terraces, or in converting ridge type terraces into the broad base type.

The staff members of the S.C.S. Camp here are daily giving instructions and assistance to owners and tenants desiring to properly maintain broad-base terraces, or to convert ridge terraces into the broad-base type.

This service is free to any owner or tenant, or see any member of the staff, or to arrange for a demonstration on your place. Invite any friends or neighbors who may care to witness this work.

Uncle Natchel To Be Back On Radio Soon

Chilean Nitrate Folks Announce The Return To The Air Of Popular Broadcast Programs

Uncle Natchel is coming back to the radio. This news, just received from the Natural Chilean Nitrate folks, is good news to many thousands of listeners who have been entertained through past winters by the kindly old negro character who is featured in these Chilean Nitrate of Soda broadcasts.

As usual, the Uncle Natchel programs will consist of songs, narrative observations by old Uncle Natchel to his young friends, and dramatizing stories dealing with personalities and episodes of the old days of the South. Almost all of the Uncle Natchel stories in the new series of broadcasts are historical—some dealing with the War Between the States, some with pre-Revolutionary days and others with the stirring times of the pioneers.

These stories are written by Ethel Parke Richardson, formerly of Nashville, Tennessee, for some years a chronicler of history and long an authority on early ballads and folklore of America. The Uncle Natchel role is played by Frank Wilson, considered one of the foremost colored actors in America. He currently appears on Broadway in New York in the play "Kiss the Boys Good-Bye," in which Miss Helen Claire, formerly of Union Springs, Ala., who played the feminine lead in the Uncle Natchel programs last season, is scoring a real hit as the featured star.

Miss Claire's successor in the Uncle Natchel series is Miss Jean Dante, a young girl who has had considerable stage, screen and radio experience. On the stage she has played with Phillip Merivale and Gladys Cooper. She has had two years in Hollywood, and in radio has appeared on the Rudy Vallee hour in Lux Theater of the Air.

The new Chilean Nitrate series begins the first week in December. On most stations it is broadcast late Sunday afternoons except in the case of WSB, Atlanta, and WSM, Nashville, when it is broadcast from 6:30 to 7:30 Saturday evenings.

ON LUXURY TAX

The Alabama Luxury Tax Law plainly provides that all tax due thereunder shall be paid on or before the 20th day of the month next succeeding the month in which the tax accrues. It also provides that when the total tax for which any person is liable under the Act does not exceed the sum of $100.00 for any month, a quarterly return and remittance may be made on or by the 20th day of the month next succeeding the month for which the tax is due.

If any monthly or quarterly payment does not reach the office of the State Tax Commission until after delinquent as provided in the law outlined above, the Commission is forced to disallow the five percent collection charge allowance. The State Tax Commission cannot vary from the above provisions of the law. Any person who expects to obtain the benefit of the five percent collection allowance should place report and remittance in the mails on or before the delinquent date.

Miss Marjorie Wallace And Mr. Hopper Wed

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallace, of Maplesville, and Mrs. J. D. Hopper, of Mountain Creek, took place at 2:00 P.M. Thursday, November 24, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. W. G. Williams of Clanton pronounced the wedding vows in the presence of close friends and relatives. The ceremony took place in the living room which was decorated with beautiful cut flowers and pot flowers.

Preceding the ceremony, nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Floyd Dorsey of Maplesville and Mr. Morgan Wallace, uncle of the bride. Mrs. Dorsey accompanied by Mrs. Dorsey, sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" and Mrs. Dorsey played the wedding march.

The couple was unattended. The bride wore a street dress of teal blue crepe with dubnoot accessories. A corsage of talisman roses completed her outfit.

After the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to several points of interest.

Miss Wallace finished Maplesville High School and attended college at Livingston. She is now teaching at the Vermont Jr. High School.

Mr. Hopper is a well known citizen of this County. He holds the position as principal of Vermont Jr. High School and serves as pastor of the Mt. Carmel Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopper will be at home to their many friends at Mountain Creek, Alabama and in the Vermont Community.

FLOCK OF SNOWBIRDS EN-COUNTER DIFFICULTIES HERE

According to Night Policeman Arthur Willis and the attendant at the T&E's Service Station here a flock of Snowbirds encountered difficulties when they hit Clanton one night last week.

Mr. Willis stated that about midnight he was at the station when suddenly a large drove of the birds swarmed under the station when evidently blinded by the lights. Several of the birds were killed as they flew against the building, as blood on the ceiling of the station and the birds evidenced, pointed out to a News representative by Durwood Teel, operator of the station, the next morning.

Mr. Willis and others who saw the sight, stated they had never before seen anything like this.

Economic Production Of Pork Is Problem

"It Can Be Done"

The raising of hogs is as old as Alabama, but the economic production of pork on the hoof is another thing. The business from this point of view is comparatively new. When the thought at the head of this column, "It Can Be Done", when referring to the economic production of pork on the hoof comes to my mind I think of two farms in Alabama that are doing the job.

The first is Yupon Farm at Magnolia Springs in Baldwin County and the well-thought-of management of Ernest E. Bannard. On this place one finds a pork production plant second to none in the State. Yupon is following a three-point program embracing the production of white potatoes, corn and hogs. These three projects give a well rounded program for the entire year and keeps a cash revenue coming to the farm each month. It sounds nearly mythical when I report that this farm is fattening about 100 sows each year for an average pig production of over seven to the litter.

The entire plan of producing market hogs is built on good useful sows crossed with purebred boars. The offspring makes a perfect "market-topper" at 200 pounds. A trip to Yupon Farm will make a red letter day for any farmer who is interested in the economic production of pork on the hoof.

The second farm I want to point out is that of the Wadsworth Brothers at Prattville, in Autauga County. Here we find three stalwart young Alabamians in Edward, Jack and Leonard Wadsworth doing a job of livestock farming that is unexcelled anywhere. This farm is much larger in size than the Yupon Farm, giving room for the production of beef cattle as well as a hog unit of about thirty breeding sows. Wadsworth Brothers market their pastures and grain through good cattle and take a special pride in finishing both to a point of near perfection and have topped the market at Montgomery so often that it is no longer news.

Both these farms have equipment that any farmer can have. They have the sort of breeding stock that any farmer can have. They sell on the same markets that are available to every farmer in the State. I say again, "It Can Be Done!"

LIVESTOCK URE & LOGIC

By Tom McCord
Union Stockyards, Montgomery

Saturday the 19th dawned cold and rainy and far from a day one would choose to go from Montgomery to Tuscaloosa even for a football game. But I had promised C. E. Teague, Assistant County Agent, that I would be over to judge the showing of the gilts Sears Roebuck & Company had distributed among the 4-H Boys in Tuscaloosa and surrounding counties who had won honors in writing the papers on the advantages of Sow-cow Hen farming.

After blowing the muffer off my Fast Flying Pontiac I met Mr. Sugg at Selma and on to Tuscaloosa we went and arrived about the time the County Agents, their assistants, the 4-H Boys and their fairs and mother and the prize Jersey heifer got there. It was a great sight.

The 24 Poland-China gilts which were bred in the great herd of the Sumter Farm & Stock Co., down at Geiger, and given to the Boys when they were about ten weeks old, were, generally, in wonderful condition and showed that every boy had done his utmost to show his appreciation of the faith Sears Roebuck had placed in them. Needless to say, some were better than others, but this is the case even among hogs of the same herd. Every gilt carried superb breeding and is a worthy representative of the Poland-China Breed.

After an hour of judging a great gilt in the hands of a Pickens County Boy was declared winner and entitled his owner to the registered Jersey Heifer. The winners of each district will be given 50 baby chicks in the Spring.

The gilts were, of course, the center of attraction, but of equal interest to the writer was the intense manner in which every person at the ring-side centered their attention and drank in every word that was spoken about better hogs and livestock. No doubt, we in Alabama are raising in our young people a generation of livestock-loving people with a firm impression in their minds that the pig and one-crop farming is the means to secure a living out of the land.

Back to Montgomery by eight P.M. after a puncture in the dark, but all in a day's work all the discomfort as I had the satisfaction that I had done a little part in bringing about some little appreciation of the better kind of livestock in 24 Club boys and 175 adults at the show.

Sears is a great organization with a big heart and is to be commended for their interest in Alabama Youth.

Wild Turkeys Are Numerous This Year

Alabama Nimrods To Have Best Chance At Birds This Season

The wild turkey is more plentiful in Alabama right now than at any other time in recent years, if reports from widely separated points in the State are correct, according to I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of the Department of Conservation. Prior to the shooting season game wardens reported there was an increase in the turkey population, and since the nimrods went out in the forests November 20, their observations and reports confirm the prediction.

"More gobblers will be killed this year in Alabama than we had in the entire State 15 years ago," Commissioner Quinn said. "We now have turkeys in every county of the State."

Indicative of the current trend was a statement of a South Alabama Congressman, who last week had as guests on a 17,000 acres preserve near McIntosh, Governor and Mrs. Graves and other prominent hunters. He said, "The game was so plentiful we had enough before we hardly had gotten started."

From the Black Warrior National Forest in north Alabama comes an encouraging report regarding wild turkeys. The U. S. Forest Service and the State Conservation Department selected a 17,200 acres tract and with the aid of 100 CCC men counted the wild turkeys and deer. There were between 450 and 600 turkeys on this one tract and the present forest is 10 times larger than the tract. The authorities said the wild turkey population was far beyond expectations, and the birds observed were of excellent quality and highly desirable.

Alabama's wild turkey restoration program was started over 25 years ago with passage of the now famous "gobbler law", which prohibits the killing of turkey hens at any time. Other states copied our law, and national authorities credit Alabama with pioneering in this particular field. Alabama also is one of only three states permitting spring turkey hunting (March 15-April 15), as state authorities believe the supply is sufficient to allow hunting during this period.

HEREFORD BREEDERS FORM ASSOCIATION IN ALABAMA

U. C. Jenkins, Faunsdale, was elected President. A. C. Hartley, Matthews, vice-president, and Edward Wadsworth, Prattville, secretary-treasurer, of the newly formed Alabama Hereford Breeders Association at a meeting held at the farm of Mr. Hartley on October 11.

Breeders chafed at the meetings were R. O. Atkins, Hefflin, Earned Lambert, Darlington, and Lee Alley, Midway. This association will assist breeders of Hereford cattle to find a market for their stock and will also assist in building up the purebred hereford cattle industry in the State. As a first objective the association members voted to hold a Hereford cattle sale in April at which only the top cattle in the herds of the State will be offered for sale.

Sol Levine honored Master Myron Albert Levine, young son of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Levine, of this city, with a "bachelor's party" last Monday night, and from reports of the entertainment we are prone to believe "a good time was had by all."

Before the party a supper was enjoyed at a downtown cafe, and at the gathering later at Master Levine's home the following were present: Sol Levine, Ben Margolis, Pete Allsup, of Birmingham and Ocie English, of Birmingham.

FIRE HAZARD IN SCHOOLS BRINGS STATE WARNING

Blazes In 33 Counties Of Alabama Reported By Dr. A. H. Collins

(Montgomery Advertiser)

A thorough check of school fire hazards was urged recently by Dr. A. H. Collins, State Superintendent of Education, as he forwarded to all city and county superintendents copies of the annual report of the State Insurance Fund which showed that 33 counties had fires in 62 buildings while thirty-four counties had no fires.

Inclosed in the letters were check sheets which Dr. Collins asked returned showing condition of each school in relation to fire hazard. He also pointed out that the Insurance Department suggested better fire fighting equipment of an elementary nature.

The Fire report showed that there was no loss of life in any of the fires suffered by the school. It was pointed out that the property loss made decreased premiums impossible and also caused "use of public schools funds which would otherwise go to . . . the benefit of school children."

The letter pointed out that two counties had four fires each during the year and continued:

"It is essential that every precaution be taken to prevent fire loss. The State Insurance Department reimburses

BRIGHT SEASON AHEAD FOR MITCHELL DAM QUINTET

To the right is the Mitchell Dam Basketball Team of last season, which won championship honors in Montgomery. The team remains practically the same this year, excepting a few additions to the line-up, which, in the opinion of Manager Stanley, makes his team even stronger this year than last. In the group to the right are seen, left to right: Dock Baker, who is captain this year, Cecil Jones, J. T. Cobb, Raymond Ross, Fred Mayfield, James "Gabby" Tiffin, Dutch Baker and, in front, manager Steve Stanley, Cecil Ellison and George Chambers have been added to the team this year. This team is scheduled to play the famous "House of David" team on March 13, at Mitchell Dam. Photo by Scott's Studio, Courtesy Powergrams.

the county for only 75 percent of the insured value of the building destroyed by fire. Thus, in addition to the problem of adjusting instructions from the time a building or any part thereof is burned until it is replaced, the county faces the problem of securing one-third of the amount of insurance in order to replace, with the insurance, a building equal in value to the original. In addition, fire losses prevent decrease in insurance premiums and thus use public school funds which otherwise would go to the benefit of the school children.

"The Insurance Department has suggested that one-third of the school building fire losses could have been prevented if ladders and water barrels had been available. Cressote barrels and oil containers have been used very successfully for water barrels. School survey reveals the fact that fire hazards have existed in school in the form of waste paper and other inflammable materials stored in closets or storage rooms and in classrooms in some cases. Delective flues, chimneys, and electric wiring have been found also . . ."

Auburn's first hold-up occurred a few nights ago, when a well-dressed young man driving a tan sedan robbed a filling station of $15.

Modern Housewives Have Reason To Say "I'll Never Do Another Washing!"

There's no need to—when your laundry conveniently, economically, does your washday work. Scores of women daily are giving up their washers—their washtubs—leaving behind another menial weekly task.

There's one less worry in your life when we magically change your hours of toil into a day of care-free pleasure—your washday worries are safely in our hands. There's no need to ever return to the carpet beater, the kerosene lamp, the stove heater—or to the washtub.

BE MODERN—SEND IT TO OUR LAUNDRY

In performing a service for the American Housewife, rightly accustomed to a higher standard of living, the modern laundry removes one of the last hardships of managing a home.

All that modern science—modern inventive skill—has contributed to our age in utilized to perform a better washday for you. Equipment, methods, supplies are all coordinated so that your weekly trust to us—the washable articles used in your home—will be returned safely, truly clean, and so beautifully washed that their appearance will bring you a glow of satisfaction and pride.

Now Housewives Know The Laundry Is

ECONOMICAL Surveys show that laundry washing costs no more, everything considered, than home washing. Check your home costs and prove it to yourself.

MORE HYGENIC In approving the laundry's pasteurization of washing, Dr. Arnold in the American Journal of Public Health says laundry-washed clothes are well within the sanitary safety zone.

EASY ON CLOTHES Recent surveys prove, in case after case, that the laundry is gentle with clothes. Fabric wear is prolonged by modern laundry methods.

CONVENIENT Any day—any time, regardless of weather—can be your washday. Housewives admit they like the convenience of laundry service

DEPENDABLE You are sure of prompt pick-up, prompt delivery. You are sure all of your washing will be returned pure, sweet-smelling, radiantly fresh.

MONTH in, month out, many women and girls obtain two-way benefit from Cardui. It aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more energy from their food—and so increases resistance to the strain of functional periodic pain. Try it!

Less trying days!

CLANTON'S FIRES—

You've no doubt heard the old adage, "when it rains it pours," but we proceed herewith to change that proverb to make it fit the situation in Clanton, which has prevailed for the past few days. "When it's fire it roars," we'd say—and roars plenty. Clanton's volunteer firemen have been on the run for several days, answering this alarm and that—until the situation has become alarming. Of course the major fire in Clanton and surroundings was the one that destroyed the High School plant November 29. This situation has become alarming due to the fact that the city is handicapped by a shortage of water, which has only recently depleted several gallons. Looks like Clantonians had better find another thirst-quencher—and preserve the water to fight fires. Seriously, to use water sparingly after a crisis is to use it to common sense and will certainly be appreciated by city officials.

THE HIGH SCHOOL—

In talking to Prof. Patterson Hicks of the Chilton County High School, and Superintendent Luther E. Little, we learn that everything is going along nicely in the school's new quarters. Commendable indeed, is the splendid show of public spirit by the Clanton Baptist Church when they so generously offered the use of their church annex for the school. We believe that the teachers of these classes have tried to impress upon the student the importance of respecting this church property and we believe that speedy punishment must be meted out to the student who fails to preserve and respect the property. It is our understanding that the County Board has assured the trustee of the church that any damage done the annex would be repaired. Is not this fair enough?

A REAL FRIEND OF C. C. H. S.—

There comes a letter from one who is a real friend of the Chilton County High School—one who understands the plight of these students. The following letter proves that, and comes from Florida, where its writer is at present. It was received by Prof. Patterson Hicks recently:

"Dear Mr. Hicks,
"I can't help thinking of the school situation in Clanton and wishing there was something I could do to help. My thinking has developed only one idea. I have some books that might help, a large dictionary and a set of encyclopedias. My children, found quite helpful, also some novels I was glad to lend. If they are completely used up I would only be glad. I wrote Mrs. Roberts to let you have them if you want them.
"I am,
"Yours sincerely,
"Mrs. N. S. Johnson."

CHRISTMAS SEALS—

Christmas is drawing near—only sixteen more days until the holiday of holidays comes around. We sometimes wonder if the people as a whole know just why Christmas Seals are being sold. Christmas is a time of the year when a large majority of us expect to see Santa Claus. Some see more of the bewhiskered gentleman than others. How many of us play the part of Santa Claus—in the role that was intended by the creator of Christmas. The Christmas Seal Sale Campaign which is underway in Clanton and over the County, offers the people a real chance to play Santa Claus the real way. This is not a way of securing money which will benefit healthy individuals of groups of able-bodied individuals. Money raised during this campaign goes to help those who cannot help themselves—those who have fallen victims to that dreaded disease known as tuberculosis, and which attacks, mostly, the younger people of the country. Tuberculosis is curable and preventable, but it takes funds to carry on this work. If buying Christmas Seal is not a real way of no other way. Have you purchased your quota yet?

PLANS BEING MADE TO RE-PLACE SCHOOL

Negotiations Toward Insurance Settlement Going Forward Rapidly

While classes for the Chilton County High School are going forward in the annex of the Clanton Baptist Church and the Vocational Building, Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little announced this week that plans are rapidly going forward in making insurance adjustments and securing funds for the erection of a new building.

Although nothing definite has yet been accomplished toward the rebuilding plans, Mr. Little stated that he had had several conferences with officials of the Government in Atlanta and Montgomery, toward securing a Federal grant for the building.

Insurance on the old building, which was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning, November 29, totaled $42,000 including the building and equipment.

As far as can be ascertained at this time, the new plant will be erected on the site of the burned one, although a closer site to the Clanton Grammar School would prove more convenient for patrons and the Education Department.

IND. COUPLE INJURED IN AN AUTO MISHAP

Elderly Couple Seriously Injured In Accident In City Limits

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Farron of Anderson, Ind., were seriously injured last Saturday just afternoon when their car left the road near the City works on the highway and landed in a ditch head-on into an embankment.

A Spigener ambulance answered the call and carried the couple, only occupants of the car, to the Central Alabama Hospital. Recent reports from there stated that both were improving. Mrs. Farron was the most seriously injured, sustaining a broken limb and severe cuts about the head and body. Mr. Farron received general cuts and bruises.

A wreck near Midway, near Verbena the same afternoon resulted in the injury of Miss Nell Tamplin of 301 Woodward St., Montgomery; Miss Doris Jane Baker of 34 Holcombe St., Montgomery, and J. E. McKay of 210 So. Hull St., Montgomery. Neither of the three were seriously injured.

They were carried to a Montgomery Hospital by a Spigener ambulance. The car in which they were riding left the road and overturned.

C. C. H. S. TO OPEN BASKETBALL SEASON HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The Chilton County High School basketball team will usher in the season next Friday night on the local gym court when they meet the Mapleview Quintet at 8:00 o'clock. A preliminary game will be played between the Isabella and Union Grove Teams beginning at 7:30 o'clock, according to Coach Dewey Cox.

Although the new uniforms for the C. C. H. S. Team were destroyed in the recent fire, they have been duplicated and the boys will open their series of games in full swing. The public is invited to see these games Friday night. The C. C. H. S. team will play the Ozark Mountain Hill Basketball team, nationally known, on December 14 on the local court. A most interesting game has been predicted at this time.

Tax Collector Receives L&N Taxes For Xmas

A check for $23,812.78 to cover state, county and school district taxes assessed to the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, by Chilton County for the tax year 1938, was received early this week by Tax Collector T. L. McKee.

Under the laws of the State of Alabama the Company had until December 31st to pay their taxes, but as a helpful gesture they made payment in time for the teachers of the county to receive their pay checks before the holidays.

This will be plain Santa Claus to many of the teachers and the county as a whole is due the L&N a vote of thanks and appreciation.

METHODISTS WELCOME THEIR NEW PASTOR WEDNESDAY

Members of the Parsonage Committee of the Clanton Methodist Church prepared a warm reception for the new pastor, the Rev. J. L. Daniels, who arrived Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Daniels and their son.

A supper had been prepared for the newcomers, who will be warmly welcomed by Clanton and Chilton County to enter both the Peoples Savings Bank and the First National Bank of this City Tuesday night.

Attempt Is Made To Burglarize Banks

Coming on the heels of a series of burglaries week before last, was the attempt to enter both the Peoples Savings Bank and the First National Bank of this City Tuesday night.

It was discovered by employees of the Peoples Savings Bank Wednesday morning that someone had removed four iron bars from the rear window of the bank, trying them out neatly, but made no attempt to get past the glass pane.

An attempt was also made to open a door in the rear of the First National Bank, which was unsuccessful. Splinters were knocked off the edge of the door, as the would-be burglar attempted to pry the door open. Only one door separates the two banks and the guilty party or parties evidently worked from "one door to the other."

Last Sunday night somebody removed a window pane from the Haggard Store in Jewison, entered and made off with several dollars worth of merchandise.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy was called Monday morning to investigate the affair and state that a window pane in the rear of the building was removed and it was through here the person entered. Practically all cigarettes in the store and several clothes were taken, along with other merchandise, the total value of which could not be accurately determined.

No clues could be found which would cast suspicion on anyone, Sheriff Hardy stated.

Radio Is Used To Aid Patrolmen In The Capture Of Automobile Thief Last Sunday

An example of the effective use of the radio in capturing lawbreakers was demonstrated last Sunday night by Highway Patrolmen when they captured a young negro who is alleged to have stolen a car belonging to Preston Shaw of Jewison.

The story given the News stated that Mr. Shaw parked his auto in front of his home early last Sunday night and went inside. On returning to his car later in the evening he found no car. He immediately notified Patrolman Earl Henley in Thorshy, who broadcast the alarm over the Patrol's radio system.

Annual "Bosses Night" Observed By Pilot Club With Interesting Program Rendered

A most enjoyable program was carried out at the annual "Bosses Night" gathering of the Clanton Pilot Club which met in the basement of the Clanton Methodist Church Wednesday night, November 31st.

It is on this night that very member of the club, composed of business and professional women of the city, and being one of the most active civic organizations here, has as her guest her boss, or someone in whom she is obligated in her work.

It is at these annual meetings that a most interesting program is rendered, with a most enjoyable get-together of worker and employer or co-worker. The gathering Wednesday night was no exception to say the least.

Following the gathering of members and guests around the beautifully lighted tables, which bore out the spirit of the coming holiday season, Mrs. Clarence Fiquette, president of the club, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Luther Little, who, in turn, introduced Miss Bess Rogers of Marbury, guest of the Club, and who rendered a delightful reading and several selections

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE ON LAY DAM PLANT

Alabama Power Co. To Spend Several Thousands On Improvements

Work has already started on a gigantic improvements and additions project on the Lay Dam, by the Alabama Power Company, which will entail a cost of thousands of dollars, according to unofficial information reaching the News, which did not state just how much will be expended and the exact plans for the project.

It is understood, however, that plans call for an increase in the height of both wings of the dam to prevent any chance of water flooding the plant at flood times. This improvement will also enable the plant to retain more flood waters, which will be of benefit to the two dams on this river below—Mitchell Dam and Jordan Dam.

Additions and improvements will also be made to the electric equipment of the plant, and the work will consume approximately a year; it is understood.

Lay Dam was the first hydro-electric plant erected in Alabama by the Alabama Power Company, and was completed in 1913. It has been in constant operation ever since. Sam Powers has been superintendent of the plant for several years.

Contract for paving a large portion of the road to Lay Dam has just been let, and it is hoped that before long the road will be paved all the way. Lay Dam is thirteen miles from Clanton, being considerably closer than Mitchell Dam, several miles below.

Radio Is Used To Aid Patrolmen In The Capture Of Automobile Thief Last Sunday

hearing the broadcast, drove out on the highway near Shades Mountain on the lookout for the car described. Before long they apprehended the car, which was being driven by a Negro who gave his name as Albert Johnson, age 23, and on parole from Spigener Prison, where he was serving a sentence for first degree murder.

Mr. Shaw had left his overcoat and gloves in the car and these were being worn by the Negro when captured. He was taken into custody and Patrolman Headly notified. Henley returned the Negro to the Chilton County Jail Monday morning.

At the time of this writing Coroner J. Mell Martin, who investigated the tragedy, had not completed his findings, but stated that there were no marks on the body that would indicate foul play. Arant was found lying at the foot of an embankment, some ten or fifteen feet below the road, in a position that would indicate that he had attempted to arise from the ground where he had fallen.

Just what time Arant was seen last and by whom could not be determined, but he was said to have been seen at one of the filling stations in the city some time during the night. He was apparently on his way home when he fell down the embankment.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marie Powers Arant, father, M. B. Arant, of Birmingham; one brother, Ellis Arant and one sister, Mrs. Bill Murphy, of Lay Dam.

Funeral services had not been announced at the time of this writing. The body was in charge of J. Mell Martin & Sons.

With only fourteen more shopping days left until Christmas, a tour around town through the various store will convince one that Santa Claus has really come to town.

Many stores this week are decorating their windows in the gay Christmas way—some have already completed the job, and take it from one who knows, and has been with his own eyes, Clanton merchants have stocked up with every item of merchandise that it takes to make gift selections complete.

If you were ever inclined to go out of Clanton County to do your Christmas shopping, just one sashay around through the local stores will knock that inclination right smack into the ash can for after a look Dear Old Sawee, and its displays, by our local merchants you'll forget all about doing so.

And, too, there's the importance of shopping early so as to have the privilege of selecting one's items from a large assortment, as the last minute shoppers sometimes have to take their lot in whatever is left. And with anybody who desires a gift that radiates smartness and style. This reporter just hasn't had time to get around to all the stores over the entire county, but we know from past experience that they are not lagging behind when it comes to preparing for Christmas.

Every item that will make a real gift can be purchased at the right price from local merchants—from the kiddies to the grown-ups. And speaking of the kiddies, we can assure these boys and girls that they will never see a gift that they don't want. When he flew around distributing toys of every description. He left a generous sprinkling of them in the proper stores right here in Clanton County. Such a display of the things that go to make Christmas morning the morning of all mornings, has never before been seen by this humble scribe.

The "Lay-A-Way" plan is being featured by some of the stores again this year, and believe me, there's certainly a thrill to know that you have that certain gift for that certain party, and you'll take a look at the time to come to make the presentation.

Yes, Santa Claus has really come to town and he'll be all around radiating the real Christmas Spirit until he takes his leave after Christmas Day. And, listen, folks, Santa Claus is very busy in hopes you'll take a look at the real gifts being displayed by the local stores, and consider them first.

Jesse, who is a member of the University's famous "A" Club, is not only a ranking officer in the cadet corps, but an outstanding player on the Crimson Tide's varsity football team.

He is the son of M. D. Foshee, also of Clanton.

UNION-BANNER EXPLAINS—BUT SO DOES WINSTON

In the Thursday, November 4th, issue of the Union-Banner, our most esteemed contemporary, they endeavor to give the "truth of the Winston County election," stating that in the same election in which three Democratic officials were elected five Republicans went into office. Winston County, as you may recall, is traditionally Republican.

Below is a clipping from the Advertiser-Journal at Haleyville, Winston County, which also does a little explaining:

"The Clanton Union-Banner in a front page boxed article calls attention to the Winston County election, stating that only three out of all county officers are Democrats. Local papers never claimed any more. Only four officers were contested and three were won."

The Christmas Candle Of Health

"How far that little candle throws its beams..." This well known speech of Portia's in The Merchant Of Venice well applies to the theme on the 1938 Christmas Seal. And the second line may be changed to read, "So shines this little symbol for a healthier world."

The pleasant custom of lighting a candle in the window on Christmas Eve has come down through the ages and the mother with her two children on this year's seal links that seasonal ritual with the idea of family and home. The message of the Seal is "Protect your home from tuberculosis." To carry out the suggestion of earlier days the three characters are costumed in the formal style of the Victorian Era, the period when "Home" was idealized and holiday customs meant much to old and young alike.

The health situation in those days, however, was in a sorry state. That is why it is well to realize, as we buy and use our 1938 Christmas Seals, that we are living in an age when modern methods and intelligent co-operation have completely revolutionized health conditions in our country. In the middle 19th century, for example, people did not even know that tuberculosis was contagious. Although Dr. Robert Koch, a German physician, had discovered the germ that causes the disease in 1882, it was many years before the public learned the way infection spreads. In homes of those days and one who had consumption was considered doomed to death—he was kept indoors and watched over resignedly by his sorrowing family. When other members broke down with the "wasting sickness" they never realized they had been infected by the coughing victim—they believed tuberculosis was inherited. The treatment prescribed then by the best physicians was exercise or an ocean voyage, plus many tonics.

In 1885 Dr. Edward L. Trudeau established modern sanatorium treatment of tuberculosis in this country and rest became recognized as allimportant. Today we have advanced still further and through the tuberculin test and X-Ray are able to detect tuberculosis in its early stages, when cure in most cases may be affected.

We are privileged indeed to be living in this healthier world. The death rate from tuberculosis, for years the leading cause of death, has been cut more than two-thirds since the turn of the century. Each year finds the public better informed in need for prevention. Yet tuberculosis still takes more lives than any other sickness during the ages between 15 and 45. Until that important group of people have been protected, the educational work of the Christmas Seal must be continued.

The little candle on the 1938 Christmas Seal throws its beam far out into the world. To those who are ill with tuberculosis it offers hope, encouragement. To others, it stands as the beacon of happy healthful homes—homes free of tuberculosis.—The Mountain Eagle, Jasper.

—O—O—O—

Lest you forget: Christmas Seals save human lives.

After that Birmingham conference, it's "good-night" for "Her Day".

Prosperity may not be just around the corner, but Santa Claus is—and the fellow who stops to argue with that gentleman—well, he, just ain't right in his head.

"Listen Little Fellow":

The following editorial, which appeared in the Birmingham Age-Herald December 3rd, should be read and re-read by parents to every "little fellow" in the land:

"Look, little fellow, put down your plaything for just a minute and listen. You are a pretty bright little boy. Your mamma and your daddy think you are just about the best little boy in the world. They have great plans for you, plans that reach far into the future—and that's why they were doubly shocked when they read in the paper about little Sammy Virga, a boy just like you, with eyes that shone bright when he ran out to play with the other fellows.

"Well, little Sammy Virga's mamma and daddy had great plans, too. They would watch little Sammy out of the corner of their eyes when he came bursting into the room full of excitement and boyish fun, telling of some new discovery. Because Sammy was always learning new things about the world, just like you. But little Sammy's gone now. He was out riding on his bicycle. He was having a swell time. It's fun to ride a bicycle and all the boys like to ride. But something happened, and little Sammy, well, he's gone and your mamma and daddy and thousands of others in this town felt a touch in their hearts when they heard of it.

"Look, lad. Hold on just a minute. Please be careful. Please, for your mamma's sake and your daddy's sake, be careful on your bicycle, on your skates, when you cross the streets, when you chase balls, when you run after wayward tops. Think, little fellow, think all the time that you can, of the traffic out there in the street. Help your chums and the little girls to remember that they, too, should be careful about the streets.

"Well, run on out to play, little boy. Fellows like you can't stay cooped up inside all the time. Fellows like you have got to have fun and exercise—and may every man and woman who drives an automobile, may every truck driver, every man on a motorcycle, remember that you, little boy, sometimes forget that the world is a dangerous place."

Farmers Should Think For Themselves

Senator John H. Bankhead gave an interesting and intelligent explanation of the present cotton acreage control program and outlined its benefits as he sees them in an address before Dallas County farmers here Saturday morning.

To emphasize the need for a farm program, Senator Bankhead called attention to high prices paid by farmers for everything they buy in comparison with low prices received from their products. In discussing this lack of parity, Senator Bankhead only touched upon the tariff problem, which is largely instrumental in the distress of agriculture, and gave no mention at all of discriminatory freight rates and their part in exploiting the South.

A brief mention of taxation gave indication that new levies are being considered to provide vast sums of money necessary for maintenance of the AAA, and the Senator stated that he favored a tax more general than processing charges.

This threat of new taxes should be enough in itself to make farmers think out issues facing them before going to the polls on December 10. More taxes mean new difficulties for farmers which may nullify benefits from continuation of Federal farm subsidization and develop into a process of taking money out of one pocket to put it into another.

The Times-Journal has no desire to tell farmers how to vote on December 10, but it does urge them to think seriously before committing themselves in a referendum which might be regarded by Federal officials as a mandate to extend and make more rigorous regulations which have already proved disastrous for the small planter.

Unless farmers balance adverse points of the present farm program, which have not been given sufficient consideration, against merits which have been repeatedly stressed, they are likely to encounter serious consequences when they awaken to find themselves bound hand and foot by intensified regimentation.—Selma Times-Journal.

The State Chamber of Commerce should not get so deeply interested in bringing new industries to Alabama as to overlook the plight of some of the old worthy and worthwhile industries already here, who need the kind of help and encouragement that is being offered newcomers.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

As we run the needle up and down the dial of our radio we can hear all kinds of voices. There are some that are loud and harsh. There are some that are mellow and soft. There are some that are kind and things and some that say unkind things. From that dial we learn that there are voices many and varied. Coming to us from the outside world there are voices of all kinds and tones. Voices call from everywhere. There are some that call us to kindness and sweetness of living and there are those that call us to selfishness and sin. It matters much as to what we shall be when we answer those voices that we hear. Listen closely to the voice that is calling before you answer that you will heed the call.

In a certain community there was a man who had been bitten by a mad dog. The poor unfortunate man had no attention from the medical world and it was quite evident that he was facing a tragic end. His friends gathered to sympathize with him. Seeing that he was rather gloomy and grouchy, his friends expressed a desire to cheer him. To their sympathy he made this reply, "You folks think that I am grieving over my sad outlook, but not so. I am in a deep study, trying to determine which of you I am going to bite when I go mad." That man knew some of his neighbors and doubtless he thought that the time had come for him to get even with them. I heard of a man who had a difference with a soldier friend and on the battlefield he lifted his gun and took the life of the one with whom he had the difference. Should you go mad, are there people you would like to bite?

One of my boyhood friends said that they had a mule that was possessed with a mind that he could never make up. This mule was just half way between two hay stacks. He would look at one and then the other, but could never make up his mind to go to either stack. There he stood for days and finally starved to death. How like that mule do we find many folks today. A young man wants to be a lawyer or a merchant. Both professions look good to him but he never makes either. When a man wants to do two things and can never make up his mind, he will not do either and in a very short time he will die of nervous prostration. It is the undecided mind that shatters the physical more than the strain of doing things.

In North Carolina there is an enclosed park into which great crowds go. Like most people who first on the beauty of public places and enjoy public property, they would leave the gate open. The management of the park placed this sign on the gate, "Be ye young, be ye old. Be ye riding or be ye walking. Be ye white or be ye black. Be ye in a hurry or be ye at leisure, be ye coming or be ye going, be ye early or be ye late—close ye this gate." It is not hard to locate cultivated people when they are tramping through parks and public places. They do not have to be told to "Stay off the Grass" and neither do you have to remind them to "Close the Gate".

A CHRISTMAS ADVENTURE

Methodist Orphanage To Make Appeal Soon

Birmingham, Ala.—With scores of little ones, helpless and neglected, clamoring for admission, in addition to the 153 children already being cared for at the Alabama Methodist Orphanage at Selma, Methodists of this State are again reminded of their obligation to these little ones, and again "White Christmas" has been set aside by church leaders for all to respond liberally to the call for aiding this institution.

The Board of Directors of the orphanage, with Kenneth E. Cooper of Birmingham as chairman, in a special call to friends of this orphanage and lovers of children, asks that a fund of $25,000 be raised to meet the needs of this institution for the coming year and to provide also for absolutely necessary repairs and other urgent needs. In this appeal Chairman Cooper is supported by the other members of the Board who are Dr. S. O. Kimbrough, vice-chairman; Mrs. L. C. Branscomb, Dr. Robert Echols and Dr. S. T. Slaton, all of Birmingham, and representing the North Alabama Conference, as well as the following directors, representing the Alabama Conference: J. E. State, secretary; Mrs. Ed H. Hobbs, Bruce Beveridge and J. E. Wilkerson, of Selma and W. P. Pattillo, Repton.

Special programs and full instruction for the White Christmas celebration have been prepared and may be obtained from Mrs. Paul Lanier, 738 First National Bank Building, Birmingham, office manager for this campaign, and all contributions may be sent to Rev. R. J. Mills, Superintendent of the Orphanage, at Selma. W. H. Plant, of Selma, is treasurer of this institution.

"Since Christmas is falling on Sunday this year, we deem it desirable that all collections in churches, Sunday Schools and various church organizations, as well as from generous individuals, be taken on the previous Sunday

S. C. S. CLERK RECEIVES APPOINTMENT TO F. S. A

Mr. Gray enrolled in Company 3481 as a local experienced man, April 15, 1936. With one and a half years training in typing at Thorsby Institute, he was placed as enrollee clerk in the Soil Conservation Service Office here, and made good. With additional training in clerical work in the service, he has received this opportunity with another agency.

Prior to coming to the company, Mr. Gray served fifteen months with Company 1417 in Florida and South Carolina. He, of course, is delighted with his new job, and carries the best wishes of the entire Company when he goes to his new position.

IN MEMORY OF W. M. MARTIN

The death angel made another visit yesterday. And carried our dear friend away. From all of this world's sorrow and care To a better home He had prepared.

He was a dear friend to everyone. Never left a job until it was done. Tho he was bedridden for many years. He was faithful and had no fears.

For some time he was blind and couldn't see. Yet he saw more than you and me. He had a smile and didn't seem to mind. His misfortune, because he knew it was only for a short time.

We grieve for our friend and it so hard to forget. It seems I can hear him saying: "Now, this way is best". So why should we worry so and say It had to happen and some day we, too, must die.

His wife was faithful when he was sick and well. She performed her duties and she did them well. So did his children each and everyone. Until they knew the death angel had come.

Let's be good now before it's too late. And prepare to go through that Heavenly Gate. Where we can meet our loved ones and friends. And rejoice in Heaven where day has no end.

— A Friend.

wherever possible," said Chairman Cooper of the Board, "Let me stress the fact that the institution's buildings and equipment are greatly in need of repairs, and it is especially urgent that we make provision for a score or more of destitute children who are clamoring for admittance, but who cannot be taken in until additional funds are provided."

Schoolhouse Fires During Fiscal Year

From "Facts From The Record" By F. G. Stephens

Fire damaged or destroyed 60 school buildings in Alabama during the fiscal year just closed according to a report made to the Governor by C. B. Rogers, Chairman of the State Board of Administration.

Thirty-one of these buildings were totally destroyed.

These fires occurred in 33 of Alabama's 67 counties. Four of them were in Butler, four in Cullman, four in Marshall, four in Morgan, three each in Coffee and Lauderdale, two each in Baldwin, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Crenshaw, DeKalb, Henry, Pike and Walker and one each in Autauga, Bibb, Blount, Calhoun, Chambers, Choctaw, Clark, Escambia, Jefferson, Madison, Mobile, Monroe, Randolph, Tallapoosa and Winston.

Fire loss on these buildings amounted to $263,558.60. A part of this loss fell upon the State Insurance Fund, while a portion of it was recovered by re-insurance. These losses ranged from a few dollars where the fire was discovered early and extinguished to $37,500 where a total loss was sustained. Every time one of these fires occurs the State loses money. The property is insured for only 75 per cent in case of fire.

Checking over the records it is found that these losses increase from year to year. The taxpayer naturally wants to know why. How can these losses be checked?

It has been suggested that frequent inspections be made of each school building by the custodian of the building or some member of the teaching staff. Inflammable materials should be kept away from the building as much as possible.

The loss of property is not the only reason for safeguarding these school buildings against fire—statistics show that in late years more than 800 school children have lost their lives in schoolhouse fires in the United States. Fortunately none of these have occurred in Alabama so far as the writer has been able to ascertain.

There are 3,119 of these school buildings in Alabama and every one of them should be made as safe and secure as is humanly possible for those who must occupy them.

FIDELIS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

AND Y. W. A. MEMBERS MEET

On last Monday evening, December 5th, members of the Fidelis Sunday School Class and Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist Church had a delightful luncheon given by the losing sides in a membership campaign that they had been competing in since October.

Gertie Fiquette, Fidelis and Y.W.A. Presidents, acted as Toastmistress. Pep songs were sung at the beginning lead by Mary Frances Duke, Secretary and Treasurer of both organizations, after which invocation was pronounced by Mrs. O. A. Davis, the speaker of the evening.

Talks were given by the president and leader of both organizations, Mrs. J. R. Mullins. A Christmas poem was read by Mary Frances Duke. The Lotie Moon Christmas Offering was the topic of the evening, and a collection was taken up, amounting to $6.80, after which a "Package Sale" was enjoyed by all the members, at which time $9.00 was realized for the Fidelis treasury.

This class always leads the other classes at the Baptist Church in giving the largest Christmas offering. There were thirty member and guests present to enjoy this delicious luncheon, including Mrs. O. A. Davis, Miss Alice Powell, invited guests and Mrs. J. R. Mullins, leader.

The Annual Christmas Party will be at the home of Gertie Fiquette, President, on Monday evening, December 19th, with Willie Maude Kelly as co-hostess.

J. C. EDWARDS WRITES

"Editor, Chilton County News:

"I see there's going to be another election December 10. I was somewhat surprised November 8

"R. O. Latham, who lives in Hamlin, Texas, knocked on my door. We had not seen each other in over thirty years. He visited his sister and brother and other relatives and friends in Bibb County and came back to see me and others on the 13th and left for home the 15th.

"He says there are sorry crops in Texas and many of the people know not what to do, and that he only made twenty bales of cotton this year and sold only one to four bales. He thinks F.D.R. is a friend to the poor and can tell a lot of jokes about how things are going on in our government. R.O.

is my half brother. He helped me make a crop here in 1898 and his home has been in Texas ever since that time.

"I asked him had he ever joined the Matons. He answered yes and liked it fine. He came to Alabama with a Mr. Nail, who visited people in Walker County and they went back to Texas together and no car trouble. They report a little trouble, however, on the trip here.

"While he was here we talked about homes and property and this world's goods and here comes a short comment that I read a few days ago about laying up treasures in heaven. Matt. — 6:20.

"Jehovah's people whether of remnant or great multitude are not be tied down to the world of Satan, but are merely sojourners, these enjoying the care and protection of God's gracious provisions for them under Christ Jesus." The great Multitude does not find rest in Satan's organization which rules the earth. They are not to be contented with the present wicked rule. They must advocate God's Kingdom and be delighted in doing so and by so doing they lay up for themselves treasures in heaven and are not to think that treasures of earthly things now acquired and held will be preserved in Armageddon. It is quite probable that the enemy may strip them of everything earthly just before Armageddon. It is quite certain that nothing will survive Armageddon except service privileges toward Jehovah which together with the word of God are treasures in Heaven. We read in second Cor. 13:8, "For we can do nothing against the truth but for the truth." No man can succeed in doing injury to the truth, nor can he shake anyone really fully devoted to God and His Kingdom, but now is when all things that can be shaken will be shaken that the approved ones may appear. Are you and I going to be one of the approved ones

AAA Work

During the month the County Agent has held three committee meetings for the purpose of informing the members on the Agricultural Adjustment Program for 1939 and checking soil building practices for 1938.

One County Review Committee meeting was held at which about 100 approximately 75 cases were disposed of.

A schedule of meetings were started in November for the purpose of discussing the Cotton Marketing Quota Referendum, and the Cotton situation in general.

On November 14, all forms, SR 208, were submitted to the State office to have allotments issued to Chilton County for 1939.

Subsidy applications on all farms that did not cooperate in 1937 have been started this month.

Subsidy checks totalling 1,767 and representing $70,135.80 have been received covering 1937 work sheets.

Senator Bankhead Visits County

On November 18, Senator John H. Bankhead visited Chilton County for the purpose of discussing the cotton situation in the South. A mineophone was secured for his use and about 800 farmers and business men interested in farm problems gathered in and around the courthouse to hear this speech.

County Agent Speaks To Farm Women

On November 9, the County Agent spoke to a group of Home Demonstration Club women who are leaders in their communities on the No-Control cotton program which is being advocated. This talk was most effective and will help these ladies to cast their vote more intelligently on the referendum which will be held December 10.

Drainage Demonstration

A ditch approximately one-half mile long was dynamited on the farm of H. S. Shaw on November 17 as a demonstration to about seventy-five farmers and business men. The farmers in this county are realizing how much can be saved by having this type of drainage work done.

MRS. BILLINGSLEY NAMED TO LEAD TAX FIGHT HERE

Mrs. Claude Billingsley, of Clanton, was recently named to lead local women in the nation-wide drive of the National Consumers Tax Commission against "all unnecessary taxes that increase the cost of living."

Announcement of her appointment as chairman of the commission unit to be formed among Clanton housewives was made recently from the organization's national headquarters, in Chicago, by Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier, National President.

The commission is described as a non-political organization conducting a drive by housewives of the nation against hidden and direct taxes that add to the burden of the consumer. The drive is led in this state by Mrs. Willie Hughes Tarpley, the commission's Alabama national committee member.

"The commission is glad to have Mrs. Billingsley among the leaders of this needed movement," Mr. Frazier said. Already hundreds of units in many states are active in the educational drive on taxes that raise the cost of living for all of us.

"Most people pay hidden taxes without knowing it, and it's little wonder family budgets are strained when, for example, the commission's research department finds hidden taxes add eleven cents to a 20-cent purchase of meat, $10 to every $30 of rent, $1.95 to a $5 hat and $1.56 to a $4 pair of shoes."

A series of study programs will be arranged for members through which to inform families here of their tax burden, Mrs. Frazier said.

Nutritionist Visits Here To Inspect Lunch Room

Mrs. Martha Bick, nutrition consultant of the staff of the State Health Department, was a visitor in Clanton early this week, local health officials announced. Mrs. Bick is particularly concerned with the nutrition of school children, it was pointed out, and in this connection observed the work being done by Mrs. Browder, supervisor of the lunch room at Clanton Grammar School.

A need for more school lunch rooms where at least one hot dish could be served with the nutrition daily was pointed out by the visiting nutrition expert. In several counties, she stated, the problem was being solved by parent furnishing home canned vegetable which are heated and served at the schools. N.Y.A. and W.P.A. workers and relief commodities have been pressed into service in the serving of school lunches in other counties, she declared. The hope was expressed by Mrs. Bick that Chilton County would work toward the improvement of school lunches, a satisfactory beginning having been made by local school and health officials.

At these meetings all officers were elected, project cards were given out and projects were discussed for the coming year by the Agent in regard to kinds that each member should take according to the conditions existing on his farm and the relation certain projects had in combination with each other to work the greatest advantage.

A drive is also being made to get in as many record books as possible. In addition to the record books I am getting a check on each person at the meetings as to their activities in relation to club work during the year.

One day was spent at Rockford at a district meeting at which time plans were discussed and made for the purpose of holding meetings with club members and in other communities in regard to the AAA program with special emphasis on the Referendum to be held on December 10.

Cotton Meetings Held

Following the district meeting held in Rockford the Home Demonstration Agent and Assistant County Agent have held joint meetings and programs with the boys and girls during the last period and discussed the cotton situation as affected by the AAA program and other programs being advocated. Most of those attending these meetings have given us their close attention and it is hoped that they will carry some of this information to their parents and at least encourage them to attend the Community meetings which will be conducted by the County Agent.

Three method demonstrations were given on the culling of poultry with an attendance of thirteen, at which time three hundred birds were culled.

Two additional demonstrations were given on the dynamiting of ditches.

The Mt. Pleasant 4-H Club Girls met on their regular meeting day. First, we had our song leader to lead us in a song, then the Bible read. The secretary read the minutes and called the roll. There were 45 members present. Two new members joined the club. Then the girls went down to the boys room and Mr. Ivey talked to us about the cotton program. Then we all went back to our rooms.

We will ask all our members to bring some one else to join our 4-H Club work.

CARD OF THANKS

Every kind word and deed is appreciated by us. Also we wish to express our appreciation to Drs. Golden and Elland, also Martin & Sons Funeral Home for their kindness to us—Mrs. Lela Scott and family.

IN MEMORY

On October 31st, the death angels visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith, and took away their son, Carl. He was sick several months, although he was able to be up part of this time. Carl would have been sixteen years old had he lived until November first, being buried on his birthday. Funeral services were held from the White City Baptist Church by Rev. W. E. Robinson, where Carl had been a member for two years. Burial was in White Cemetery with Spigener in charge.

pallbearers were Messrs. Anderson Litaaker, Clyde Raines, Harvey and Judson McGowin and James and J. T. Hogan.

He leaves the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith; one brother, Parker and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his loss here on earth.

How proud we were of our most worthy son, the pride of our heart, the glory of our eye, Carl had a smile and a word for everyone.

Our home is so lonesome without Carl, but for the hope in the resurrection we must say 'God's Will Be Done'. For only a short time while we say goodbye to Carl, for we know that it won't be long 'till we meet again. He has not died in vain. They have builded for him a monument not made with hands, eternal in the heavens and yet there comes to the stricken family a ray of hope in the thought that sometime, somewhere, God, in His goodness will bring about a reunion of father, mother and brothers, where death has no sting. We grieve for his absence, but we feel that God has carried him to a better home where we can go to time when our race is run. Carl has gone on beckoning us to follow to a land where we all can join in that great choir to sing God's praises throughout eternity.

Young as he was, he served his community his home, his friends, with an example worthy of praise.—His Mother

Famous Names Given Bldgs. At Montevallo

Structures Will Honor Miss Tutwiler And Former Governor

Montevallo, Ala., Dec. 9.—The names of Braxton Bragg Comer, Alabama's Governor from 1907 to 1911, and Julia Strudwick Tutwiler, champion of human welfare, will be given to new buildings on the campus of Alabama College, it was announced today by the board of trustees through Dr. A. F. Harman, President.

A new classroom building will be known as Braxton Bragg Comer Hall and a new dormitory as Julia Strudwick Tutwiler Hall.

In announcing the names chosen by the board of trustees, Dr. Harman expressed his satisfaction with the selection.

"Governor Comer was the first great education governor of Alabama after the War Between the States," Dr. Harman commented. "He is generally accepted as the father of our system of rural high school, and the impetus provided by his support of public education has carried to this day."

"As for Miss Tutwiler, it is peculiarly appropriate that her name should be given to a building on the Montevallo campus. She was an effective champion of education for women, and in fact was the first elected president of Alabama College, though she resigned before the opening day."

Dr. Harman said actual construction will begin before January 1. An addition to the library, and remodeling of Reynolds Hall to provide a student union building, are included in the total construction amounting to $343,000.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

WHEN your teenage daughter comes home with the news that she has been elected chairman of the "Prom-Trotters" committee for this year, you can be certain that for the very first dance she is going to come clamoring for a recipe for punch. So clip this for your file and have it ready and waiting. It's easy to prepare and has a zip and tang that is refreshing and stimulating and very acceptable to the teenage thirst.

Prom Trotters Punch

1 gallon fresh orange juice
1 gallon fresh lemon juice
1 gallon cherry juice
4 gallons canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
16 gallon grape juice
4 gallons water
16 pint strawberry syrup
3 pounds cane sugar
12 star ginger ale
Slices of oranges, lemons and pineapple
Mix all ingredients except ginger ale, sliced fruit and ice, and let stand overnight in a cool place (refrigerator preferred). Before serving time, place clear block of ice in bowl, pour in punch, and add ginger ale. Garnish top of ice block with sliced fruit. Approximately 350 servings (15 gallons).

ADJUSTMENTS DEMANDED FOR BETTER COTTON PRICE

Auburn—The present carry-over of cotton, the amount that is going into the loan this year, and the decreased foreign and domestic consumption present a dark picture for southern cotton growers unless continued effort is made to bring the supply and demand more in line, believes P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service.

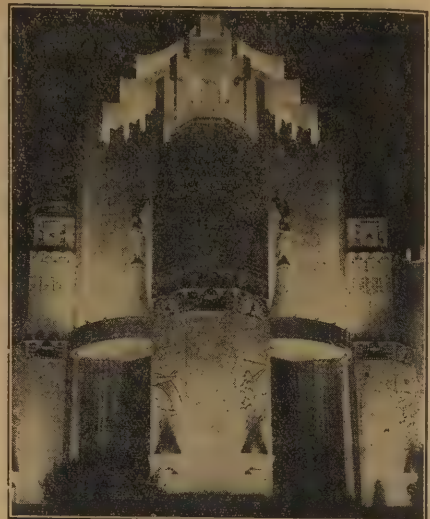

A large supply naturally means a low price and the supply this year made up of a carry-over of 137 million bales and the current crop of twelve million bales makes hopes for a better price any time soon very dark, he stated. The carry-over is the largest on record and is larger than the world consumption of cotton last year. This does not even consider the present crop now almost gathered.

"To really see the effects of low consumption following a year when there was no protection control and a record cotton crop one only needs to look at the August 1, 1938 carry-over, which because of these things, was more than seven million bales larger than the previous year."

In 1936, the director said, after three years of cotton adjustment effort, the supply had been adjusted from 13,000,000 bales to 6,000,000 bales and the price had risen from five cents in 1932 to 13 cents in 1936. With no allotments and no quotas on cotton production and with a large crop in 1937 we again have a huge surplus of cotton that only loans have prevented from going to 1932 prices. Since it took three years to reach the position we were in during 1936 it seems safe to assume that it will take more than one year of adjustment effort to bring this surplus down and the price up to a fair level.

Mrs. Maxine Heindorf of Los Angeles, blind as a result of attempted suicide, won a divorce from her husband when she testified that he had said: "You could never do anything well—not even a good job on yourself with a gun. Next time I hope you do better."

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

PWA Projects in Alabama

Federal authorities have announced 143 Public Works Projects in Alabama which calls for the expenditure of $19,849,934. Of this amount the Federal Government will contribute $8,812,236 in grants that will not have to be repaid, $3,750,000 in loans which will have to be liquidated and the sponsors of these projects will contribute $7,287,698.

These projects are located in 56 of Alabama's 67 counties and are principally for educational buildings. County and city school boards will spend $5,444,593 of these funds for rural and city school buildings while the colleges and higher institutions will have $3,997,174 to spend for new buildings.

Two million one hundred and seventy thousand dollars is to be used for building hospitals of which Jefferson County gets $2,000,000, Cullman $100,000 and Chambers, $70,000.

For street improvements $2,122,548 was allocated while $151,181 will be used for highway construction.

For the building and improvement of county court houses and jails, city auditoriums, etc., a total of $1,640,827 was authorized.

Mobile Docks came in for $1,060,000 and electric distribution systems account for $322,538.

The Bryce Hospital and the Partlow School are scheduled for $339,250.

Water works and Sewerage systems were not neglected in the allotment. Water works projects are listed for $849,844 and Sewerage Systems for $749,944.

The largest expenditure of these funds will be in Jefferson County. Naturally the counties where state educational institutions are located will get a large share of these funds. The counties are Tuscaloosa, Lee, Shelby, Calhoun, Lauderdale, Pike, Sumter and Montgomery.

The eleven counties that have no projects in the allotment are Bibb, Choctaw, Conecuh, Dale, Escambia, Geneva, Henry, Lamar, Washington, Wilcox & Marshall.

Privilege License

For the fiscal year ending September 30, 81,076 concerns paid a privilege license in Alabama. This brought into the State Treasury a total of $844,583.69. This was a gain in revenue of $34,826.28 over the preceding year. However, there was a decrease of 1,170 in the number paying a privilege license.

Retail dealers in soft drinks led the list in the number of licenses issued, the total being 16,699. Retail dealers in cigarettes and tobacco closely followed the soft drink dealer with a total of 15,602.

The greatest revenue was derived from gasoline stations. The revenue from this source amount to $101,157.81 and was paid by 8,166 operators.

Cigarette and tobacco dealers paid the next highest amount, $67,349.00.

The 478 auto dealers were the next in line with a contribution of $42,287.50. The rolling stores, however, pay almost as much into the treasury as the auto dealers. They paid last year $42,262.50. There are 475 of the rolling stores being operated in Alabama.

Other large privilege license taxpayers are soft drink operators, $39,426; restaurant operators, $35,363.62; Attorneys, $27,300; pool table operators, $24,600; physicians, $22,305; bottling works, $21,460; saw mills, $19,542.50; dealers in ammunition and guns, $19,050; dealers in auto accessories, $16,682.50; factories and mills, $15,965; vending machines, $15,841; industrial loans, $15,672; contractors, $14,921; wholesale dealers in

GREEN PASTURE IS WORTH TWENTY DOLLARS TO HOGS

Farmers who raise hogs and finish them on corn, peanuts, or peanut meal will find they can make much cheaper meat by providing a green crop for the hogs to graze while they are being fattened, says J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Even broad sows and other stock hogs will do much better if given green pasture. In an experiment at Auburn covering four winters hogs fed corn and tankage on an oat and vetch pasture gained faster and required 59 lbs. less corn and tankage to make 100 lbs. gain than other hogs similarly fed in dry lots.

An acre of oats and vetch furnished grazing for ten shoats and there was considerable amount of green vegetation to turn under for soil improvement when the hogs were sold. The value of an acre of pasture in this case was $30.

Experiments at Auburn have shown that hogs do not get along well when grazing Austrian Winter peas. After a month or more of this crop there is a tendency for the hogs to develop swollen joints, become lame and get swollen in the back.

Farmers should bear this in mind in late winter and spring hog grazing.

cigarettes, $12,575; hotels, $11,811.75; coffin dealers, $11,319; soda fountains, $11,280.

All other classifications of privilege license taxpayers drop below the ten thousand dollar mark.

A CHARACTERISTIC feature of American dwellings is the porch, which occurs in one form or another in many residences. Porches form sheltered places in which to sit in pleasant weather. They also may be enclosed as sun rooms which may be used as sitting rooms in cold weather, for breakfast rooms or for sleeping porches. In some cases they are heated by steam or hot water. Fireplaces are sometimes installed. If you are planning to build it would be wise to give considerable thought to this feature. Make it fit your needs and contribute to the utility of your home.

In this day of sun worshippers the home-builder should be especially concerned about such matters as the sun porch. It is usually a room in the architecture of the United States, the finish of the building is quite simple, while the design of the principal doorway may be elaborate. Doors are constructed of a variety of different materials and are used in various ways. The doors of an average residence are generally made of wood, or wood and glass. You can exercise good judgment or display poor taste in selecting doors for your home.

If We Only Had A Hog Sale In Chilton

From Monroe Journal
 The hog sale held in Monroeville last Wednesday was by far the best sale yet held. The farmers of this County are taking advantage of the opportunity offered them to sell their hogs and cattle right here at home, where the same prices, or better, can be obtained as if they carried them to Montgomery, Mobile or Selma to be sold. Another thing the farmers are waking up to is that there is another way to produce money besides growing cotton. Hogs and hogs can do the work if the farmers will give them a half chance to produce cash, as they have given cotton.

At the sale Wednesday, 775 hogs weighing a total of 135,545 pounds, sold for $7,919.45 and 193 head of cattle sold for $2,632.52, making a total of $10,551.97. The hogs sold for 6.25 tops, the same price as quoted in Montgomery on that day, and all farmers attending the sale, who saw the cattle sold, said that the cattle sold for a real good price.

The Wilson Packing Company, of Columbus, Georgia, bought all the top grade hogs and the cattle were sold to packing houses and individuals from over the County.

To show farmers what can be done with hogs, we give this example: Mr. Sam Nettles, of Tunnel Springs, had a litter of nine pigs, six months old, at the sale. These pigs weighed an average of 237 pounds and were sold for $133.37, or a little more than three balet of middling cotton would bring at the present market price.

The next hog sale will be Tuesday, December 20, and remember to bring your hogs and cattle to the pens in Monroeville just as early as possible in the morning, so they can be weighed and graded. By being prompt, it will give those in charge of the weighing and grading time to complete their work before the hour of the sale.

SMALL PERCENT OF ALABAMIANS DIE OUTSIDE OF STATE

Approximately one Alabamian out of every 13 dies outside the city or county in which he or she resides, while slightly more than one percent of all Alabamians die outside the state, according to a report made by the State Department of Health recently on the basis of figures received from the Bureau of the Census of the United States Department of Commerce.

These figures show that, of the 31,212 residents of this State who died during the twelve-month period covered by the survey, 2,491 died outside their own cities and counties, including 357 who died in other states.

FLOW OUT TERRACES

The channel of the Nichols terrace, now the corner of terrace bed built in Alabama, should be plowed out at least twice a year—in the fall after crops are gathered and again in the spring when the land is being prepared for planting, says J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer at Auburn.

Alabama Tin Plate Goes Through Port of Mobile

The first shipment of tin plate from the new $30,000,000 mills of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, in the Birmingham district to the Hawaiian Islands is on the way via rail to Mobile, the State Docks and an Isthmian Line Steamer. It is composed of 6,000 tons of plate, a solid shipload, and much of it will return to the United States by the same route, in the form of containers for pineapple fruit and juice packed in or near Honolulu.

Alabama has learned to utilize its port terminal system and to profit by it. The State Docks is the name applied to a public institution that represents something vastly greater than merely a place where vessels may lie safely in all kinds of weather to receive and discharge cargo and passengers and then proceed again to sea through this is one of the principal functions of the system.

The State Docks and its management constitute a complete commercial unit with facilities for bringing business to the port as well as handling it when it comes. Its commission is the port authority, the co-ordinating and centralizing force about which the commerce and industries of the port revolves. The Governor of the State is, ex-officio, its head and the commission works in cooperation with the banks and other financial institutions, steamship lines, railroads and other carriers, freight soliciting and routing agencies as well as rate making bodies, to gain and hold for the Alabama seaport its rightful place in a complicated and highly competitive world commerce. It does for the port and its commerce that which no firm, corporation or individual is prepared or expected to do and it is therefore essential that such a body should have a competent head and strong, efficient hands. The establishment and operation of such a far-flung business requires generalship. It is had from the beginning.

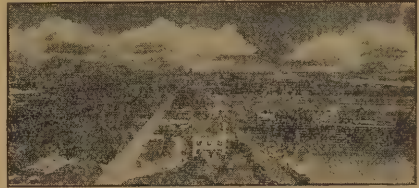

It has required a high order of leadership and more than a decade of hard work to induce the people of Alabama to reverse the old policy of the state in regard to assisting or engaging in works of internal improvement. Under this leadership Section 93 of the Constitution was repealed so far as it applied to the improvement and operation. Amendment was adopted and subsection of ports and harbors. The Seaport Act was passed by the Legislature authorizing Alabama to issue bonds, build docks and other terminals and, in short, to go into the port terminal business on a large scale with the full backing and sanction of the State.

The required far-seeing generalship of a real general to select an area for the state's terminal plant at an unused swampy area north of the city giving some 560 acres of land with long river frontage for immediate building operations and future expansion of the plant as well as providing areas for tonnage-producing industries until the land should be needed for still further expansion of the State's plant. Value added to this and by improvements and use accrues to the state and represents an item of public profit that should in-

Estate of Mattie Hand, deceased: Letters Testamentary under the Last Will and Testament of said deceased having been granted to the undersigned on the 8th day of November, 1938, by the Hon. J. the first units and the opening of the plant, in 1928, which were periods of organization and solicitation; of depression in the shipping trades throughout this country and the world; periods when the terminal property had never made enough of profit to meet all of the interest charges on its bonded indebtedness, in addition to the cost of maintaining the property and making such necessary additions as to meet the demands of commerce.

Here is what that another phase of generalship came into the picture. The legislature so amended the law governing the state Docks as to increase the powers and responsibilities of the Governor in relation thereto as usual to chairman of the commission and the vice-chairman. General R. E. Steiner of Montgomery, long active in the business of transportation, a lawyer familiar with both business and finance, also a former brigadier general in the World War was given leadership in the task of getting the property out of the "red".

The audit of the State's terminal business for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1938, shows what has been accomplished by General Steiner and the commission. All interest charges have been paid from earnings for the first time in the history of the state terminals and many other things have been accomplished. The commission is being congratulated for the achievement as well as for the building of the port's business to new high levels and making extensive repairs and improvements; all out of earnings and without calling on the State for additional expenditures from other funds.

Among the items acquired, as shown by the auditor's report was 40 box cars for use on the Terminal Railway, Alabama State Docks, so that it will no longer be necessary to hire cars in which to transport manufactured materials from plants on the dock's site to ships or freight arriving by ship to the plants. This purchase will effect considerable annual savings hereafter. A quick freezer was added to the cold storage plant which will increase its efficiency and also its earnings. A belt conveyor that will carry bauxite from the bulk materials plant to the Aluminum Company's smelter was added and there was an extension of the shed at Pier "C", which cost about $57,000. Arrangement and equipment of advantage than they ever before enjoyed. Other and new ways are being sought and found by which the State's terminals can be of direct and immediate value to the farmers and other citizens of Alabama.

With the beginning of the second administration of Governor Graves there was an increasing demand that the State Docks be made to pay. There had been years since the completion of the Free Trade Zone area to comply with Government requirements for such zones was accomplished at a cost of about $20,000. A spur track of the Terminal Railway was built to the Cyanamid plant. Altogether there are 25 items in the list of betterment", as recorded in the auditor's report and the total expenditure therefor was $198,572.89.

The total net earnings for the fiscal year 1938 showed $554,553.75, or an increase of $55,363.90 over those of 1937.

The members of the States Docks Commission, in addition to the chairman and vice chairman are Robert I. Ingall, of Birmingham; and Frank P. Folmar, of Mobile, who was appointed to succeed Frederick L. Thompson, who was placed by Governor Graves in the charge of the Free Trade Zone, at the State Docks and is working to make this a most important feature of the state's terminal system.

4-H CLUBS ARE HELPING TO PRESERVE FORESTS IN ALA.

One of the most important moves yet taken by conservation forces in Alabama is the project of county agents and 4-H Club leaders who are attacking the woods fire problem by securing community agreements against this destructive practice.

Beginning this month a large number of counties are sponsoring this activity through 4-H Clubs and club leaders who are organizing to secure as nearly as possible 100 percent pledges of local landowners and tenants to help fight fires to the finish. This is placed on a community basis as this is the unit on which such matters must eventually be thrashed out.

ADDERHOLD NAMED TO NEW POST WITH CHEVROLET CO.

Chevrolet's facilities for growth in the Southeastern region to which this territory belongs, have been increased by the creation of a new post, that of assistant regional manager in charge of new car operation. It was announced this week, D. F. Adderhold, formerly manager of the Charlotte Zone, has been named by W. E. Holler, general sales manager, to the new position.

Adderhold will assume duties connected with the supervision of new car and truck operation throughout this territory, acting as aide to L. S. Costey, manager of the Southeastern region. His appointment rounds out the region's executive personnel, which was augmented two years ago by creation of a national used car department, with specially trained personnel in each of the company's regions and zones.

Several years' diversified experience in the automotive industry qualify Adderhold for the post to which he has been advanced. He has been a member of the Chevrolet organization since April, 1932, serving in the Central office, and in several positions in the field.

His first assignment was as a representative in the Norwood, C. zone. He became truck and body manager there in January, 1934, and six months later he was promoted to regional truck and body manager at Boston, headquarters of the New England region. One year later he became Boston City manager, and on February 16,

Detroit, Mich.—The world premiere showing of "First Century of Baseball," new official American League sound motion picture commemorating the founding of the national pastime and the fifth of a series produced in cooperation with the Fisher Body Division of General Motors since 1935, will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, Thursday, December 15.

This was disclosed recently by League President William Harridge following a private showing of the film, which will be released early next year as part of the nation-wide celebration of the 100th anniversary of the game. The big names of baseball, including officials, club owners, managers and players, members of the baseball Writers Association and others attending the 3-day major league meeting in New York, December 13-15 are being invited to attend the preview as guests of Fisher Body.

"During the past four years," Mr. Harridge stated, "our pictures have been shown to more than 15,000,000 fans of all ages. We confidently expect that this year's production will play to larger audiences than ever before."

1936, was transferred to the Central office. On March 16, 1937, he was named Jacksonville zone manager, and on May 1, 1938, manager of the Charlotte zone, which he headed until his present advance.

Alabama Roads And Highways

Alabama has approximately 61,000 miles of public roads and highways. Six thousand five hundred miles of these roads are classed as State or Federal Aid Roads and are maintained by the State.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 1937-38 Alabama had a total of 1,999 miles of bituminous or asphalt roads which was more than double the number of miles of this class of paving at the beginning of the fiscal year 1934-35. Concrete paving increased during this period from 652 miles to 1,011 miles. By reason of paving, the number of miles of gravel and chert roads decreased from 2,944 to 2,414, and the sand-clay roads decreased in mileage from 785 to 698. Roads graded and drained decreased from 14,410 to 78 miles.

The maintenance of these roads for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937 cost $1,853,706.83. The maintenance was highest on the gravel and chert roads and lowest on the concrete. The average per mile on the gravel and chert roads was $272.10, while on the concrete roads it was $202.66. On bituminous roads the cost was $238.31 per mile and on sand-clay roads $255.58. The maintenance on the bituminous and the concrete roads was less than it was in 1934 but was more on other types. Concrete cost $255.69 in 1934 and bituminous $317.70.

The biggest item in the expense of maintenance was equipment. This item cost the Highway Department $55,731.22. Free labor used cost $509,587.96 and convict labor $138,828.38. Supplies cost $18,182.93 and materials $55,731.22. Supervisory expenses accounted for $90,665.71.

Highway statistics for the fiscal year just closed are not yet available but data recently compiled show that since the beginning of the present administration 2,200 miles of road have been built. This includes only road projects that have been completed and does not include those now under contract. Fifty-seven miles of these roads were concrete, 1,735 were asphalt, 220 were gravel, chert and sand-clay and 188 were simply graded and drained. The total cost of these roads was $640,016,000. Of this amount the Federal government contributed $24,951,000 and the State $34,177,000 and the counties $4,888,000.

THROUGH the growth of the motion picture business the public is becoming more and more picture-minded and advertisers have resorted in a large degree to the realism of pictures to increase the effectiveness of their advertising. The importance of good illustrative art in advertising is realized and advertisers are employing the best artists and illustrators for magazine work and to a certain degree for newspaper advertising.

If you are interested in advertising it is well to devote considerable study to the value of the illustration. If you are using illustrations in advertising copy here are some of the questions that should be asked: Will the picture assist in selling? Will it add to the composite appeal of the advertisement? Will it make the advertisement more dominant in competition with other displays? Will it clarify quickly, a complicated point? Will it possess vigorous human appeal? Will it be timely? Will it attract attention? Will it convey an instantaneous impression? In these days these things are to be expected of illustrations.

While the value of good illustration in advertising is recognized, modern typography has improved to such a degree and so many new artistic type faces are available that an all-type advertisement can in some cases be entirely satisfactory. It is, therefore, an error to assume broadly that every advertisement should be illustrated, but every square inch of advertising space should contribute something toward satisfactory results in sales and profit.

Average Alabama
Family Will Spend
$47.76 On Shopping

Alabama's families will spend an average of $47.76 apiece this year for Christmas as their share of the nation's forecast two-billion dollar total, the National Consumers Tax Commission estimated recently.

Of this amount, they will pay, most of them unknowingly, $7.31 in hidden taxes, according to the report announced at National Consumers Tax Commission headquarters in Chicago by Mrs. Kenneth C. Frazier, President. The study indicated, she said, that total national retail sales for 1938 will "equal or surpass" the 1937 volume of nearly 40 billion dollars, and the average Christmas expenditures of the nation's families will be $62.50, of which $9.57 will account for hidden taxes.

Mrs. Willie Hughes Tarpley of Birmingham is the NCTC national committee member in Alabama.

In releasing the report, Mrs. Frazier explained that while many families will spend less than the national Yule estimate, expenditures of those in the upper income group will bring the average to that figure.

The "holiday business" volume, she said, was based on reports from all retail businesses, including department, specialty, novelty, jewelry, variety and dry goods stores, food, drug, furniture, household furnishings and automotive lines.

Indirect levies not only add to the price of Christmas purchases, but to the price of food, clothing and other year-round necessities, Mrs. Frazier said in commenting on the report's hidden tax figure.

She described the NCTC as a "non-partisan women's organization with more than 1800 units throughout the country analyzing all taxes, and combating those which penalize the consumer."

Some Facts About Tuberculosis In Ala

More than 55 percent of all tuberculosis cases reported in 1937 to the Bureau of Preventive Diseases were among those between 20 and 44 years of age, the period known as "the prime of life," the State Department of Health announced recently.

"Although the age group between twenty and forty-four includes only about 35 percent of the State's population, 1,685 of the total of 3,021 cases of tuberculosis entered on the State Department records between January 1 and December 31 occurred among those in that age group," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, in commenting upon this phase of the tuberculosis problem. "This emphasizes one of the greatest tragedies of the disease, which ranks in sixth place in Alabama as a cause of death. Whereas many other serious illnesses strike their victims after their normal years of greatest usefulness have passed or before they reach maturity, tuberculosis is particularly prevalent among those who should be making this greatest contribution to their families and their communities and when their economic responsibilities are usually greatest."

Sometimes people are inclined to talk about the progress that is being made in a certain county and when the show-down comes there is a great deal of theoretical and abstract evidence of possible progress with very sketchy if any permanent and tangible evidence of an accomplishment that marks real progress.

Not so though up in dear old Coosa County. Those folks up there have for a County Agent a man who pins more hope in livestock improvement and expansion than in any other and more theoretical methods that are being advocated.

This man, E. N. Merriweather, to whom I refer, is a man of action and, as the catch phrase puts it "will stick his neck out" when he sees or hears about something that will help his county. Recently there was advertised a sale of purchased jerseys in South Georgia in which would be sold some of the best blood of the breed. Merriweather acted on his impulse and showed up at this sale with the intention of buying a few bulls and a heifer or two for some 4-H Club boys. When the sale was over the

EVERY now and then a poultry raiser walks in and reports that his hens aren't doing so good in egg production. We switch them to Purina Laying, the complete laying feed, or Purina Lay Chow, the supplement to go with home grown grain, and in a short time those poultry raisers are back telling us they can see the difference Purina makes. Their hens are doing better. Stop in and let us show you the egg records of many poultry raisers around here who are getting ahead feeding Purina Laying Chow!

REV. W. M. JUDGE (Colored)

"Editor, Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.
"Dear Sir:

"Please allow me space in your great paper to publish the passing of one of the oldest colored ministers of Chilton County, in the person of Rev. W. M. Judge of Verbena.

"He was known by all to be a true law abiding citizen, having spent 45 years preaching in the gospel in Chilton, Autauga, Montgomery, Elmore and Coosa Counties. The death of Rev. W. M. Judge can hardly be replaced in coming generations through the young people of today. Since Rev. Judge moved into this section of the State, he has built and maintains many churches. The aged minister was born in the year of 1857, in Montgomery County, and has spent 45 years of his life in this section, laboring for what was the best interest of the lost man's soul.

"And today we say of the Rev. W. M. Judge, 'take your rest and rest on. We know you have labored hard these many years.'"

"Julius C. Adams, Verbena, Ala., Rte. 2"

FOUR CHILTON STUDENTS ENROLLED AT LIVINGSTON NOW

Livingston—Seventy seven students have entered Livingston State Teachers College during the last few weeks of school. They were drawn from among the highest ranking students in their respective high school classes.

Total number of students now at Livingston State Teachers College from Chilton County is four. There are as follows: Agnes Bullard, Muriel DeLoach, Annie Haggard and Agnes Kel-record showed that nine bulls and seven heifers had been purchased for shipment to Coosa County, Alabama.

Sure, Coosa is not a County famed for its dairy industry, but ninety percent of the citizens of the County secure their dairy supplies from a family cow. With the use of these richly bred bulls which will be placed over the county the generation of family cows for the next twenty years will be better and the production of milk will be increased possibly two hundred pounds per year. Not only will the families have more abundant milk supply but new revenue will be provided from the sale of high quality dairy stock.

In addition to the good bulls and heifers more than 25 purchased boars have recently been introduced into the county. Coosa County pins its hopes for future welfare on the Cow and the Sow instead of on the Mule and the Plow

Congratulations to Coosa County!

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

On December 7th, it being my birthday, (and I had forgotten about it), wife and I had gone to visit some of my sick members and when we returned, just before noon, four of my members from two of my churches, Shiloh and Bethsalem, were at our home waiting for us and asked if I did not know that it was my birthday. Then I remembered that I was 69 years old that day. Then they presented me a nice little box and when I had opened, what do you suppose I found. Well, since you can't guess, I will tell you. It had $45 all in dimes and if you had to guess how I felt, you could not do it, for I can't tell myself. I can't find words to express the gratitude-in my heart. I pray God's richest blessings upon everyone that had any part in making this birthday present possible. Many thanks to everyone of you.—W. P. Lowery.

DEPOSITORS OF CUBA BANK TO RECEIVE INS. PAYMENT

Within a short time the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is expected to begin payments to depositors of the Bank of Cuba, Alabama, which closed on November 16, 1938.

The bank held total deposits of approximately $100,000.00 at the time of the suspension and it is estimated that almost the entire amount is insured by the Corporation. There are about 1,200 depositors in the bank.

This was the first closing of an insured bank in the State of Alabama since the beginning of deposit insurance on January 1, 1934.

OFFICIALS OF FLORENCE MAKE SURVEY OF FORMER STUDENTS

By a recently inaugurated plan all faculty members of Florence State Teachers College are spending one day of each quarter visiting schools where Florence graduates are employed and observing them in their work. The purpose of these surveys is to see how effectively the instruction received at the college carries over and to find weaknesses, if any, authorities say.

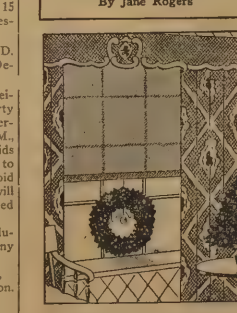

All types of schools are included in the itinerary which has been planned by a committee, the personnel of which is Miss Mary R. Richeson, supervising critic of the Junior high department; chairman; Dr. C. D. Collier, dean of faculty; Miss Cora Pearson, supervisor of the training school; Miss Corinne Tuthill, head of the department of art.

Lauderdale and Colbert Counties are now being visited in cooperation with the supervisors of the two counties.

During a ten-year period, 1927 to 1937, United States Internal Revenue Collection increased from $2,865,683,130 to $4,653,195,315. The collections in Alabama increased from $6,364,860.80 in 1936 to $16,886,444.05 in 1938. These figures are for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

FALL and winter holidays are just around the corner. That means guests for dinner, children home from school, parties for them and in general, open house.

You will no doubt redecorate your home with fresh curtains and draperies, but we'd suggest you begin this process from the bottom and start with fresh cloth window shades.

Harmonize your window shades with the gaiety of the holiday season; get that rich warm tone called chrysanthemum yellow, or sunrose; both brighter than your rooms and actually seem to bring the sunshine indoors on dull days, for both these colors reflect light.

If you want to keep your home snug and warm hang two cloth window shades at every window, for two shades conserve as much as 45% possible heat loss. It is well to select a decorative color for the inside rooms, such as larkspur blue, springeal green, chrysanthemum yellow and sunrose. Then choose conservative white or ecru for the shades next to the glass and thus present a uniform appearance to the street. The whole effect is of course very epic and span.

FARMERS RECEIVE BENEFITS FROM GOOD MILK COWS

Folks milk cows to make a living or to supplement their present farm income. In some sections of Alabama the dairy cow has brought the hard-working, energetic farm family many conveniences through the sale of her products—milk and butterfat.

It is very apparent, however, says F. W. Burns, extension dairyman, that home dairy farmers have been able to buy more things with the money coming from their cows than others.

A cow producing 300 pounds of butterfat per year will return an income over feed costs of about $30 with the present price of butterfat. Two such cows would return in a year enough money to buy a $60 radio.

The average cow in Alabama produces about 140 pounds of butterfat per year and possibly can pay out about $1 per year over and above her feed costs. To buy the same radio, a farmer must milk 60 average cows.

Two producing cows offer little hope to the man who is anxious to better his living or working conditions. High producing cows still hold out promise of returns sufficient to satisfy some wants of the farm family.

We have shown that good cows offer but average returns. Poor cows have even greater effect. They may eat up profits made by good cows, according to Burns.

Poor cows make surprises also. The two 300-pound butterfat cows put on the market 600 pounds of butterfat to get the $60 necessary to buy the radio. The 60 average cows would have to put on the market $400 pounds of butterfat to buy the same radio.

Since Alabama farmers must compete with farmers who can produce corn, hay and pasture even more economically than we can, it is very important that we market our feed through high producing dairy cows if we expect to compete with them. To secure this type of cow we must breed to production bred sires instead of the common scrub sires so generally used at the present time.

Bondsmen Pay $738,000 To State of Alabama

Montgomery—Approximately $738,000 has been collected from county officials and their bonding companies for discrepancies since the beginning of the inauguration of Governor Graves in January, 1935. The chief executive announced recently. Pending cases, the Governor estimated, involve this much more.

The Chief Executive said he was "proud" that not one cent has been collected from any bonding company because of a discrepancy or shortage of any state employee. About $300,000 must have been handled in the four-year period, the Governor estimated. Some of the collections against county officials, he said, can be charged to bookkeeping errors, lack of the knowledge of certain laws and honest mistakes.

CURB MARKETS IN ALABAMA PROVIDE SALES FOR PRODUCTS

Alabama's curb markets located in key towns over the state, which did business amounting to $280,936.46 during the first nine months of 1938 provided a market for practically every farm and home product of Alabama, says Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent. Here's what Alabama home demonstration women and farmers brought to the curb markets in September and early October:

Butter, eggs, buttermilk, peas, butterbeans, egg plants, okra, turnips and turnip greens, sweet potatoes, peaches, apples, pomegranates, peppers, flowers, syrup, pepper sauce, honey, candy, cottage cheese, cakes, doughnuts, cookies, jellies, pickles, relishes, pear mince-meat, meal, cahuas, smocks, aprons, sunsuits, organdy flower, corn, tomatoes, snapbeans, spinach, onions, collards, fyers, dressed hens, home-cured, meats, hominy, sugarcane, rutabagas, scuppernons, Irish potatoes, potted plants and other products.

PRINTING IN THE U. S. A.

Newsweek reminds us that this is the 300th year of printing in the United States, although the art was practiced in Mexico 100 years earlier. The first printing press to be brought to Massachusetts was a second-hand one which arrived from England in 1638.

After a visit to America, the Rev. Joseph Glover, a well-to-do minister of Surrey, returned to England, resigned his pastorate and decided to found a college in the colonies. With his wife, the printing press, and a printer named Stephen Daye, he sailed again for America, but died at sea.

Shortly after his widow's arrival in Boston, she married the Rev. Henry Dunster, the first president for Harvard, and the printing press was set up there with Daye in charge of the shop, which later became known as the University Press.

Copies of four publications by Daye still exist, one of which, "The Bay Palm Book," printed in 1640 is one of the most valuable rare books in English in the world.

The first book printed in the Western world is said to have been a religious tract in Spanish called "Escala Espiritual," published by Juan Pablos in Mexico City in 1537.

SOIL CONSERVATION DEPT. C. C. C. Camp 3481 - SCS - Ala. 7

Tree Planting Season Near

Cooperating farmers in the Soil Conservation area near here will plant approximately 150,000 trees on steep and severely eroded land this winter as a part of the erosion-control program on their farms, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

This will bring the total number of trees planted in the area to approximately 1,450,000. These trees will not only protect the land against erosion, but will also provide fuel, farm lumber, and eventually a crop of logs from land which cannot be used safely nor profitably for production of other crops, Mr. Wood pointed out.

Demonstrations of proper woodland management, meanwhile, are being carried out on existing woodland, where farmers are now obtaining their winter fuel supply by improvement cuttings, which consist of removing unthrifty and defective trees. This leaves the straight, rapid-growing trees to grow to larger size and be harvested later for saw logs.

Many farmers formerly cut their best trees for fuel wood and left the inferior trees, which resulted in the gradual deterioration of the stand and gave them little incentive to maintain the land in trees, Mr. Wood explained.

As a part of the woodland management program, Service Foresters are marking trees to be left in the stand for the timber crop on a portion of the woodland on each cooperating farm. By following the demonstrated method, farmers will be able to produce a profitable timber crop which will justify their efforts in protecting their woods and maintaining the land in trees, Mr. Wood said.

Woodland Management Prevents Fires

Woodland fires have caused heavy damage in several Southern States this Fall, but cooperating farmers in the erosion control demonstration area near Clanton have lost less than two percent of the woodland on their farms has burned over this season.

Before these farmers adopted fire prevention as one of the erosion control practices, Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent, reports that more than twenty percent of the woodland burned over each year.

A single spark falling on dry leaves in a woodland can destroy many acres of valuable erosion resisting cover as well as young trees, Mr. Wood stated. Leaves provide cover for the ground and protect the soil against beating rains and the erosive effects of run off water. By absorbing water that cannot immediately soak into the ground, this sponge-like cover prevents a large part of the water that falls during heavy rains from rushing down steep slopes and across lower-lying cultivated fields, field in this touristy reservoir, the surplus water soaks into the ground as rapidly as it can be absorbed.

Farmers in the demonstration area have planted more than 1,300,000 trees on steep and badly eroded land since they began the erosion-control program three years ago, Mr. Wood reports. They are adopting the crop tree method of woodland management, which along with fire prevention calls for thinning out crowded, crooked and diseased trees as they are needed and harvesting from the land each year no more timber than was grown that year.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training School, International Correspondence Schools

ACCOUNTANCY has firmly established itself as the most indispensable tool available to business. A good accounting system not only reveals the trend and the present condition of a concern, but supplies the figures needed to control its operations in coming periods. A good accounting system does this, not only for a business as a whole, but for each individual department in the business.

The employee who wishes to secure advancement should be guided by the remark made by the president of a large company. He said: "I seldom can promote old employees to supervisory positions because they do not have a sufficient understanding of accounting to operate departments economically and efficiently. Unless a supervisor is accounting-minded, he cannot control the expenses for which he is responsible."

If a knowledge of accounting is indispensable to minor supervisors and department heads, how much more necessary is it to owners and senior executives. Competition is so keen today that few businesses can survive unless losses are eliminated and effort concentrated on the most profitable operations. Good accounting tells the merchant those lines which are profitable and indicates those expenses that are excessive.

Through accounting the manufacturer can learn what it costs to produce, sell, and deliver a unit of product to different types of customers in different areas and thus to set prices accurately. In addition it enables him to control manufacturing, selling, and administrative expenses. In short, it makes profitable operation possible.

White Christmas For Methodist Orphanage

Birmingham—Plans for carrying on the White Christmas Campaign in behalf of the Alabama Methodist Orphanage at Selma have been perfected, according to Kenneth E. Cooper, of this City, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Orphanage, sponsoring this campaign to raise $5,000 to meet the needs of this institution during the ensuing year. The funds are to be used not only to provide for the 153 children now being cared for at that institution, but also provide room and facilities for many others seeking admission.

"We are asking all Sunday Schools to immediately conduct an every-member solicitation through their various classes," said Chairman Cooper. "On December 11 each pupil is to be given a card holding $1 in nickels and dimes, or a tiny sock which will hold $1 in small change, to be returned to the class on December 18. The adult classes are asked to give their active members a list of names to solicit for contributions to the Orphanage. This program has worked out successfully in a number of the larger churches of the state.

Provisions should be made for each class to present its offering at the White Christmas Service on December 18. If no White Christmas exercises are held, gifts from the class will be brought together at appropriate exercises of the entire Sunday School. The men's class of each church, in addition to soliciting its own membership, is urged to solicit others in the community who are likely to be interested in helping an orphanage at Christmas time."

Program suggestions and other information with reference to the "White Christmas" Orphanage campaign may be obtained from Mrs. Paul Lanier, office manager of the campaign, at 738 First National Bank Bldg., Birmingham.

This orphanage is the joint responsibility to the North Alabama Conference of the Methodist Church, South, and the appeal for contributions is made to the members in both conferences, but "Christmas gifts" for the maintenance of these scores of helpless little ones from other generously disposed citizens will also be appreciated by the Board of Directors and the sponsors of this campaign.

All contributions may be sent to

TEMPORARY PASTURES FOR EROSION CONTROL USED HERE

The one-pasture system, like the 1-crop system, can usually be improved from the standpoint of erosion control, according to James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service area here.

Temporary pastures of crimson clover, rye, rye grass, oats and vetch will provide winter and early spring grazing. If inadequate temporary pastures are developed, the cattle and work stock can be removed from the regular pasture early in the fall protecting it until good growth has been made in the Spring. The temporary pastures should not be grazed during wet periods.

This means that both areas will be benefited from this practice. The winter legumes and grain will help to protect the land they occupy from erosion during the winter months and the regular pasture will maintain a more erosion-resistant soil if it is not grazed too late in the fall nor too early in the spring.

Another advantage is that with winter pasture available it will not be necessary to feed so much corn. More of the land ordinarily devoted to the growing of corn can then be planted to cross-growing crops that will protect the land from washing.

Aunt Sarah Gudge, 122-year-old former colored slave, died recently in Ashville, N. C., as she had predicted she would—"propped up in bed taking life fair and easy 'til Ole Marster comes me away."

Rev. R. J. Mills, Superintendent of the orphanage, at Selma, W. H. Plant, of Selma, is treasurer of this institution.

IN MEMORY

On Friday, November 25, 1938, the death angel visited our home and took away our beloved father.

Daddy, why did you have to leave us in this world so sad and lone? Yet angels saw fit to gather 'round you And carry you to a white and happy throne.

We miss you, yes, we miss you Your face no more we shall see. But we know you are in heaven Where we all long to be.

A vacant place you left Your voice we love, is still Our home is so lonesome without you Your dear place can never be filled

When Heaven's gates are opened And they swing wide apart Remember dear daddy I still love you Although we had to part.

JAMES BROWN IS KILLED LAST SUNDAY P.M.

Jr. Ingram In Jail Charged With Fatal Shooting On Coosa River 1938

James W. Brown, age 22, son of W. M. (Dick) Brown, who resides six miles east of Clanton, was shot to death last Sunday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock, by Junior Ingram, age 18, who is alleged to have killed Brown with a twelve-gauge shotgun following a quarrel just across the Coosa River from the Higgins Camp.

According to Sheriff J. R. Hardy, who was called to the scene of the shooting, Brown was shot following a quarrel between he and Ingram, which occurred on the Coosa side of the river. Leroy Martin, who was at the J. M. Martin Camp on the Chilton side, stated he heard the shot and that shortly afterwards two eye-witnesses to the shooting, William Willis, and a young lady, Miss Audrey Bates, placed the dying young man in a boat and brought him across to the Chilton side. Martin stated that he immediately placed Brown in a car and brought him to the Central Alabama Hospital. He died on the way.

Sheriff Hardy stated to a representative of the News that Willis made the statement to him that the four had started to cross the river in a boat, but that a quarrel ensued between Brown and Willis, and then ran. Sheriff Hardy stated that when he arrived on the scene Ingram was in the middle of the river in a boat and he immediately secured a boat and along with his deputies, rowed out and placed Ingram under arrest.

Ingram was placed in the Chilton County Jail and charged with murder. Brown is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brown, two sisters, Misses Annie and Pluma Brown.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock from the Providence Church with the Rev. M. Lockhart in charge. Interment was in the nearby cemetery with J. M. Martin & Sons in charge.

Palbearers were Elvin Mims, Reuben Popwell, Marion Mims, Melvin Powell, Cleveland Driver and John Hancock.

FARMERS OF CHILTON VOTE FOR QUOTAS

Vote For Government Control In Chilton Is 79.88 Percent

Chilton County farmers voted in favor of maintaining quotas last Saturday's referendum. Final tabulations showed the vote as 2,220 for and 559 against Government control of the marketing cotton during next year.

Chilton's Vote averaged 79.88 percent, and was above the two-thirds majority required for the marketing measure to be imposed. Alabama farmers, as a whole, voiced a loud "yes" in the referendum on whether they favored government control measures for the 1939 cotton crop.

As latest tabulations showed a vote of 164,799 for and 15,965 against quotas, Senator John H. Bankhead and Speaker William B. Bankhead, advocates of cotton control, expressed gratification over result of the referendum throughout the cotton belt.

Architect Employed For New School Bldg.

Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little stated this week that E. B. Van Keuren has been employed by the Board of Education for architectural services on the proposed new high school building which will replace the one destroyed by fire recently.

Mr. Van Keuren is not new to the people of this section, as he was employed as an architect for the City Hall here, also for the Julius Burnett home.

At a special meeting of the members of the Board of Education last Friday, T. L. McKee was awarded the contract for clearing away the ruins of the old building.

Supt. Little stated that plans and specifications are rapidly being developed for the erection of a new plant, and that a substantial Federal grant has been promised as financial assistance. More detail will be announced later.

The story of her life is most interesting, and her plans are to return to her native land as a Missionary when she has completed her studies in the United States.

Those who drew names for the Christmas party are asked to remember the date of the party, and those wishing to give presents to Miss Korotuk are asked to have them at the church by 5:00 P.M.

Emergency Water Line To Blacksnake Creek

Officials of the Alabama State Department of Health were in Clanton Wednesday of this week making plans for the laying of an emergency water pipe to the Blacksnake Creek, about a mile north of Clanton, to secure water for the City's consumption until the waterworks improvement project can be completed.

The Health Department will treat the water, which will require a different treatment from that being administered to the present supply which has become inadequate.

The News is informed that a two or three inch pipe will be sufficient to get the amount of water needed at this time, which will be pumped to the storage tanks and treated.

Those who have received the seals through the mails and have not responded are being asked to buy as many as possible and return the remainder as early as possible.

Clanton's Civic Organizations Planning To Make Christmas Happy For Needy

Three of four of Clanton's civic organizations are again this year planning to make Christmas Day mean more to the needy of Clanton and Chilton County than merely December 25, according to plans going forward this week.

One of the most interesting and worthwhile programs in this respect is being carried out by the Clanton Study Club, which has been collecting old toys from the homes of the county where they had been discarded by the former owners. The collection of the toys has been in charge of the Education Committee.

Members of this committee announced some time ago that the toys would be collected up through December 17, but that they would accept toys in good condition after this date. The toys are being repaired and rebuilt and will be distributed to the under-

THREE FIRES IN CLANTON DURING PAST FEW DAYS

The fire siren has continued to shriek occasionally in Clanton during the past few days, but each time the Volunteer Fire Department has been successful in extinguishing the blaze before it could gain headway, except in one instance.

Last Friday night about dark the garage of George McCain beyond West End was completely destroyed by fire, although no automobile was inside. Sufficient headway had been gained by the blaze until the local department could do nothing to prevent its complete destruction.

There were two alarms Sunday, one about 12:30 was some bushes south of town ablaze. The fire was extinguished in short order. The other one, about 5:30, was the home of Mrs. K. Campbell near north Clanton. Little damage was done before the blaze was extinguished.

Tax Collector, Assessor Issue People Reminder

Tax Collector T. L. McKee and Assessor Arthur D. Martin are this week reminding those persons who have not had their land assessed and paid taxes that this must be attended to before January 1, or pay a penalty.

The Messrs. McKee and Martin stated that those having homesteads would lose the exemption on same and will also have the penalty to pay unless the matter is attended to before January 16, after the January first deadline.

These two gentlemen stated that they have been as lenient with the taxpayers as possible, but the law requires that taxes must be paid before a certain date.

LOCAL THEATRE TO SHOW 'BOYS' TOWN' HERE SOON

Glancing over the schedule of pictures for the coming week at the local Wadesonian Theatre we find that "Boys Town", truly one of the outstanding pictures of the year, has been booked for next Wednesday and Thursday, December 21-22.

"Boys Town" stars Mickey Rooney, one of this year's outstanding young cinema stars and Spencer Tracy, who is at his best in this picture. The News wishes to recommend this portrayal of the story of Father Flannagan and his "Boys Town" in Kansas. This is a real town in Kansas and is made up in population of homeless boys, who govern themselves, under the guiding hand of Father Flannagan.

The Wadesonian has also booked several more outstanding pictures of the year including "If I Were A King", starring Ronald Colman and Frances Dee.

Farmers Are Warned Of Hog Cholera In Co.

Assistant County Agent B. N. Ivey stated this week that farmers of the County should use caution in buying hogs off out-of-County trucks. He stated that several hogs had died over the County within the past few days from an outbreak of Cholera, which he believed was started by several farmer buying hogs with the disease from trucks coming here from other parts of the State.

Many hogs have been vaccinated by the County Agent's Office and Dr. W. L. Parrish within the past few days.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS WILL BE PLACED OVER CITY THIS WEEK

Again this year the Clanton Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the erection of various colored Christmas lights over the City. For the past several years the Club has sponsored the lights, which cover the main sections of the City.

Money for the lighting is solicited from the merchants and it is through their liberal contributions that the City enjoys this effect that shows the real Christmas Spirit of Clanton.

Examiner Commends Work In Education

Dr. W. L. Parrish, member of the County Board of Education, asks that his personal gratitude and satisfaction be expressed regarding his two years connection with the Education work of the County, and in that connection, he handed us a letter from Mr. J. H. Johnson assistant examiner of Accounts for the State Board of Education, which we publish below and which is self-explanatory:

"Dr. W. L. Parrish, Chairman, County Board of Education, Clanton, Alabama

"Dear Dr. Parrish:

"I have just completed an audit of the books and records in the Superintendent's office. I desire to make the following statement, which you may pass on to the other members of the Board.

"During the period covered by this examination this office has been charged with the responsibility of receiving and spending about $735,000.00. It is indeed gratifying to know that not one penny of this money has been illegally spent.

"I have found in this office one of the most complete and best kept set of records that I have found anywhere in the State. This is indeed a high compliment to Mr. Smith, your courteous and efficient secretary and bookkeeper, and Mrs. Little, your efficient and courteous County Superintendent of Education.

"These remarks would not be complete without saying a word about Mr. Page, your custodian of school funds. I found him to be very courteous and cooperative. His records, too, were found to be in excellent condition.

"Very sincerely yours,

"J. H. Johnson,

"Asst. Examiner of Accts."

CLYDE WARD IS VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Dies Of Injuries Sustained In Collision Last Monday Night

Three auto wrecks near Clanton during the past several days took the life of a Clanton youth and seriously injured one other, while two more persons received less severe injuries as results of the accidents.

Clyde Ward, age 23, of West End Clanton, died Monday night about eleven o'clock from a fractured skull received when a pick-up truck he was driving collided with a truck on a curve just below the Jones Tourist Camp, one mile south of Clanton on the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway. The accident occurred about 5:15 o'clock.

Two other occupants of the pick-up, C. L. Carter, operator of a sandwich shoppe in West End, and Luther Hayes, also of West End, received injuries. Carter received severe cuts about the head and back. His condition was considered serious. Hayes received painful cuts and bruises about the head and body, but none were considered serious. They were carried to the Central Alabama Hospital in a Martin ambulance, where Ward died five hours later.

Occupants of the other truck were not injured. They were M. F. Cowles, driver, and his brother, Robert Cowles, both of Kansas. Their truck was empty and headed south. Ward's truck was headed north.

Patrolman Wallace Waites, who investigated the accident, stated that the Cowles brothers were being held pending further investigation, although the cause of the accident could not be determined other than that the lights of the truck had blinded Ward or Cowles as they rounded the curve.

Funeral services for Ward were held Wednesday at 11:00 A.M. from the Liberty Hill Church, four miles west of Clanton, with the Rev. E. C. Trice conducting and Spigner Funeral Home in charge of burial, which was in the nearby cemetery.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ward and one brother, Vincent Ward, of West End. He was employed on the Cus. Passaic Project at the time of his death and was at one time employed by the Chilton County News.

Palbearers were Ted Wilson, How-

A Christmas Suggestion

This paper has a suggestion that would add greatly to the happiness of the world if it could be followed Christmas Day by both newspapers and radio broadcasting stations.

The suggestion is idealistic and therefore will not be adopted, for it is too old-timey.

Suppose that all of the newspapers, weekly and daily, would print nothing but good news on Christmas Day! Wouldn't it add a great deal to the enjoyment of the occasion? The thread of general news could be resumed next day, with the murders, the wrecks, the strikes, wars and rumors of war. Losing one day of the horrors of every-day news would do no harm.

We believe further that too much emphasis is given to bad news in all the publications. The moment a horrible, lifelike wreck or other catastrophe occurs, the papers run out an extra edition and the thrill-hungry populace eats up the smallest details. Such things are bound to have a bad psychological effect upon the masses.

We never see an extra come out concerning an event of good to humanity. If something, was invented that would bring happiness to thousands in the way of relieving their labors, it would never take precedence over a bloody murder in the news columns.

And on Christmas Day, when we are in the midst of our celebration, with the children and grandchildren, would it not be better for the radio news to tell of something bright and cheerful, instead of reminding us of horrors, of beasts such as Hitler, of suffering and death. It would be fine, just for one day, Christmas, the Holy Day, to spread joyous tidings instead of the reverse.

This paper doesn't expect this idea to be followed out—we wish that it could be. It is just one of those things that would cause too much joy, so man, in his stubbornness, cannot afford to have one day free of thrills and turmoil.

After Christmas Day, if the above idea was adopted, we could return to bloody details of wrecks, murders, fires, and even read about Germany and her horrible treatment of a helpless minority.—Montgomery Weekly.

At Christmas Time, Don't Forget The Seals

The significance of Christmas is doubled for those who use the anti-tuberculosis Christmas Seals. For when a package is wrapped with these seals, it means two presents are given. The gift goes to one person, but the price of the seal goes to some poor and unfortunate person battling against tuberculosis, or to the work of prevention.

Let not the public get the idea that because tuberculosis has lost its first position in the mortality lists that the 'white plague', as Oliver Wendell Holmes called it first, is still not one of humanity's most dangerous diseases. Tuberculosis today kills more of America's most vigorous population than any other disease. It is still the most dangerous disease for young manhood and young womanhood.

But all cases of tuberculosis, except the most advanced, can be cured. The victim need not be discouraged, although despondency is a morbid symptom of the disease. What is needed, however, is prolonged and careful care.

And this is where the Jefferson County Anti-Tuberculosis Association comes in. Although handicapped by lack of sanitarium room, the association goes on with its prevention work and its care for the victims.

Through the Christmas Seals, all may join in this fight against a preventable and curable disease. All may enlist for a crusade against death and suffering and privation.

Those give twice who give with Christmas Seals.—Birmingham News.

"Is There A Santa Claus?"

When eight-year-old Virginia O' Hanlon, 115 West Ninety-fifth street, New York, wrote the editor of the New York Sun, in 1897, asking him to "tell the truth; is there a Santa Claus?" he assigned one of the best writers on The Sun, Francis P. Church, to go into the highways and byways of New York, among the high and the low, the rich and the poor, and find out the truth: "Is there a Santa Claus?" The Sun's answer to Virginia was the result of the investigation:

"Dear Editor: I am 8 years old.

"Some of my friends say there is no Santa Claus.

"Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun, it's so.

"Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus.

"Virginia O'Hanlon,
"115 West Ninety-fifth st."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, VIRGINIA, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in SANTA CLAUS! you might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no SANTA CLAUS. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! He lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood.

We heard a great deal about the free press, but what a lot of propagandists object to is that newspapers won't publish their rot free. SIX CASES OF WHOOPING COUGH REPORTED IN CO. LAST YEAR and hundreds of other things to interest him.

Six cases of whooping cough were reported from Chilton County last year, giving a morbidity rate of 2.3 per 100,000 for this disease, according to the 1937 annual report of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Department of Health.

"Whooping cough is one of the chief causes of death among children, especially those under one year of age," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer. "Last year 195 deaths were attributed to it in this State. There is no doubt that it was indirectly responsible for more deaths, because it often leaves the patient much more susceptible to other diseases, such as pneumonia and Tuberculosis, it is an all-year disease. Every month last year brought more than 50 reported cases."

Dr. Baker pointed out that whooping cough is spread chiefly by coughing and is particularly contagious in the early stages. A child with this disease should be kept away from all other children, he added, and all discharges from the nose and throat should be destroyed.

Morning Thoughts Of Dec. 10
This is a day we should long remember for it is the day of New Deal right and a day for voters to vote right. It is a day when we should study. It is a day when roads are not so muddy. It is a day when many people weep and many people are still asleep. Many people need to be awakened for it is a day when nations are shaken. Poor people are living in fear and dread and some are falling over and are dead. Some have nothing to eat and nothing to sell not even a bushel of corn to shell. I guess it must be really true that they cannot find work to do and all this new deal farming it getting somewhat real alarming and some farmers have broken their suspenders and are ready to knock New Deal to fenders.—Retired Farmer.

Progress In Sanitation Clanton Reported

Marked improvement in the sanitation of Clanton following the adoption in the City Court of an ordinance in July 1938, was reported by the County Health Department this week. A total of 50 new sanitary pit privies have been built in Clanton since the adoption of the ordinance, according to Mr. Fred H. Bucklew, County Sanitation Officer. In addition, 49 old privies were restored to sanitary condition, the report showed. Of the 50 new privies 12 were installed at newly erected homes. Eleven new connections to the City sewer were reported for the year 1938.

"There remains," declared Mr. Bucklew, "approximately 90 houses within the corporate limits which are yet without sanitation. The Health Department, however, is receiving cooperation from several large property owners which should serve as a great boon to the program in Clanton. It is our goal to erase the open-back insanitary privy from the City of Clanton."

Free W.P.A. labor for the building of pit privies is available to all property owners, the Health Department bulletin revealed.

DR. STONEWALL JACKSON PASSES IN WADSWORTH

Dr. Stonewall Jackson, 76, died yesterday at his home at Wadsworth, Autauga County, after an extended illness. He was well known in Montgomery and throughout this territory where he practiced his profession for many years. He also practiced in Florida and Oklahoma a number of years ago.

He was a graduate of the Southern Medical College in Atlanta, now the School of Medicine at Emory University. Dr. Jackson, one of Autauga's most progressive citizens, was active in politics in his county for many years. He was also a baseball fan and liked other athletics, but the national pastime was his favorite among all sporting events. Dr. Jackson was an active member of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Green Wadsworth, of Montgomery and Mrs. Henry Arnold, Spigner, one son, W. W. Jackson of Wadsworth and a number of grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held yesterday from the family residence, Spigner in charge. Burial was in the family cemetery nearby.

MAKES OWN ARTIFICIAL LEGS FROM COTTONWOOD LOG

Unable to buy a pair of artificial legs after he lost both of his legs in a train accident, Henry Falls, Oklahoma Negro youth, whittled some from an old cottonwood log.

Representatives of artificial limb manufacturers who later saw the pair of wooden ones Falls made, said they were a "remarkable piece of workmanship." Falls was guided by the illustrations in a catalog of artificial limbs he obtained. His only tools were pocket knife, rusty saw and hammer.

New York State was the first to license motor vehicles, beginning in 1901 collecting $954 that year. In 1937 it took in $52,901,000.

Project Assistants Prove Valuable In C. C. C. Work Here

A work crew of C. C. C. Company 3481, Clanton, has been engaged in constructing a huge concrete pool at the S. C. S. Nursery at Thorsby. This pool is to be used for storing water for irrigation purposes.

One of the members, Eurrell Dobbs, project assistant, proved to be an outstanding man on this work. Dobbs, as a member of the Engineering Party, displayed a great deal of knowledge of construction work.

This man entered Company 3481 as a Local Experienced Man in August of 1935. His knowledge of Chilton County was valuable in the collecting of pine cones. He was then assigned to the Engineering Party, and earned the title of the hardest worker in the Company. When L.E.M.'s were abolished he was appointed Camp Assistant. When that position was also abolished he was appointed project Assistant.

Before entering the C.C.C., Dobbs

ROSE BOWL RIVALS

Of all post-season football games, that played in Pasadena's famous Rose Bowl annually holds chief interest for the nation's fans. The game to be played on January 2nd between Southern California and Duke will be no exception, as some unusual circumstances will lend interest to the contest.

In the first place, Howard Jones and Wallace Wade, head coaches of the respective teams, are both veteran Rose Bowl contenders, each having piloted teams there three times without a defeat, although Wade once played to a tie.

While head coach at Alabama, Wade defeated Washington in 1926, tied Stanford in 1927, and beat Washington State in 1931. Jones led Southern California to victory over Pittsburgh in 1930.

was connected with some of the largest construction companies in the country.

Dobbs' conduct has been exemplary, earning the plaudits of the Using Service, the Army and the Public.

over Tulane in 1932 and over Pitt in 1933.

Duke goes to its first Rose Bowl contest with a remarkable record, being unbeaten, untied and unscored on by any opposing team during the entire 1938 season.

Southern California, although suffering two defeats early in the season, made such an impressive showing in later game as to be unanimously chosen to represent the West.

Christmas can mean more than toys to thousands of children this year. Above is one who is waiting for health to return. He is a victim of tuberculosis, but fortunately his case is curable. It was recognized in time and some day he will be a hearty, healthy youngster again. Prevention and cure of tuberculosis is possible through locating a source of infection and preventing its spread. This work of diagnosis and prevention will be done by The Chilton County Tuberculosis Association in Chilton County. The great work of the Association will be supported solely by the sale of Christmas Seals, which are now being distributed.

Cotton Crop Of 1938 About 1,080,000 Bales

The 1938 Alabama cotton crop is estimated at 1,080,000 bales, according to a report released recently by the crop reporting board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This compares with 1,631,000 bales produced in 1937 and the ten-year average of 1,159,000 bales.

Yield per acre is now estimated at 243 pounds. This is the second highest yield per acre on record, being exceeded only by the 1937 yield of 290 pounds.

Acres for harvest is now estimated at 2,128,000 acres. This compares with 2,694,000 acres harvested in 1937 and the five-year average of 2,407,000. This is a twenty-one percent reduction from the acreage harvested in 1937 and 12 percent less than the five-year average.

John Stockoff recently returned to Fort Ross, Calif., to pay back, with interest, a $5 loan made to him by Frank Thomas 48 years ago.

CARL GORE IS SHOT SUNDAY IN AFFRAY

Is In Birmingham Hospital
In Serious Condition;
Shot With Pistol

Carl Gore, age about 32, is in a Birmingham hospital this week in a serious condition following a shooting affray between he and W. D. (Bill) Clark, which took place late last Sunday afternoon, near the Chasteen Store about seven miles West of Clanton.

Reports coming from the office of Sheriff J. R. Hardy were that the shooting occurred when Gore attempted to enter Clark's house, located near Chasteen's Store, Clark, who is in the County Jail here charged with assault with intent to murder, is alleged to have fired upon Gore as he entered the door of the house after he had been warned by Clark not to enter.

The weapon used was a pistol, and the bullet passed clear through Gore's abdomen and shattered a glass pane in one of the windows of the house, according to Sheriff Hardy.

A Spigner ambulance brought Gore to the Central Alabama Hospital here, but he was later transferred to a Birmingham hospital where his condition is considered serious. Latest reports stated that his condition was unchanged.

Carl Gore is the son of John Gore who operates a fruit stand in Clanton.

HOMEMAKERS CLASS OF BAPTIST HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Homemakers Class of the Clanton Baptist Church enjoyed their Christmas party to the fullest extent last Monday night. The exchange of gifts and a splendid program was carried out, making the evening most complete.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND XMAS PAGEANTS SUN

Clanton Methodist And Baptist Churches Present
Beautiful Pageants

The Clanton Baptist Church and Clanton Methodist Church presented pageants last Sunday to large crowds at both presentations.

Sunday afternoon the Methodist Church School presented "The Spirit of Giving" to an overflowing house. The pageant was most beautiful. On Sunday night the Baptist Church presented "A Festival of Light" to an equally large audience. Those attending stated that this was a most enjoyable program.

Schools In County To Close Friday For Xmas

A statement from the office of the Chilton County Superintendent of Education this week was that the elementary and high schools of the County would dismiss Friday of this week and remain closed until Monday, January 2.

Classes will be resumed on that day and students and patrons of the schools are asked to keep this in mind.

Clanton Sees Brisk Christmas Trade With City And Establishments Well Decorated

Trading activity swung into a brisk stride in Clanton last week, with the merchants of the City displaying their Christmas goods at the lowest prices possible, hired extra help and prepared for the busiest week of the year—the one preceding Christmas.

Merchants and the City as a whole are not lacking in the Christmas spirit, as a tour around town will show. Most every establishment has decorated its show windows until they measure up to the last word in Yuletide decorating. Visions to the City failing to possess the feeling that "Santa Claus has come to town", on leaving, cannot blame this on a lack of decorating, and a failure by the merchants and City to place before them every evidence that this has really happened.

High School Quintet Defeats Hill Billies

The Chilton County High School Basketball team easily defeated the Ozark Mountain Hill Billies on the local court Wednesday night by a score of 35-19.

The Hill Billies is a girl's team, nationally known, and the local boys are to be congratulated on defeating this professional team. C.C.H.S. has a very bright prospect for the coming year.

The C.C.H.S. Boys went to Holtville last Friday night and administered a licking to the boys there by a score of 42-22.

A game that has been looked forward to by fans in this section was scheduled to be played between the Mitchell Dam Team and the C.C.H.S. Boys on the latter's court last night (Wednesday). At the time of this writing the game had not been played, but a hard struggle was expected, as both teams are considered pretty evenly matched.

HAVE YOU NOTICED IT?

We'd like to know if you've noticed that grin Leroy, better known as Pee-wee, has been wearing lately. Well, Pee-wee has every reason to grin, for there's four in the Leroy B. Martin family now. The latest arrival, a son, has been named James Marion, and arrived last Wednesday afternoon. We join in extending hearty congratulations.

Both mother and son are doing nicely—Pee-wee, too.

School Library Gets Books Thru Exchange

Through the Birmingham News-Age-Herald Library Exchange the Clanton County High School Library has received many valuable and useful books which will aid greatly in rebuilding the library, which was destroyed when the building burned recently.

About seventy books and many magazines were received from the exchange, and two sets of useful encyclopedias were received a few days ago, these sets being donated by a Mr. Gove.

In a letter to the "Voice of The People" Department of the Birmingham News last Friday appeared a letter from Miss Louise Morton, Librarian of the school, expressing the profound appreciation of the entire student body and faculty of C. C. H. S.

The Clanton County News feels sure any and all books donated to the library will be appreciated greatly by the school, and will prove a big help in replacing the splendid library destroyed by the fire.

Increase Is Seen In Number Of Arrests

Law enforcement officers of the County were kept busy during last week, as evidenced by the records at the office of Sheriff J. R. Hardy, which show that there were twenty-three persons arrested and placed in the County Jail here, on charges ranging up to assault with intent to murder. 12 were for public drunkenness.

Sheriff Hardy stated that he was asking for the cooperation of every person in the County to help make this a sane and quiet Christmas, with as few arrests as possible. However, the records at the office Monday morning tended to show that the County had gotten off to a bad start.

Miss Olivia Martin is home for the Christmas holidays.

Clanton Kiwanis Club Will Honor Jesse Frank Foshee And Local Football Squad At Meeting Tonight

A most interesting program has been arranged for the meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club tonight at the Thompson Hotel, for at that time the Club will have as their guests Jesse Frank Foshee, Clanton own contribution to college football, and members of the 1938 Chilton County High School Football Squad.

The program will be in charge of Kiwanian Horton Walker, who at one time coached Jesse Frank when he was a member of the Chilton High team.

It is also hoped that one of the coaches of the University of Alabama team this year will attend the dinner and speak at that time.

Jesse Frank, only college Clanton student to be a member of a college football team, has played on the University of Alabama Varsity Squad for three years. His record on the gridiron has been outstanding and one that his friends here at home are proud of.

He has made two trips to the West (Continued to Back Page)

Christmas Seal Sale To Close Christmas Day

Leroy Martin, executive secretary of the Chilton County Tuberculosis Association, stated this week that the annual Christmas Seal Sale Campaign would come to a close on Christmas Day—next Sunday, and that he wished to thank the people who have responded so liberally to the cause.

Mr. Martin especially wishes to thank the school teachers of the County for their splendid work during this campaign.

NATIONAL SAFETY PATROL HERE LAST TUES. AFTERNOON

A National Safety Patrol car was in Clanton last Tuesday afternoon and night and quite a bit of useful instruction as to proper safety measures for the motorists was given out.

It is presumed the patrol had as its object the prevention of as many accidents as possible during the holiday season.

The patrol car was equipped with a loud speaker and the Safety man parked near the Main Street and highway intersection talked and warned motorists about non-observance of the proper rules of the road. Pedestrians were given little talks.

Nothing could be stressed more than just this one thing, for many accidents occur daily that might be prevented with the exercising of caution, and strict adherence to the rules of the road and streets.

Clanton Baptist Church

Next Sunday morning is Christmas morning, and every person in Clanton and community should make a special effort to attend church on that day. I should like to urge each person in this City to attend the services of the church of his choice, and I am earnestly asking that every member of the Baptist Church will attend the morning services of our church at this time.

Our Sunday School opens at 9:45 and our worship services are over at 11:00. There will be no evening services at the Baptist Church, all services for the day being concluded with the morning service.

Special Christmas music will be a feature of our program of the morning worship, and the Pastor will bring a message appropriate to the season. Let everyone feel obligated to attend church on next Sunday! Non-church members are cordially welcomed at all our services.

Father-Son-Mother-Daughter Banquet Of Jemison High School Termed Huge Success

Friday night, December 16, at seven o'clock the Senior Class of Jemison High School greeted the Fathers, Mothers, and prominent citizens of surrounding communities at a F.S.M.D. Banquet.

The guests were ushered into the school auditorium which was appropriately decorated. A sparkling Christmas Tree stood near the stage. The tables had red candles surrounded with holly and the place cards were small initiations of Santa Claus. On one guest table stood a small Christmas Tree and another a house decorated with snow.

The program opened with the opening ceremony of each club, with Maxine Glascock, president of F.H.A., as toast mistress, and Arnold White, president of F.F.A., giving the welcome address.

WATER TANKS OF CITY ARE FULL AGAIN

Emergency Pipes To Creek
Gets Sufficient Supply
For City

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announced this week that the City wells are now full of water, after a shortage which has prevailed in the City for some time.

The City has been faced with the shortage of water problem due to the unusually dry weather, causing the flow of water into the wells to slow up considerably. The growth of the City has also contributed to the shortage, as water mains were extended to the sections taken in by the corporate limits extension a few years ago.

Last week the City ran an emergency pipe line to the Black Snake Creek north of the City and erected a gasoline engine pump, and in this way a sufficient amount of water has been secured until the proposed project of going to Yellow Leaf Creek can be completed.

During the crisis in the supply of water, filling stations of the City had been asked to refrain from washing cars, but now the ban has been lifted, but Mayor Jones stated that he was asking that the people continue to be conservative with the water.

The contract for the laying of pipe and erection of a filtering plant on the new project will be let on December 28th, and work on the project is expected to begin January 1.

MRS. REECE BAKER RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL LAST MONDAY

Friends of Mrs. Reece Baker will be glad to learn that her condition has improved to the point that she was brought to her home here from the South Highlands Hospital in Birmingham last Monday.

3 CAPTURED AS RESULT OF BURGLARY

Three Men Are Caught In Act Of Looting Peoples
Cash Store Here

The arrest Tuesday night of 3 men after they had broken into the Peoples Cash Store, brought to a climax a series of burglaries in Clanton and Jemison.

Highway Patrolman Earl Henley and Night Officer Arthur Willis arrested three men whose names were given as James Arthur Mims, of the Mt. Nebo Community, age about 30; Red Chadwick, about 20; and Robert Shavers, about 25, both of Clanton, in the act of burglarizing the Peoples Cash Store Tuesday night about 7:00 o'clock.

Information given the News was that Robert Brady, who operates a garage at Cash Store, took notice that something was amiss at the store and promptly notified the officers. Two of the men were inside the store at the time of the arrests, but one had remained on the outside to keep watch. When arrested the men had taken fifty pennies from the cash register, several items in cigarettes, etc.

It could not be determined whether or not this three had anything to do with the previous burglaries or not. The men gained entrance to the store by a rear window.

Miss Harriett Neal Key, former teacher in the Chilton County High School is employed in this city by the P.W.A. service and every Baptist is expected to attend Church Sunday morning.

To the people of the Chilton County News, to everyone: A Wholesome Merry Christmas!—Oscar A. Davis, Pastor.

Business Marches Forward

As we approach the Christmas season, business continues its march forward on practically all fronts. It is true there have been sharp reverses in the security markets of late, but they have been due, not to the business situation, but largely to the severely strained relations between this country and Germany—an immensely serious matter whose end is not yet in sight, and whose ultimate effect on commerce and trade cannot now be accurately forecast.

A glance over the complete figures for October shows it to have been a very good month in almost all lines. In some, it was exceptionally good. This same favorable trend extended into the first three weeks of November, and there seems no reason why it should change in the near future. One of the best signs is the fact that rise in gains demand for certain basic products, such as steel, has been materially greater than the rise in production. This indicates that further gains in activity may be confidently expected before long, and of equal importance, the inventory situation, which was extremely bad last spring, is steadily improving.

Some briefs of interest follow:
Construction: Building in October touched the highest peak in a number of years. Unusual activity is found in the residential field. Future steady improvement is expected here, and also in industrial construction.

Electric Power: Output is at good levels for the season. The utilities' new expansion program is slowly getting under way.

Prices: Commodity prices have been strengthening, but most authorities regard them as being still too low in the light of the gains in industrial activity. Gradual rises over a considerable period of time are anticipated.

Retail trade: Is improving in most sections of the country, along with purchasing power. Many stores are revising their buying programs, in the belief that sales will be substantially greater this winter and spring than seemed possible a few months ago.

Transportation: Railroad carloadings are tending upward, but the industry's financial position remains almost as precarious as before. Hopes are pinned to large extent on possible congressional action to alleviate some of the lines' troubles.

It is an interesting and important fact that no one seems to expect recovery to attain boom proportions. Most experts think that the rate of improvement will be comparatively slow—that we are in a steady, long-pull trend.—Butler County News.

There is no more important duty for you to perform than paying your poll tax—and the time is mighty short.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew, D.D.

The country community had come together for its services of worship on the Sabbath, and as the congregation sat quietly, awaiting the opening hymn, a large Airedale walked in at the door and strolled down the aisle. He sniffed to the right and left in search for his master and mistress, but they could not be found. The big dog walked in front of the congregation and went down the other aisle and then trotted out of the church. At home that Sabbath morning this dog's owners had gone away to the seashore, leaving the dog behind, but he knew that they should be at church and went there to find them. Even a sensible dog knows where people should be found on the Sabbath.

Over in Scotland there was an old seaman who was too old for the sea and he settled down to make an honest living by rowing people across a river. Every day two old Scotchmen would come down to the ferry to be rowed across. Invariably they would get into a heated argument on the question of faith and works. One day they came to the boat and found that the ferryman had painted his oars and one had the word "Faith" printed on it. The other had "work". On seeing the words the two men set up another heated argument. As one argued about Faith being the essential thing to salvation, the old ferryman would paddle with all of his might, leaving the other oar on which had written "Work" idle by his side. When the one defending works as being more essential to salvation than faith, the old man would pull mightily on that oar, leaving faith idle. The two men saw that they were just running circles on the shoreline and they remonstrated with the ferryman, "Why do you not use both oars and carry us across?" Then the wise old gentleman said, "I will, sir, when you two Scotchmen will stop your argument." They hushed and the ferryman took faith in one hand and work in the other and soon they had made the other shore. They had their lesson. It takes faith and works to carry us to Heaven.

One day a young man of average intelligence came into my study and I said unto him, "Young man, what are you going to do with your life?" For a moment he seemed startled. He had never thought much on that subject. As he dropped into a chair he replied, "Oh, nothing, nothing." I knew that young man. I knew how his parents lived before him. I knew what influences had been brought to play upon his life and I knew that he was telling the truth. He did not intend to do anything with his life. All that the boy knew about life was to try and enjoy it. He was blank on the question of doing something with his life. What are you going to do with your life? Give me an answer. Are you going to idle it away, waste it, degrade it? Life, that priceless treasure that has been given to you. Why not give it to God in sincere service. Sit still for five minutes now and ponder the question: "What am I going to do with my life?"

A wise old dog saw a little dog chasing his tail and inquired, "Pray tell me, little pup, why you are chasing your tail." The little dog replied, "Why, sir, I am a wise dog. My happiness is in my tail and I am wanting happiness and that is why I chase it." Then the old dog replied, "Right you are, my son. Your happiness is in your tail. I, too, know something about life. I have found out that I can chase my tail forever and never overtake it. I have adopted this rule for life: I go earnestly about my business and my tail always goes along with me." Hear me, you may run yourself ragged chasing what you think will bring happiness to you, but it will never be overtaken. Happiness never fails to go along with us when we live correctly and go about our daily tasks in an honest, earnest manner. We cannot catch happiness, but we can carry it along with us when we do our duty.

That Boll-Weevil Monument

It has finally come to light that the boll weevil monument at Enterprise was more or less accident. Some twenty years ago an inquisitive traveling salesman asked an electrician what he was doing. The man, who was installing a white way system, had become tired of answering the same question, so answered: "I'm putting up a monument to the boll weevil." The salesman spread the news, and enterprising Enterprise citizens made the joke an actuality, thus gaining nation-wide publicity.—Green-ville Advocate.

We Observe

BUSY LAST WEEK—

This column failed to show up last week. Truth of the matter is, Ye Olde Observer was just so busy he just didn't have time to pound out the paragraphs necessary to be called a columnist. And, too, we were taken for a long buggy ride week before last by the most honorable and esteemed Union-Banner, and then, of course, we could use the excuse that we didn't get back in time for last week's issue of the News. The Banner called it an old-fashioned buggy ride, and old-fashioned it was—so old-fashioned, it was out of date. Well, we'll have more to tell you about that buggy ride later on. This week we wish to talk about other things besides politics and the Union-Banner. We'd like to dwell upon subjects like Christmas, as that holiday is drawing near. Peace On Earth And Good Will Toward Men.

CHRISTMAS—

It appears that we will have two holidays for Christmas this year. Christmas Day comes on Sunday and that means no holiday from our regular duties if only Christmas Day is observed. The banks of our City will be closed, and we might say they have taken the lead of the other establishments, as it is our belief that stores in Clanton will be closed on Monday, December 22. Well, Monday is always considered "blue Monday", and that's a good way to spend one blue Monday out of seven years—as a Christmas holiday.

The Spirit of Christmas is prevailing in Clanton this week, and although Chilton County's cotton crop was short this year, and business hasn't been just what we would like for it to be, there will be many joyous hearts in Clanton, with the age-old custom of giving being carried out. The exchange of gifts and the giving of "Merry Christmas" makes everybody feel like carrying on for another year, and to every one of our readers we extend our very best wishes for a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year. That expression is voiced by thousands every year—but the worst part of it is that it never grows old, and always comes from the heart of the person by whom it is uttered.

THE KIWANIS CLUB—

As an organization that is endeavoring to live up to its slogan, we believe the Clanton Kiwanis Club is one. The slogan is "We Build", and since the Club was organized in Clanton, as a part of Kiwanis International, it has contributed to the growth of Clanton and Chilton County. The Clanton Kiwanis Club is made up of business and professional men of this city. Every member has a duty to perform, and by every member performing his duty much can be accomplished for our city and county. The Club is a meeting place of men who are in position to take the lead in worthwhile enterprises—a gathering where a feeling of good fellowship prevails, and where problems relative to the welfare of our city and county may be discussed. The Clanton Kiwanis Club is looking forward to a most useful year in its community. Every city has a need for civic organizations like the Kiwanis Club—every city should cooperate wholeheartedly with organizations like the Kiwanis Club. Their objective in every sense of the word is to build—a bigger and better Clanton and Chilton County.

CLAY COUNTY 4-H CLUB GIRL FOOLS STATE CONTEST JUDGES

Auburn—A young girl, member of the Lineville 4-H Club in Clay County, fooled the judges in the 4-H Club Cotton contests this year. In being selected on of the four state winners Blanch Boyd became the first girl to represent Alabama in cotton contests at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, which has just been completed.

Each year cotton growing contests in which latest improved practices and developments in cotton production are used are held with 4-H Club members. Each year judges expected that only boys would take part but this year the judges did not know until the winners had been announced that a girl had entered the field and came out a winner.

Blanch harvested 824 pounds of lint cotton, and 2430 pounds of seed cotton on one acre of land. Her cotton, planted on land following a cover crop of oats and vetch, was fertilized with 400 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer and side dressed with 200 pounds of nitrate of soda. Insects damaged the crop, otherwise her yield would have been larger, she said.

She valued her cotton at $89.16 and with expenses of $22.50 taken from this Blanch had a profit of $66.66 for the one acre of cotton.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

The President Uses Grover Hall Article As Text Of Letter

"Newspapers Better Than Ever Before, But Not Half Good Enough"

An article by Grover C. Hall, editor of The Advertiser, was taken Sunday as the text for a letter written by President Roosevelt to Joseph Pulitzer upon the 60th anniversary of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mr. Hall's article was published several months ago in the Bulletin of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

In a long letter felicitating The Post-Dispatch on its anniversary, and published on the front page of a special anniversary section, Mr. Roosevelt said that Mr. Hall "uttered some truths not only frank but brutal in their frankness."

Mr. Hall's article was largely a castigation of "money-seeking" newspapers that do not live up to the best traditions of American journalism.

"Mr. Hall made it clear," the President said, "that he was not talking of the great editors of other days nor yet of the great publishers of today. He was talking, he said, of the run-of-the-mill stuff, those who have no blood on their spurs, much less their swords."

After quoting some further remarks from the editor of The Advertiser, the President wrote:

"Now bear in mind this is not the criticism of an outsider. It is the considered opinion of a representative

American editor and the vehicle of his utterance in none other than the Bulletin of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Not to make Mr. Hall end on too pessimistic a note let me allow him this additional quotation: 'Our newspapers are better today than ever before, but they are not half good enough, taking them state by state.'

"In these past few years there has been so much resounding thunder about the freedom of the press that one sometimes wonders what it is all about. Is the freedom of the press endangered from without? I doubt it. I am inclined personally to think that Editor Hall was moving in the right direction when he pointed an accusing finger in the direction of the newspaper counting room. I have implicit confidence that Mr. Hall knows whereof he speaks when he says run-of-the-mill publishers 'do not know the difference between an objective news story and a free article on furniture store!'"—Montgomery Advertiser.

Ridicules Charges

Birmingham News
Concerning criticism of the Alabama Power Company made before the TVA investigating committee by Leland Olds, of the New York Power Authority, in which Olds charged, among other things, that the Alabama utility was an example of the "type of rubber yardstick which necessitates governmental action to protect consumers," Thomas W. Martin, Alabama Power Company President, issued this statement:

"The power authority of the state of New York is essentially a propaganda agency established to promote the development of the St. Lawrence waterway in competition with the utilities of New York State. The power authority has never operated a utility and has no jurisdiction over any utility. The statement of Olds before the TVA investigating committee disclosed his complete lack of knowledge of the system of Alabama Power Company and represents a hodge-podge of jumbled figures apparently taken from various and sundry government reports.

"When he compares the Alabama Power Company as to cost with the TVA he neglects:
"(a) The fact that the TVA charges 50 percent of the cost of power dams to navigation and flood control, while the Alabama Power Company absorbs all the cost, although it creates navigable channels, provides locks and low water regulation.

"(b) That Alabama Power Company operating as a wholesale distributor only would pay 25 percent of its gross revenue in taxes, while the TVA pays only 5 percent.

"(c) That The Alabama Power Company cannot at present raise any money at any price in the face of the TVA subsidized competition and the PWA grants of 45 percent to overbuild and destroy its distribution system.

"(d) That If The Alabama Power Company were free from the TVA menace and given the same subsidies enjoyed by TVA it could refinance and sell power at rates cheaper than the so-called TVA yardstick rates.

"(e) That The Alabama Power Company urban residential rate, which is less than 2.9 cents per kilowatt hour, is lower than practically all of the municipalities and private systems that Mr. Olds used as a measure of prudent investment.

"The Public Service Commission of the State of Alabama has never included any so-called write-ups in the company's property account in the establishment of its rates and prior to the recent Federal Power Commission accounting classification the company kept its books according to the classification of accounts prescribed by Alabama Public Service Commission."

DIXON WANTS
AD VALOREM
REVALUATION

Will Recommend That Legislature Act Promptly

(Hugh W. Sparrow in Age-Herald)

Stressing as one of the greatest defects in Alabama's state and local governmental systems the drastic reductions he said had been made in recent years in property assessments, Governor-Elect Frank M. Dixon told a group of newspaper men recently in a round-table conference at the Tutwiler Hotel he planned definite action to prevent a complete breakdown of the ad valorem tax system.

Not only is this collapse of property assessments working extreme hardships of city school systems, in curtailing revenues and depleting reserve funds, the Governor-Elect added, but it likewise demoralizing city government finances generally and bringing many of these local government units face to face with insolvency.

The Governor-elect said he would recommend legislation calling for revaluation of all taxable property in Alabama by non-partisan boards of review and would recommend also that before counties receive their full share of state school funds they show that they "have not walked out on ad valorem taxes."

Questions Involved
Beside stressing this phase of his far-reaching program for bringing about greater economics and for revamping the state government, the incoming governor detailed his entire administrative program and invited questions from the group of newspaper executives, editors and political writers attending the parley.

Gov.-Elect Dixon went into details on his plans for remodeling the executive branch of the state government, which now includes a number of departments an about 119 boards and commissions, into about six main divisions, and for the submission of a series of constitutional amendments to carry into execution further details of his program.

The revamped executive department, the gov.-elect said, would consist of the Departments of Highways, Taxation, Finance, Industrial Relations, Conservation, Public Welfare and Commerce. His proposed constitutional amendments would provide for legislative sessions every other year, the two houses sitting 50 calendar days; a two-year back polltax law; legislative reapportionment, improvements in the pardon and parole system and giving counties the right to install voting machines.

No New Taxes Planned
The incomb chief executive repeated his previous assertion that with the exception of a reenacted sales tax (with exemptions stricken) and with economies he planned to take by executive decree and by legislative action reducing state expenses more than $1,600,000 annually, he would not call for increased or new taxation.

In addition he told the group that he would recommend a reduction in the state's income tax rates, returning the rates to the status of 1934-35, which he said would bring in adequate income for the constitutionally-fixed purpose of meeting interest payments and amortizing the $17,000,000 debt-funding bond issue of 1933.

Gov.-Elect Dixon's plan to prevent the breakdown of the ad valorem tax system in Alabama was outlined in connection with program for carrying out provisions of the minimum school term program.

A check of the state property tax problem, Gov.-Elect Dixon said, discloses that in recent years county governments have "run out on the ad valorem tax," a form of taxation which he said is the most stable of all taxes. County boards of review, whose members are elected locally, he said further, have yielded to the political expedient of reducing assessments in return for political backing.

School Relief Taxes Blamed

This trend started, he added, when the sales and other taxes were enacted in recent years for the relief of schools, thus removing the pressure upon them to keep up ad valorem taxes, the former mainstay of school revenues.

Governor-Elect Dixon said he had found that the rate of support of public schools in Alabama had fluctuated rapidly since this trend to lower assessments started, and that today local taxation provide only about 47 percent and statewide taxation about 53 percent of all school revenues. A few

Now that Alabama Farmers are going into the production of pork in a serious manner much will be heard of the supposed advantages of cross-breeding. This controversial matter has very strong support on both sides. On the affirmative side we find the professors and experiment worker who never owned a sow in their lives and never had their pay checks affected one way or the other whether the hogs they produced weighed much or little or whether the market was high or low.

On the negative side we find the horny-handed purebred hog breeder whose existence and welfare depends on the kind of hogs he produces. The purebred breeder has a right to oppose the expansion of cross-breeding as it will ultimately tear down the market for his product and demoralize purebred prices. No farmer would think of paying a long or even a decent price for a purebred boar to mate with sows of another breed to produce market hogs. Neither would he dream of putting in a nice set of gilts, all purebred, to produce hybrids to be sold over the scales. So there goes your market for purebred hogs.

Being a breeder of purebred Poland-Chinas for a number of years and being enthusiastic over this breed, I would be ready to admit that the more good years ago, he added, the great burden of school support came from local taxation, and more particularly from property taxes

Poland China blood one could get into hogs of any of the other breeds the better hog one would have, but I am not willing to wear the shoe on the other foot and permit the Poland China breed to be polluted with some of the other breeds to produce the ideal market hog we hear so much about and seldom see. So a rule that won't work both ways is a poor rule and there we are right back where we started.

My advice to the producer of pork on the foot would be to stick to breeding straight and exercise more care in selection of individuals until more evidence is offered by those on the affirmative side and until the professors put some of their own money into the cross-bred business and show a profit that would be attractive.

MISS OLIVIA MARTIN TOOK PART IN PLAY AT TROY

Troy—Students at Troy State Teachers College appeared Tuesday in a dramatized version of "The Sleeping Beauty" before an audience composed of students at the college, students of the college's elementary training school and visitors. The play was presented by a group of future elementary school teachers studying children's literature and its teaching under Dr. Emily Calcott, professor of English.

The students, who are learning methods of creative teaching, made their own costumes, created their own stage scenery, made their own adaptations of the old fairy story into play form, wrote their own lines and acted the roles as they thought suitable. Taking part in the production, which was witnessed by a capacity audience was Olivia Martin, of Clanton.

The records of cotton production being kept by ginners and the promptness with which the ginners report this to the county AAA committee is important to each cotton producer, since these reports are used as the basis in determining normal yield per acre, according to AAA workers.

Enrollees Go To College From Local CCC Camp

Leader Lumon Hicks, members William T. Adams, and Harold Jones recently added their names to the long list of enrollees that have left Company 3481, here to attend college.

Hicks enrolled in the CCC April, 1936. He was very much interested in the educational program, and was very good in woodcraft. He obtained leave to complete his high school work in the fall of 1937 and returned to camp at Clanton January 1938. He was captain of the camp basketball team, and was elected the best athlete in camp.

Adams and Jones came to the company in October 1938. Both boys took an active part in the educational program, and along with Hicks, are going to attend school at the Jacksonville State Teachers College at Jacksonville.

They are getting this opportunity to acquire a higher education thru the NYA and will work two and one-half days, and attend school two and one-half days. By doing this they can complete a nine month course in twelve months.

These boys deserve a break, because they made a good record in the CCC and everyone in the Company rejoice at their good fortune.

Pitts Praises Dixon's Obvious Sincerity At Recent Meeting

Says No Other Governor-Elect Has Been So Well Posted On The Various Phases Of State Government In Alabama

To The Editor of the Chilton County News:

As your Representative in the next legislature, I attended a meeting in Birmingham recently, together with about twenty-five other members of the incoming legislature. All of those who attended the meeting, upon the invitation of Governor Dixon, as well as your representative, were fully convinced of the sincerity with which our new Governor is undertaking his responsibility. He has spent the past eight months or more studying the various phases of our state government, together with obtaining information from other states. I am reliably informed and believe that no other Governor in the history of our State has devoted more time or energy studying our State affairs in advance of his taking the oath of office, and thereby have some concrete and accurate information to present to his legislature, prior to their meeting in January.

Apparently he is repeating itself, and as our able Governor Miller was forced to cut many so-called "pie-eaters" of the state pay roll, which predominated in the 1927 Graves Administration, Maj. Dixon is forced with the same position. In this conference Gov. Dixon left the impression that he is determined to economize at a great savings to the taxpayers of the state by riding out our state of useless job holders. By his savings to the State, together with the re-enactment of the sales tax, he hopes to provide sufficient revenue to care for Education and give us a full term school.

The Governor plans to have a re-organization Bill introduced, consolidating many of the numerous departments and State Boards, which he had great savings to the State and taxpayers. He informed us under our present form of government we have one hundred and nineteen various departments and State Boards, which he had listed.

With the re-enactment of the Sales

MARRIAGE AND ADULTERY

In consider marriage an honorable and worthy institution. One that many people do not take seriously. Marriage is a divine institution—instituted in the beginning by God. Genesis 2:20 says, "And Adam gave names to all cattle, an do fowls of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an helpmeet for him." Verses 21 and 22 tell us how that God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam and while he slept took a rib from his side and made a woman and brought her to the man. Verse 24 of this same chapter says, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." Read Mark 10: 6-9.

Many people enter into it carelessly and think nothing of breaking the marriage vows. Preachers perform the ceremonies after the law grants divorces. And the world is saying, "No harm done." But what does the Bible say? Matthew 5: 32 says, "But I say unto you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery. And whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery." Also read Luke 16: 18, Romans 7: 1, 1 Cor. 7: 10-11. Moses wrote a writing of divorcement because of the hardness of the peoples hearts, but from the beginning it was not so. Matt. 19: 8. But it is not right to grant divorces for every cause like our law does today. In Matthew 19: 6, these words: "Where they are joined together by me, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." God pity the man who will try to separate man and wife. I do not say separate if you can't live together in peace, nor does the Word. But do not marry another. 1 Cor. 7: 10-11. There is only one scriptural excuse for marrying another and that is fornication. That is, if the former husband or wife still liveth. 1 Cor. 7: 39 says, "The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth, but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will: only in the Lord."

The Bible is plainly against adultery. It speaks of adulterers in the class with whoremongers. Hebrews 13: 4, "Marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled, but whoremongers and adulterers, God will judge." So, don't compromise with the devil and the world, and encourage this ungodly sin. The ministers should refuse to perform ceremonies in such cases. Parents should teach their children the seriousness of marriage and what the Bible teaches. If someone should read this who is thinking of making the mistake of adultery, please think, read the Bible and pray, before you do. Sins will not go unpunished. Read Gal. 5: 19-21 which tells of some characters that shall not inherit the kingdom of God. Also 1 Cor. 6: 9-11. I think this sin is pardonable, but we must repent of any sin before forgiveness comes. Can we have repented of a sin and continue to indulge in it? I do not believe

Tax, it may be interesting to know he is asking for no new taxes; however, after careful study he believes the sales tax is necessary, and will ask for the re-enactment of same.

In order to carry out his Re-Organization Program, and other State Reforms, it will become necessary for the Legislature to enact Legislation, purpose of which will be to submit certain Constitutional Amendments to the voters of the State. Your Representative will vote for submitting the proposed Amendments to you for your approval at the polls.

Having known Major Dixon for a number of years past, and also observing the systematic manner in which he is undertaking the task of becoming Governor of our great State, I am of the opinion, if given the cooperation which I trust he will have through our lawmaking body, the State of Alabama will be safe with Dixon at the helm of our Ship of State.

Respectfully yours,
PERCY M. PITTS.

GOOD MARKET IN ALABAMA FOR BULLS, CITES BURNS

F. W. Burns, extension service dairy specialist, recently urged purebred dairy cattle breeders to look to the State as a market for their proven bulls and young heifers.

"There is an increasing demand for proven bulls from cows with good milk and butterfat production records," he said. "I would like to urge that all purebred breeders save this kind of bull able to place them in Alabama herds. By doing this, breeders will be assisting dairymen to benefit from additional sources of income."

Mr. Burns said that interest in 4-H Club dairy products is increasing and that a large number of purebred heifers could be used in this work.

There is a market in Alabama for dairy cattle and for good bulls to build up the milk production in the hundreds of herds in the State. Breeders can help supply this market, Burns believes.

GOOD PASTURES CHEAPEST FEED FOR DAIRYMEN TO USE

"Alabama farmers can make good pasture at reasonable expense," advises P. O. Davis, Director, Alabama Extension Service. "The farmer who has a good pasture has a big part of the essentials to profitable livestock production, because a good pasture is the cheapest feed a farmer can provide. And feed is about three-fourth of the cost of production."

"With this development in pastures we are confident that here in Alabama we are on the road to more and better livestock in addition to our limited acreage in cotton and other crops."

Fireman John Brixie slid down the brass pole at the Sapulpa, Okla., fire house. Then fireman extinguished a blaze caused when the friction of the slide ignited the matches in Brixie's pockets.

Christians can live happily in adultery. I don't think a Christian will practice any sin as long as he is willfully. Today, if you will hear his voice, harden not your heart.

Sidney P. Gray.

If You're Planning To Build

By W. S. Lowndes
Director, Schools of Architecture and International Correspondence Schools

CONVENIENCES—A telephone booth is a desirable feature in a house today. There is apt to be too much noise in the front of the average home and when this is not the case and your house is located in a quiet street, a booth is still a decided convenience.

A vault is another desirable feature to install in your home. Such a feature can be large enough to accommodate silver, pieces of plate, jewelry and other valuables.

Clothes chutes are installed in many homes today. By means of this device clothing may be dropped from the upper stories directly to the laundry room in the basement or cellar. It does not cost a great deal more in your building plans and the steps saved are considerable. Naturally, when soiled linens can be handled in this manner it makes for a more sanitary household operation. The busy housewife will appreciate the savings in time.

Do not overlook the importance of installing plenty of electric outlets. These should be provided for electric irons, egg-beaters, fans, toasters, heaters, refrigerators, stoves, vacuum cleaners and numerous lights. There should be a good light at the kitchen sink and in large rooms, too. The electric switch should be so arranged that they will reveal objects in the deep interiors of closets when the doors are opened.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama

A. W. Jones, Administrative Officer in the referendum on December 10 cotton producers of Alabama, along with those in the other states of the South, emphatically approved marketing quotas for the 1939 crop. This vote of confidence in and cooperation with Federal legislation designed to alleviate southern problems expresses the determination of farmers to work together and unite the other states of the South in this huge task of working out a solution to our economic ills.

To those of us connected with the details of administration, this brings a continued obligation and the renewed responsibility of assisting in making this program an instrument of the greatest service and benefit possible. To this end, speaking for myself and I am sure the same is true for other AAA and extension officials and the hundreds of community and county committeemen who are being elected in every county this week, we pledge the best thought and effort of which we are capable.

Let's keep in mind, however, the fact that we do have in the South a serious economic problem—the greatest in the nation if all things are considered—10,000,000 people on cotton farms and the number increasing, the lowest farm income and the greatest surplus of cotton in the world's history, many of our foreign customers bankrupt or indebted to us, a long-time increase in foreign cotton production and a pressing need for improved living standards and soil conservation on the vast majority of our farms. In addition to this there are far reaching and important world events unfolding almost daily that affect our world markets and our welfare tremendously and over which we can have very little influence. All these make up a problems the end of which we cannot see.

With the full cooperation of everyone much effort and time, possibly years will be required to work these out, but we have made a good start when we decide to work together at the task we have in 1938.

In the meanwhile let's not forget the story of Christmas: of one who was born in poverty, lived for a short life of distress, want and persecution, but who found time always to be humble, to assist and to serve everyone he met, with the best he had; who counted life not in the abundance of things possessed but in opportunities to do good; who in the face of danger and abuse was moved by fortitude and forbearance.

This is the influence that has made ours a great nation during the last 300 years. These are the ideals that stand today between civilization and chaos. This is the heritage that we cannot afford to lose, and that story should have as great significance and meaning to us today as ever.

WITH YOUR HOME Demonstration Agent

CONDUCTED BY MISS MATTIE JO BARBER

The Midway-Mt. Creek Home Demonstration Club met December 14, at the clubhouse, with 20 members present. The club had a very nice demonstration by our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Mattie Jo Barber, on making Sedge Heath Brooms, also pine needle whisk brooms. After the business was disposed of a most enjoyable social time was spent by all present. The club had a very lovely Christmas tree and after all presents were given out the members were served with nice candy made by Mrs. Charles Cooper.

Union Grove 4-H
The Union Grove 4-H Club met December 9. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Leatha Wilson, the roll called and the minutes read. Miss Wilma Thrash then gave a demonstration on how to arrange furniture. Miss Barber talked to us about health. We then dismissed ourselves by singing the 4-H Club pledge.

Farm Women Unite
The home demonstration Agent, Miss Mattie Jo Barber, met with a number of women of the Union Grove Community, Friday, December 9 at the home of Mrs. P. M. Martin. After a brief discussion of club work by Miss Barber a demonstration club was organized. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. P. M. Martin; vice-president, Mrs. O. R. Dorminey; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Carrie D. Shaw; Leaders, Mrs. Pearl Glasscock and Mrs. Belle Dorminey; Recreation Chairman,

Verbena Club
The Verbena Home Demonstration Club met for their Christmas meeting Thursday, December 1, at the home of Mrs. M. H. Adams. The meeting was opened by the club members singing, "Silent Night". After the roll call and reading of the minutes of the last meeting Mrs. Adams and Miss Merle Burkhalter told several interesting things about the last leadership meeting they attended.

Miss Barber showed us several nice brooms that can be made at home. Mrs. Adams and Miss Burkhalter gave an interesting demonstration of making a hearth broom. The Club members, with the help of the leaders, made them a small hat brush out of pine straw.

After the brushes were finished everyone took part in a "stunt game". "Jingle Bells" gave us more Christmas Spirit, then useful gifts from a lovely Christmas tree added to the occasion.

Cocoa and cake was served to Miss Barber and seventeen club members. We had two new members to enroll at this meeting.

MURDER BY MOTOR CAR

Murder by motor car is on the decline, according to the National Safety Council. Traffic accident fatalities for the past nine months have registered a steady decline. This decline has taken place in the fact of a slight increase in mileage figures.

All of which seems to indicate that that speed crazed mass of 40,000,000 drivers, known as the motoring public is awakening to a new found responsibility—safe driving. Possibly the average driver is discovering that the modern high speed automobile can be a vehicle of horrible death as well as of comfort and convenience. If so, a great stride is being made toward the day when once again the family car can be trundled out for a week-end holiday with reasonable assurance that all will return intact.

Sooner or later, the motoring public will have to get the fact through its head that the present slaughter on the highways is criminally needless. As was recently pointed out in the New York Times, "It will have to learn that murder by motor car—although it may not lead to the chair—is still murder and that it is the part of good morals, good sportsmanship, and good citizenship to drive and walk carefully."—Industrial News Review.

IN MEMORY OF CLYDE WARD

Oh, Clyde, dear, so sweet and kind
We will miss you, dear, all the time
We'll miss your sweet voice and songs of cheer.
We'll miss you, darling everywhere.

But our Heavenly Father only, knows best.
He took only one and left the rest
My heart is broken at our loss.
But for our sin we must pay the cost

So cheer up, grieved ones
And think it the best
Some day God will call
And get the rest.

Though we hate to give him up
He was so friendly and so kind
But we have all got to go
We never know what time.

His many friends he leaves to mourn
And many other relatives too.
And a dear kind old mother

It's hard to loose one
But we all have got to go
And how soon it's coming
Doesn't anyone know.

Our Heavenly Father only knows
Which one he wants to call
But He's calling them one by one
Some day He'll have us all.

High School P. T. A. Has Interesting Program On Dec. 14th

Three of the teachers and several of the high school students presented a very interesting program at the City Hall December 14th. This being Alabama Day, Miss Galloway's class in Alabama History presented several scenes from the history of our state. These sketches from Alabama history recalled many facts about our State and the part it has played in the development of the union. These students did well and their part on the program was much enjoyed.

Misses McRee and Morton presented a much enjoyed number taken from a former program on National Book Week that was observed in the school in November. While a student read a description of a character in a book, this character walked across the stage. The audience tried to fit the character into some book that they had read and name the character represented on the stage.

In the absence of the president and vice-president, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, chairman of the program committee, presided.

The meeting was one of the best attended of the year, and a cordial invitation is extended to all the patrons and friends of the school to attend the next meeting which will be held Tuesday afternoon, January 10.

KIWANIS CLUB DISCUSSES PROPOSED N. Y. A. PROJECT

At the regular meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night acting program Chairman brought to the Club's attention a proposed N.Y.A. project to create employment for men between the ages of 18 and 25 and suggested that the Club act as sponsor.

The only financial participation required would be the cost of transportation. Mr. Martin stated, other expenses being borne by the N.Y.A. A leading woman's club official has suggested that this offers a good opportunity for a city beautification project of planting shrubbery, etc. There was no action or discussion of this project by the club, but it is supposed that the club will take some action on the matter at a later date.

Health Officer, to report this matter to the Health Office. Filing of a birth certificate within five days after the physician or midwife in attendance is required by the State Vital Statistics Law. Cooperation of Chilton County parents with the Health Department in this matter is strongly urged by the local Health Officer.

CARL A. GORE SUCCUMBS TO BULLET WOUND

Preliminary Hearing In J. P. Court Sets Clerk's Bond At $2,000.00

Carl Gore, who was shot late Sunday afternoon, December 18, by W. D. (Bill) Clark, at the latter's residence about seven miles west of Clanton, near the Chastain Store, died in a Birmingham hospital early the following Thursday morning. Gore was shot with a pistol, the bullet taking effect in his abdomen. An operation failed to save his life. He was thirty-two years of age. Clark alleged to have fired upon Gore as the latter entered his home after forcing the latch. Clark is said to have warned Gore not to enter his home. Gore's estranged wife was staying at the Clark residence at the time of the shooting.

Clark was placed in the County Jail by Sheriff J. R. Hardy, to await the outcome of Gore's condition. Preliminary hearing was held last Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace M. D. Foshee. Clark's bond was set at $2,000. Whether or not the bond was made could not be determined at the time of this writing.

Funeral for Gore was held last Friday afternoon from the Friendship Baptist Church near Clanton with the Rev. W. P. Lowery in charge. Spigener Funeral Home conducting burial in the adjoining cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and four children, father, mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gore, of Clanton; two brothers, Eugene and Aubrey; two sisters Mrs. Lillian Robinson and Mrs. Hazel Whitfield, of Atlanta.

Palbearers were P. Reeves, Odie Miller, Grady Bates, J. D. Collins, Fate Ellison, Reeves Tyndol, Edwin Waggoner. Flower girls were Wilma and Norma Jean Gillespie and Polly Cleckler.

MERCHANTS OF CITY REPORT GOOD TRADE

Some Report Biggest Increase In Several Years; Post- office Receipts High

Busy at the task of straightening up after the Christmas rush, merchants of the City are this week reporting a new high for business at Christmas time, which may exceed that of any of the past several years.

Many merchants of the City, skeptical of overstocking, did not purchase as much merchandise, and began running low two or three days prior to Christmas. Food stores, dry goods stores, and especially the toy departments, all report a most gratifying business.

At the Clanton Postoffice Postmaster H. F. Downs reports that a substantial increase in receipts for the latter quarter of the current year, so far, over last year's quarter. Mr. Downs cited receipts for the same period last year as $4,620.28. This year receipts total $4,939.84—an increase or $319.56 in the three months.

The mailing of Christmas cards took a decided jump in number over the same period last year, if the sale of one and one-half cent stamps can be any judge. Last year Mr. Downs stated that there were 16,200 of these stamps sold, compared to 20,700 this season. An increase in receipts of about seven percent for the entire year, to now, over last was pointed to by Mr. Downs.

This week the News received an issue of "The Alabama Future Farmer", a magazine published seven times a year at Auburn, and a publication of the State FFA, the State Organization of students of Vocational Agriculture.

In listing news from Chapters over the State, this issue gave some of the accomplishments of the Clanton FFA as follows:

Maddox Begins Duties As Co. Superintendent

Thursday, December 22, Rascoe Maddox, of Turley, assumed the duties of Clanton County Superintendent of Education, succeeding Luther E. Little.

At a meeting of the Board of Education it was voted to retain Mr. Little as Assistant Superintendent for some time to assist Prof. Maddox in familiarizing himself with the office, and to also supervise the erection of the new school building replacing the one that burned some time ago. Mr. Little will also aid in the school survey in February.

Plans for the new high school plant have been in the making for several days, and E. B. VanKuren, architect, has completed an architectural drawing of the building, which will be modern in every respect.

TUBERCULAR PATIENTS TO RECEIVE AID

County Officials Appropriate Amount To Aid Six Needy Victims In County

Clanton County Commissioners, headed by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, voted early in December in favor of a plan to assist six needy victims of tuberculosis in Clanton County in obtaining admission to the Montgomery or Jefferson County sanatorium for treatment. It was announced by the local Health Department this week. The action of the court was taken in response to a request made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, for an increase in the County's appropriation for local health service.

The County will limit its assistance to paying the cost of about stay in the sanatorium for only such indigent cases as may be benefited by pneumothorax or other surgical methods of treatment which do not require long periods of hospitalization, the report revealed. Old, far-advanced cases which can be treated only with bed rest will not be eligible for County assistance, the local Health Officer pointed out.

In commenting on this action of the Court, Dr. Sturkie declared, "This participation by our County Commissioners in the fight against tuberculosis marks a great step in the improving of health service rendered to our people; it is my hope that early in the future that our Commissioners will also see fit to further expand our local health program by making possible the addition of one other nurse to the staff of the Health Department."

The host presented Foshee with a gift—a handsome traveling bag. A motion picture of the Alabama-Kentucky game, played at Lexington, Kentucky, was shown at the meeting.

Chilton B. T. U. To Have Quarterly Meet

On January 8th, which is the second Sunday in January, the Quarterly B. T. U. Meeting of the Chilton Association will be held at Refuge Baptist Church at 2:00 o'clock. We want each church in this Association to have its B. T. U. represented with a large delegation.

We are going to have a sword drill for the Intermediates. We want one Intermediate from each church in this Association to take part in this sword drill. The winner in this sword drill at Refuge will get to take part in the Inter-Associational Sword Drill, which will be held during February or March. The winner in the Inter-Associational Sword Drill will take part in the State Drill and the winner in the State Drill will take part in the National Drill. We will get $25 paid on their expenses to Ridgecrest next summer. We hope the Intermediate Leaders over the Association will tell you Intermediates about this and have one of your Intermediates at Refuge to enter the drill.

Another interesting part of the program is that Mr. Chester L. Quarles, State Secretary of Montgomery, will be with us and have a very interesting message for us.

We want to urge also our pastors of this Association to come to this meeting. At our last meeting we had only seven ministers with us and some of them were visitors. We hope that the pastors will have much better record than at our last meeting.

Rev. Maurice Hodgins, Pres.

WORK IS NOW STARTED ON WATERWORKS

Contracts Let For Entire Project; Will Total $67,743 As Cost

Work has been underway for several days on the new 100,000-gallon elevated treated water tank for the City of Clanton, located on the hill in the northern part of town. City officials stated this week that the tank is expected to be completed by February first.

This tank will be filled upon completion, with water now being secured from Blackensack Creek the emergency pipe line which was laid several days ago to give an ample supply during the crisis.

When this tank is filled the tanks will have at its disposal 300,000 gallons of treated water ready for use. The 100,000-gallon tank for emergency water will be erected by the time the securing water from Blackensack Creek is completed. This will give the City a total of 680,000 gallons of water—280,000 gallons of untreated water and 400,000 gallons of treated water.

Chicago Bridge and Chemical Co., of Birmingham, was awarded the contract for erection of the 100,000-gallon treated water tank. Their bid was $72,000. The General Steel Tank Co., of Birmingham, was awarded the contract to build the 400,000-gallon raw water storage tank, the bid being $5,697.

These contracts were let on December 22, and at the same time the contract for the laying of pipe to the East Creek building pumping station and new filtering plant was awarded the R. J. Reid Contracting Co., of Birmingham. Their bid was $54,191.

The entire project will cost $67,743. Forty-five percent of this amount, or $30,484, will be furnished by a Federal grant. The remainder, $37,259, will be paid by the City, bonds for the moment.

BURGLARIES IN CLANTON CONTINUE

W. C. Robinson Reports $20 Taken From His Home; Store Burglarized

Burglaries continue in Clanton despite the capture of three men by officers as they were ransacking the Peoples Cash Store early Tuesday night, December 20.

Two more were added to the growing list of burglaries in and near Clanton, when someone entered the W. C. Robinson home through a window and lifted twenty dollars from Mr. Robinson's trousers while he slept. The B. Lawrence Store west of Clanton on the Maplesville Highway was broken into and several dollars in merchandise were taken, according to reports. Both the burglaries occurred last Friday night.

No clues have been reported by the officers here which might lead them to suspect any certain individuals. Mr. Robinson stated that he heard a slight noise sometime in the night, but paid no slight attention, and did not discover the money was missing until the following morning.

Officers surprised three men, Roosevelt Chavers, Red Chadwick and Jim Arthur Mims, all of this County, while they burglarized the Peoples Cash Store here Tuesday night of last week. All three were hauled in the County Jail. The yellow Freight Store, Kemp Dry Good Store and the Rockett Hardware were burglarized some time ago but no arrests were made in either case. A store in Jemison was broken into recently and several dollars in merchandise were taken.

Dr. Partlow Advises The Simple Life

A man who should know says: "Worry kills more persons than work."

The man is Dr. W. D. Partlow, superintendent of Alabama Hospitals for the Insane, and a nationally-known psychiatrist.

"Our modern, high-speed living puts the major strain on the body's two most delicate units—the brain and the heart," he said. "They don't seem to be able to keep up with the pace, and strain is causing more insanity and death from year to year."

Dr. Partlow, "of course", doesn't charge all brain and heart failures to modern living, but he advocates return of a more complacent attitude on life and avoidance of little things that cause big worries.

Rushing through meals was listed as another contributing factor to physical breakdowns.

Asked what about a return to 'a Sunday in the park' days, Dr. Partlow said that would help immensely—"because we should exercise adequately, enjoy ourselves sanely, forget troubles."

"The pace of living," he continued, "has almost reached the point where one can't relax completely and thoroughly, even while sleeping. It would be a fine thing if there could be a complete cessation of business and all cares from Saturday noon to Monday morning.

"We need to return to the more simple modes of life—to taking things in stride." —Montgomery Advertiser.

Watch The Racket Bills

In nearly every session of every State Legislature in the country there appears the threat of several new laws aimed at divers interests which cause raised eyebrows among the more sophisticated legislators and lobbyists who realize that some of these "reform measures" are what the boys in the know term "racket bills".

"Racket bills" are measures drawn up to frighten certain interests or groups into making payoffs of one kind or another. Sometimes legislative racketeers, who may have no official connection whatever with the state government, draw up measures aimed at certain interests and persuade conscientious legislators to introduce them as a matter of public policy.

The political racketeers then send word to the interests or groups that would be damaged by the proposed law that the bill can be killed or defeated for a cash settlement. It is not always that obvious, of course. Sometimes reform groups unwittingly lend themselves to the political racketeer. Sometimes professional lobbyists pretend that certain legislation would be dangerous to a business enterprise and ask pay to defeat the "evil portions" of the proposed law.

The people and the legislators should carefully analyze every bill proposed, especially those bills that would injure the business of any group. Sometimes, of course, reform measures that are just and proper may injure a particular form of business. In such cases legislators should carefully dig into the facts of the case and seek the motives behind the particular bill introduced.

It is no reflection on the integrity of the Alabama Legislature that its members should be warned to watch for racket bills. For often in the past legislators as well as business enterprises have been duped by shrewd unofficial manipulators and promoters, working knowingly or unknowingly in the interest of the men who sell fear in the name of lobbying.—Age-Herald.

Protect That We Have

Among forty-nine counties the Alabama Power Company, recently divided the tidy sum of $401,990 n taxes. It that source of income worth anything to Alabama? If so, why don't we protect it?—Exchange.

Showing Up Taxes

Many oil companies advertise the price of gasoline in this fashion: "Gas, 15 cents a gallon; state and federal tax, 6 cents; total, 21 cents."

If similar methods of illustrating the price of all products were employed, the American consumer would get the shock of his life.

When you buy a five-dollar pair of shoes, a dollar or more is for taxes. When you pay a three-dollar electric bill, 50 or 60 cents represents taxes. When you pay a $40 suit, close to ten dollars goes for taxes.

You can't dodge taxation—unless you are a hermit living in the hills. On a normal day, you pay taxes a dozen times, though you may not know it—when you drive your car, ride a trolley, eat lunch, or make a purchase. When the American people get this truth through their heads, there will be a drive for economy in government that will get somewhere. For ignorance of the facts is a wasteful government's best friend.—Industrial News Review.

Free Advice

This is the only advice we feel like giving the farmers of Chilton County at this time:

Produce everything you can that is needed for home consumption, of every description, then produce a surplus of whatever crops can be converted into cash, or necessities which you cannot produce. Do this, and no alphabetical nightmare of the government will be disturbing your slumbers during the coming year.

Dictators And Greed

"Dictators' greed provides events for 1938's most vital news story", says an Age-Herald headline.

"How about the 'greed' of those here in our own country who are not dictators?"

"Bomber plane explodes near Uniontown; Seven occupants blown to bits."—News Headline.

Seems like a lot of money is being spent on aircraft that is not dependable in peace time. What about war time if it should come?

Making war to make business is mighty poor business.

Chilton County News sends thoughts of love and good will to all mankind—wishing for each and everyone happiness, peace, plenty, through 1939.

Officials at Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company and at Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp, announced 10 percent salary increases would become effective January 1.

Urging the government to buy arms to secure peace is simply propaganda put out by the manufacturers of war materials in an effort to raid the treasury.

The President is going to ask Congress for nearly a billion and an half dollar armament fund. If you bought your son a gun for Christmas, you perhaps noticed that the first thing he wanted to do was to use it.

Advice to our state entomologist: While mixing up your "pizen" for insects and other pests—see if you can't get something together that will get rid of the "jitter bug", which bids fair to pass the pest stage and become a plague.

When the new Governor plows under every third person on the state payroll, they will have to go on WPA or some other alphabetical set-up supported by the taxpayers. So what will be gained?

Feeding Birmingham's 25,000 starving people with evaporated milk and navy beans shipped in from other states isn't fair to the Alabama farmers who live in nearby counties, and have for sale a surplus of almost everything good to eat—a surplus they have been unable to sell at a halfway decent price.

The proportion of children 10 to 15 years old in the United States who were gainfully occupied remained practically the same from 1890 to 1900, and then decreased rapidly during the next 30 years, according to reports of the U. S. Census Bureau.

One of our bunch has just returned from a flying visit to a state "Up Navth", and upon his return brought in a twist of home-grown tobacco from that state. Whichever way you are accustomed to using the weed, we doubt seriously if you could stand any of this. It has more "authority" than a country constable.—Alexander City Outlook.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

CHRISTMAS IS OVER—

Well, Christmas, 1938, has come and gone, and we hope everybody had a very happy time during the season. With the passing of Christmas we look forward to the New Year. And what 1939 has in store for each of us depends largely on ourselves individually. But in the meantime we wish for every one of you a most happy and prosperous New Year.

A FINE RECORD—

We read in the daily papers where there were many killed in mishaps over the nation during Christmas but we are happy to carry no account of a serious accident in Chilton County. In fact, Alabama as a whole rode through the Christmas week end without a death by auto accidents. That is certainly fine, and we are inclined to believe that record was established by carefulness exercised by the motorists of the County and state. To think that no home was saddened during Christmas by accidental death in Chilton County is to believe that a merrier Christmas this year than ever before was enjoyed by the people.

HELPING THE NEEDY—

Out into the rural sections of the county, Ye Old Observer, motored on Christmas Eve to deliver boxes and baskets of food and clothing to several families who were unable to finance a happy Christmas themselves. The merchants of Clanton and citizens of the County contributed generously to the cause sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club. Many children were made happy on Christmas morning by this act of kindness on the part of these citizens toward those less fortunate. If you've never surprised a family of very modest circumstances on Christmas Eve with a large box of necessities of life—a family in which there are several youngsters who have the appearance of being underfed and underdressed, then you've missed a chance to really check up on yourself and give thanks for the blessings you enjoy daily.

LOOKING TO 1939—

One of the things we see for Clanton in 1939 is the solution of the water problem for City use for many years to come. This problem will be solved, we believe, upon completion of the new waterworks project. Mayor Jones tells us that work will get underway on January first on the task of securing water from Yellow Leaf Creek. One of the large storage tanks for the water is expected to be completed by February first, and the emergency pipe to Blacksnake Creek is securing enough water for consumption at the present time. And so we see that the year 1939 will probably bring a solution to this vital problem which has faced Clanton for several months. And, too, it's a fine thing Clanton is able to sell bonds for the highest possible price to finance the project and match the Federal allotment to the City for this purpose.

THE UNION-BANNER WANTS TO KNOW—

"What Did The Cotton Vote Mean?" asked the Union-Banner on the front page of their December 22 issue. Now, the Banner may not appreciate an "endeavoring" to answer their question for them, but we take it that was a broadcast question, so here's our "endeavor".

Everybody knows that the Honorable Alfred M. Landon was defeated in the last presidential election because he and his cohorts could offer nothing to the people of this nation but criticism of the New Deal and everything we had. And you will recall that Hoover was defeated because he offered no assistance in alleviating the conditions which existed during the Hoover Depression.

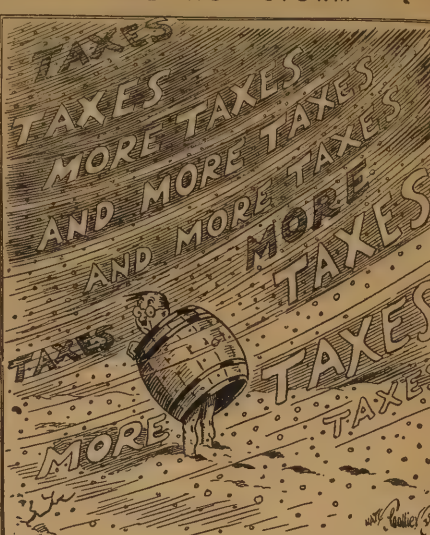

Now, if the Union-Banner is able to catch the Moral Echo of the above paragraph, they'll know that the farmers voted for the marketing quotas because they knew nothing else had been offered in the past that would be better. They'll know that the farmers knew that there must be some control by the government to curb the carry-over from year to year, since the people of other nations have learned to grow cotton, thereby causing the loss of many of our foreign markets.

We certainly hope the Banner doesn't think we're trying to "make them out a liar" this time, as that is the fartherest thing from our mind. Just because the News—as a rule—has always ignored their lengthy thrusts, the Banner should not deny us the right to answer some of their questions and comment when we see fit. We really thought the Banner could "take it" as well as "dish it out".

THE SNOW STORM

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

In a certain college out West there was a student who was hanging at the door of death. The president of the school arose in chapel and said, "Glover Mansfield is very ill. I well remember how you students backed him up while he was on the gridiron last week and he won. Glover is now needing you to back him up, won't you do it?" Heads were bowed and there was silence for a moment. Then the cheer leader stepped to the front and led the student body in three yells for Glover Mansfield. Within a few more days and Glover was on the diamond battling with his team. Tell me not that the backing of that student body had nothing to do with Glover getting well. I believe in prayer. It is certain that prayer changes things.

After many hours at my desk my manuscript was about as near perfect as it was possible for me to produce. I was tired and nervous and as I reached for a blank envelope I upset the ink bottle. It was astonishing how quickly the ink ran over my written pages and made worthless my morning's toil. As I looked upon that ruined manuscript I thought of what havoc slander can do in just a moment's time. Once slander gets started it moves on a swift foot. Slander runs with speed and blackness as it goes. It can ruin in a few days what it takes a man to produce in a life time. He who listens to a slander is almost as vile as the one who tells it. One has said that he who tell a slander should be hung by his tongue until he is dead and the one who listens to a slander should be hung by his ear until he is dead. Make it a rule never to tell anything that you hear unless you know first that it is true, that it is kind and that it will do good to tell it. That will stop much of the "whispering".

Hints to Gardeners

by Gilbert Bentley
Flower Expert
Ferry Seed Station

Choosing Your Flowers

FLOWERS may be adapted to so many varying conditions and to so many uses and purposes that a continuation of an earlier discussion, "Flowers for a Purpose," is necessary.

Many gardeners wonder, for instance, what will grow in the semi-shady spots about the yard. Try any of the following: Annuals—Balsam, Clarkia, Cosmos, Nasturtium, Pansy, Calendula and Vinca; Perennials—Bellis Perennis (English Daisy), Campanula, Columbine, Myosotis, Sweet William and Viola. Gardeners living in sections characterizedly dry, or those having unusually well-drained soil, try in full sun, are advised to try the following: Annuals—Abronia, Geranium, Alyssum Procumbens, Arctotis, Callipais, Candytuft, Cosmos, Four o'Clock, Lupin Texensis, Petunia, Portulaca, Sunflower, Verbena, Vinca and Zinnia; Perennials—Coreopsis and Hollyhock.

If you are particularly interested in fragrance, grow some of the following: Annuals—Annual Pin and Rudbeckia (Cone Flower); Perennials—Aquila, Asclepias Tuberosa, Perennial Aster, Heuchera (Coral Bells), and Perennial Lupin.

To develop a truly typical wildflower garden, include several of the following: Annuals—Annual Pin and Rudbeckia (Cone Flower); Perennials—Aquila, Asclepias Tuberosa, Perennial Aster, Heuchera (Coral Bells), and Perennial Lupin. Excellent selections for window boxes are Ageratium, Begonia, Coleus, Heliotrope, Lantana, Lobelia Dwarf Nasturtium, Petunia, Phlox Drummond, Thunbergia and Verbena.

First Television Photo of Automobile

A special demonstration of modern television, to show its present stage of development in the experimental laboratory, was staged for top-flight executives of the auto industry while they were in New York for the Auto Show.

First to appear in Rockefeller Plaza before the "Iconoscope" or television camera (3) was this new 1939 Plymouth sedan (4). As E. P. H. James, NBC master of ceremonies, greeted arriving officials, the image was "piped" through a new mobile transmitter (2) to television receivers high up in the RCA Building. Here auto executives saw their products for the first time as they might appear on television screens when regular broadcasts begin next year.

At the start of the show, with James at the microphone (3) are Plymouth Vice-President Harry G. Mook and A. D. Innis, N. Y. regional manager. The program also included "televized" movies and indoor studio scenes, with models explaining new car features before giant television cameras set up in Hollywood style (1).

Plymouth was first to employ special apparatus, similar to television, in the auto laboratory. Cathode ray tubes, only slightly smaller than the latest television type, were used first for acoustic studies that resulted in the new Plymouth's "hushed ride," and later helped develop new high-torque engine performance for this year.

HOME GARDEN IS GREAT NEED IN ALABAMA, SAYS DAVIS

Auburn—A challenge to every farmer, farm woman, and 4-H club-member in Alabama is the fact that more than $10,000,000 worth of vegetables are needed, in addition to the ones now being grown, to feed themselves, P. O. Davis director, and W. A. Ruffin home garden specialist, of the Alabama Extension Service, said here recently. Figures show that thousands of families give no thought to growing a garden and thus helping to reduce the cash expenditure on the farm for food. There is no reason why every farmer cannot have a small garden, one-fourth an acre or more, from which green nutritious vegetables may be gathered for immediate eating or canning for future use, they stated.

"It seems to me that no farmer would be wasting time if he left work on cotton or corn or some other crop long enough to plant and plant a garden that his wife and children could keep free of grass," Mr. Davis said. "That is money saved and everyone realizes the nutritive value of collards, cabbage, onions, peas, beans, potatoes and turnips."

He and Mr. Ruffin called on civic clubs 4-H Club members, community farm bureaus, and other organizations to plan now for an active home garden project in their community. County and home agents will be glad to work with any group in such a movement to get more home gardens on the farms of their counties. Early gardens can be started within a few weeks and with proper attention planting can be continued on until September and even later with some vegetables.

TEN HUNTING FATALITIES

With the 1938-39 hunting season less than half gone, ten persons, most of them youngsters, have met their death through hunting accidents and mistakes, according to records of the Conservation Department. Nine other persons have been wounded, some seriously, in similar accidents. Careless handling of guns was responsible for the deaths. Of the ten victims, six of them were 16 years old or under. 7 were shot by hunting companions; 2 died from self-inflicted wounds, and 1 was killed in an automobile when a dog discharged a gun. The fatalities included nine white persons and one negro.

Last year, after a quarter of a century of advice an drive years of Government help, 82 percent of the cash income in Alabama from cash crops came from cotton, he said. In Georgia it was 62 percent and in Texas, the largest cotton producing state, it was 68 percent.

THE WORLD'S FAIR, A STUPENDOUS UNDERTAKING

A glance at the New York World's Fair 1939 figures will convince the average person that it is an event of the greatest magnitude. The site covers more than 370 city blocks. It is 3 1/2 miles long and 1 1/4 miles wide. There's room for over 350,000 people in the amusement park alone which will be the biggest, and promises to be the gayest, in the world.

Transportation facilities are adequate to care for 180,000 persons hourly and there will be parking space for 43,000 cars. More than 200 buildings, conforming in beauty and dignity with the Theme Center, comprised of the Trylon and the Perisphere, will be erected at the Fair.

The people of the South will be given an opportunity to see models of the slender, graceful Trylon, taller than the Washington Monument, and the Perisphere, a giant Globe as high as an 18-story building. These models are part of the New York World's Fair 1939 Pre-View on Wheels and Southern Motorcade, now touring the Southern States. The Motorcade, sponsored by the distributors of Arcadian Attractions, the American Soda, is officially approved by the New York World's Fair. The exhibit is shown in diorama form and gives a dramatic and vivid impression of the scope of the Fair. A feature, motion pictures and an animated section of the exhibit, known as "The South Self-Contained," add to its interest.

The Future Farmers Of America Organization And Its Aims And Purposes Given By Member

(Too Late For Last Week)

The Future Farmers of America is a National Organization of farm boys studying vocational agriculture in the public high schools throughout this country. Six years following the founding of the organization at Kansas City, forty-seven states, the territory of Hawaii and Puerto Rico had founded Associations of Future Farmers of America, affiliated with the national organization. There were at that time approximately 82,000 members in 3,500 local chapters.

The Future Farmers of America is a non-profit organization designed to recognize the natural instincts and tendencies to organize in "gangs" or into groups and put enthusiasm and pleasure into work and recreation. By establishing strong local chapters in each school where vocational agriculture is taught, an outlet for these instincts and tendencies is afforded the vocational students.

The organization affords an excellent opportunity to teach vocational students some of the fundamental principles of group leadership. Boys are being taught how to conduct their own meetings and how to do things in an organized manner. Activities such as livestock judging contests, public speaking, chapter contests, conservation and community service projects among different schools in a state organization under the advice and careful supervision of the local teacher of vocational agriculture and the state superintendent for agricultural education. One of the main secrets of the success of any student organization rests in the ability of supervisors and teachers of delegate responsibility to the students in person. The exercise of responsibility and working together in groups toward worthwhile goals are important elements in training for leadership and cooperation.

A strong state association and strong national organization of Future Farmers of America gives additional incentive for achievement by local chapters, greater dignity accrues to local organizations if each member feels that his local chapter of the Future Farmers of America is a part of a state and national organization of similar groups of vocational agriculture students which have been established in a great majority of the departments of vocational agriculture throughout the United States.—By Grady Williams, Jr., Pres., Clanton Chapter F.F.A.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written by
F.G. Stephens, Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

While final figures are not available yet the recent winners report indicates that Madison is still leading all Alabama counties in the production of cotton. The report for November 14, shows that 47,425 bales had been ginned in that county up to that date. Madison's closest competitor was Cullman, with 37,979 bales.

Alabama has had 40 Governors. The youngest of these when he took office was Thomas Bibb, the second Governor. He was 37. The oldest when he assumed office was B. M. Miller. He was 66. The second oldest was Edward A. O'Neal, who was 64 when he became Governor. Sixteen Governors of Alabama have been over 50 when they were inaugurated. Frank M. Dixon, who will become Governor on January 16, is 46.

There are nine counties in Alabama that have an area of over a thousand square miles. The largest of these is Baldwin with 1595 square miles. Tuscaloosa is second with 1346 miles, Mobile third with 1226, Clarke fourth with 1216, Jackson fifth with 1140, Jefferson sixth with 1120, Washington seventh with 1087, Covington eighth with 1042 and Monroe ninth with 1012 square miles. There are eleven counties with an area of less than 600 miles. Etowah is the smallest county with an area of 540 miles. The other small counties are Henry, Dale, Cleburne, Cherokee, Geneva, Houston, Autauga, Morgan, Randolph and Limestone.

Section 256 of Constitution of Alabama provides that "The legislature shall establish, organize and maintain a liberal system of public schools throughout the state for the benefit of the children thereof between the ages of seven and twenty-one years." It says nothing about providing school for children under seven and over 21. The 1936 school census shows that there are 59,000 children enumerated who were under seven years of age. Of this number 36,405 were white children and 22,842 were colored. The record shows that there were 62,988 white children enrolled in grade one, and 84,771 negro children enrolled in this grade. Just how many of these were under seven years is not known. These figures were taken from the annual report, 1936, Alabama Department of Education.

TOBACCO GROWERS IN ALABAMA TO KEEP ALLOTMENTS

Auburn—A. W. Jones, State Administrative officer of the AAA, reminded farmers today that the agricultural conservation program for flue-cured tobacco was not affected by the vote rejecting tobacco marketing quotas on December 10.

"The conservation program for the flue-cured tobacco will operate in 1939 about the same as in 1938," Mr. Jones said. "Tobacco acreage allotments announced to the growers along with the marketing quotas will be their conservation acreage allotments in 1939. Each tobacco grower can earn a payment of eight-tenths of a cent a pound on the normal production of his acreage allotment by planting within his cotton allotment unless he also grows cotton and knowingly overplants his cotton allotment. In that case he might not receive a conservation payment on cotton, tobacco, or any other crop or for carrying out soil-building practices if he knowingly overplants his cotton allotment in a year when cotton marketing quotas are in effect. Cotton quotas for 1939 were approved December 10."

The AAA official also said it was important for tobacco growers to remember that if they overplant their tobacco acreage allotments under the conservation program they run the risk of losing all of their conservation payments on cotton and other crops.

"If a tobacco grower overplants," he said, "deductions will be made from his tobacco payment at the rate of eight cents a pound on the excess production. The deduction will be made not only from the payment calculated on the normal production of his tobacco allotment, but also from the conservation payment that otherwise might be due on cotton, peanuts, and other of the crops and for soil-building practices. This means that the tobacco grower who overplants stands the risk of having such a large deduction that he will not get any conservation payment on any crop or for any soil-building practices carried out."

During the present year twelve dangerous grade crossings have been eliminated in Alabama. Several others are to be eliminated during the next few months.

If the Federal Government should take over the properties of the Power Companies in Alabama the State, counties and municipalities would lose more than three million dollars in taxes.

WHO WROTE IT?

"Chinatown, My Chinatown"

Old - sa - low, my Old - sa - low.

ALTHOUGH he was born in Budapest, and spent most of his life in America, he wrote, strangely enough, many Irish songs; such as "Bedelia," "My Irish Molly-O" and "Mr. Dooley." "Chinatown, My Chinatown" was more in his genre, since he spent the early years of his life on the lower east side of New York, not far from "Dreamy Chinatown" where the lights are low.

He went to school at night, working during the day to help support the family. He secured the neighborhood for piano on which to practice. He worked as an office boy, in a cigar factory, as a bookkeeper's clerk; he was cashier in a Turkish bath, an errand boy in a department store. He never lost his desire to compose.

He landed a job with a publishing firm finally, at half the salary he was then earning. While there he met the late William Jerome, and they formed a songwriting team. It was not until three years after they had written "Chinatown, My Chinatown" for a legitimate production that the song was made famous by the vaudeville team of Mathews and Ashley.

He has been a songwriter for forty years. He is a prominent member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and resides at present in Hollywood where he is composing new tunes for radio and pictures.

State Completes A Super - Road Plan

$27,000,000 Four-Lane Highway Program Anticipated
Such super-highways, as part of a

Montgomery (AP)—Anticipating a program of super-highway construction for military purposes, Alabama has completed plans for a $27,000,000 four-lane, East-West road, Gov. Graves revealed Monday.

National preparedness program, have been advocated by Representative Henry B. Steagall, of Ozark, who said several days ago he would offer a bill in the next Congress providing for them.

"Whenever the federal government is ready to go ahead, Alabama is ready," Graves said Monday.

While he declined to reveal the proposed route, he indicated the road, if carried out as planned tentatively, would traverse the state from Heflin toward Meridian through the mineral district.

It would be level, without curves and possibly not pass through any major city.

Hints to Gardeners
by Gilbert Bentley
Flower Expert
Ferry Seed Station

Flowers For a Purpose

FLOWERS are a delight anywhere and at any time. The following suggestions, however, will be helpful to those persons whose flower garden space is limited or for those who wish to grow flowers for a certain reason. These gardeners want "flowers for a purpose."

Most of us want flowers to cut. By planting packets of seed of any three or four of the following items, the gardener will have an excellent garden for cutting: Annuals—Antirrhinum, Aster, Calendula, Calliopsis, Candytuft, Carnation, Bachelor Button, Cosmos, Dahlia, Annual Lupin, Marigold, Nasturtium, Salpiglossis and Zinnia; Perennials—Columbine, Coreopsis, Delphinium, Gaillardia, ranunculus, Perennial Lupin, Pyrethrum (Painted Daisy), and Shasta Daisy.

With a little planning, the gardener may have cut flowers grow for midsummer. Several of these, principally Zinnia, Marigold and Gaillardia are equally suitable for late bloom. Other late blooming flowers for cutting include Antirrhinum, Aster, Cosmos and Dahlia.

Persons desiring cut flowers for late bloom. Other late blooming plants with showy foliage, rather than brilliant bloom, are advised to try Amaranthus Tricolor, Coleus, Centaurea Gymnocarpa, Euphorbia Variegata (Snow-on-the-mountain), Euphorbia heterophylla (Annual Peacock), Kochia and Nicotiana (Caster Oil Bean).

MRS. SHEPHERD IS HOSTESS MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

Mrs. J. M. Shepherd was hostess to The Music Appreciation Club on December 13th. We were glad to welcome three new members, Mrs. Ed Mullins, Mrs. Sturkie and Mrs. Daniels.

At the business meeting the members voted that they would consider purchasing a piano for the City Hall Auditorium. The Study Club and May-Cline Jones had expressed a desire to cooperate with the Club in this matter.

The theme of the afternoon's program, under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Willis, was the following quotation: "We cannot imagine a complete education of man without music." A very interesting and enlightening paper on "Alabama Musicians" was given by Mrs. S. J. Ezell. The members enjoyed the piano solo given by Mrs. C. N. Farnell.

Mrs. Shepherd served delicious refreshments to eighteen members and three guests, Mrs. Downs, Mr. Watts Moore and Miss Helen Moore.

We want to thank each and everyone who contributed to the making up of the things they gave us for Christmas. We appreciate it very much, and pray that Jesus will add his blessings unto you all. We wish you a Happy and prosperous New Year.—Mrs. J.W. Burt and Family.

Gasoline tax collections in Alabama for the month of August amounted to $1,233,764.20. This was the largest collection ever made in one month. The next highest was for the month of July, 1937, when the collections amounted to this was not enough to supply the needs August, 1937. The total collections for August, 1934, amounted to $834,448.91.

SMITHS, JONES AND BROWNS

A check of the roster of 3,005 students now enrolled at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute indicates that the Smiths, Joneses and Browns are still holding their own in the matter of frequency that these names appear on the college roll.

The Smiths lead with 36 students bearing this name, and the Joneses and Browns, with 23 and 21, respectively, are second. A close third is held by the name of Davis, which appears nineteen times. The following names appeared 10 or more times: Williams, 17; Wilson, 15; Johnson and Thompson, 14 each; Jackson and Harris, 13 each; Jordan, 12; Edwards and Campbell, 11; Burns and Thomas, 10.

World's Fair at Home and Abroad

One of the New York World's Fair's greatest attractions will be the spectacular illumination of the Persiphere, one of the two buildings comprising the Theme Center. Lighting effects never before attempted are now being devised by Fair engineers. Batteries of powerful projectors mounted on distant buildings will spot the globe with color, while other projectors will superimpose on this color, moving patterns of light which may take the form of clouds, geometric patterns and moving panoramas, creating the optical illusion that the Persiphere itself is slowly rotating. Inside, the visitor will seem to be suspended in space on revolving platforms, gazing down on a vast panorama dramatizing the all-important role of cooperation in modern civilization, showing all the elements of society coordinated in a better World of Tomorrow.

One phase of such cooperation will take definite form with the tour through the South starting in January of the World's Fair Preview on Wheels and Southern Motorcade of "The Arcadian Grove," sponsored by the distributors of Arcadian Nitrate, the American soda, and officially approved by the New York World's Fair 1939. The Motorcade, consisting of a large-scale diorama of the Fair, animated with light, color and movement, will show the famous theme symbols, the Trylon and the Persiphere, together with state, national and international buildings. It will give a dramatic and vivid impression of how the Fair will appear to those who visit it.

"This World's Fair 'Preview On Wheels' will appear in Clanton on the Thompson Hotel Lot Wednesday night, February 15, and at Jemison the following morning. Each showing will last about one and one-half hours.

HOTRED POINTERS GIVEN OUT
RECENTLY BY W. A. RUFFIN

Authors—Now is the time to get the hotbeds in readiness for the summer of seeds in January, says W. A. Ruffin, home garden specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. This will allow them to heat for two or three weeks before planting time arrives.

If the hotbed has been previously built, all of the old soil should be removed and fresh manure and soil added, Ruffin says. If a hotbed has to be constructed, the home gardener may properly use horse or cow manure and cold frame construction from the farm or home demonstration agent. Southern or southeastern exposures are better for the location of the hotbeds. It is well, if possible, to have the bed so located that a fence or building serves as a windbreak on the northern side. It is also an absolute essential that the bed be placed in a well-drained spot, for if water is allowed to collect in the pit, the manure will not generate the necessary heat.

The standard hotbed sash is six feet by three feet, and this provides enough space for starting plants for the average home garden. Hotbed sashes may be purchased ready for use, but if any old window sashes are available, they may be used to good advantage by varying the size of the bed to fit their dimensions, according to Ruffin.

JUST A LITTLE BABE FROM HEAVEN

By Mrs. Meadie Cooper
Just a little babe from Heaven
In Bethlehem of Judea
Came my Saviour to earth one day
Bringing to the earth peace, good will and cheer.

A light to enlighten all that sat in darkness
With its bright and shining ray
As no room for his holy mother in the crowded inn was made
My Saviour was wrapped in swaddling cloths
And in the manger he was laid.

So meek, so humble and lowly
From Heaven my Saviour came To rescue and save all that would come to the light and believe in His Holy Name.

I thank my Heavenly Father
For His love so pure and free
For sending my Saviour from Heaven
To bring life and light to me.

All you that are groped in darkness
If you will come to Him today
He will cause light to shine around you
And brighten up your way.

If you are in the desert alone
And the way seems hard and rough,
My Saviour will come rescue, and save
If you will only trust.

Today He is gently calling,
Calling to you and me.
To come out of the gloomy darkness
And from sin and death be free.

Will you harken to His voice
While He is calling you today?
Go dip in the flowing fountain,
That will wash your sins away.

Today it's freely flowing—
Flowing for the souls uncleaned.
To make them pure and white as the whitest of snow,
In washing away their sins.

Come all you that are lost, without hope in God.
For your sake and mine He died
To the rugged cross they nailed Him
They pierced His loving side.

His enemies thought over Him
They had won the victory
When they laid Him in the silent grave
It was then on the third day,
From Heaven God sent Holy angels,
And rolled the stone away.

From the tomb my Saviour came,
Victoriously triumphant o'er the grave.
All today that will come to Him
believing,
From sin, disease and death, He will surely save.

Friends, He alone can lift us out of darkness,
Rescue and save us from hunger and cold.
Only through His love and mercy,
Can we reach that Heavenly fold.

Our Saviour has gone back to Heaven
A mansion to prepare.
For all who will believe Him
And try to meet Him there.
Soon He is coming back to earth again
To reign for evermore,
Bringing life and light to the righteous
To the wicked pain and woe.

If you want to be ready
When He comes back from above
Just lift up the lost and fallen ones
And tell them of Jesus' love.
Tell to every tongue and nation—
Every tribe and every kin,
The Pearly Gates stand open
For all who will enter in.

Chamber Of Commerce
Committee Met On 14th

The Committee of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce appointed to study Health and Efficiency in Industry held a meeting in the office of the State Chamber Wednesday, December 14. Members of the Committee expressed themselves as being pleased with the progress that is being made in the preparation of the Committee report and expressed a belief that this report when published will be of great value to Alabama and to the South in relating economic ideas and providing information that has been abroad relative to the effect of climate upon the health and efficiency of workers in the South.

A tremendous amount of work has already been done on this report and this work will be continued and pushed to a rapid conclusion in order that the report might be printed and given wide attraction. The Committee believes that it can establish upon fact and unimpeachable evidence and information the fact that our climate here in Alabama is such as to promote the health of our people and a productivity and efficiency on the part of the industrial worker that will compare favorably with any other section.

The Committee feels that this study is one of importance and that it has been needed in order to correct the misconceptions that have been prevalent over a long period of years relative to our section.

There was a full discussion of the entire question on the part of the Committee members and Dr. J. N. Baker, Chairman of the Committee, expressed his satisfaction at the progress being made and the facts that are being developed.

This is one of several important studies being carried on by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the present time. Among the members of the Committee present were: Dr. J. N. Baker, Chairman, Montgomery; Daniel Pratt, Prattville; G. Arthur Cook, Montgomery; Thomas W. Martin, Birmingham; Dr. H. H. Chapman, Tuscaloosa; Dr. Lloyd Noland, Birmingham; J. A. Maguire, Statisticians, Birmingham; J. M. Gibson, Montgomery; L. V. Phelps, Montgomery; T. D. Johnson, Birmingham; and John M. Ward, Secretary, State Chamber of Commerce, Montgomery.

Other members of the committee co-operating in this work include Donald Comer, Birmingham; General R. E. Noble, Anniston; Dean Lee-Bidgood, Tuscaloosa; A. C. Michaels, Gadsden; D. R. Dunlap, Mobile; H. B. Snader, Reading, Pennsylvania; W. T. Neal, Brewton; Jewett Elzing, Florida; R. C. Stobert, Birmingham; W. J. Biever, Pottsville, Pennsylvania.

IN MEMORY OF CLYDE WARD

When the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ward and carried away their loving son, Clyde, many hearts were saddened, but God's will must be done.

The shock of the sudden death was like a knife thrust into our hearts, and I know life will seem dreary without Clyde's cheerfulness. But let's stop and think how much happier we'll be when we meet in the land where there are no tears. And I know if Clyde could speak to us he would say, "Weep not, dear ones, you made me happy on the earth, but nothing compared to my happiness here where Jesus holds my hand."

In losing Clyde, I lost a dear friend, but the image of that sweet, lovable face will be standing in my heart forever.—A cousin Mrs. Ted Wilson.

REASONS FOR LOW FARM IN-COME ARE CITED BY GIST

Montgomery—Alabama has always been an area of low farm income and there are well-defined reasons for it, in the opinion of F. W. Gist, economic adviser of the State Extension Service and the State Department of Agriculture.

Comparing the farming system in Alabama with the rest of the country, it must be concluded that the fault lies first in depending on a cash crop, the price of which has run "up and down" with world conditions and with a very unstable level of production, according to Mr. Gist.

"Second, we have allowed our soil to become depleted by erosion, single cropping, and lack of natural methods of soil building; and, third, we have followed a system that gave the farmer only seasonal employment."

Cotton farmers are not wholly to blame for adopting cotton as their one cash crop, Gist says. In the early '70s it was the only credit collateral, and our present credit sources are still too strongly wedded to that collateral. There has been individual effort on the part of a few farmers to change this system of agriculture. But only here and there have been any farmers who have conserved the soil instead of letting it float away and who have made their land better from year to year with animal manure instead of depending upon commercial fertilizer at a big cost.

DIABETES DEATHS IN ALA-BAMA INCREASED IN 1938

Montgomery—Diabetes deaths in Alabama during the first nine months of this year exceeded those for the first nine months of 1937 by approximately eighteen percent, the State Department of Health announced recently, basing its statement upon provisional vital statistics reports.

"Diabetes deaths totaled 251 between January and September, inclusive, of this year, as compared with only 213 for the same period last year," the State Department said. Deaths from the scale went from 304 for last year as a whole, with a death rate of 10.6 per 100,000 population. That rate was considerably lower than the 1936 rate of 12.5 per 100,000 population. Medical authorities have estimated that nearly 400,000 persons have diabetes in the United States. Although a number of conditions have been found by medical experts to be responsible for its increasing prevalence, 'easy living' luxury and indulgence are considered the leading predisposing factors."

45 DEER BAGGED IN BLACK
WARRIOR HUNT DEC. 5-10

Forty-five white-tailed bucks were bagged during the annual deer hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest December 5-10, in what was described as the most successful hunt in the history of the forest. Sponsored by the U.S. Forest Service and the State Conservation Department, the hunt yielded nearly three times as many deer as were killed in 1937, and twice as many as were taken in 1936. From all sections of Alabama and several other states there were 545 registered nimrods who hunted in periods of two days each. Dist. Forest Ranger Thomas A. Wilson said all deer killed were exceptionally healthy and free of parasites. Twenty deer fell the opening day, 12 the second and the remainder during the following four days. Scientists from the Alabama cooperative wildlife research project at Auburn were on hand to examine the deer.

IN MEMORY

On The 22nd of December
That sad time I will remember
And all about the time of day
When God came and called Louise away.

Oh! Louise, how kind and sweet
But some day we soon shall meet
Over on that shining shore
There we will never part no more.

We miss her, oh we miss her
There is no human tongue can tell
We said goodnight for a little while
But we'll never say farewell.

To her many friends who now remain
We feel our loss is Heaven's gain.
We soon shall meet her over there
In that home so bright and fair

Though we hate to give her up,
We know she was so good and kind
Jesus will call us one by one
We never know what time.

She leaves her friends behind to mourn
A father and a mother
Another host of relatives too,
Her sister and her brothers.

So, cheer up, now you sad ones
And try to do your best
Some day He'll get the rest.
Written by a friend, Naomi Mims.

Our beloved husband and father has gone to his reward. He was a loving husband and a fond father, and all through his life his chief duty seemed to be in providing for those of us dependent on him. We shall miss him very much, but we know that his days of suffering are over.

We wish to thank all those who so freely gave their services to help in the last days, especially the Spigner Funeral Home and Dr. Ballard—Wife and Children.

SEAFOOD YIELD

During the 1937-38 fiscal year, a total of 12,252 and 1-2 barrels of fresh shrimp were taken from the waters of Alabama's coastal counties, according to Conservation Department records. A barrel of shrimp is approximately 200 pounds, so the total in pounds was 2,450,300, with an approximate market value of $490,600. It is estimated that about 5,000 persons derive their living from Alabama's seafood industry. The shrimp and oysters are the chief products.

Six Persons Lynched In Nation During 1938

Dear Sir:

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the year 1938. I find, according to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, that there were six persons lynched in 1938. This is two less than the number eight for each of the years 1937 and 1936; and 14 less and the number 20 for 1935. No one of the persons lynched was in the hands of the law; the bodies of two of the victims were burned.

There were 42 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Three of these were in Northern states. In 41 of the instances, the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the other instance, armed force was used to repel the would-be lynchers. A total of 33 persons, 3 white men, 49 negro men and 1 negro woman, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the six persons lynched all were Negroes. The offenses charged were: rape, 1; murder, 3; failure to complete payment on funeral bill, 1; insulting remarks to woman, 1.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Louisiana, 1; and Mississippi, 3.

Very truly yours,
F. D. Patterson, Pres.
Tuskegee Institute.

WATERWORKS

ey being sold a few days ago.

Mayor Jones stated to a representative of the News that he was delighted with the progress being made toward the end that Clanton will have an ample water supply for years to come. Storage capacity furnished by these tanks will aggregate 680,000 gallons.

The City has also recently purchased twenty-eight acres of land at the creek where the water will be secured. The land is south of the well known Double Bridges, and will furnish plenty of room for impounding water if more is needed in years to come, Mayor Jones stated.

W. J. Morse, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, reports that thirty-one oriental varieties of soybeans show considerable promise as foods in the future. Morse point out that soybeans are a remarkable food and that they have taken the place of bread, meat, milk and cheese and vegetables in the diet of millions of Chinese.

SOIL

CONSERVATION DEPT

Camp 3481 - SCS - Ala. 7

Woodland Management

The correct use of axe and saw is the key to the problem of growing timber profitably as a farm crop, according to James E. Wood of the Soil Conservation Service Area near here.

By removing diseased, misshapen, slow-growing and other undesirable trees for fuel wood this Fall, farmers can improve their woodland, increase the rate of growth of remaining trees, and still maintain a complete forest for water storage and erosion control, Mr. Wood pointed out.

On the other hand, clear cutting of a portion of the woodland to obtain fuel not only exposes the land to erosion, but also destroys valuable trees that could be saved for a future timber crop.

Under the crop tree method of woodland management which is being demonstrated on cooperating farms in the local area, the straightest and most vigorous trees, properly spaced, are marked to designate that they are to be left for water storage and erosion control, then be cut as they crowd the crop trees and as needed for fuel, farm lumber, or other wood products.

By periodic trimmings the rate of growth of the remaining trees and the quality of timber can be improved, giving the farmer a greater return from his wood products and a greater incentive to protect his forest cover from damage by fire and grazing.

Work crews of CCC enrollees engaged in collecting seed for the S. C. S. Nursery at Thorsby, have met with a generous response from the citizens of Clanton and surrounding counties.

On being approached for permission to harvest pine cones, kudzu and other seed, the wholehearted support of land owners and tenants was manifested.

A real interest is being shown in this work, particularly where the persons approached were informed of the use of the seed, for growing erosion prevention plants.

Assistance rendered made it very easy to collect the seed quota of Camp S. C. S. Ala. 7, and tends to show that the citizens of this section are very much interested in erosion prevention.

Asking for a reduction of the $6 a week alimony he was paying his wife, David Beerman of Philadelphia told the judge: "I have four wives, your honor—her two sisters and her mother. The yell tell me what to do." The payment was reduced to four dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mullins visited Mrs. Mullins' parents in Thomaston during the holidays.

Hints to Gardeners

by Gordon Morrison Vegetable Breeder
Ferry Seed Station

Making the Garden Pay

MOST vegetable gardens are grown to provide fresher, more nourishing food for the family, and to conserve on food bills.

The vegetables raised will be determined to a certain extent by the amount of space available. Experience shows that a garden about 50' x 50' will provide a family of five with a good assortment and quantity of fresh vegetables during the summer.

Perhaps the most important vegetables, from point of view of food value and space required, are: Beans, cabbage, carrots, beets, squash, tomatoes, onions, peas and spinach. An abundance of all these can be grown in a 50 x 50 garden. And there will be room for a row or two of flowers. Calendula, zinnia and petunias are perhaps the most satisfactory.

Good-sized, money saving yields of these vegetables can be grown in a garden but half that size. In any case, economize on space and add to garden yield by following these suggestions: Plant two crops of spinach, one early in the growing season, the other in fall. Plant Chinese cabbage, carrots, beets and peppers in fall in space earlier occupied by beans, radishes and peas.

Plant bush beans and beets on both sides of tomato rows. When tomatoes need the space, these earlier crops will have been pulled and used.

While corn takes up considerable space, many may wish to include it. If so, conserve space by planting spinach or beets or onions between rows of the slower-growing corn. Or grow pole beans (corfield beans) to climb on the corn stalks.

Where a space greater than 50 x 50 is available, such crops as summer squash, cucumbers, sweet chard, watermelon and cantaloupe may be included.

MORAL ECHOES

The farm boy came strolling into the kitchen with an empty bucket. The lady of the house said, "What on earth do you mean coming here with that empty pail? Was the cow dry tonight?" The lad replied, "No, she gave nine quarts of milk and one hefty kick." I saw a dog get up out of my path and growl as he did it. A man gave me five dollars for a case of charity and cursed as he did it. Like the cow, the dog and the giver, many a person will do something that is worthwhile and then let go a good hefty kick and there is nothing left to the deed. Blessed is the man who can do good and not spoil it.

One day I wanted to call up a very important man in the community but not something find his name in the phone book. I called up central and the informed me that the man's name was not in the phone directory. On my rounds as a pastor I have heard much about one who is called "they say". He must be a very talkative old gentleman or a very talkative old lady. I have sought for the phone number of that talkative person and have failed to find it. In every community we have many families known as "They say, have you heard, Don't Tell, Is it true, It is not recorded", but their names do not appear in the phone book. These families are ever on the tongue of all, but we are never able to locate them. Those are very disturbing families and should not be so universally recognized.

Gasoline collections in November of this year exceeded any November collections in the history of the department with a total of gasoline tax money deposited with the State Treasurer of $1,226,552.27, compared with $1,177,632.25 deposited in November 1937.

NOTICE TO COTTON PLANTERS

Be sure of your seed next year. Plant seed that are good. I have about 40 bushels of Sunnyside Hi-Bred, wilt resistant, 15-16 to 1-in. staple, 44 to 45 percent lint. I believe this is the best all around cotton I have ever planted. Made 4 bales on five acres this year. Ask Mr. Popwell or Mr. Dennis. Seed pure, ginned thoroughly, cleaned seed caught on floor. As long as these seed last, I will swap 1 for 2; or swap for corn at same rates. They must please you or your seed back.
